James V. Colarusso, 78, Retired H.P. Hood Employee

A funeral Mass will be celebrated in St. John's Church, Quincy, at 10 a.m. today (Thursday) for James V. Colarusso, 78, of Quincy, a retired H. P. Hood and Sons, employee.

Mr. Colarusso died Monday at Quincy City Hospital after a lengthy illness. Burial will be in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

He was born in Boston, lived for 31 years in Holbrook and was a resident of Quincy for 18 years. He was in the ice cream division of H. P. Hood and Sons until his retirement 17 years ago.

He was a member of the Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, Quincy Senior Citizens, and Quarter Century Club at Hoods.

He was husband of the late Mary A. (McCarthy) Colarusso, and is survived by a son, John R. Colarusso of Braintree; a daughter, Mrs. Agnes A. Frappied of Canoga Park, Cal.; two brothers, Dominic Colarusso of Randolph, and Pasquale Colarusso of Quincy; two sisters, Mrs. Lucy Mottla of Quincy, and Mrs. Mary Delafarno of Quincy; and eight grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Sheets Seeks Council Opposition To Proposed Ban On TV Church Services

City Councillor James A. Sheets plans to ask the City Council to go on record opposing an effort by athiest leader Madeline Murray O'Hare to ban Sunday church services on television.

Mrs. O'Hare, who was instrumental in having organized prayer ruled out of public schools, has been granted a hearing by the FCC on the subject of banning all religious services from radio and TV.

Should she be successful, Sheets pointed out, the elderly, the handicapped and the shut-ins would be denied the "spiritual sustenance which they derive from their religious service now being broadcast."

Sheets said if the Council adopts his resolution and it is signed by the mayor a copy will be sent to the FCC in Washington.

He also urged residents and clergy of Quincy to express their opinions directly by writing to the Federal Communications Commission, 1919 M St., Washington, D.C. 21136, referring their remarks to Petition RM-2493.

Barker Stresses Importance Of Dialogue With City

Richard Barker, whose Quincy Center Business and Professional Association was at odds with the city over the proposed Crosstown Connector not long ago, now has a good word for the administration.

"The business community finds it most refreshing to participate in the kind of dialogue we have experienced with the city administration in the past six to eight weeks," he said.

"We look forward to continuing this association in the future.

"It is important to secure the same kind of dialogue with the various segments of Quincy's population and organizations to work out the best long-range plans for the city."

Barker, who is president of the QCBPA, spoke to the monthly meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association at the Montclair Men's Club.

He said he feels the city should capitalize more fully on all aspects of its unique historical background and waterfront location, adding he hopes to form an economic development group to cooperate on future plans for the city.

Barker also suggested that improvements be made in downtown parking and a committee be formed to research the city's sign code and come up with a standard sign policy that would allow business signs to complement each other in good taste to enhance the community.

Current QCA officers nominated for reelection included Arthur M. Chandler, president; Joseph N. Gildea Sr., vice president; Saul Lipsitz, treasurer; and Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary.

The election will be held during the QCA's annual meeting and Christmas party Tuesday, Dec. 5, at Walsh's Restaurant.

In other actions, the association:

- Voted to oppose at a Nov. 20 public hearing at Faneuil Hall the EPA's plans for a sewerage plant at Broadmeadows and a sewerage sludge and ash composting operation at Squantum Point.
- Voted to support Question 1, the so-called Classification Amendment, on the Nov. 7 ballot.
- Voted to support renewal of the operating license of WJDA "in view of its great public service to Quincy" and to advise the Federal Communications Commission of its vote.

Ceramic finished pieces can be for food and drink items or simply decorative items. If decorative, then you can use a variety of finishes such as stains, underglazes or glazes. However, all food and drink items must be glazed with manufacturer approved lead-free glazes which meet government tested standards. The only items in this category that would not need glazing are porcelain and stoneware high-fired ceramics which are "viterous" or waterproof. Glazes are water-soluble and when fired in a kiln to the proper temperature they give a glass-like finish which is waterproof. Future articles will explain the many types of glazes and other ceramic finishes.
Visit us Mon. thru Sat. 10 - 4. Evenings 7 - 9. DUNCAN and CERAMICHROME distributors.
TIPS AND HINTS:
For best results, apply glazes to bisqued ware (fired greenware). You may have some good results from applying glaze to greenware but it is not worth the risks involved which can ruin a lovely creation.

Delano Elected President

Business District Revitalization Goal Of New Wollaston Association

By PETER BARNICLE

The newly reorganized Wollaston Center Business Association has retained Sasaki and Associates of Watertown, to study problems of the area and present a plan for revitalizing the business district.

A group of 30 merchants met last week to air their gripes and suggest answers to problems which they consider to be of immediate concern.

Jon Delano, owner of Delano's Camera and Supply, was elected president. Other officers are Jack Toomey, Pine Craft Furniture, vice president; and Alex Lambauer, Brighams, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were: Henry G. Berry, Berry Insurance; Vin Oliveria, South Shore Sewing Machine; George Kanelos, Wollaston Florist, and Robert Bragga, Granite 5 and 10.

"We plan to have an organization that will be a clearing house for ideas and information," Delano said. "With an organized group we can have a voice in city government and with the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and other levels of government."

Norfolk Downs' success with its revitalization and rehabilitation project served as an incentive for Wollaston merchants to consider their own area.

The traffic flow and parking in the area is one of the immediate problems faced by the merchants.

"We had a discussion on the parking around here and now we have some input into how the various merchants see their own problem," Delano said. "Some of the views are contradictory, but if everybody hadn't joined in the discussion we would not have known this."

The association president said he plans to meet with City Councillor Stephen McGrath and Police Capt. Roy Cavicchi, head of the traffic division, for further analysis of the situation.

The area lost its largest off-street parking facility several years ago when land on Clay St. was taken for construction of a senior citizens housing project.

"There is some land around, but except for a lot of talk nothing has been done to develop it," Delano said.

At their meeting the merchants approved a revival of Christmas lighting, a project they abandoned two years ago.

Delano described the Wollaston business district as stretching along Hancock St. from the Capitol Market to the Purity Supreme, and east of Hancock St. as far as the Colonial Federal Savings on the east. On the opposite side of Hancock St. it goes to the bridge at Newport Ave.

"There are store owners on Brooks St. and Newport Ave. who have expressed interest in our plans, and even down as far as the Winfield House," Delano explained.

The present goal of the association is an active membership of 75 to 80 merchants.

"Our long range plans for revitalization and rehabilitation will have to wait until Sasaki Associates completes its study," Delano said. "There is considerable interest among our group in refronting stores and making other improvements. But that must wait until we see if we qualify for federal grants or low interest loans."

He said the Wollaston Theater is up for sale and must be considered a prime piece of property.

"There is no doubt it will be a key in the revitalization study recommendation," Delano said. "It might be turned into a twin cinema or a small mall with retail shops. Whatever use it is put to, it will have a definite impact on Wollaston. We should know within 30 to 45 days."

Post-war "baby boom" is hardest on the post-war babies

By Philip J. Lawrence, President

Colonial Federal Savings

and Loan Association of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham

8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

The post-war "baby boom", which as we stated in a previous column, has seriously disrupted the social and economic lives of Americans is being especially hard on the post-war babies themselves.

It is true that they have reached adulthood in the most affluent growth period in American history. Society overbuilt schools to make them the most highly educated-generation ever; parents indulged their needs and whims in unprecedented fashion.

But now, as they launch out for themselves, they are finding that their career preparation has smaller outlets in which to express itself. Most readily apparent is the teaching profession, traditionally the largest single employer of college graduates. There are more available teachers today than ever before, but the decline in population growth following the post-war wave has left far fewer students to teach. This condition will become apparent in other professions as the American population ages.

Higher education has been recognized as a stepping stone not only to better appreciation of what life has to offer but also to more rewarding employment. But with the percentage of high-school seniors going to college steadily climbing from 35% in 1940 to over 60% by 1975, it is no wonder that the Labor Department has reported that by 1974 750,000 surplus college graduates had been forced into clerical service and blue-collar jobs and is predicting we will produce another one million surplus college graduates by 1985.

The grand entry of women into the work force, doubling between 1950 and 1974, has intensified the competition for good positions.

Philosophically speaking, as one economic analyst points out, life itself is a lottery. "To have been born an American constitutes very good luck in the lottery of life. To have been born an American who is capable of completing college is even better luck. But nevertheless not quite as good luck if you happened to be born between roughly 1945 and 1965."

Oldsters who struggled through the Depression, were drafted into World War II, and risked their lives in European and Asiatic theatres of horrendous war may say they would rather have taken their chances with the present generation. But we can all share understanding with the serious challenges this generation is facing. We should not be disappointed if many cannot fully achieve our aspirations for them.

Musical Programs For Squantum Seniors Nov. 21

The Squantum Senior Citizens Club will meet Tuesday, Nov. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in Maryhall, Star of the Sea Church.

Following the business meeting, a musical program will be presented by Miss Barbara Morash who is a student of the New England Conservatory. She sings, plays the guitar and piano. She also performs at Maxwell's Partor, Quincy Sq.

Thomas Heavey In NATO Exercise

Spec. 4 Thomas Heavey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Heavey of 4 Price St., North Quincy, is participating with other American and allied troops in REFORGER '78, NATO's largest yearly exercise, held in Germany.

More than 11,000 soldiers were flown to Germany and some 37,000 tons of equipment and supplies have been shipped from the U.S. for the massive exercise.

Heavey, a demolition specialist with the 23rd Engineer Battalion in Hanau, Germany, entered the Army in January 1977.

Condon, McGrath Deny 'Cap' Resolve Attack On School Committee

entire city budget, "is an indication of this intent."

The Condon-McGrath Resolution, which has attracted attention outside of Quincy, asks the Legislature to prohibit the Council from appropriating more money for the schools than it did the previous year.

It is currently in the Council's ordinance committee.

In the face of an irate School Committee, Mrs. Condon and McGrath issued this "clarification" of what they said had been "misinterpreted" by members of the School Committee:

The resolution "did not state we should freeze at the same level the school budget. It states we shall ask for legislation stating that the school budget should not exceed its current year level of spending, which allows for a possible decrease.

"Legislation is required because of the School Department's fiscal autonomy. In prior years when the City Council tried to cut school budgets it was disallowed after a taxpayers' suit against the city.

"Also, in our resolve, we did not state we wanted to lay off any city personnel or freeze their salaries and ignore collective bargaining."

They noted, however, that enrollment in Quincy schools had dropped 2,417 students between 1974 and 1978 while the budget went up $8,926,000, adding:

"We believe that these decreases in enrollments, retirements, etc., will allow for the decrease in expenses which will offset increases in salaries via collective bargaining.

"An alternative proposal might be to look at the total budget divided by the number of students. At the present level this indicates it now costs $2,456.98 to educate each student.

"With carrying enrollments, we might have the school budget based on a cost per student and let it go up or down proportionately with increased or decreased enrollments.

"For example, this current year's budget would decrease $1,739,541.84 because of an enrollment drop of 708 students instead of the increase of $1,746,000 we had."

"The days of autonomy without accountability are gone," the Condon-McGrath statement added.

Earlier in the week, City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, who has served on both the Council and the School Committee, said he sees merits on both sides of the Great Budget Debate.

He noted that the School Committee is the only branch of government that does not have another elected branch to check on its spending, like the mayor and the City Council.

He also praised the School Committee for doing what he called a better job at saving money than the rest of the city government.

Homes Sought For Amity Aide Students

Amity Aides from Chile, Spain, France and Italy will arrive in Quincy Jan. 22 for a 20 week work-study program designed to acquaint students of Quincy public schools with the language and cultures of these countries.

Sponsors of the program are looking for homes for the foreign visitors. Anybody willing to offer their home for a 10-week period is asked to contact Mrs. Kathy Swanson at North Quincy High School, 328-5800.

Mrs. Swanson said some Quincy residents might be interested in learning a foreign language with these university students, or simply enjoy learning about other peoples and their culture.

Miss Lillian's Candid Comments

As far as Miss Lillian's concerned, the White House may be a nice place to visit, but she wouldn't want to live there.

"It's a boring place," she confided to state Sen.-elect Paul Harold during a campaign visit to Massachusetts for U.S. Senate contender Paul Tsongas.

"I stay in Plains. Living at the White House is like living in a museum. There's no one around. Jimmy and Rosalyn are working and Amy's at school."

Harold got the chance to accompany the President's mother from Lincoln Park in North Dartmouth to the Providence, R.I. airport.

Asked who she would place on her list of 10 best Presidents', she replied:

"I really can't pick 10 best. I would include Truman, Kennedy, Lincoln, Washington and Teddy Roosevelt."

And, of course, she added, Jimmy Carter.

She passed over Franklin Roosevelt who used to spend time and died at Warm Springs, Ga.

During the half-hour ride she got off a few other observations on:

RICHARD NIXON: Noting recent polls show 38 per cent of the American people support him: "That man upsets me."

CAMP DAVID SUMMIT: "Jimmy called me in Little Rock where I was campaigning for a Democratic nominee. He called me in the middle of the night and said he wanted me to be the first to know. It was very emotional--we both cried."

WORLD SERIES: After 12 hours of campaigning, she wanted first to watch the World Series rather than have supper. "I rooted for the Red Sox before they were out of it. [Mostly, she admitted, because she didn't like the N.Y. Yankees]. She attended last year's world series games.

HER CORRESPONDENCE: I used to have a secretary help me answer my mail, but now I do it myself. I receive 30-40 letters a day, most of them invitations for speaking engagements. I receive about one hate letter a month. I can usually tell before I open it because it has no return address."

GOV. DUKAKIS: "I was sorry to hear of Mike Dukakis' defeat."

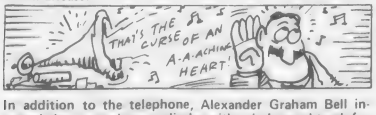
FRANK BELLOTTI: She played penny poker with the attorney general on the plane ride back from Pope John Paul's funeral and according to reports [though she doesn't confirm them], she took his money. "He's such a nice fellow, say hello for me when you see him."

EDWARD BROOKE: "I didn't want to say anything against Brooke. I've always liked him in the past."

JIMMY AND ROSALYNN: She's particularly proud of her son and daughter-in-law because she believes "they have the closest marriage of any couple that ever lived in the White House."

At the end of the trip, she was asked what title she preferred when being introduced. She smiled, and said:

"Amy Carter's grandmother."



CITY COUNCILLOR Steve McGrath has a brand new title: attorney. McGrath has been notified that he passed the Massachusetts Bar exam he took in July for the first time. He is working in the Holbrook office of Andrew Card, Sr., father of Rep. Andrew Card.

It means the Quincy City Council now has three lawyers, for awhile, anyway. The other two: Daniel Raymondi and Paul Harold. But it will be down to two when Harold resigns in January to become state senator.

POLICE CHIEF Frank Finn ran in the Quincy YMCA's Robert Caruso memorial five-mile road race, his first such competition. Finished 264th in a field of 290 with a time of 46:49.

SHERIFF Clifford Marshall is sending out invitations for the opening of the Norfolk County House of Correction and Jail Library Media Center Sunday. And getting a chuckle. The word opening has quotes around it.

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist, says everyone is tracing their roots these days. He knows a guy who traced his family tree and discovered a couple of great uncles died of Dutch Elm disease.

In addition to the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell invented the grooved wax cylinder with spiral sound track for Thomas Edison's phonograph.

Harold: 'Thought Of Running For Mayor Two Years Ago'

$70,000. "We knew we couldn't raise that kind of money."

The text of the Harold interview follows:

SUN - Most of your efforts since you were very young seem to have been directed toward politics. What started you on that track?

HAROLD - I studied it in school and I worked for different candidates. But I think the real thing that motivated me was working for Gene McCarthy when he ran for President in 1968. I was a junior in college. They sent me from Massachusetts to run an area out in Indianapolis for him. I went to the convention in '68 and I did my senior paper on that. Then I worked for Congressman Burke down in Washington. And, of course, going to law school I worked in the State House, in the Senate Counsel's office and the Attorney General's office. I got interested just from my work experience.

SUN - You have a lot of relatives named Burke. That's a good political name.

HAROLD - It's my mother's maiden name. But none of them were involved in politics. As a matter of fact, when I called them from Washington and told them I was going to run in a special election for State Rep, my mother and father said, 'Think about it. You don't want to go into politics. That's not the thing you can really be involved in.'

SUN - What were their objections?

HAROLD - I guess maybe some of the people in the past who have been involved... Well, they didn't really think that highly of it. But once I made up my mind to go into it they were all behind me.

SUN - You first ran for State Rep in a special election in 1971 and lost. What happened?

HAROLD - I got into the race because there was a split in the field. There were three candidates. Usually in a special election there could be as low as a 20 per cent turnout. That comes down to about 700 votes to win. I knew I was in the area of getting that many votes. Of course, I ended up getting around 700 votes but there was a 40 per cent turnout. All the experts were wrong on that one. I had been away from home for four years in school and I was away that summer in Washington. I wasn't that well known.

SUN - You ran for City Council in 1973 and lost. What happened in that election?

HAROLD - I was running against Leo Kelly, who had run the time before. I think a lot of people who voted against Leo promised to be with him the next time. Then I showed up. I was in a situation where they had already committed their votes. It wasn't so much that people were against me. It's just that they committed their votes before I got into the race. Also there isn't much area to work in a ward. Once you've gone to the people's houses two or three times there isn't much else you can do.

SUN - That was only five years ago and in that time you put together an organization that could beat a man like Tobin. How did you do it?

HAROLD - I just got involved in different activities in the city, just generally getting known and recruiting people who I knew could do the work. I started out with members of my own family and my neighbors and people I went to school with. As I got more involved I picked up people who I knew were good in, say, fund raising or polling or organization and I put together a team.

SUN - Can you give some examples of how certain people joined your campaign?

HAROLD - Well, there was Paul Bregoli, who ran my campaign last time and this time he ran Braintree. I went to college with him and I hadn't really seen him since college until I ran into him campaigning in Houghs Neck. He was teaching at the Atherton Hough School. We got him involved and he had his own group of friends. It was a matter of putting together groups like that across the city. I went to college with Kathy O'Donnell. She put together her family and friends in Quincy Point. We were looking for someone to help us in Montclair and Kathy Mitchell, who I worked with in the historical society, recruited her brother, Mike. We knew what we had to pick up, say, in the Knights of Columbus or the Elks or the Masons or 1000 Southern Artery to spread the word. We wanted to make sure that in every group we had someone who was going to campaign for us.

SUN - People have said you are a particularly effective candidate because you do nothing but campaign. How do you respond to that?

HAROLD - Well, I do do other things besides campaign. But by doing a little bit every day it might seem like I'm always campaigning. You do your best most effective campaigning when you're not looking for a vote. When people only come around once every two or four years it's obvious they're only looking for a vote and won't be back until they need something else. One of the most important things is to be accessible to people and the best way to do it is to go to bean suppers and bingos and things like that and listen to people. They really appreciate it.

SUN - What kind of a law practice do you have? Big? Small? What type of cases?

HAROLD - I'd say it was moderate size. It's mostly civil work, real estate, probate family law, that type of thing. Very little criminal work.

SUN - What told you that this was the time to run for the State Senate?

HAROLD - We were thinking of running for mayor two years ago. We commissioned a poll by Cambridge Survey. The poll showed us basically that a third person could have won, that I could have won the mayor's seat but we would have had to spend

READER SPEAKS OUT

Takes Issue With LeDisco Letter

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

James P. Kearney, president of Le Disco, has distorted the facts in a letter in your Nov. 9th edition. On Aug. 8, 1978, many concerned Quincy residents were on vacation when he, and his cohorts, made their initial presentation. The public hearing before the Quincy Licensing Board occurred Sept. 5, 1978 - Labor Day Week-end - What super timing on the part of Mr. Kearney. On Sept. 19 the entire concept was presented and that is perhaps the first time a tiny corner story was headlined and the plan made obvious to our residents. One astute resident read the tiny piece in the paper and called Party Line [WJDA]. Thank you, Astute Resident.

At that time, our Quincy airwaves were jammed with pros and cons - mostly cons. And when the final public hearing was held the taxpayers and concerned citizens were represented by all sections of Quincy - north, south east and west and our message to Mr. Kearney was overwhelmingly, "NO." No, Mr. Kearney, we will not allow a 2 a.m. closing. Who will patronize your joint at 2 a.m.? Some drunk who has spent the evening there? Some drunk from another party, or just some passing drunk? And how does this 'customer' get home? Friends at 2 a.m., unlikely; pick-ups, probably so; stealing a car, a good possibility; thumbing? The MBTA stops in Boston at 12:30 a.m. There is no return trip. Does the proprietor of Le Disco propose to chauffeur all those desperate people without transportation? Most of Boston's Disco's have police cruisers by the dozen lined up outside to take care of the riff-raff at closing time.

No, Mr. Kearney, we will not allow a game room. A 'game room' is a colossal joke. A game room with all the mumbo-jumbo is a pin-ball, penny arcade, honky-tonk, lowbrow operation. And what kind of people play the games? The druggies, the pushers, the mal-contents, the zeroes of our society. When Mr. Kearney got his license for a Disco he should have put his act together and proved to our citizenry that he could operate a legitimate place of entertainment. After a trial period that showed the Quincy residents how super he was in judging people, he might have come back again - maybe next August or Labor Day Week-end - and shoved through his other demands - demands for a 2 a.m. closing and a game room.

When Mr. Kearney says he is going to operate a European Style Cafe, he is distorting the facts. No European Cafe' sells deli sandwiches, comes equipped with game rooms and assaults the 'diners' ears and eyes with distorted lights and music. Mr. Kearney is proposing that we turn our vulnerable teen-agers loose on Saturday from noon until 5, and they must "dress nice" and pay $3 in order to gain admission to his establishment. The juice bar will probably be super, but what about the pill in the juice? What about the half pint in the pocket? What about the beer in the back of the car? Does Mr. Kearney seriously believe only straight teen-agers live in Quincy?

If Le Disco cannot be run legitimately, without the frills, it deserves to go under. This kind of tax relief is unnecessary in our city.

'We Had A Few LaRaia People But . . .'

considerable money. While people knew who I was there was a considerable group that didn't know whether or not they had a favorable opinion of me. We pegged that at about a $70,000 campaign. We knew we couldn't raise that type of money. The poll also showed a general agreement in Quincy that the mayor should not hold a second elected position in the Legislature. It was at least 70 per cent. So, based on that issue alone, we knew that the incumbent was vulnerable in Quincy. In Braintree, they weren't pleased with the idea of the mayor of Quincy being their state senator. It was a straight forward issue. We knew that if we kept it on a high plane that people could still like Arthur Tobin yet not vote for him. That's how we tried to run the campaign.

SUN - Why didn't the two job issue defeat Tobin when he ran for mayor?

HAROLD - I think that there was so much that Joe LaRaia had going against him that the two job thing really wasn't an issue. It was more the incumbent's performance than the challenger's jobs in that case.

SUN - For the past few years the city has been divided into two camps. Are you allied with either one?

HAROLD - No. I've tried to remove myself from the two factions because when you become associated with one faction, you pick up all their friends. But you also pick up all their enemies. During the campaign people would say to me, 'Do you know what that person did back in 1958?' I said I was in the fifth grade back in 1958 and I don't care what they did and I'm not going to get involved carrying other people's feuds from generation to generation. We started from scratch and we've continued that. I think in the long run thats going to be the best course of action.

SUN - There has been speculation that you received help from Joe LaRaia and his people. How much help did you get from them?

HAROLD - Well, I'm sure that the LaRaia people voted for me because of their dislike for Arthur Tobin. But basically we ran our campaign with our own people. We had a few LaRaia people but when you talk about LaRaia people you have to look at what year you're talking about. These are the same people who were Brett people or Grace Saphir people or Frank McCauley people or Della Chiesa people, depending on the election. We had Tobin people too. In North Quincy alone we counted 22 people who had been with Arthur Tobin for mayor and with me for the senate. I had some Paul Harold people who weren't with me because they had their first alliance with Tobin. So to label someone a LaRaia person or a Tobin person really depends upon the election.

SUN - There was an election night picture in the Ledger showing Sarah Saccone working at your headquarters.

HAROLD - Election night we had a lot of people come up who were enthused about the victory. Sarah Saccone was one of them. When it came time to do the tabulation, because of her experience and background, she ran the tabulation for us. The picture didn't include people like my campaign manager, my father, my brother, my ward coordinators who had been working for me since we started back in January.

SUN - Do you think the McIntyre organization is dead in Quincy?

HAROLD - I don't think it's dead. But it's hard to keep an organization going when the personality involved is no longer on the scene. Jim McIntyre is still an influential force in the city but he hasn't been here on a day-to-day basis. Transferrability is very hard in politics. Plus a lot of his people are involved in other things now. Just like my campaign group, a young group of people who have a lot of time to spend. I'm sure 10 years from now, when they're involved with a new career or a new family or a new house, that's going to be their first priority. The same thing happened to the McIntyre group.

SUN - Traditionally for the past 15 years or so the mayor and the state senator have been either the same person or very close friends. This is no longer true. How well do you think you can get along with Mayor Tobin?

HAROLD - I think we have a working relationship. It never reached the point during the campaign where we weren't on speaking terms. I don't see any problem with a working relationship. The good thing for the city is that there will be a second look given to a lot of legislation that used to be carried by only one person. But I don't think there is any question that Arthur Tobin's first priority and my first priority is working for the city of Quincy.

SUN - What Senate committees do you want and why?

HAROLD - I've asked for the Committees on Transportation and Urban Affairs. These are the committees that have tremendous impact on the district. The Transportation Committee deals with the Red Line extension, which is going to be probably eight years in the works, the Upland Rd. Extension, the ramps at the Expressway, the "problems" at Braintree Five Corners and the potential for a new Fore River Bridge. Some are under construction and I want to make sure they are followed through. I'd like to get some of the other ones on the planning board. The Urban Affairs Committee controls two state agencies that are important to Quincy. The MDC controls Wollaston Beach, Wollaston Boulevard, Furnace Brook Parkway, the Blue Hills Reservation. The Department of Community Affairs controls almost 20,000 units of public housing in Quincy. I want to be in a position where I'm dealing with the people directly in those agencies.

SUN - What projects would you place a priority on?

HAROLD - Downtown development, of course, is the thing that's going to require a lot of intervention by the state. That will be a priority starting out. I want to file legislation to allow flexibility for 121A-type projects ...

SUN - 121A?

HAROLD - That allows developers to come into a blighted area and, rather than pay a property tax based on the value of their building, they can pay a tax based upon a percentage of their income. It's a tax incentive for taking a chance in a blighted area. I want that more flexible so we can give this type of concession to an area like Quincy Square, which is not blighted but needs help before it becomes blighted. There are too many incentives that cannot be used until a city's downtown is dead and gone.

SUN - Tobin was a senator for seven years. He built up some seniority. What can a freshman senator do to be as effective as a man like that?

HAROLD - First thing I ought to point out that there is no seniority in the State Legislature in the sense that people don't become committee chairmen because they've been there a

Big Toot At Victory Plant

The biggest whistle in any shipyard in the world, five feet tall and weighing 200 pounds, was installed in the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s new Victory Plant in Squantum.

The whistle, which took 125 pounds of steam to blow at full force, was to act as a fire signal for the "Victory Village Fire Department" of 40 men under Chief Michael J. Nolan.

"At present," said a Victory Plant spokesman, "the whistle is being fed a diet of 80 pounds of steam in order to avoid rattling the tea cups from the pantry shelves in Quincy, Neponset and Dorchester."

WEBSTER SCHOOL DEDICATED

City Councillor Thomas Griffin presided at dedication ceremonies for the Daniel Webster School, under the auspices of the Washington-Daniel Webster PTA.

Mayor Joseph L. Whiton explained that the abnormally large $60,000 rise in the school budget was due primarily to the $140,000 cost of building the school and the $25,000 a year it would take to run it.

Thomas B. Pollard, principal of the school, told those attending the ceremonies that the new building would accommodate 600 pupils in 15 of its 16 rooms.

DEFENSE GROUP MEETS

Mrs. John D. Mackay chaired a meeting of the Women's Committee of the National Council of Defense for Quincy in the Mayor's office, called to discuss food conservation during the war.

The girls made plans to try to get stores and bakeries to introduce dark flour breads on their shelves in order that white breads could be shipped to the soldiers overseas.

"People do not seem to understand," said Mrs. Mackay, "that the dark flours and corn meal will spoil in transit if sent across.

"Investigation brings to light the fact that the middle class as a whole are doing the least because they will not give up things to which they have become accustomed."

FORE RIVER WINS

Stradan booted three goals and Anderson and Bradford scored singles as the Fore River Soccer Club blanked the Irish Americans, 5-0, in a State Soccer Cup series game at Sullivan Square, Charlestown.

The lineup for Quincy included: Lambie g, Chapman rb, McLean lb, Clawson rh, Stewart ch, Rennie lh, Anderson rof, Page rif, Stradan cf, Daly lif, Bradford lof.

Williams Seniors Presenting 'Anne of Green Gables'

The senior class of Archbishop Williams High School will present the musical comedy, "Anne of Green Gables", Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The story depicts the life of Anne in Avonlea, Prince Edward Island after she has been taken from an orphanage by an elderly couple. After many conflicts and misunderstandings, Anne finally wins her way into the hearts of the townspeople and school children. The music is crisp and attractive; the dialogue is fresh and entertaining.

The role of Anne is being played by Kimberly Carey of Holbrook. In supporting roles are Donna Iavicoli, Henry Breen, Nancy Shea, all of Quincy; Eileen Dunlea of Braintree; John Dalton of Dorchester; and Kathleen Doherty of Holbrook. The musical accompaniment will be by Jeannine Machon of Randolph, piano, and David West of Holbrook, drums.

Tickets may be obtained by calling Archbishop Williams High School [843-3636]. They will also be available at the door.

18 Vo-Tech Students, 6 Teachers Complete CPR Course

Eighteen students and six teachers from the metals and machines division of Quincy Vocational-Technical School have completed the CPR course in basic life support and rescue techniques.

American Heart Association certifications were presented to the group by Mayor Tobin at last week's meeting of the school committee. The group, all volunteers, took instruction at the Masonic Temple, Hancock St., Quincy.

David Smith, Quincy High School science department, was chief instructor. Other instructors were: Vincent Sullivan, science coordinator for Quincy public schools; Janet Kornmeyer, high school science department, Joyce Wiencek and Rose Mysiuk, registered nurses at Quincy City Hospital. All instructors are members of the Quincy Heart Saver Task Force and donated their services.

The course will be given on a monthly basis throughout the school year. In the eight hour course students are taught resuscitation of adults, children and infants, obstructed airways techniques for conscious and unconscious victims. To be certified students must pass tests in cognitive skills and psychomotor skills.

Vo-Tech teachers who took the course include, Bernard Doyle, Leo Boyle, Stanley Comeau, Elmer Hume, George Baker and Paul Milward.

Students included:

Education, Book Week Programs At Adams School

A special program has been planned by the staff and pupils of the Adams School in observance of American Education Week and National Book Week.

The program will take place Wednesday morning, Nov. 15 from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m.

Following the classroom visitation, parents and friends will assemble in the Media Center to be welcomed by Dr. Henry F. Paterson Jr., principal.

The program will consist of an exhibit of reading materials, book displays and special bookmarks prepared by the pupils will be distributed to the parents. A booklet, "Catch the Reading Habit," prepared by the Quincy School Department, will be presented to the parents. A special colored slide presentation of school and related activities will be presented by Mrs. Kathleen Casey, Media Specialist. Pupils dressed up as story-book characters, will act as guides for their parents throughout the school during the open house visitation.

Refreshments will be served by the PTA.

All parents and friends are invited to attend this special dual observance of American Education Week and National Book Week.

Stars As Pass Receiver

Walt Hannon 'Big Play' At Norwich

Walt Hannon of Quincy, who played for the junior varsity team the last two years, had an excellent season for the Norwich University varsity football team this fall and was the Cadets' top scorer with five touchdowns.

Walt, son of former Mayor and Mrs. Walter Hannon, played his high school ball at Abp. Williams and this year showed how to get the most out of his playing time with the Cadets.

Norwich, which got off to a fast start with a 4-1 record, finished 5-4 last week when it bowed to Middlebury, 24-14.

Called "Big-Play" Hannon by Coach Barry Mynter and his teammates, the Quincy gridman, a junior, sharing split end duties with Jim Daley and acting as a messenger carrying in plays from Mynter, Hannon has set a dazzling pace.

He has been an outstanding pass receiver and the first three passes he caught were for touchdowns. The first came against American International, where he made a finger tip, diving catch, the scoring play covering 29 yards.

The next was for six yards and the winning touchdown in a come-back win over Coast Guard.

WALT HANNON

Against Boston State Hannon caught two passes, the first for nine yards and a touchdown, again a big play in another comeback win. Later Walt caught his second pass of the day, good for 42 yards, to set up Norwich's go-ahead touchdown.

Against Tufts Hannon continued his big-play act. His first reception in a 31-23 decision was for 19 yards and a touchdown.

Later he let the ball slip out of his hands on an attempted 27-yard field goal try by Jim Luscinski, but, having a flare for the big play, he turned the fumble into a five-yard touchdown run.

"When the ball slipped out of my hands I was shocked," Hannon said. "When I stood up Jim (Luscinski) said, 'Here, you take it, Walt, and I'll block for you.' I was running for my life and all I could see was the flag in the far corner. I figured it was my best shot."

"He just keeps on making the big plays," Mynter said of Hannon. "It is amazing the way he has made his passes count. He's in on only 50 percent of the plays, I seldom pay any attention to whom I'm giving the play because I have confidence in both him and Daley. Walt is a dedicated player and an individual who is willing to work extra on his own. I would say he is a self-made kid."

Hannon was named to the ECAC Division 3 weekly honor roll following his performance against Tufts.

Big things are expected from Hannon next fall when he undoubtedly will see more action than he has this year.

Elks, Apaches Clash Sunday For Title

The West Quincy Elks, South Division champions, will face the North Quincy Apaches, North Division winners, for the Quincy Youth Football League championship Sunday at 1 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Last Sunday the Apaches defeated the St. Gregory Raiders, 30-6, sparked by Mike Cullen, who continued his outstanding play with two touchdowns.

Cullen scored the first TD on a 52-yard run and scored the second on a 10-yard run.

The third touchdown was set up by a 40-yard run by Jeff Gale, who was knocked out of bounds on the one from where Jimmy McNamara scored on the next play.

The Raiders scored their only touchdown on a 40-yard run by Bobby Clougherty, following which Apache quarterback Kevin Mahoney scored on a 25-yard keeper up the middle. Paul Roach scored the final touchdown on a 37-yard pass from Jimmy Quinn.

Cullen, Gale, McNamara, Mahoney, Quinn, Roach and Eric Peterson all played outstanding ball for the Apaches and Clougherty, Mike Flaherty, and Jim Maniscalco starred for the Raiders.

In another game last Sunday the Squantum Sailors defeated the Houghs Neck Manets, 20-12.

FIRST DOWN -- Quincy quarterback Dave Austin picks up seven yards for a first down on the Brookline five to set up the winning touchdown in last week's 27-24 win.

ALERT PLAY -- Quincy's Geoff Caflisch [75] fell on a fumble by Tommy Brennan in the end zone for a touchdown in the Presidents' 27-24 win over Brookline. Glenn Lydon [89] pats him on the back as two Quincy players show their delight at left.

Presidents' Big Defensive Plays Save The Day

By TOM SULLIVAN

For the handful of fans at Veterans Memorial Stadium the game was a delight.

For the coaches it was a nightmare.

Quincy's football team tried its best to hand Brookline a win last Saturday before one of the smallest crowds to watch a game at the stadium in some time but Brookline couldn't take advantage of the Presidents' mistakes as Quincy eked out a 27-24 Suburban League win to take a 4-5 record into the Thanksgiving game with North Quincy.

"The game shouldn't have been that close," Coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "We made things too easy for them and except for a few big defensive plays at the end, they could easily have beaten us.

"I said all along that Brookline wasn't as bad as their record indicated. They just missed upsetting North Quincy and they had a couple of other good games. They were tough."

The officials continued to pour the penalties on Quincy and another 140 yards Saturday gave Brookline one touchdown and helped on another drive.

"I can't understand all the penalties," Fitzgerald said. "We can't seem to move without being assessed with more of them. We have to make some changes for the North Quincy game. We will have to be much sharper than we have been in the last two games."

Quincy's offense was excellent and the Presidents moved the ball well behind the running of Tom Brennan and the passing of Dave Austin, but the defense suffered a letdown.

However, it was the defense which saved the game with three pass interceptions late in the game, two by Jeff Giordani, his ninth and 10th of the year, and one by Ralph Pickering. The last one by Giordani on Quincy's 18 saved the game with a minute left. A few minutes earlier he had picked off a pass on his one-yard line.

QUINCY SCORING

	TD	PAT	Pts.
Brennan	9	6	60
Austin	3	2	20
O'Neil	1	0	6
Pickering	1	0	6
Cahill	1	0	6
Caflisch	1	0	6
Harte	0	2	2
Giordani	0	2	2

Quincy also was called twice for pass interference and the second call gave Brookline the ball on Quincy's 45 after Brookline had recovered an onside kick following its last touchdown.

Brennan had another big day as he ran for 113 yards and scored his ninth touchdown. Austin had a good passing day with six out of 10 for 101 yards and a touchdown. Brookline's only interception set up a touchdown.

Glen Lydon made two outstanding receptions, although one was nullified by a penalty.

Assistant Coach Peter Chella had good words for the offensive line and singled out Fran Barry, Fran Duggan, Paul Bandera, Lydon, Geoff Caflisch, who scored a touchdown when he fell on a fumble in the end zone; Gerry Grassi, Tom Rand, George McCarron, Ron Cross, Russ DiPietro and Bob Ciardi.

Despite the defensive lapses, Coach Bill Maver saw a lot to be happy about and praised Billy Murray, Lou Matthews, Dean Prescott, Mike Trifone, Paul Martin, Charlie Darcy, Mike Petrillo, Steve Cacciatore and McCarron.

Brookline caught Quincy by surprise and drove to a touchdown after the opening kickoff. Paul Drain, who ran for 61 yards, scored the first of his two TDs from the one.

Quincy came back following a short Brookline punt which Giordani returned to the Brookline 30. On the first play of the second period Austin went through the right side on a keeper for 14 yards and the score.

The Presidents marched from their 47 after one of the many 15-yard penalties against them and took the lead when Brennan took a pitchout and went around right end from the four. Fran Donovan passed to Brennan for the two points. A 36-yard pass from Austin to Lydon, on which Lydon made a great catch, set up the touchdown.

Brookline retaliated immediately thanks to some sloppy tackling by the Presidents. On the fist play following the kickoff Allison Jones, who ran for 93 yards, broke through the right side and, after apparently being stopped several times, raced 53 yards to Quincy's 28 and right away another 15-yarder set the Presidents back to their 13. Drain scored from the four but the try for the tying points failed and Quincy still had a 14-12 edge.

Quincy took the ensuing kickoff and marched 65 yards for another score with three passes from Austin, two to John Cahill and one to Scott Richardson sparking the drive. The second one to Cahill for 13 yards was good for the touchdown and when the try for two points failed, Quincy had a 20-12 halftime lead.

"I thought we would come out and blow them out in the second half, but we couldn't do it," Fitzgerald said.

Brookline's Drain intercepted an Austin pass and returned it to the Quincy 38 to set up the next touchdown. Quincy had been hit with two more 15-yard penalties before the interception and another after the interception gave Brookline the ball on the Presidents' 23. Quarterback Bob Ewanouski threw to Jordan Dickstein in the end zone for a touchdown as Dickstein got behind the defender. Again the try for the tying points failed.

Brookline was on the march again early in the final period when Pickering, who played only a few minutes because of an ankle injury, picked off a pass on his 40 and ran it back to Brookline's 29.

Quincy scored eight plays later when Brennan drove two yards into the end zone but fumbled. Caflisch pounced on the ball for the touchdown and Giordani kicked the final Quincy point.

It wasn't over yet. Brookline again drove all the way to Quincy's 11 but Giordani came up with his first interception on the one. But the Presidents' happiness soon turned to grief as Quincy fumbled and Brookline recovered on the six. On the first play Jones scored but, for the fourth straight time, failed to add the points.

Brookline recovered its onside kick but Giordani's second interception ended the visitors' hopes

Catholic Memorial 48, North 14

Raiders Trying To Regroup

"They were awfully fast and they killed us with the big play," North Quincy football coach Dave Burke said after his Raiders had been bombed by undefeated Catholic Memorial, 48-14, last Saturday in a non-league game at West Roxbury.

The win clinched the Eastern Mass. Division 2 title for the Catholic Conference champions and assured the Knights of a Super Bowl berth.

"This was the quickest team we have faced and that boy (Bob) Sameski is outstanding," Burke said. "He is a top track star and he was every bit as good as we had heard. We just have to regroup now and prepare for Quincy. We have to forget this game and concentrate on Thanksgiving." The Raiders are 3-6 going into the Quincy game.

"Our defense just didn't have it today," said defensive coach Ken McPhee. "They killed us by scoring three touchdowns in about four minutes in the second period and they continually came up with the big plays to break our backs."

Conley	1	0	0	6
Cavanaugh	1	0	0	6
Cobban	0	6	0	6
McIntyre	0	2	0	2
Penzo	0	2	0	2

The Knights, 9-0, are looking forward to winning the Super Bowl won last year by Boston College High, which Memorial faces on Thanksgiving.

"Our offense wasn't all that bad and we moved the ball pretty well," Burke continued. It was a game for a while but when they scored those three quick touchdowns in the second period it was all over."

Jim Holleran, Tom Quinn and John Conley all ran well but Quinn, who has 12 touchdowns, was held scoreless.

In the line Burke singled out Dan McIntyre, John White, Brian McGilvray and Mike Spinale.

Memorial struck early when Barrett McGrath ran back a punt 60 yards and the kick was good. The Knights made it 13-0 when Sameski raced 51 yards later in the opening period.

Holleran scored on a five-yard run early in the second period to put North back in the game but then came the Knights' three quick scores to clinch things.

First it was Sameski again on a 24-yard run, McGrath passed to Paul Rogers for 38 yards and then hit Kevin Schermerhorn for 19 yards.

In the third period Holleran was tackled in the end zone for a safety and two more Memorial points, John Hooper scored on a 25-yard run and John King added the final touchdown on a 19-yard run to make it 48-6 going into the last period.

With the reserves playing for both teams, backup quarterback Dave Cavanaugh scored for the Raiders from the three and then passed to Dave Penzo for the final two points of the game.

Quincy-North Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the Quincy-North Quincy Thanksgiving Day football game went on sale Monday at each of the elementary, junior high and senior high schools.

Student tickets are $1 and adult tickets are $1.50, available at all the schools. Reserve tickets are being sold at $3 at the two high schools only.

Tickets at all locations will be on sale through Tuesday, Nov. 21 at the prices quoted. At the game there will be $2 tickets only.

This year North Quincy will be the host team and occupy the cement stands and Quincy will occupy the wooden stands.

Quincy-North Pre-Game Banquet Thursday

The annual pre-Thanksgiving Day football banquet will be held Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School cafeteria.

The players, coaches, bands and cheerleaders from both Quincy and North Quincy High schools will be invited guests at the event.

Parents and friends are invited to attend. Donation is $5.

North Queen To Be Selected At Boosters Dance

A new North Quincy High football queen will be selected for the North Quincy-Quincy football game at Veterans Memorial Stadium Thanksgiving Day.

The senior class will vote on the final three from 26 nominees Saturday night at the Atlantic Junior High gym and the queen and two court members will be presented at the Queen Dance.

This is the final event of the season for North Quincy High Football Booster Club.

He's Captain PLUS

Flynn In Outstanding Season At Trinity

North Quincy's John Flynn, a former standout at North Quincy High and Deerfield Academy, last week completed an outstanding season and football career at Trinity College in Hartford, Conn.

John, the first single captain in Trinity history [there had always been co-captains or tri-captains], averaged more than 100 yards a game and finished the season as the team's top ground gainer [825 yards] and scorer [11 touchdowns] as he scored twice and rushed for 143 yards last week in sparking a 43-10 breeze over traditional rival Wesleyan. Trinity finished with a 7-1 record.

JOHN FLYNN

Two weeks ago Flynn, who will be captain of the Trinity golf team for the third year in a row next spring, enjoyed his best day as he rushed for 134 yards and scored four touchdowns, one on a 63-yard run, to lead Trinity to a 41-32 win over Amherst. He was named for the second time as an ECAC Player of the Week after this game.

Earlier, in a 20-18 win over Coast Guard Academy Flynn scored all three touchdowns and was named an ECAC player of the Week.

John, used mainly on defense a year ago, has been used exclusively on offense this fall.

He was one of North Quincy's outstanding running backs and in 1972, as a junior, he scored two touchdowns, one on an 80-yard run, to lead the Raiders to a big win over Quincy. In 1973 he had another big game in a win over Quincy and that year rushed for 828 yards. If a game with Chelsea hadn't been cancelled, he probably would have gone over 1000 yards.

The following year he had a tremendous season for Deerfield Academy before starting his fine career at Trinity.

Crusader Soccer Finale

The Eastern Nazarene College soccer team finished one of its most successful seasons ever last week with a 2-0 win over Bridgewater State.

The Crusaders finished with a 12-4-1 record.

George Stinson scored an unassisted goal and Steve Wirth scored the second on a sideline throw-in from Jim Weslow.

Quincy, North Sophs Clash In Turkey Day Preview

Saturday is the big day for the Quincy and North Quincy sophomore football teams.

The young Presidents and Raiders will clash in their annual game at 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium with Coach Ted Sadowski, in his 21st year at North, hoping to avenge last year's 36-6 bombing inflicted by Peter Chella's undefeated Quincy team.

Sadowski has his largest squad ever and North brings an 8-1 record into the game.

Mark Conroy is back as Quincy coach and his team has a 4-3-1 mark.

North has wins over Milton, Brockton, Newton North, Cambridge Rindge and Latin, Weymouth North, Somerville, Brookline and Catholic Memorial with the only loss at the hands of Scituate.

Quincy defeated Scituate, Newton North, Hingham and Brockton, lost to Cambridge, Waltham and B.C. High and tied Weymouth North.

North has a high scoring team with a solid attack both on the ground and through the air. The running backs, Jack Brown, Bill Barter, Dean Zoia, Chris Baker and Jim Sullivan move well behind the blocking of Brian O'Leary, Ted Hannon, Peter Linehan, Lou DiPietro, John Buckley, Bob Danna and Jack Leone. Filling in capably when needed have been Shaun Dyer, Tim Wheeler, Victor O'Leary, Kyle Morton, Steve McEachern and Mitch McInnis.

"The defense has done a great job all season," Sadowski said.

Sparking the defense are Peter Alibrandi, Bill Feeney, Paul Schaetzel, Peter McDonough, Paul Lynch, Brian Marsters, Mike Dulkis, Joe McDonald and Steve Mariano, handling the heavy work in the line.

Linebackers Paul O'Sullivan, Tom Ceurvels, Jim McGinnis and Rich Reinhardt have done their share of the hard hitting. The perimeter has been ably manned by Jino Pillard, Paul McAleney, Tom Smith, Jim Huber, Jack O'Donnell and Chris Colman.

The kicking game has been handled capably by Leone and O'Leary. O'Leary handles the punting and Leone the place kicking.

"Our defensive coach, Kevin Lewis, whose enthusiasm and drive are really contagious, is responsible for the total team success and great spirit and morale," Sadowski said. "He has plied the motivation."

"We have a small squad in numbers with only 23 players, but they are hard working and enthusiastic," Conroy said. "They have played some outstanding games but have been inconsistent."

Among the standouts on offense are Ron Pettinelli, a fine quarterback who passes well, is a smart field general and can also kick well; Ed Iodice, a good runner who also is a strong safety man; Mike Abboud, hard running halfback; Mike Monahan, a good blocking fullback and also a fine linebacker; Scott Annson and Sean Burke, fine pass receivers; Chris Chevalier, center who also is a defensive end; Ed Mackey, Paul D'Angelo, John Varrasso and Fran Duggan, the linemen who open the holes, and Greg Oriola, a fine runner and punter who has been battling the virus.

Al DeVincentis is the defensive captain and is a true leader, playing noseguard and cornerback. Other defensive standouts, most of whom play two ways, are Mackey, Varrasso, Chevalier, Annson, D'Angelo, Monahan, Steve Remmillard, Paul Flynn, Ken Gustin, Iodice and Ed Powers.

Rounding out the squad are Kevin Chapman, John Swanson, John Christillo, Ed Starr, George Slicis, Jim St. Angelo and Bill Hall.

Rugby Club Wins, Hosts Tournament Of Champions

The Quincy Rugby Club enjoyed its finest hour recently when it won its own Tournament of Champions, defeating teams from Johnson State, Vt., Groton, Conn., Rochester, N.Y. and Syracuse, N.Y.

It was a double elimination tournament and Quincy defeated Johnson State, 32-8, with a well-balanced attack. Bob Bossier, John McKinnon, Nate Hale, Paul Wilson and Pete Raymer all scored.

Quincy lost to Syracuse, 24-6, with Tom Quinn scoring for the host team, but the team bounced back to top Groton, Conn., 18-0, with Lou Trubiano, Peter Barbadeiro and Dr. Fred Murray scoring.

Going into the final game Quincy and Rochester had one loss each so the loser would be eliminated.

Quincy played a perfect game to win, 24-0, with Bob McCormack, Brian Morrissey, Richie Carroll and Capt. John Kennedy scoring.

"We came back all year but today was just great and everyone worked very hard," Kennedy said.

ENC Women's Volleyball Team In 2nd Spot

The Eastern Nazarene College women's volleyball team closed out its season last weekend by finishing second in the state MAIAW Division II Tournament at Worcester. ENC had won the title a year ago.

The Crusaderettes advanced to the finals with wins over Northeastern University and Gordon College.

Salem State, which had bowed to ENC during the regular season gained revenge by defeating the Crusaderettes, 15-9, 15-12, for the championship.

Earlier last week the ENC women defeated Boston College and Holy Cross. The Crusaderettes defeated Holy Cross, 15-5, 15-8, and topped Boston College, 15-6, 15-13.

ENC lost to both URI and Northeastern to finish the season with a 15-7 record.

Flyers Stay On Bridgewater's Heels

The Quincy Flyers stayed one point behind Bridgewater in the South Shore Division of the South Shore Hockey League with a win over Stoughton last week.

The Flyers, who won the division last year, have been sparked by Jim Mullaney, averaging four goals a game, Kevin Jago and Dennis Bertoni, an all-star defenseman last season.

Bridgewater stayed a point ahead with a 6-5 decision over Jamaica Plain. Bridgewater is 6-1-0 with its only loss to the Flyers, who are 5-1-1.

The Quincy Panthers were defeated by the undefeated West Roxbury Eagles, 8-3, dropping four points behind Bridgewater in the South Shore Division.

The Quincy Braves and Randolph are having a close fight for the fourth and final playoff spot in the South Shore Division. Both tied last week, the Braves with the Quincy Sabres, 3-3, and Randolph with South Boston, 7-7. Earlier three of the four Quincy teams had won.

In the big upset of the night the Quincy Braves surprised the undefeated Jamaica Plain DeFranco Club, 2-1, the loss knocking the Plainers from the top of the Greater Boston Division.

Jamaica Plain took the lead with a first period goal but midway in the third period Tom Westland picked up a bouncing puck and scored the tying goal unassisted, a shorthanded goal. In a mad scramble in front of the Jamaica Plain net, Quincy defenseman Peter Williams shot the puck into a crowd to Steve Olson, who deflected it to Rick Shaffer and he scored. This also was a shorthanded goal for Coach Jay Tropea's Braves.

The Quincy Flyers, last year's South Shore Division champs, continued their scoring rampage as they bombed Quincy Sabres, 10-3.

The Flyers are a hot contender to repeat this year and are one point behind division leading Bridgewater.

In another upset recently the Quincy Panthers defeated Ashmont's defending Greater Boston Division champions, 9-5. The nine goals were the most ever scored against Ashmont.

"It is a great feeling to beat last year's cup winners and we can go anywhere from here," said Quincy coach Dave Mullen.

Baskin Robbins topped Burgin Platner, 6-1, with Tom Richards and Bob Flynn having two goals apiece, and John and Mike Chennette one each. Flynn and Richards had two assists apiece and Kevin Greene, John Burm, Chennette and Doug Concannon one each. Kevin Tenney scored for Burgin with Mark Tenney and Rick Camilleri assisting.

Johnson Motors defeated Doran & Horrigan, 5-3, with Joe Engrassia having two goals and Mike Connolly, Bill Lawless and Jim McSweeney one each. Mike Cavanaugh and Joe McArdle had two assists apiece and Lawless and Rich Durham one each. For Doran Kevin Jennette, Pope and Clifford scored the goals and Kelly, Nourse, Brian Campbell, Steve Mahoney, Mark Lamie and Jennette had assists.

Morrisette, Mug, UCT PeeWee House Winners

Morrisette Post defeated Dee Dee's, 4-1, in the Pee Wee House League on goals by Mike Doherty, Ed Boyle, Mark Chambers and John Krantz.

Boyle, Doherty, Dave Edgren and Chambers had assists. Bill Ward scored for Dee Dee's with Mark Jenkins assisting.

Mug 'n Muffin topped Bersani Brothers, 4-2, with Dan Kelley, Brett Loud, Chris Conway and Brian Provenzano scoring the goals and John Gleba and Kelley having assists. Jim Daly and Tom Boussy scored for Bersani.

UCT nipped Paul Harold, 2-1, with Jim Milano scoring both goals and Bill Heeney assisting on each. John Griffin also had an assist. Bob Reidy scored for Harold.

Keohane's, Teachers In Squirt House Wins

In the Squirt House League Keohane's defeated Feeney's Devils, 4-1, with Tony Orlando having the hat trick and John McMillen one goal.

Brian Roche had three assists, Mike Daly and McMillen two apiece and Tom Van Tassell and Jeff Scott one each. Steve Constas scored for Feeney's with Keith Freeman and Brian Glavin assisting.

Quincy Teachers edged McGinn Shell, 3-2, with Dennis Doherty and Sean Mahoney scoring for McGinn and Bill Reche, Pete Scheurch and John Pacino having assists.

Caddy, Suburban Win

Caddy Marines defeated Quincy Fire Dept., 3-1, in the Midget House League with Paul Flynn, Bill Flannagan and Steve Colman having the goals.

Bryan Ofria had two assists and Colman, Flynn and Howie Chadbourne one each. Rich Newcomb scored for Fire with an assist for Tom Smith.

Suburban Disposal topped Quincy Police Club, 4-2, with Police goals by Bill Joyce and Doug Loud and two assists for Bob Graham.

Bantam B's Roll To 7th Straight

The Rotary Club Bantam B team remained undefeated [7-0-0] as it bombed Hingham, 16-0, sparked by Mike Cullen's hat trick. Steve Baylis, Dean Phillips and Rich Milano had two goals apiece and Dennis Croke, Paul McCabe, Kevin White, Bill Bomar, Tom Benson, Dennis Furtado and Joe Livingstone one each. Cullen, Baylis and Phillips all had three assists, White, Bomar and Larry Costello two apiece and Benson, Furtado, Livingstone, Jamie Doyle and Tommy Dunphy one each.

Earlier the Bantam B's had walloped Canton, 14-2.

Mike Cullen had the hat trick, Dennis Furtado, Rich Milano and Tommy Schofield two goals apiece and Paul McCabe, Joe Livingstone, Kevin White, Steve Baylis and Dean Phillips one each. Tommy Dunphy, Cullen and Milano had two assists apiece and Livingstone, Baylis, Furtado, McCabe and Dennis Croke one each.

The Bantam B's also defeated Weymouth 6-2, with Baylis scoring twice and Bill Bomar, Jamie Doyle, Tom Benson and Cullen once each. Phillips had three assists, Benson two and Milano, Livingstone, Bomar, Cullen, McCabe and Croke one each.

Donovan, Corliss Spark Bantam A's

Brian Donovan scored two of the three St. Moritz second period goals and Tom Corliss recorded his second shout as they sparked the Bantam A team to a 6-0 win over Roslindale Monday night at the Shea Rink.

Lee Rubino scored in the first period with an assist for Mark Righini. John Goodwin scored the third second period goal with Tim Joy and Tom Murphy assisting. Joy and Murphy scored the final two goals in the last period. Paul Egan assisted on Donovan's first goal. Joy and Murphy each had two assists and Goodwin, and Dave Meenan had others.

The Bantam A team was nipped by St. Joseph's, 2-1, with Righini having the St. Moritz goal and Rubino assisting.

The Bantam A's were walloped by Worcester Crusaders, 13-1, at Holy Cross with Egan scoring the Quincy goal and Mark Coletti having an assist.

The St. Mortiz Pee Wee A team was tied by Malden Independents 3-3, when Malden scored with just 58 seconds left in the game. Sean Aruda, Brian Ostiguy and Robbie Reidy had the St. Mortiz goals and A. J. Pugliese and Joe Donovan had assists.

St. Mortiz Pee Wee B team edged the Pilgrim Olympic Youth Hockey team, 4-3, on Mathew Ostiguy's goal late in the final period. Joe Bohmbach, Frank Mortell and Brian Ostiguy had the other goals and Bohmbach had an assist.

Midget A's Edge Melrose, 5-4

Quincy's Midget A hockey team has had a busy schedule and in its latest game edged Melrose, 5-4, in a Middlesex League game at Hockeytown in Saugus.

Robbie McHugh had the hat trick and Bob Beniers and Fred Palmer one goal apiece. Brian Ofria had four assists and Palmer and Beniers one each.

Quincy dropped a 5-2 decision to Woburn in a league game with goals by Beniers and George Mackey and an assist for Robbie Zanardelli.

Medford nipped Quincy, 3-2, with Beniers and Bob Currier scoring and Chris Daley having an assist.

Quincy and Lexington played to a 4-4 tie in an exhibition game as Craig scored twice and Beniers and Ofria once each. Paul Dunphy had two assists and Ofria and Craig one each.

Quincy topped Randolph, 5-2, with Daley scoring two goals and Mackey, McHugh and Currier one each. John Toland, Craig and Beniers had assists.

The goalies for the Midget A's are P.T. Kelly and Jimmy Campbell.

Mite A's Bomb Brockton

The Mite A team walloped Brockton, 9-2, to remain in first place in the South Shore Conference.

Jay Rodriguez had the hat trick and other goals were scored by Mike Toland, Billy Connolly, Brian Mosher, Kevin Marston, Robert Roche and Sean Hunter. Jeff MacDonald had two assists and Chuckie Hughes, Paul Scola, Jimmy Lamparelli, Mosher and Rodriguez one each.

The Mites also shut out Milton, 3-0, on goals by Mosher, Lamparelli and Rodriguez, and defeated Braintree, 3-1, on goals by Paul Scola, Tony Pecce and Rodriguez.

The Mites earlier had defeated Randolph, 5-3; Weymouth, 7-1; Braintree, 5-4; and Milton, 17-1, and tied Brockton, 3-3.

Hunter has been outstanding on defense and Michael Cronin and Brian Mahoney have sparkled in goal.

Squirt B's Roll Over Milton

Quincy's Squirt B team bombed Milton, 11-1, for its eighth straight league win.

Mark Simonelli sparked the romp with a hat trick, while Mark Zimmerman and David Tapper had two goals apiece. Paul Connolly, Billy Murphy, Matt Furtado and John Hayes each scored once. Murphy and Hayes had three assists apiece and Mike Benson, Tapper, Bobby Salton, Furtado, Zimmerman, Connolly and Simonelli one each.

The Squirt B's also defeated Billerica, 8-4, and South Boston, 1-0, in non-league games.

Attention Elderly & Handicapped Persons

Granite Place Associates proudly announces that applications for elderly and handicapped housing at the Granite Place complex, 125 Granite Street, Quincy, will be available on Monday, December 4th and Tuesday, December 5th, 1978 between 9:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M. through the offices of O'Connell Management Co., Inc., 45 School Street, Quincy, Mass. 02169. These applications must be completed and returned by 4:00 P.M. Friday, December 8th, 1978.

Residents will be selected on a basis of need not on a "first-come-first-served" basis. This approach to tenant selection was chosen because of its fairness and its tendency to eliminate long waiting lines.

Rents for the selected residents will be 25% of their income as computed on their applications. The maximum income levels for one person is $10,100; for two people $11,500; and for three people $12,950 per year. If your income exceeds these limits you would not be eligible. The minimum age for residence is 62 [this requirement is waived if the applicant is handicapped].

Please channel all inquiries through Mr. Arthur Casey at the O'Connell Management Company, 773-6255.

Granite Place is an "Equal Housing Opportunity" residence.

North Winds Up With Shutout Win

North Quincy's young and undermanned soccer team finished its season last week with its third win, 2-0, over Weymouth North, after bowing to Brockton, one of the state's top teams, 4-0.

The split gave the Raiders a 3-10-3 record and Coach Paul Bregoli was pleased with the improvement and the consistent hard play of his team.

Against Brockton's powerhouse North again played with only two substitutes, putting it at a great disadvantage. The Raiders played gamely, giving up one goal each period.

"Brockton allowed only four goals all year and we were one of the three teams to score against them earlier in the year," Bregoli said. "We just missed scoring a couple of times and Dave Lapsley, Ron Holland, Dave Donovan, John Sullivan and Tom Reney played well for us."

North played one of its best games in the windup win over Weymouth North.

Pressing early, the Raiders controlled the middle of the field thanks to the fine play of Joey Flynn, Bill Harrow, Chris Sullivan and Lapsley. The defense of Reney, Greg Madden and Mark Will staved off several Weymouth threats. Tom Gerry came up with some fine corner kicks.

Harrow scored the first goal on a penalty kick and with 3:30 left in the game, Reney intercepted a clearing pass by Weymouth and crossed it to Gerry who deflected it past the goalie.

Goalies Arunas Klainas and Rick Forrest combined for the shutout.

Jim McGuire's Quincy team grabbed its only win of the season, a 1-0 squeaker over Weymouth South. Steve Priscella started his first game in goal and made many fine saves. Vin Lorenzano scored the winning goal.

McGuire praised defensemen John Cotter and Bob Palermo and Bill Joyce, who switched from forward to halfback.

● Executive League

Darcy's, Hofbrau Win, Washington, Al's Tie

Bill York and Jack Hurley scored two goals apiece to pace Darcy's Pub to an 8-2 win over Sundowner's Cafe Monday night in Executive Hockey League action at the Youth Arena.

Other goals for Darcy's were scored by Peter Lynch, Bob O'Connell, Jack Morris and Kevin Glynn. Dennis O'Connell and Bob Donovan had three assists apiece, Lynch two and Morris, Alan Gullickson, Hurley and Don Fawcett one each. Dave Hickey scored both Sundowner's goals with assists for Tom Noonan, Tony Quintiliani, Tom Roberts and Peter Bertrand.

Hofbrau defeated Sportlight Tavern, 5-3, on goals by Art Boyle, Joe Verlicco, Steve Marini, Jim Horner and Warren Mills. Marini had three assists, Horner two and Mills and Boyle one each. Sportlight goals were scored by Don Costa, Charlie Chambers and Ed Linehan with assists for Chambers, Ken Gardner, John McNeil and Al McKay.

Washington Tap and Al's Cafe played to a 5-5 tie. Jack Crowley, Wayne Gautheir, Bernie Toland, Bill Sweeney and Pete Laberge scored for Tap with two assists each for Sweeney, Bob Cavello and Toland and one apiece for Jack Powers and Gautheir. For Al's Bill Milano had two goals and Dick McCabe, Lee Staskawicz and Rick Golden one each. Golden, John Houton, Harry Crispo and McCabe had assists.

Earlier Darcy's and Al's had played to a 2-2 tie on Dennis O'Connell's third period goal.

Kevin Glynn, who assisted on O'Connell's goal, scored first for Darcy's and Dick McCabe and E. J. Breen scored for Al's. McCabe and Mike Haynes had assists.

Jack Crowley scored four goals and assisted on four others to lead Washington Tap to a 9-2 romp over Sportlight Tavern. Marty Tolson and John Emmott had two goals apiece and Bill Sweeney one. Charlie Duffy had three assists, Emmott, Tolson and Ed Grogan two each and Wayne Gauthier one. Ken Gardner and Charlie Chambers scored for Sportlight with assists for Rich Gibbs, Al McKay and John McNeil.

Hofbrau and Sundowner's Cafe played to a 3-3 tie. Sundowner's overcame a 3-1 deficit on goals by Ted Ahola and Tom Roberts. Ahola also had the first goal. Tom Malchow had two assists and Lee McNamara, Bob Carroll, Tony Quintiliani and Peter Bertrand one each.

Dave Towle, Joe Verlicco and Steve Marini had the Hofbrau goals with assists for Jim Horner, Joe Bonito, Towle and Warren Mills.

Bantam A's Ties Brockton On Craig's Last Second Goal

The Sons of Italy Bantam A team tied Brockton, 3-3, with Kevin Craig scoring the tying goal with one second to go in the game.

Craig also had another goal and Mike McGrath had the other. Kevin Duff had two assists and Paul Bamberry, Bobby Lynch and Tommy O'Connor one each. Danny Newcomb and Timmy O'Connell played well in goal.

The Bantam A's walloped Hingham, 12-2, with Rich Stevens scoring twice and John O'Connell, Bamberry, Tom Lester, Kevin Chase, Frank Reynolds, Bill Bradley, O'Connor, Mike McNeice, Bob Lynch and Craig once each. Bobby Ready and McNeice had three assists each, Reynolds two and Lester, Craig, Stevens and McGrath one apiece.

Earlier the team had blanked Walpole, 7-0, sparked by Tommy O'Connor's hat trick.

Frankie Reynolds had two goals and Kevin Craig and Mike McGrath one each. Kevin Duff had two assists and John O'Connell, Mike McNeice, Tommy Lester, Richie Stevens, Mark Sayers and Reynolds one each.

Earlier the Bantam A's had defeated Weymouth, 3-1, with Timmy O'Connell and Danny Newcomb shining in goal.

Kevin Craig, Bobby Lynch and Mike McNeice had the goals with assists for Mike McGrath, Tommy Lester and McNeice.

PeeWee B's Take Pair

The Adams Shore IGA Pee Wee B team defeated Weymouth, 3-1, in a South Shore Conference game.

John McGlame, Brian Chase and Jamie Seamans scored the goals and McGlame, Chase, Rich Horrigan, and Sean Barry had assists.

In a non-league game the Pee Wee B's nipped Billerica, 2-1, on goals by McGlame and Barry. Bobby Kane, John Horrigan, Seamans and David Cooke had assists.

Sacred Heart Edges Blades, 6-5

The Sacred Heart hockey team of North Quincy defeated the Quincy Blades, 6-5, last Thursday night at the Rockland Arena.

The first goal was scored in the opening period by Craig Mather of Sacred Heart, followed by a goal by Bill Joyce with assists for Paul Hurley and Steve Ryan. Mather also scored unassisted to make it 3-0 after a period.

The Blades came back to tie the score at 3-3 in the second period.

In the final session Hurley scored two unassisted goals and, after the Blades rebounded again to tie it at 5-all, Bob David scored the winning goal for Sacred Heart.

McAleney Shines As Columbia Goalie

John McAleney of Wollaston has been outstanding in goal for the Columbia University varsity soccer team which has a 10-1-1 record, 4-0-1 in the Ivy League.

Mc Aleney has made many spectacular saves this fall in sparking the Lions to their impressive record.

A GREAT TAX SHELTER

Investing in real estate is one of the great tax shelters available to persons, especially in high tax brackets. What is a tax shelter? Basically, it's an investment that allows you to keep some money that you've earned, rather than give it to Uncle Sam in the form of income taxes.

Real Estate investors of income property are allowed a depreciation allowance which has the same affect on your income tax as exemptions for your dependents. It comes right off the top. For example, a brick office building is "expected" to last 40 years. If you bought it for $100,000, you could deduct $2,500 per year. By using "accelerated depreciation", you can deduct more during the early years and less in the later years.

Also, there are many other tax deductions, such as interest on the mortgage, and taxes which can be very sizable. Above all, remember that these come off the gross income, and your tax rate is based on what's left after deductions. The lower the net, the lower the rate.

Whether buying or selling, turn to Realty World - President Real Estate for all your real estate needs.

Harold: Leaving Council To Avoid Conflict

long time. It's based on their expertise and their commitment and the respect of their colleagues. We're going to have seven new senators. In the past session, I think there were 10 new senators. There has been quite a turnover. There's going to be a whole new change now with a new Senate President. I would suspect that having worked with a majority of the senators already through my involvement with the Democratic party it's not going to take them long to figure out who I am and where I'm coming from. It's just a matter of putting in the time toward becoming a respected member in a certain field. There are only 40 senators. There are 160 in the House. The Senate is a much smaller group and it is easier for one or two people to become very effective in a short period of time.

SUN - The City Council is only a parttime job. Why are you leaving it in January?

HAROLD - It's not so much the time factor as it is the potential for conflict of interest that can develop when you have a sworn responsibility to represent the city of Quincy. If you go into the State House you have another sworn responsibility to represent a district. I'm giving up the Council position so that I won't be in that potential. Also I don't believe anyone should hold two elected positions, either fulltime or parttime. It's concentrating too much power in one person and cutting down the input from other people.

SUN - As a member of the State Legislature, would you feel comfortable operating with a cap on your spending?

HAROLD - I wouldn't feel comfortable with a cap on spending in the State Senate or in the City Council but it has reached the point where there has to be a cap put on, otherwise every budget gets nickel and dimed to the point where in the city of Quincy we're up to $94 million. Putting a cap on it will force the governments to figure out what their priorities are. Right now every time you try to cut back one service the people involved are all up in arms. It's pretty hard to make even a minor cut. What has to be done is put a cap on spending in general and force the resetting of priorities.

SUN - How do you feel about the Conway-Carlson Cap?

HAROLD - I don't know how realistic it is.

SUN - As a senator, you're instructed to vote for it.

HAROLD - It does instruct the state senator from the district but it's a non-binding referendum question. I think it's just a direction that the cap should not be just on property taxes but on all taxes. The formula they worked out, I don't know. But there has to be a cap on all types of taxes. What they usually do is they'll cut one tax and then sneak to money in through another tax. I think people want a genuine tax cut all across the board. I think the proposition made sense that would limit the burden of the property tax to no more than 2 1/2 per cent of valuation. The other taxes, I don't know what formula we'd use. But we have to have a formula to cut the amount of money the state is going to levy and, after it's cut, have the departments and the cities and towns set their own priorities.

SUN - Do you have any political ambition beyond state senator?

HAROLD - I'm very satisfied to be state senator right now. It's not a job that someone takes just for the title. I expect to be a state senator for quite a while. I don't think it's good for anyone to be in an elected office for too long. But I would expect to be an effective part of the senate which would probably mean two or three terms anyway.

Physical Program For Asthmatic Children At YMCA

A physical conditioning program for children with asthma will begin its fourth year at the YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, at 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 15, under the sponsorship of the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association.

The 18-week program is designed to aid youngsters from six to 13 years old. It was developed by the lung association through a committee which included two allergists, physical therapists, a school nurse, physical educators, parents and association staff members.

Each group is limited to 20 participants in order to give individual attention to the young people, according to Mrs. Frances H. Pitts, executive director of the lung association.

A trained physical education director and a chest therapist will guide each session to help the young people discover that they can participate in many activities they once thought were impossible because of asthma.

In addition to the regular weekly session, monthly meetings are held for parents to assist them in understanding the affects of asthma and how to help their child.

The lung association provides the service and medical guidance at no charge. The 'Y' makes a nominal registration fee for each young person, for use of the facilities which includes swimming.

Further information on registration may be obtained by calling Mrs. Pitts at 326-4081 or 668-6729.

Services For Retarded Adults Outlined At SSARC Meeting

The range of group residential services provided retarded adults was described to members of the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens (SSARC) at a recent meeting hosted by the South Shore Rehabilitation Center, 3 Arlington St., North Quincy.

Sandra Del Porto, coordinator of residential services for the center, presented an overview of the services and programs available to those living in community residences under the sponsorship of the center.

She spoke about the different types of residential levels maintained and how residents move from one level to another in their living arrangements as they progress in their capabilities.

She described the supervision maintained, the growth in independence, the basic group training in various phases of community existence, how medical and social needs are met and other factors pertinent to group living as a unit of co-existence in the community.

Highlight of the evening was a visit to several community residences in the area where SSARC members had an opportunity to see the homelike environment and chat with residents, the house managers and the house parents.

Christmas Lighting To Be Turned On Friday

The opening ceremony of Quincy's Christmas Festival will be "The Turning on of The Lights" at 7:30 p.m., Friday, at McIntyre Mall.

Mayor Arthur Tobin will officially push the button for the holiday illumination. Other city officials have been invited to join in the festivities.

Prior to the lighting ceremony Santa Claus will arrive aboard a fire engine, accompanied by costumed characters, such as Mickey and Minnie Mouse and others so familiar to children.

Ken Lodge's Sing-A-Long Band will lead the crowd in the singing of Christmas carols and members of the committee will distribute candy canes to the youngsters.

Remo DiNicola is chairman of the lighting program ceremony.

Seeks Ordinance Change

Tobin Asks $200 Fine For Disrupting Public Building Activities

Mayor Tobin is asking for an ordinance change that will impose a $200 fine on anyone who disrupts activities in a public building.

The move is aimed at curtailing the rowdyism that has forced the Adams Shore branch library to close at 6 p.m. every night instead of 9 p.m., the old closing hour.

"I can't just sit here as chief executive and allow these things to go on," he said. "I'm not going to allow any group of hoodlums to disrupt any public building in this city."

The Mayor said that several groups from the Adams Shore neighborhood have contacted him to tell him they were "frightened to act on their own for fear of retaliation."

"We've got to give the police department the teeth so they can operate," he said. "The existing ordinance is a non-arrestable offense. It's outdated."

"If they get hit with a $200 fine a couple of times they won't think it's so funny to cause a disruption.

Hancock St. Parking Banned During Christmas Parade

Parking will be prohibited Sunday on Hancock St. from Clay St., Wollaston, to Elm St. because of the Christmas Parade.

The police department is also requesting motorists to refrain from parking on Chestnut St. from Maple St. to the McGrath Hwy.; from Elm St., at Hancock St. to Mechanic St., and from there to Revere Rd.

Parking for parade spectators will be available at the MBTA parking lot on Upland Rd.; Della Chiesa Parking area on Granite St.; Ross Parking Garage and the Ross Parking area in the Parkingway.

Police said additional parking will be available on Coddington St.; Quincy Junior College; Grossman's parking area on Faxon Ave.; Capitol Market and Supreme Market parking lots in Wollaston.

The Hancock Parking area will be closed to all traffic from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. This area is to be used for parking of parade buses.

Over 60 Floats, Marching Bands

300,000 Expected At Christmas Parade Sunday

Quincy's Christmas Festival Parade Sunday is expected to be the most spectacular in the more than a quarter century history of the event which annually draws 300,000 people to the City of Presidents.

More than 60 marching bands and colorful floats will be in the parade.

The marchers will step off from Veterans Memorial Stadium, Hancock St., at Southern Artery, at 12:30 p.m. and proceed through the downtown area to Elm St. and then to Mechanics St. and into the Hancock Parking area.

More than a score of high school marching bands will be present to compete for the New England and state High School Marching Band Championship. Among the bands will be the unit from Gloucester High School, which competed last year and won a trip to Dallas, Texas, where on New Year's Day, 1979, it will represent New England in the Cotton Bowl Parade.

The parade, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, will climax a week-end of festivities starting with the "Turning on of the Lights" ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Friday, in McIntyre Mall, Quincy Sq.

Remo DiNicola is chairman of the Friday Christmas lighting event, assisted by Richard Koch. Santa Claus will arrive aboard a fire engine accompanied by costumed characters from Disneyland and other figures familiar to youngsters.

Santa Claus will officially arrive in Quincy—via helicopter. He will land on the roof of Paperama, in the Parkingway, and will make his way down to the street over Quincy's new $200,000 aerial ladder. He will be escorted to Christmas City on Hancock St. where he will be on hand to listen to the holiday thoughts of the youngsters. Joseph Angelo of Remick's is in charge of the jovial gentleman's arrival.

Theme of this year's parade is "Happiness Is". Entrants are to

King, Tiant In Parade

Governor-elect Edward J. King will make his first official public appearance since election day on Sunday when he marches at the head of the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade as guest of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin.

Gov.-elect King has told Mayor Tobin he wants to take part to extend his thanks to all the people of the South Shore who were so kind to him during his recent successful campaign.

Luis Tiant, the former Red Sox pitcher and favorite for many years, will ride in the Christmas parade with his family.

The invitation was issued by the committee to give Tiant's many fans a chance to say thanks once more before he leaves to join the New York Yankees.

Santa To Arrive Saturday Via Helicopter

Santa Claus will make his official appearance in Quincy at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, arriving via helicopter.

After circling the city, Santa will land on the roof of Paperama in the Parkingway. For safety reasons all spectators will be banned from the roof.

The honored guest will make his way to the street over the fire department's new 100-foot aerial ladder to greet his many friends. Costume characters will be there, too, and will distribute candy canes to the children.

Mayor Arthur Tobin and city officials will officially turn on the lighting. Ken Lodge's Sing-a-Long Band will lead the crowd in the singing of Christmas carols and there will be candy canes for the youngsters.

On Saturday, at 11:30 a.m. Santa will then be driven along School St. to Hancock St., and downtown to Christmas City, formerly Milton's on Hancock St. where he will make his headquarters until Christmas Eve. Joseph Angelo is in charge of the arrival arrangements.

Marines To Collect Toys For Tots At Parade

A detachment of U.S. Marine Reservists will be in the annual Christmas Parade Sunday seeking donations of used and new toys for needy children.

The Marines annually put on a "Toys for Tots" program across the country and the Quincy parade offers them an opportunity to collect gifts which they will repair and distribute at Christmas time.

The Marines will march along at the edges of the parade so that people can pass them the toys, dolls and other items, which they will place in a vehicle.

"come see" what quincy cooperative bank is giving for christmas club gifts this year. while supplies last, each new christmas club account opened will receive a very special gift. in fact, it's so special that we're not even going to tell you what it is - you have to "come see".

Delta Kappa Gamma Society Opens With Panel Discussion

The NU Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society opened its season recently with a dessert meeting at the Lincoln-Hancock School.

A panel discussion, "Changing Roles of Women", was presented with Ruth Waring as moderator. Participants on the panel were Alicia Coletti, director of Women's Center, Quincy Junior College; Joan Picard, member of Quincy School Committee; Mable Pratt, retired Quincy teacher in the business world.

Hostesses were Fatima Allie, Mary Bozoian, Maria Donovan, Frances Mahoney and Diane Willard.

Presiding at the business meeting was Kathleen E. Kelly, president. Other officers are, Jean L. Gormley, first vice president, Mary A. Bozcian, second vice president, Patricia Drews, recording secretary. Florabel L. Stevens, corresponding secretary, Edythe MacBeth, treasurer, Mildred Richards, parliamentarian.

The NU Chapter recently was also in charge of planning a meeting of Area I Chapters [Norfolk County] at the King Philip in Wrentham. A program, "The Other Basics in Education-Focus on the Arts", was presented.

"What could Be More Basic than Music?" was discussed by Mrs. Deanna Kidd, Berkley College of Music Teacher and Supervisor of Student Teachers.

Don Brigham, supervisor of Visual Arts in the Attleboro Schools discussed "Art is Basic Education".

"Fostering Creativity, a Basic Need", was the topic of Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, director of Pupil Personnel Services, Quincy Public School.

Area Chapters participating and their presidents:

Alpha Beta, Joyce Cummings; Alpha Zeta, Maeve Sullivan; Alpha Theta, Shirley Reeves; Alpha Kappa, Eileen Malloy; Theta, Cynthia Lyeth; Kappa, Donna Brown; Rho, Sister Mary Madelon, and NU, Kathleen E. Kelly-chairperson.

11 Woodward Students In Community Service Program

Eleven Woodward School for Girls students are participating in the school's Community Service Program which requires service to others on a volunteer basis for at least two semesters during grades 10 - 12 before graduation.

Volunteering at the South Area Jewish Community Center Nursery are Lisa Costa, Susan Conser, Margaret MacIsaac, Judi King, Sandra Dwyer, Jean Curtis and Janet Houlihan.

Joan Gosselin and Heather Sanger are offering their time at the Crestview Nursing Home. Colleen Graul is tutoring at the South Boston Boy's Club and Sandra Williams served as a State House Tour guide.

Because their academic schedules do not permit outside school service, Diane Egan and Ann Devin are working at the school's Katherine Bacon library, as is Colleen Graul, in addition to tutoring.

Julianne Botte is in charge of the sale of milk at lunch, with Janine MacKinnon and Jean Curtis assisting her. Jancie Barbour is a laboratory assistant.

Project WAGE Booklet

Guide For Working Women With Child Care Problems Now Available

The Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College, have completed a guide for working women who face the problem of child care.

The guide is one of three booklets prepared by Project WAGE [Women Are Good Employees], a CETA funded program designed to address the employment needs of South Shore women. Jean Keough compiled the guide.

Day care centers in 11 South Shore communities including Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth are listed. Information concerning the hours of operation, the months of operation, the ages admitted, number of teachers, number of aides, and enrollment in 1978 is provided. In addition the booklet tells whether transportation is provided and if special needs children are admitted. Over 60 facilities on the South Shore are listed including - privately owned and church operated nursery schools, kindergartens and day care centers.

Mrs. Keough who is a family day care provider notes that family day care is an alternate form of day care. This is the full or part-time care of infants, toddlers, pre-schoolers, and after-school children in a private home by a licensed family day care provider. In her booklet she notes that this is a particularly appropriate service for infants and toddlers who need extra attention in a home setting. To assist people find family day care providers, a listing of providers in each of the 11 communities included in the booklet is provided with addresses and telephone numbers.

MEMBERS OF PROJECT WAGE [Women are Good Employees] present copies of three booklets to Mayor Arthur Tobin. The booklets are guides to job possibilities and child care, and were part of a project by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College. From left are, Jean Keough, author of the booklets; Alicia Coletti, director of Women's Center at Quincy Junior College; Kevin Coletti, illustrator of child's book; Mayor Tobin; and Marie Hurley, member of Mayor's Commission on Status of Women. [Quincy Sun Photo by Dick Clark]

Mrs. Keough stressed the booklet is not only for parents seeking day care facilities, but also for women seeking employment in day care. "The family day care provider is an excellent opportunity for a woman to earn additional income while caring for her children at home." Helpful information on how to become a family day care provider is also included in the booklet.

Other information in the booklet includes a listing of camps for children in the summer time and a description of what to look for when seeking day care. The author points out the necessity to investigate several choices and invest a little extra time and energy into the effort to obtain quality day care since "your child is a very special person."

Mrs. Keough, who was the staff member of WAGE specializing in child care is also a mother of five children. Her son, Kevin, age 7, made a special contribution to the booklet by providing the artwork.

The booklet is one of three related to employment published by WAGE. The other two booklets are - A Woman's Guide to Equal Employment and A South Shore Woman's Guide to Low Cost Vocational Opportunities. All three are available from the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College [479-8445], or at the public libraries in the 11 South Shore communities.

Real Estate Tax Bills Going Out Next Week

Real property tax bills will be mailed to anxious Quincy taxpayers next week.

And they'll have 30 days from the date of postage in which to pay them.

That's a solemn group promise from Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, City Auditor Charles L. Shea and City Treasurer Robert Foy.

Some taxpayers have expressed concern to the Quincy Sun and to City Hall because they have not yet received the tax bills which usually arrive in early November.

Mayor Tobin explained the delay like this:

"This is the first year in the history of the city that we have been taking the bills off manual operation and putting them on computers.

"Somewhere along the line, either this year or next year or the year after that, it had to be done. It's a one-shot deal. Next year we should be ahead of schedule in mailing."

Tobin said the mailing of real property tax bills are about 10 days behind schedule but that personal property tax bills went out 60 days ahead of schedule.

"The problem," he said, "is getting all the information on key punch cards. It's causing the delay."

Taxpayers still have the customary 30 days from the mailing date in which to pay the bill, said Tobin, and Shea and Foy echoed the explanation.

Shea said the delay had nothing to do with the fact that the State Department of Accounts has not yet placed its final stamp of approval on the Quincy tax rate.

"It's just a technicality," he said. "The tax rate is set as it is.

"We've got to make some adjustments in the revenue sharing on the recap sheet. They are not questioning the amount. It's the method of application.

"They are satisfied with the figures. It's where we put them on the recap sheet that's got them puzzled."

BANK WITH US

This is an ad about friendly & courteous HANCOCK BANK, the largest independent commercial bank in Norfolk County. CRIB DEATH

Tommy, a healthy 3-month-old baby, was put into his crib at nap time. An hour later when his mother went in to check on him, he was dead - a victim of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome [also called crib death].

This silent killer, which claims between 8,000 and 10,000 apparently healthy babies each year, is the number one cause of infant deaths after the first week of life.

Recent evidence suggests that prolonged periods of sleep apnea [spells of not breathing for more than 30 seconds] may be a cause of crib death. Researchers have found that the lungs of some crib death victims show signs of a chronic lack of oxygen which could be attributed to sleep apnea. And about half the infants studied had abnormalities in the area of the brain that regulates breathing.

Research has shown that crib death is more likely to occur in infants who are between the ages of 2 and 4 months; were born prematurely or weighed very little at birth; have had one or more previous episodes of sleep apnea and show signs of an upper respiratory infection.

L'Eco Club Presents $1,000 To Library For New Books

L'Eco Club, for many years sponsors of cultural events in Quincy, last week presented Thomas Crane Public Library with a check for $1,000 for the purchase of new books.

Dr. Conrad Nobili, club president, presented the check to L. Paul Marini, chairman of the library trustees, and Warren E. Watson, library director.

Some 25 members of the club, among them charter members of the group, were present.

Marini, a charter member, said the club has been inactive for nearly a decade. Founded in the late '20s, L'Eco sponsored concerts, lectures and scholarships for a number of years.

According to Marini the donation to the library came from the club's funds which have been unused for some years. He expressed hope the club will be revived and that Quincy residents will contribute funds to reactivate the group.

J.F.K. And The Missing Secret Servicemen

It was 15 years ago today that the shots were fired in Dallas.

And for those 15 years--and three before that--something has bothered me. It just won't go away.

Whenever I read an anniversary story about the assassination of John F. Kennedy that Nov. 22, 1963, my mind goes back to another date--Nov. 10, 1960.

That's when it first started to bother me as I stood there in the living room of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy's house in the Kennedy compound at Hyannis Port waiting for the President-elect to appear.

Where were the Secret Servicemen I wondered. I wasn't even supposed to be there. But no one really seemed to care.

My name could have been Lee Harvey Oswald or someone like that for all anyone knew.

I could have been a nutcake with a gun in my pocket. I could have been standing there waiting for Kennedy--waiting with a gun in my pocket.

Word among the press was that 18 Secret Service agents had been assigned to protect the next President of the United States. But if they were around the house that night they were invisible. They sure weren't checking on anyone.

Earlier that day, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 35th President-to-be had held a press conference at the National Guard Armory in Hyannis which had served as press headquarters during the election.

The headlines kept changing all day:

"Hoover, [J. Edgar], Dulles To Stay."

"Ike Asks JFK Meet Him Soon On Takeover."

"Kennedy Says Election Repudiates No One."

Hyannis and Hyannis Port had become international datelines.

The day before Richard Nixon had finally conceded victory after a long night of see-saw election returns.

The election sweatout was over and now the whole Kennedy clan had gathered at the armory to hear the President-elect make a short victory statement. Standing proudly at his side was his 31-year-old wife, Jacqueline, who was expecting their second child in a few weeks.

On the rostrum were his parents, Joseph and Rose Kennedy, his brother, Bobby with Ethel, Ted, sisters Eunice Shriver, Jean Smith, Pat Lawford and somewhat in the background, brother-in-law Peter Lawford.

All listened intently to what was a preview of the theme of his inaugural address as he said:

"The election may have been a close one. But I think that there is a general agreement by all of our citizens that the supreme national effort will be needed in the years ahead to move this country safely through the 1960's."

Obviously emotionally moved and with tears in his eyes, he expressed thanks to "all those who worked so long and so hard in this campaign."

He made quite an impression on me. And I was replaying that scene in my mind as I stood there in Joseph Kennedy's living room that Nov. 10th evening waiting for him. Waiting with me were maybe 50 other newsmen.

But at least three of us were not supposed to be there. We were party crashers. The invitation had been extended to the press that had traveled with Kennedy throughout the campaign. No one mentioned the local press.

I was covering the election for The Boston Traveler, Dave Farrell, now with the Boston Globe, was for the Boston Herald and the late Frank Kelly of Wollaston was taking photos for both papers.

The three of us had decided this was a once-in-a-life-time opportunity and we weren't going to miss it.

The bus to take the invited press to the Kennedy compound was parked outside the Hyannis armory. The three of us had proper press credentials but only to get us into the armory.

We walked down the street after eating and stepped aboard the bus. No one questioned us. When everyone was aboard, the bus left for the compound in Hyannis Port.

We entered the compound. No one asked for credentials. We entered Joseph Kennedy's house. No one checked us.

Anyone could have gotten aboard that bus and rode into the compound that night.

None of the Kennedys were there when we arrived so we started browsing around the living room. On the wall were framed letters written by Franklin D. Roosevelt to Amabassador Kennedy.

On the fireplace mantle was a model of the USS Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., the destroyer named after the son whose planned political career went down in a World War II plane crash.

The dining room connected with the living room. On the dining room table was a punch bowl and some cups. Someone said to help ourselves. So we did.

Everyone headed back into the living room. I didn't care too much for the punch and was returning my cup to the dining room table when a screen door leading into the room swung open and in stepped John F. Kennedy.

He walked over to me and we shook hands. "Congratulations, Mr. President," I said. It wasn't the correct protocol. He was still officially Senator Kennedy. But he seemed to enjoy being called "Mr. President" and smiled.

We were alone in the room for just a few moments. The others spotted him and we were soon surrounded.

Kennedy was smiling but he looked tired. His eyes were red from the strain of the campaign and the final agonizing hours when the election could have gone either way.

One reporter asked him what he thought made the final difference in the election.

"He [Nixon] stayed around too long in the south," Kennedy replied. [Stayed wasn't the exact word he used].

Soon other members of the Kennedy family joined us: Jacqueline, beautiful and pregnant with John John, Rose Kennedy looking as trim as the Kennedy sisters. Bobby Kennedy and Ted were there. And Sargent Shriver, too. But Joseph Kennedy was nowhere to be seen.

Kennedy revealed he was flying to Palm Springs, Fla., the next morning. He said he would relax a little and "maybe play a little golf."

"But don't mention the golf," he laughed. He didn't want the country to think it was getting another golfer for President.

I got to chatting with Rose Kennedy and we were soon discussing Quincy and Presidents John and John Quincy Adams. She wanted to know all about them and Abigail, too. I told her all I knew and said when I got back home I would have late Quincy City Historian William Edwards send more information to her. [He did].

Someone then produced a number of Christmas wrapped bottles of bourbon, scotch and rye from under the counter in the kitchen.

And then came a sight you could never forget. There was the President-elect of the United States pouring drinks and carrying ice cubes for the press.

It was a night to cherish and fondly remember.

The following morning the Kennedy party flew out of Barnstable airport in Hyannis aboard the private plane Caroline.

I remember seeing Joseph Kennedy there. And, Caroline, not then quite three and as cute as Shirley Temple.

I got one more chance to talk with Kennedy before the plane took off.

Pierre Salinger and Kenneth O'Donnell were standing behind us as we talked.

"Good luck, Mr. President," I said to him again in farewell as we shook hands. "Thank you," he said breaking into a wide grin getting a kick out of me calling him "Mr. President" for the second time.

After the plane was airborne I kiddingly told Farrell and Kelly that someday I would write the story of how we crashed the Kennedy compound. I would wait until he was out of office, I said, because the party that night was "off the record".

I figured it wouldn't be for at least eight years before I got around to writing the story. I thought for sure Kennedy would be re-elected. And, of course, he would be a world famed figure for many years to come, sought after for his comments and opinions.

It pains me on each anniversary of his tragic death in Dallas because on each anniversary I recall telling Farrell and Kelly.

"And do you know what I'm going to write about? I'm going to write how we got by the Secret Service that night. I'm going to write how I could have assassinated John Fitzgerald Kennedy over the punch bowl in the dining room of his father's house."

But who could have foreseen back then as I said those words what was to happen three years later?

I can't help wondering about the Secret Servicemen that night in Hyannis Port. And I can't help wondering about them that morning three years later in Dallas.

It has bothered me since. It always will.

John McEvoy Named To Conservation Commission

John J. McEvoy, a sanitary engineer who lives at 23 Algonquin St., Merrymount, has been named to the Quincy Conservation Commission.

The appointment of McEvoy, who is an associate in the Environmental Engineering firm of Camp Dressen and KeKee, Inc., of Revere, was announced by Mayor Tobin.

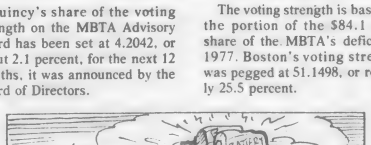
McEvoy's affiliations include the National Society of Professional Engineers, the Consulting Engineers Council, and the American Society of Plumbing Engineers Research Foundation, Inc., of which he is a director.

He and his wife, Helene, have three children.

QJC To Offer Course In Modern China History

Quincy Junior College's Division of Continuing Education will offer a new course, History of Modern China, Tuesdays from 6:30 to 9:10 p.m., during the spring semester which begins Jan. 22.

The three credit course will trace the western influence in China and the Chinese response to it from the 1840's through the rise to power of the Chinese Communist Party.



Lawrence Rines, of the college's history and government department, will teach the course. Co-author of "A History of Shipbuilding at Fore River", he is a member of the National Historical Society.

Would Eliminate 81 Jobs

Toland Says Proposed School Spending Cap Would Mean Massive Layoffs

Patricia Toland, vice chairwoman of the School Committee, says the proposed school spending cap now before the City Council could not be achieved without massive layoffs or cuts in utilities, maintenance or learning materials.

Mrs. Toland issued the statement in response to one made last week by City Councillors Joanne Condon and Stephen J. McGrath, sponsors of a resolve that would enable the Council to hold the school budget no higher than the previous year.

Mrs. Toland said that, under the Condon-McGrath proposal, the $1.6 million increase in the school budget for 1978-79 would have had to be made up in three ways and "the other option would virtually bring the school system to a standstill."

The school system, she said, would have had to eliminate 81 positions from the professional staff, or trim the non-professional staff by one-third, or cut one-third from the budget for instructional materials, utilities and repairs and maintenance to the buildings.

Mrs. Toland also maintained that Mrs. Condon and McGrath erred when they said the cost per pupil in Quincy schools is $2,457 a year. The actual official figure, she said, is about $1,800.

Mrs. Toland's statement follows:

"The current newspaper discussion regarding the school budget illustrates most clearly the importance of an elected body whose sole concern and attention is directed toward educating children and defining the costs of that education within the fiscal context of the community.

"Councillor Condon's statement of a few days ago was carried in the local press and contained several errors and misinterpretations of information, namely, enrollment statistics for Kindergarten through Grade 12 as well as the school system's gross budget.

"Councillors Condon and McGrath have offered a resolution aimed at limiting spending by the school system to no more than its current budget, adding, however, that salary freezes or lay offs to accomplish this are not necessary. They offer as rationale for this a declining enrollment. There is no doubt that enrollment has been going down for the past few years and will continue to do so into the early 1980's. However, a better understanding of finances and budgets is all that is necessary for one to realize that the enrollment decline is not significant enough to offset budget increases in such areas as salaries, utilities, and the general overall rise in the cost of living.

"First off, 82 per cent of the school system's budget is committed to those people employed by the school system. Municipal employees are protected by a state collective bargaining law which mandates that the committee negotiate with its employees in matters of salary. As a result of the collective bargaining process, the 1978-79 school budget went up 6.4 per cent which translates into a $1.6 million increase. Therefore, in order to hold the budget at its present figure, the School Committee would have to find the $1.6 million from within its existing budget.

"There are three ways that this might be accomplished. However, although it was stated that neither salary freezes nor layoffs were intended by the Council resolve, those options have to be examined because the other option would virtually bring the school system to a standstill.

"If the $1.6 million is to be found from within salaries paid to professional staff members, then what the School Committee would have to do is to make an additional 10 percent cut in necessary positions among the professional staff. In fact, the School Committee has already eliminated 57 classroom teaching positions in Grades kindergarten through 9 in the last few years. The reason for the elimination of the positions in Grades Kindergarten through 9 is obvious and simple for that is where the decline in enrollment has come. In order to realize an additional $1.6 million saving, 81 more positions would need to be eliminated from among the ranks of teachers, principals, assistant principals, special subject and special need teachers, school librarians, guidance counselors, instructors at Quincy Junior College and management personnel.

"If the School Committee decided to find the $1.6 million by not making further reductions in the professional staff but by trying to turn its attention to the non-professional or support staff, then the School Committee would have to cut all these civil service positions by one-third, that is, one out of three people would have to be laid off. This action would call for the elimination of 43 teacher aides, 10 maintenance, 44 clerical and secretarial staff, 37 custodians and 90 school lunch matrons.

"If the School Committee were to attempt to find the $1.6 million without cutting into staff positions then the only other place it could look is into its expense budget which amounts to approximately $4.5 million or 16 percent of the whole budget. In order to accomplish this, each of the following would have to be cut by one-third:

- "Money available for the purchase of instructional materials.
- "The cost of utilities such as oil and electricity.
- "Needed repairs and maintenance to school buildings.

"For example, utilities cost the school system approximately $1.1 million per year. In order to act on the Councillors' suggestion, the School Committee would have to shut off payment of such bills when the figure came to about $800,000. It would have to do likewise in the area of instructional materials and plant maintenance costs. If this approach were followed, the amount of money available for the purchase of learning materials would be approximately the same as that expended in 1971. It would place the utility budget at a figure expended in 1974, while in the maintenance area it would return it to the amount spent in 1973. No one needs to be convinced that the cost of living continues to rise; in fact it has increased 40 percent since 1974, and such things as books, utilities, and maintenance costs are far in excess of what they were during the first few years of this decade.

"In addition, taking a one-third cut in the area of instructional materials, utilities and maintenance costs would be complicated by the fact that the School Committee would have to all but eliminate its Special

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Things Looked Bleak

"We've got a city that is dying right in our hands," Quincy Planning Director James E. Lee told the first open meeting of the Quincy Tomorrow Committee at the YMCA.

He pointed out that employment at the Fore River Shipyard would probably be under 2,000 by spring, retail sales were down and the whole area lacked a mass transportation system.

Lee was elected temporary executive secretary by the 45 people who attended the Quincy Tomorrow Committee meeting.

KILROY WAS THERE

James J. Kilroy, 60, of Halifax, who was said to have originated the slogan "Kilroy Was Here" at the Fore River Shipyard during World War II, died at Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston.

Kilroy, an inspector at the Yard, said he used to chalk the phrase on jobs to show the shipyard workers that he had been around to inspect their work.

After the war, he established his claim to the satisfaction of the American Transit Association, which awarded him a 22-ton trolley car used by his nine children as a playhouse.

THE SALVATION ARMY

4 Patrolmen With 125 Years Total Service Promoted To Sergeants

Four patrolmen with a total of 125 years service on the Quincy Police Department among them have been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

They are Joseph W. Nichol, Hubert J. MacLean, Daniel J. Mahoney and James J. Malloy Jr.

Nichol joined the reserve in 1942 and became a permanent member of the force in 1946.

He has long been a familiar figure on the Quincy Square beat and was assigned to City Hall duty in June, 1974.

His son, Gerard Nichol, is also a member of the Quincy Police Department.

MacLean entered the department as a military substitute in 1944 and became permanent in 1947.

He was cited four times in the early 1950s, once for rescue work during a tenement fire, again for his part in the capture of an escaper from the Dedham jail.

His fifth citation came two years ago for his investigative work in arresting several men who stabbed State Trooper David Ranieri in a fight.

Mahoney joined the force as a military substitute in 1944 and was appointed a permanent member in 1947.

He has three citations for arrests in a breaking and entering case in 1949, in the holdup of a Houghs Neck cab driver in 1952 and in the theft of a safe from a Brook Rd. office in 1950.

Malloy was appointed to the force while he was in the service in 1944 and made the permanent list in 1947.

He has been cited three times for his role in the arrests of holdup men, the last time pursuing a man who robbed Dowd's Liquor Store and catching him aboard a bus.

Public Schools Close Wednesday At Noon

The Quincy public schools close at noon on Wednesday, for the Thanksgiving holiday.

It is a half day for students and staff.

Schools reopen Monday, Nov. 27.

A change in the Quincy public schools telephone system to the new dimension 2000 service necessitates that the school system switchboard (471-0100) be closed on Wednesday at noon.

The dimension 2000 with the 471-0100 number plus additional numbers is scheduled to open for service Monday, Nov. 27.

Additional information for the public as to the telephone system and the directory is being published.

Koch Club Seeking Dress-A-Doll Volunteers

The Koch Club of Quincy is seeking women and girl volunteers to assist in its Dress-A-Doll Program for Christmas.

Dozens of dolls have been donated for distribution to needy girls at Christmastime. However, many are in need of work, including cleaning, grooming and new clothes, in order to make the gift presentable.

Dolls for dressing are available from Mrs. Simone Koch at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, and include a variety of sizes and types for the volunteer to choose from.

Mrs. Ginny Derringer of South Weymouth has coordinated the South Shore area below Quincy for the past several years and persons wishing to assist in this area may contact her.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club, announced that hundreds of used toys, games, books and other items in good and useable condition have been received to date for repairs, cleaning and packaging. This is being accomplished under the direction of Frank E. Osborne.

Jewels & Gems

by Stan Manin

We live in a time conscious society. It makes sense then to have a watch that keeps good time and is handsome as well. The variety of watches available these days is quite astounding. Perhaps the first decision to make is whether to choose an electronic or a mechanical watch. Then decide whether you prefer a digital or number face, if a number face, the type of number markings. Then, choose the general shape and color of the face. Oh yes, date, time zone and chronograph functions will enter into your decision as well. We have fine selections, in many price ranges. Let us help.

Stop by soon and see our fine selection of watches at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. These include Bulova, and Seiko, as well as Timex, Omega, Tissot and Speidel. For a different, and much appreciated Christmas gift be sure to look over our estate pocket watches. Some of these are more than 75 years old, run beautifully, and will make your future family heirlooms. While you're in the area, we hope you'll stop by at our recently purchased shop, next door, "Something Special" and see our fine lines of greeting cards and gift items. Have a nice Thanksgiving Holiday!

At Faneuil Hall Hearing

Tobin, Kelly Lead Protest Against Dumping Sewerage Sludge At Squantum

Quincy residents turned out Monday at an Environmental Protection Agency hearing in Faneuil Hall, Boston, to protest the proposed dumping of sewerage sludge and fly ash on a 70-acre site at Squantum Point.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin led off the hearing with a denunciation of "the outright loss of 70 acres of prime oceanfront property in Quincy and the great negative impact on hundreds of acres of adjacent waterfront land which is potentially developable."

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly read into the hearing records the text of a resolution he introduced at Monday night's City Council meeting opposing "the use of any Quincy land or water sites for the location or expansion of waste water treatment facilities or for the disposal of sludge or incinerated ash."

The plan, which would cost $770 million, calls for MDC sewerage to be treated at Deer Island with the residue of dried sludge and incinerator ash barged across Boston Harbor to Squantum to be trucked away or used as landfill.

It would bring an end to the discharge of sewerage from the MDC plant at Nut Island, Houghs Neck.

Tobin told the hearing that a better solution to the problem of sewerage disposal for the Greater Boston area would be "thorough primary treatment of all sewage and the deep ocean outfall," that is, dumping it out to sea.

"I understand that among other positive features, the deep ocean outfall concept when properly constructed can add beneficial nutrients in the ocean," he said.

"In view of the great value of all oceanfront property in Massachusetts and especially in the greater Boston area I must strongly advise against the use of any proposed land area in Quincy and urge the use of the deep ocean outfall."

Tobin noted that he and Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] had co-sponsored legislation that prohibited the filling of 26 acres of Quincy Bay for expansion of the sewerage facility at Nut Island.

"We were successful in that," he said, "and I plan to file similar legislation in this case."

Kelly presented the EPA with a number of protesting letters from organizations throughout the city of Quincy.

"We have been on this for six years," he said, "and this is the first time that we have got a concentrated effort citywide opposed to it."

Kelly suggested to the EPA hearing that "it would be easier to transport the sludge inland to those areas that would be using that type of product," for fertilizer or compost.

"I don't think the EPA has really made an effort to study that possibility," he said.

"It could be less residential areas and they could find sites that are farther away from homes than the site in Squantum or the alternative site in Broad Meadows."

"We're in a very serious situation in Quincy."

Kelly listed those organizations opposing the sludge site in Squantum as:

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, Save Our Shores, the Quincy Citizens Association, the Houghs Neck Community Council, the Baker Beach Improvement Association.

The Adams Shore Civic Association, the Merrymount Civic Association, the Wollaston Park Association, the Squantum Community Association, the Atlantic Neighborhood Association, the Ward 2 Civic Association, the South West Quincy Association.

The Quincy, Squantum, Wollaston and Town River Yacht Clubs and Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Merrymount, which abuts the alternative site in Broad Meadows.

Lance Cpl. James Ziniti On Mediterranean Deployment

Marine Lance Cpl. James L. Ziniti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo T. Ziniti, of 113 Harvard St., North Quincy, is on an extended deployment in the Mediterranean.

He is assigned to Battalion Landing Team Two/Eight, homebased at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

His unit is the ground element of the 34th Marine Amphibious Unit, the force-in-readiness for the U.S. Sixth Fleet, on call to project combined air ground forces ashore.

During the cruise, the Battalion is scheduled to participate in training exercises with other Sixth Fleet units and those of allied nations. Port visits are scheduled in several coastal cities.

A 1972 graduate of North Quincy High School, Ziniti joined the Marine Corps in March, 1976.

Cerebral Palsy Christmas Bazaar Nov. 30

Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., and the Quincy Recreation Department are sponsoring an annual Christmas Bazaar Nov. 30, at 6 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock School, 300 Granite St., Quincy.

Handicapped young adults, mentally retarded or who have cerebral palsy, meet every Wednesday to create the ceramic pieces that will be for sale, along with baked goods.

Proceeds will be used to continue and improve the program.

Sabina Kavanagh, vice president of the South Shore organization said, "This bazaar gives the people of Quincy an opportunity to show their support for a program that dramatically illustrates how productive the handicapped can be given the opportunity."

Free bus transportation to and from the bazaar will be provided for residents of Oceanview Housing Project, Pagnano Towers, Clay St., and Martensen St.

be judged on adherance to the theme, originality, use of materials and color; and the overall appearance of the float. Movement and sound will be encouraged.

Richard Venna, coordinator of the floats division, and his co-chairmen, Frank McNally of Quincy Savings Bank, Mrs. Gloria Noble and Mrs. Frances Flynn, report enthusiastic cooperation from schools, civic and fraternal organizations.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy, will have a float with the theme "Happiness is a Good Book". The Meadow Street Association will have a circus theme.

Among the other entrants will be the Koch Club; Survival Crisis Line; an old-time trolley from the Quincy Park and Recreation Departments; an antique fire engine manned by the Houghs Neck Legion Post; a Boston Gas Company float with a "Star Wars" theme and floats entered by Rep. Michael Morrissey, City Councillor John J. Lydon and State Senator-elect Paul Harold.

High-stepping drum majorettes, drill teams and pom-pom girls will also be in the line of march with the competing bands.

Among the bands will be the "Marching Gaels" of Shelton High School in Shelton, Conn., under the direction of John H. McNamara. This band has traveled extensively since participating in the 1971 Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington.

Other bands will be coming from Chicopee, Gloucester, Norton, Walpole, Fairhaven, Rockland, Bridgewater, Holbrook, and several regional schools, including Hoosac Valley Regional in North Adams, and the Sheperd Hill Regional in the Dudley area.

John's Fruit Store Opens Gift Basket Boutique

John's Fruit Store, Water St., South Quincy, has expanded its facilities with the addition of a fruit and gift basket boutique.

The boutique, at 141 Water St., is around the corner, three doors down from the original fruit store, 59 Franklin St., which Rocco Fabiano has operated for the past 12 years. As the business developed Fabiano added a sub shop and has now included the boutique featuring ceramics, dry arrangements, and executive type gifts.

Mayor Arthur Tobin was present for the ribbon cutting ceremonies at the grand opening of the shop last week. Free gifts and refreshments were served to the throng of well-wishers attending the occasion.

Mrs. Carolyn Fabiano, wife of the owner, produced the ceramics, and Marie, a niece, makes the dry arrangements. Anthony Fabiano, the owner's 14-year-old son, is an enthusiastic assistant and looks forward to the day he will be managing the shop.

Fabiano's daughters, Annette, Anita, and Alicia also help out with the family business.

GENERAL VS. LIMITED PARTNERSHIP

Buying commercial real estate differs in one respect from buying a family home. The time and opportunity may be right to buy a piece of commercial property, but one buyer may not be able to raise enough money. In this case, additional money may be found by forming a partnership with one or more other persons who will share the financial load.

There are two kinds of partnership arrangements. The general partnership and the limited partnership. The basic difference is in the degree of financial responsibility. In a general partnership, all partners share in profits and losses. There is no limit of liability.

With the limited partnership, one partner must be a general partner, but the limited partner's liability is limited to the amount he has invested. Be sure your lawyer advises you in this area for your own financial and legal well-being.

Whether buying or selling, turn to Realty World - President Real Estate for all your real estate needs.

Youngsters See Tax Cut, Better Officials Election Day's Big Goals

By PETER BARNICLE

The recent election may have been the usual biennial voting chore for most people but for the youngsters at Snug Harbor School, Germantown, it was a living educational experience.

The voters of Ward 1, Precinct 2, cast their ballots at the school and this year pupils of the kindergarten and sixth grades were given the opportunity to watch the electoral process at first-hand.

Kindergarten teacher Mary Lou Glaman and Ronald Mariano, sixth grade teacher, brought their pupils to the polling place and explained just what was going on.

On the following day the teachers sought to discover what the children had retained.

Miss Glaman asked the children what they had seen and most answered "the people were picking a governor."

The kindergarten class was more hesitant when it came to naming the candidates. One youngster ventured "Jimmy Carter." He was quickly corrected by a more knowledgeable classmate who spoke up with the information "Jimmy Carter is president."

They all recalled that each grownup had to give name and address before receiving a ballot.

When asked what happened after the voter went into the polling booth the class recalled "they put the paper into a machine, the handle turned and the numbers changed."

The sixth graders wrote out their comments and were practically unanimous in the opinion that people were voting to elect officials who would lower taxes.

Michael Deane, 12, saw it this way:

"Voting in the United States is for people to try to keep laws the way they are. They try to keep taxes down. We also vote for the best people to run the country."

Donna Santarpio, 12, said: "Voting is important because if people didn't vote there wouldn't be a president or anything. You should vote so taxes can be cut and the world will be a better place. With the taxes you pay there can be more buildings made and new roads."

Amy Colby, 11, noted that voting "isn't that important in the United States, so it seems. In the Soviet Union everyone has got to vote or they go to jail. They haven't any choice either, we do."

Robert Price, 11, offered this comment: "I think people should vote so we can get better people for office and plus voting gives people freedom of choice. When I'm old enough I am going to vote for the person I think will do the job best and I wish some people would do that now."

Both Mariano and Miss Glaman think that the visit to the polling place showed the children just how elections work and gave them added experience.

PUPILS AT SNUG HARBOR School, Germantown, were given an on-the-spot lesson in the voting process on election day when they visited the polling place in the school. Miss Mary Lou Glaman, teacher, stands with kindergarten pupils Christopher Wilson, James Mansfield and Debra Conners, while Ronald Mariano, sixth grade teacher, uses pencil to explain the ballot. Looking on are Amy Colby and Christine Fidler [right].

Friends Group Important To Crane Library

Mrs. Nettie Sumner, president of the Friends of the Thomas Crane Library, spoke to members on the importance of the Friends group at a meeting held recently.

A citizen appointee to the Governor's Conference on Libraries, Mrs. Sumner stressed the necessity for all Friends to be aware of library needs and inform legislators, as well as involve their neighbors in supporting the library.

Other officers introduced at the meeting were Dr. Mary Baran, vice president; Miss Ann McLaughlin, secretary, and Mr. Maurice Zack, treasurer.

Publicity, projects, fund raising and library issues, and membership committees were formed.

Next scheduled event is a mid winter book sale for which donations are being sought.

Anyone interested in becoming a Friend of the Library should contact Ann McLaughlin at the library, 471-2400, or Mrs. Sumner at 471-8426.

Toland Says School Spending Cap Would Bring Massive Layoffs

Needs Program which provides special services for hundreds of learning disabled children and since this program is mandated by the state, there is no way that could be accomplished.

"According to the press, the Councillors stated that the School Committee is under the impression that the approximately $10 million it receives from the state each year in order to defray the cost of public education in our city schools, goes into the Excess and Deficiency Fund. The School Committee is well aware that is not the case. The fact is that each and every year when the School Committee explains its budget to the City Council, it makes clear to that body that over 75 percent of the state money coming into the city treasury as shown on the cherry sheet is due to the operation of the schools. Obviously, this money does not go into the E & D Fund but is used as a primary source of revenue to offset the city tax rate for the next year.

"The Councillors concluded their statement by saying that the school budget should go up and down in accordance with enrollment figures. It should be obvious to anyone that you cannot heat or light a school building on a per pupil cost. The cost for oil would be the same whether the school houses 500 students or 1,000 students.

"The Councillors reported that the per pupil cost for operating the Quincy Public Schools is $2,457. That is grossly incorrect. The latest official figure from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts places the per pupil cost at approximately $1,800. What the Councillors did was to take the gross budget figure of $33 million and divide it by the current kindergarten through Grade 12 and Vocational Technical post graduate enrollment of 13,552 and come up with the figure of $2,457. The Councillors do not understand that the $33 million figure includes not only the operation of Quincy Junior College but also the entire Adult and Community Education Program available through the Quincy public schools. If this total dollar figure was used then the total enrollment figure which would be 13,552 day students plus the 8,000 students in our other programs would have to be used, and would result in a cost in the vicinity of $1,600. However, I must point out that this approach is equally as faulty as that suggested by the Councillors. School costs unlike any other department of city government are reported annually to the State Department of Education and a state-wide equalization formula is used in order to arrive at comparable per pupil cost figures. Again, Quincy's per pupil cost figures for the last year of record was approximately $1,800.

"When school budgets are made a political issue, complex problems are made to appear very simple and simplistic solutions which are neither practical or even possible are presented under the guise of fiscal efficiency. The result is confusion.

"The cost of education in Quincy is not a hidden one. It appears on our tax bills specifically designated as the school portion. The School Committee's accountability to the voters is clear and direct as it should be. It begins at the ballot box - and that can be a most effective and dramatic indicator of the relationship of the current school committee to the community.

Germantown Program Schedule

Germantown Residents Protest Edict To Dispose Of Dogs, Cats

By PETER BARNICLE

Incensed by reports of a Quincy Health Department ruling that all cats and dogs in Germantown would have to be disposed of, 150 residents of the area held a public hearing at St. Boniface parish hall Monday to protest the planned action.

James St. Angelo, president of the Harborview Residents' Association, acted as chairman. He explained he was not representing the association, but was acting to help the tenants' group in the conduct of the meeting.

St. Angelo told the meeting that both the Quincy Housing Authority and the state Department of Community Affairs have disclaimed any part in the ruling. They contend that it is a Health Department matter and is the result of a survey made by a health inspector.

The inspector reported unsanitary conditions as a result of dogs running loose, scattering garbage and leaving feces on lawns and walks.

The association, St. Angelo said, has made up a list of 11 restrictions which would be added as a rider to leases and those who violated any of the restrictions would be subject to eviction.

He said the board of the residents' association is expected to take final action on the restrictions this week. He further said Dr. Samuel Solomon has been informed of the restrictions and told the board "they sound excellent."

Dr. Solomon sent to the meeting a letter saying that previous committments made it impossible for him to attend.

Target of the meeting was Francis Berlucchi, the city dog officer, who tried to defend his position several times. Irate residents charged him with neglecting his duty and failing to give the same service in Germantown as was given to other sections of the city. They charged many dogs came from ouside the area.

Even after he had left the hall, speakers continued to protest alleged action he had failed to take.

Mrs. Joan Timmons of 72 Captain's Rd., one of the organizers of the meeting, said the dog officer had told her a complaint had to be filed before he could pick up a dog creating a nuisance. She said that in the time it took to get the complaint the dog would have disappeared.

She also charged that when she asked to have a filthy cat removed Berlucchi told her there would be a $3 charge.

During the discussion several speakers said that the conditions were not all due to dogs. They pointed out to children climbing on dumpsters and leaving rubbish under bushes and fences.

The group broke into enthusiastic applause when St. Angelo asked if they "could live with the restrictions as outlined."

The restrictions would:

Call on a limit of one pet to a family after Jan. 1, unless the family now had more than one.

Each pet would have to have a current city license, and be registered with the Harborview Residents' Association.

Pets would have to have rabies and distemper shots.

All female dogs would be spayed.

All pets would have to be walked on a leash and excrement disposed of by the owner.

Dogs are not to be left out tied to a fence or in a fenced-in yard and tenants would have to comply with all city ordinances. All tenants would be expected to comply or face the possibility of eviction.

When the question was asked if the housing authority would accept the rider, Clement O'Brien, administrator of the authority, said he could not speak for the board.

South-West Center

THE WINNER -- North Quincy's Billy Barter scores the winning two points on a fake kick to give the North sophomores a 15-14 win over Quincy last Saturday.

Barter Carries Winning Points

North Sophs Edge Quincy On Perfect Fake Kick

A perfectly-executed fake trick on the extra point conversion with the team trailing by a point gave the North Quincy sophomore football team a 15-14 win over Quincy last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium before a crowd which was larger than those at some varsity games.

The game was one of the best in the long series and early in the last period, after the young Presidents had taken a 14-7 lead, North scored to make it 14-13. The young Raiders lined up for a place kick by Jack Leone but, instead, Bill Barter took a shovel pass and had little trouble going through the right side for the winning two points.

"This was a good, hard-hitting game but it was too close for comfort," said North's veteran coach, Ted Sadowski. "We worked on that extra point play a lot and it was carried out perfectly."

Both teams displayed a fine running game with Dean Zoia, who scored both North touchdowns, Barter and Jack Brown, a fine quarterback who ran, passed and punted well, doing the bulk of the carrying.

Sadowski had good words for Leone for his kickoffs, Lou DiPietro, John Buckley, Bob Danna and Little Tim Wheeler for their work on offense.

"Wheeler, our smallest player, did a fine job replacing Peter Linnehan, who was injured and sat out the second half," Sadowski said. "He passed the ball back well on punts and the point after."

Defensive coach Kevin Lewis was high in his praise of the entire defensive unit but singled out Paul O'Sullivan, Jino Pillard, Peter Alibrandi, Jim McGinnis and Paul Lynch.

"We had seven shutouts this year, which says something for the defense," he said. North finished the season with a 9-1 record.

Quincy coach Mark Conroy, although disappointed, praised his entire team and said, "We are better than a 4-4-1 team." He also had high praise for the North team.

"Ed Iodice was outstanding both ways and he did a good job containing Brown, whom I consider an outstanding ball player," he said.

Mark, who was aided by varsity assistant coaches Peter Chella and Joe Goguen, praised the offensive performances of quarterback Ron Pettinelli and running backs Paul Flynn, Mike Abboud and Mike Monahan.

Also hailed on offense were John Varasso, Ed Mackey, Fran Duggan, Sean Burke, Scott Anson, Paul D'Angelo and Greg Oriola, who punted well and made a sensational catch of a Pettinelli pass for the first touchdown.

On defense Conroy had good words for Chris Chevalier, who came up with some devastating tackles, Al Devencentis, Iodice, and Steve Remillard.

North scored first after recovering a fumble on the Quincy 13. Zoia went all the way up the middle and Leone kicked the point.

Chevalier set up the first Quincy TD when he hit Brown, who was attempting to punt, with a real pro-like tackle as the Presidents took over on the North 10 and Pettinelli passed to Oriola in the far left corner of the end zone and Oriola leaped and took the ball out of a North defender's hands. A pass for the go-ahead points failed.

Two face mask penalties set North back and Flynn skirted right end from the three to put Quincy ahead. Pettinelli passed to Monahan for the points which made it 14-7.

Brown set up the second North touchdown when, hemmed in and apparently downed for a big loss, he broke away and raced around left end for 30 yards to Quincy's 13. Zoia scored from the one and then came the winning fake kick.

Earlier Pettinelli had given Quincy a life with the same type of run as that of Brown.

QUINCY

By TOM SULLIVAN

"It will seem strange, but I'm now a President all the way and the only thing I want is a win over North Quincy and a .500 season," said Tom Fitzgerald, Quincy's first year football coach.

Tom is certainly no stranger to the holiday classic, having played at North where he was an all-scholastic center, and being an assistant at his alma mater for the past nine years.

But being on the other side of the fence puts Fitzgerald in a unique position.

Fitzgerald faces a major problem as he prepares Quincy for the 46th meeting with North. He has lost his starting quarterback, junior Dave Austin, who has started every game and has improved every week, giving his best performance in the win two weeks ago over Brookline. He suffered a shoulder separation in that game.

Junior Charlie McCall, the backup quarterback, is expected to get his first varsity start, although Ron Pettinelli, the sophomore quarterback, could get the call. Both will definitely see action.

"Of course, we are going to miss Dave, he was really coming into his own," Fitzgerald conceded. "But I think Mc Call and Pettinelli can do the job. Charlie is the junior varsity quarterback and has seen a little varsity service. He throws a good pass and handles the ball well. He is also a regular on defense. I don't plan any changes in our attack."

Quincy (4-5) will have an unusual number of juniors and sophomores in its lineup for a Thanksgiving game. One sophomore and four juniors are certain starters and another soph and two other juniors could move in.

Vin Harte, a senior, is a questionable starter at end due to an arm injury but Fitzgerald is figuring on him to open. If he can't start John Cahill or Glenn Lydon (both seniors) will get the call to start along with Paul Bandera, a junior.

Geoff Caflisch, a junior, and sophomore Fran Duggan will start at tackle. Duggan, who also plays with the sophomores and junior varsity, has seen a lot of action and moved into the starting lineup the last two games.

At guard it will be junior Tom Rand and senior George McCarron and senior Russ DiPietro will be at center.

Joining McCall and Pettinelli in the backfield will be little Tom Brennan, a junior and the team's top scorer; either Ralph Pickering, a senior, or junior Bill Flynn, and either senior John Sullivan or junior Scott Richardson.

Others due to see action on offense will be Darrell O'Neil and Fran Donovan in the backfield, Dean Prescott at end, Gerry Grassi at tackle, Howie Chadbourne and Ray Alongi at guard. Bob Ciardi will snap the ball back on punts.

Some of the defensive spots are undecided but Don Murray, Lydon and Mike Trifone, all seniors, will be at end, John Nichols, a senior, and McGarron at tackle, Steve Cacciatore, senior, and junior Bill Murray at noseguard, Pickering and junior Lou Mathews as line backers, seniors Steve Venturelli and Charlie Darcy and Brennan at corner back and seniors Jeff Giordani, who has 10 pass interceptions, and John Rizzi and Donovan at safety. McCall also will play on defense.

Prescott and Duggan will also see some defensive action as will Chuck Silva.

Quincy not only will be trying to give Fitzgerald a .500 season in his first year as coach but will be out to defend its city championship won last year when Hank Conroy's final team walloped the Raiders, 34-8.

The assistant coaches at Quincy are Bill Maver, Mark Conroy, Peter Chella and Joe Goguen.

3 New Coaches

There will be one new head coach and two new assistants in the Quincy-North Quincy game.

The new head coach, although hardly a new coach (27 years' experience) is Quincy's Tom Fitzgerald, who was an assistant at his alma mater, North Quincy, for the last nine years.

The new assistants are Joe Goguen at Quincy replacing John Bogan, and George Liset at North, succeeding Fitzgerald.

Returning are assistants Bill Maver, Peter Chella and Mark Conroy at Quincy and Ken McPhee, Jack Raymer and the dean of them all, Ted Sadowski, at North.

No Special Gate For Reserved Ticket Holders

There will be no special gate for reserved seat ticket holders Thursday.

According to Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone, reserved ticket holders can enter at any gate.

There will be only tickets at $2 each on sale at the stadium on the holiday.

This year North Quincy is host team and will occupy the cement stands and Quincy will occupy the wooden stands.

Raiders Seek Revenge

THEY'RE READY – North Quincy Coach Dave Burke and his tri-captains, Tom Quinn, Paul McNamara and Kevin Cobban are set for Quincy.

The return of the city championship and revenge for last year's 34-8 thumping are the goals of North Quincy Coach Dave Burke in Thursday's game.

Those are only targets as North takes only a 3-6 record into the game but with a few breaks here and there the Raiders could well be 7-2.

North has been out of only two games, against Newton North and Catholic Memorial. The Weymouth North game was lost due to a highly questionable call (or non-call) by the officials and the Milton, Brockton and Waltham games could have just as well gone North's way.

"This will be a typical Quincy-North game," Burke said. "I don't plan anything new, we'll go with what we've been using all season."

The bulwark of the Raider offense is Tom Quinn, who has 12 touchdowns, thrown three touchdown passes and five passes for two-point conversions. He also has thrown several other passes on the halfback option pass which keeps the opposition off balance. He also blocks well and plays excellent defense when called upon.

Burke will start an all-senior offensive unit in contrast to the many underclassmen slated to start for Quincy.

Joining Quinn in the backfield will be quarterback Kevin Cobban, halfback Jim Holleran and fullback John Conley. Cobban has had a good year and has done some fine passing, while Holleran and Conley have run well.

In the line it will be Dan McIntyre and either John O'Leary or Larry Baker at end, Paul White and Brian McGilvray at tackle, Mike Spinale and John White at guard and Pat McKenna at center.

Also seeing action on offense will be Joe Venezia at guard, Jim Dodd at center, John McNamara at tackle, Dave Penzo and Jim Flaherty at end and Leo Graham and Pat Carroll in the backfield.

If the game is close Spinale could be the key with his ability to kick a field goal. He kicked one in the win at Brookline and has been adept at kicking extra points.

On defense John Hernon and either Matt Hemphill or Glen Healy will open at end, Tom Malloy and either Paul McNamara or Eddie Miller at tackle and Venezia noseguard.

McGilvray, Rich Schaetzel and Chris Petrillo will be the linebackers with Larry Chretien and Dave Howley sharing those duties, Dave King, John Lothrop and Brian Hewitt will be the cornerbacks, Pat Ennis and Baker the halfbacks and Graham the safety. Graham, Miller, Howley and Petrillo are the only juniors.

Also seeing action with the defensive unit will be Frank Strauss, Peter Doherty, Spinale and Paul White.

"We will have our hands full as Quincy can move the ball and also is strong on defense," Burke said. "(Tom) Brennan is an excellent runner, (Ralph) Pickering is a standout on defense and (Jeff) Giordani has had an outstanding year in the secondary.

"We all know what Tom Fitzgerald can do. He did a tremendous job with our offense the last nine years and I know he will have a few tricks up his sleeve in this game."

Burke's assistants are Ken McPhee, Ted Sadowski, Jack Raymer and newcomer George Liset.

Mixed Emotions For Fitzgerald

Tom Fitzgerald will have mixed emotions Thursday as he leads the Quincy team against his alma mater, North Quincy.

Fitzgerald, the Presidents' first year coach, was an all-scholastic at North and for the last nine years was an assistant at North.

"It will certainly seem strange coaching against North Quincy, as I know so many of the players," Tom said. "But my number one objective is to lead Quincy to a win and wind up my first season with a .500 record."

National Anthem

As has been the custom for the past several years, the outstanding bands of both schools will combine for the National Anthem at the holiday classic.

Series Record

Officials Same As Last Year's

The officials for the Quincy-North game will be the same as last year.

Al Benson, who refereed last year's game for the first time after the late Joe Berman had handled the duties for 14 straight years, will again be the referee. Berman collapsed and died during a North Quincy game last year.

John Krikorian will again be the umpire, Edgar Stowell the field judge and Charles Petti the head linesman.

Crowd Of 12,000 Expected To See Game

Although neither team has a .500 record this year and nothing is at stake except the city championship, a crowd of about 12,000 is expected at the Quincy-North holiday game.

Despite the records, both teams have played some good ball and an interesting game is expected. An intriguing feature of the game is Quincy Coach Tom Fitzgerald coaching against his alma mater, North, for the first time. Tom was an all-scholastic player at North and for the last nine years was an assistant coach there.

Last year's crowd, one of the slowest arriving, was estimated at nearly 15,000, although it looked just before game time it wouldn't be over 10,000.

The crowd of 18,003 in 1946 is certain to remain an untouchable record. Many estimate that crowd was closer to 25,000, counting the many watching from the walls and trees and those who lined the MBTA bus garage yard.

For Quincy It's 'Praise The Lord'

Members of the Quincy High School football team have attracted attention lately by the letters "PTL" printed on their helmets. The letters stand for "Praise the Lord", and the idea came from Ralph Pickering, Co-captain of the team.

Ralph attended a charismatic renewal mass a year ago at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy. The mass made such an impression on him that he spread the word among his team mates who began attending with him Monday nights.

Considering themselves on "God's Team" above all else, the players, of different religious denominations, began their football season with a charismatic mass. In the same manner, they observed the closing of the season with a first anniversary mass and party.

Win or lose the Thanksgiving game, Quincy High School's football players will come out on top.

Rolls Over Sterling

Point Wins Junior High Football Title

By MATT TOBIN

The Point Junior High ninth grade football team, which had won only three games over the past two years, came back this fall to capture the city championship with a 6-1-1 record.

Coach Larry Keough's team needed a win in the final game with Sterling to clinch the title and it rolled to a 32-0 win.

"It was a team victory, but Javier Perez led the scoring and Sean Martin did an excellent job at quarterback," Keough said. "Jackie Oliverio played a strong game at fullback and as a linebacker. He is our defensive captain. Billy O'Brien and Steve Goguen were great blockers and running backs and also starred as cornerback and linebacker on defense. Keith McNulty also starred on offense.

"Probably the biggest help came from Jim Bandera, who, for the past two years, was a back and this year played center at 115 pounds."

Keough paid tribute to the offensive and defensive lines of Dave Donnelly, Dave McLaughlin, Joe Palluccio, Ken MacDonald, Frank Scolaro, Jim Gambino, Chris Pearson, Troy Clements, Roger Perreault, Mike Shaw and Jim Rossetti.

"Our biggest game was against Central in our second meeting when, with our starting quarterback hurt, we held Central to a scoreless tie," Keough said. "This was the hardest working and most determined team I have seen in my six years of coaching at Point and I would like to thank my assistants, Gerry Quintiliani and Mike Hart, for their help. They, along with their seventh and eighth grade teams, helped through all the dummy scrimmages.

"My special thanks, also, to the two managers, Mike Robertson and Tim Murphy."

Point defeated Atlantic North, 16-0; Central, 30-0; Sterling, 16-0; Atlantic North, 32-14; Broad Meadows, 6-0, and Sterling, 32-0. It tied Central and lost to Broad Meadows, 14-12.

Track Club Wins 3 Medals In N.Y. Race

The Quincy Track Club competed for the third year in a row in the Road Runners Club of America Nationals at Van Courtland Park, New York City, and topped last year's performance by winning three medals.

Coach Jeff Hennessy placed 11th in the open men's three mile, Vicky Finlayson was 14th and Margaret Osterman 23rd with a dramatic finishing kick in the 14-15 girls' race and Georgia Traficante rounded out the medal winners with a 15th place finish in the 10-11 girls' race.

In the N.E. Junior Olympics at Pageant Field, more than 350 from four N.E. states competed. Harry Morash finished fourth in Bantam boys and Georgia Traficante was seventh in Midget girls. The top ten from each age group advanced to the Regional Junior Olympics in Hightstown, N.J.

In that meet Morash placed 20th in Bantam boys in 9:48 for the 1.5 mile course, his best time ever. Georgia Traficante was 18th in Midget girls, also 1.5 miles, in 9:43, also her best time. Vicki Finlayson placed eighth in Intermediate girls, qualifying for the National Junior Olympics in Kansas Dec. 9. She and Hennessy plan to go.

Only 4th Woman

Mary Pratt In B.U.'s Hall Of Fame

Mary Pratt, Quincy's all-time number one female athlete, recently was inducted into the Boston University Hall of Fame, only the fourth woman to be so honored.

Mary, a physical education teacher at Quincy High, had one problem while attending Sargent College. She was only allowed to participate in one sport at a time.

She made every team she ever tried out for and represented the college in basketball, softball, fistball, volleyball, lacrosse, field hockey, sailing, tennis and archery.

Following her graduation with an A.B. degree from Sargent in 1941, she became a teacher in the Quincy school system. During the summer she played professional softball in the All-America Girls' League, pitching for teams in Kinosha, Wisc., and Rockford, Ill.

The money she earned enabled her to further her education at Boston University, where she earned her Master's Degree in education.

She also played softball for the Boston Garden League and at one time was the only woman on the North Quincy Associates of the Park League.

In lacrosse she competed with the Boston Lacrosse Association and was a member of the United States national touring team which played international competition.

Mary, who is still an active National Honorary Official in both basketball and softball, was Quincy High's first coach when girls' softball was introduced in the Quincy schools a few years ago.

She also was the first coach of the Central Junior High teams when girls' basketball was introduced recently in the junior high schools. Her first two Central teams won the city-wide championship.

Mary has coached 10 championship softball teams in the state and has spent the last 20 summers working with the Quincy Recreation Department.

Elks Win Youth Football Championships

The West Quincy Elks won the Quincy Youth Football League championship Sunday with a 12-0 win over the North Quincy Apaches.

It was the first title for the Elks, who compiled a 9-1-1 record.

A 31-yard touchdown pass from Mark Righini to John Carr capped a 65-yard drive and gave the Elks a 6-0 lead. Carr intercepted a pass and ran it back 45 yards for the second score.

The Elks defense played an outstanding game as the Apaches' attack was stymied throughout the game.

Kevin Riggs had an outstanding season for Coach Bob Noble's Elks, rushing for 1164 yards and scoring 14 touchdowns.

Cullen's Hat Trick Sparks Bantam B's

Mike Cullen performed the three goal hat trick and added an assist to lead the Rotary Club Bantam B team to a 9-2 shellacking of Billerica.

Joe Livingstone had two goals and an assist, Dennis Croke three assists, Dennis Furtado a goal and an assist, Tommy Benson a goal and an assist, Paul McCabe and Jamie Doyle two assists apiece, Rich Milano and Dean Phillips a goal each, and Larry Costello, Steve Baylis and Tommy Schofield each with an assist.

Girls B Team Bows

Quincy's Bob Charles Transportation Girls B team lost to Stoneham, 6-4, despite Laurie Barba's hat trick. Kristen O'Gara had the other goal. Marie Burke and O'Gara had two assists apiece and Maureen Allen, Debbie Mosher and Linda Bujarski one each.

3 North Runners In Top 15 At Suburban Meet

The North Quincy cross country team placed three runners in the top 15 and finished fourth in the recent Suburban League meet.

John McGuiggan finished ninth, Jim Coughlin 13th and Mike Ricciuti 15th. Cambridge Rindge and Latin won the meet with 47 points, followed by Brockton, 51; Weymouth South, 69; North Quincy, 119; Weymouth North, 138; Newton North, 174; Brookline, 178; Waltham, 186, and Quincy, 203.

North finished with a 6-6 record and Coach Lou Tozzi said, "I was pleased with our season, considering I had only five boys. McGuiggan, who had been out with an injury for nearly a month, ran well and I was pleased with his ninth place finish."

Mite B's Down Weymouth

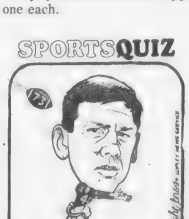
Quincy's Mite B team defeated Weymouth, 7-2, with Chuckie Hughes scoring two goals and Shawn O'Neil, Jay Rodriguez, Bobby Roche, Billy Connolly and Mike Toland having one each. Connolly had three assists, Ralph Richardson, O'Neil and Rodriguez two apiece and Tony Pecce, Brian Mosher, Jonathan Bertoni, Paul McGrath and Paul Scola one each. Jeff MacDonald sparkled on defense.

In a non-league game Quincy edged Stoneham, 5-4, with Mosher scoring twice and Toland, Scola, Rodriguez and Tommy Roberts once each.

Squirt B's Win 9th Straight

The Squirt B team walloped Weymouth, 7-1, for its ninth straight win.

Mark Simonelli had the hat trick, Jon Hays two goals and Billy Murphy and Dave Tapper one each. Murphy and Hays had two assists apiece and David Kraunelis, Paul Connolly, Jimmy Dunphy, Simonelli and Tapper one each.



Connolly Seen In Curry Key Role

Steve Connolly of Quincy, a former Quincy High standout, is expected to be a key player this season for the Curry College basketball team, which opens next Monday at home against Barrington College.

Connolly was a starter last season when Curry recorded its first winning season (13-11) in four years. He excells as a playmaking guard.

Donnelly Urges 25% Tax Cut On Gas, Oil

By TOM HENSHAW

Cong.-elect Brian J. Donnelly says he would like to see the federal taxes on gas and oil reduced by 25 per cent on a regional basis so the Northeast can compete on equal footing with the rest of the country.

"We pay the highest taxes in the country," he told The Quincy Sun in an in-depth interview. "What we ought to be getting is a little preferential treatment. Energy taxes ought to be lowered more in the Northeast so that bills would be comparatively the same all across the country."

Donnelly, the Boston State Rep who will replace Cong. James A. Burke of Milton in January, also made these points in The Sun interview:

• President Carter's performance toward the 11th District has not been good. "Most of our federal facilities have moved. An Energy policy totally discriminates against our people. He doesn't know politics very well, either."

• He will propose an amendment to the U.S. Constitution to forbid deficit spending by the federal government, except in times of national emergency and with the approval of Congress.

• He is looking into the possibility of switching the Quincy congressional office from the Post Office to a street floor downtown store front because "it's convenient for handicapped people and Quincy is making a good effort to revitalize and I want to be part of that."

The text of the Donnelly interview follows:

SUN—Did you expect to win as big as you did?

DONNELLY—I'm the eternal pessimist, really. I'm also a product of Murphy's Law. What bad hasn't happened to you yet will happen tomorrow. Our polls seemed to indicate that the undecided vote was moving in our direction. But to be very frank I didn't think we were going to win

Real Estate Tax Bills On The Way

Mayor Tobin has promised that Quincy's long-awaited real property tax bills will be in the mail today [Thursday].

But City Auditor Charles L. Shea isn't all that sure.

"When are tax bills going out?" The Quincy Sun inquired at noon Tuesday.

"In 48 hours," said Mayor Tobin. "Right, Charlie?"

"Within a few days, hopefully," said Auditor Shea.

"In 48 hours," repeated Mayor Tobin.

"Within a few days, hopefully," repeated Auditor Shea.

Tobin got in the final words: "The bills are going out in 48 hours," he declared.

Shea willingly assumed blame for the fact that real property tax bills have been delayed while the city switches from manual to automated procedures in calculating them.

"I was the one who elected to bite the bullet and this year and get the thing straightened out once and for all," he said.

"I could probably have them run off the bills today [Tuesday] but I want to make sure this system is set up in as perfect a fashion as possible."

Mayor Tobin said the city is not that far off last year's schedule in sending out the tax bills.

"Personal property tax bills went out 60 days ahead of last year," he said. "We're running now only two weeks to 10 days behind in real property tax bills, even with all the problems we've encountered."

Tobin and Shea agreed that the delay is costing the city money in interest on loans taken out in anticipation of taxes.

"But it is less than last year because we got the personal property tax bills out much earlier and we will be able to have a savings from here on in because of automation.

"We're going through the initial crunch right now but we will get good out of it in the long run.

"We are going to correct a lot of the things that have gone on in the past. Much of the city operates like a Model T Ford. We have a lot of catching up to do."

Football Game Rowdyism, Bus Theft, Paint Spraying At NQHS Addition

Quincy's Thanksgiving Day observance was marred by rowdyism, vandalism, and the theft of an MBTA bus which crashed into a house on West Elm Ave., Wollaston.

• Two juveniles were taken into custody for throwing snowballs during the Quincy-North Quincy High School football game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

• Three juveniles were arrested for spraying blue paint on the walls of the new addition to North Quincy High School.

• An 18-year-old youth was arrested after a stolen MBTA bus crashed into a house, damaging the foundation and walls of the dwelling.

Joseph D. Cahill, of 16 Bromfield St., Wollaston, was arrested after a stolen MBTA bus crashed into a house at 10 West Elm Ave., Wollaston. Cahill pleaded innocent when arraigned in Quincy District Court on a charge of using a motor vehicle without authority. He was released on personal recognizance for appearance on Jan. 3. Police said he was a passenger in the bus.

A second youth is being sought by police.

The snowballing incident disrupted the half-time activities at the football game and some of the missiles were aimed at the players during the final half.

Some of the spectators reported seeing one girl band member struck in the face with a snowball. She had to be led off the field.

Other fans reported young people carrying six-packs of beer.

A police detail consisting of a lieutenant, two sergeants and 19 patrolmen were on duty at the game, some of them on special assignments both inside and outside the field.

A police spokesman said the patrolmen on the field were reluctant to move into the stands, fearing that such action could precipitate violence.

"It was a terribly unfortunate incident," School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon said.

"This is the first time in my memory that we have had snow on the ground on Thanksgiving," he said. "It is too bad that those

Lowry Recount To Cost $4,000

The city of Quincy will spend some $4,000 this weekend to recount the votes cast in the Nov. 7, election for Congress from the 11th District.

The recount was requested by H. Graham Lowry of Boston, the U.S. Labor Party candidate, who lost the city as well as the district to Democrat Brian J. Donnelly by a margin of 30,381 votes to 2,610.

About 20 to 25 city workers will be involved in the recount, which is scheduled to start at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Diabetes New Problem But:

Things Looking Up For Sybil Mattson

By PETER BARNICLE

Sybil Mattson had her family with her for Thanksgiving and it looks now as though they will be together again at the cozy home on Carter St., South Quincy, for Christmas.

For a time it appeared she might be spending Christmas in an institution despite her appeals to be allowed to remain in her home, with its familiar surroundings.

Mrs. Mattson was stricken with polio during the epidemic of 1955. She is paralyzed from the neck down and requires life-support equipment.

Her world was threatened when the March of Dimes informed her they would have to terminate their financial support Dec. 15. Then the welfare department ruled that the three "chore women" assisting her did not conform to regulations for the caring of patients and they would be terminated.

The March of Dimes re-evaluated its position and Joseph Hanlon, executive director of the Mass. Bay Chapter, has now said the national organization will continue its support.

Even before word from New York, Hanlon said "We would never abandon a patient."

The state welfare department is now in the process of putting together a program which will bring in a group of agencies to work cooperatively to provide Sybil with the around-the-clock care she needs.

At present three women share the tasks of feeding and caring for the bed-ridden patient. The welfare department's contention was they had not been certified.

Carmen Blaney of Fort Point Rd, North Weymouth, Eileen Kelly of Squantum St., Milton, and Mary Deavan of Frost Ave., Dorchester, have all been trained on the sophisticated equipment by which Sybil breathes through her traechea. To her they are nurses.

This week they were informed the welfare department will continue to pay their $2.65 an hour through Dec. 12, at least.

There are long range plans also being made for Sybil's future. Mayor Arthur Tobin plans to ask Rep. Michael Morrissey to file a bill by which the state welfare department will be specifically authorized to provide financial support medical aid and other services.

The days before Thanksgiving were darkened when she had to return to Beth Israel Hospital for treatment of an infection. While at the hospital doctors discovered she has now developed diabetes.

The holiday, however, was considerably brightened by the arrival of her son, Clifford, 26, from San Rafeal, Cal., where he is now working as a counselor and teacher.

Also at her bedside for the festivities were her daughter, Deborah Jerome, 28, of Hanson, and her grandsons, Nathan and Matthew.

"Mom looks a lot brighter and happier," Clifford said. "I guess if we can get the financial problems straightened out she, will be great."

He has gone back to San Rafeal, but with the promise he will be back for Christmas.

Home Adaptive Program Aids Homeowners With Handicapped Family Member

Mayor Tobin is urging more Quincy residents to take advantage of the Home Adaptive Living Grant Program sponsored by the Quincy Planning Department.

The program is designed to assist homeowners with a handicapped family member who is in need of adaptive improvements to the home to address individual needs.

The maximum grant limit of the direct grant is $5,000.

Homeowners who are interested in the program can obtain information by calling 773-1380, Ext. 381, or by contacting Peter McPherson, Office of Housing Rehabilitation, Public Works Building, 55 Sea St.

$6.8 Million To Wollaston Lutheran For Elderly Housing

The Wollaston Lutheran Church has been granted $6,839,798 by the department of Housing and Urban Development for construction of an eight-story elderly housing project on land under option on Brackett St., opposite WJDA.

Rev. Frank J. Bauer, pastor, and I. Bradford Hutchison, president of the congregation, said that in addition to the major grant from the Section 202 fund reservation, the sponsors will also receive a Section 8 annual contributions authority of $750,000.

The church is the sponsor of Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., a housing project for the elderly opened five years ago.

The proposed project will be known as Town Brook House and will have 150 one-bedroom and two-bedroom apartments. Fifteen of the apartments, all on the first floor, will be for the handicapped.

George Earl Ross, the architect, and Peabody Construction, the general contractor, anticipate groundbreaking next spring with the dedication in the spring of 1980. Housing Dynamics of Boston prepared the application for the funds and Atty. James R. McIntyre of Quincy did the legal work.

Members of the board of directors responsible for the planning, operation and management of the housing are John J. Donahue of Weymouth, chairman; Otto Staehr of Quincy, treasurer; Jean H. Bauer of Quincy, secretary; and Gunnar Munnick of Quincy, Charles W. Wood of Braintree, Edward Bencks of Quincy, I. Bradford Hutchinson of Braintree, J. David Congalton of Pembroke, Frederick J. Cashman of Quincy, Richard T. Mooney of Weymouth and Pastor Bauer, the executive director.

Glass Firm Strike Delays City Hall Annex

The City Hall Annex, which is under construction behind City Hall, is running 10 to 12 weeks behind schedule due to a strike at a subcontractor's plant, Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti said.

"The glass curtain wall was supposed to have arrived from the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. but it has been delayed by a strike at one of the plants," said Ricciuti. "It's a day-to-day thing."

Ricciuti said he still hopes that the building can be delivered in May, the goal the city has been shooting for all along.

The glass curtain wall encloses the steel skeleton of the building and will enable the contractor to continue work inside the building even during the cold days of winter.

"I guess delay is the life style of both private and public buildings these days," said Ricciuti.

Illegally Parked Cars To Be Towed During Snowstorms

Quincy Police Chief Francis X. Finn and Capt. Roy T. Cavicchi of the traffic division, this week met with Public Works Commr. Ricciuti, and Cornelius J. Moriarty, superintendent of the department, to discuss plans for operations during snow storms.

Chief Finn urged all residents to make arrangements to keep their cars off the streets during storms.

Illegally parked cars, he said, prevent proper plowing of streets and sidewalks creating great danger and public inconvenience for school children and other citizens.

Vehicles illegally parked so as to hamper or prevent plowing will be towed at the owner's expense, Chief Finn cautioned.

Badger's Quarry To Be Pumped Out For Filling

Sylvester Ray of Marshfield will begin stockpiling clean fill and pumping out Badger's Quarry in about two weeks preparatory to filling it in, according to City Council James A. Sheets.

The $34,000 contract calls for draining, filling and landscaping the site in West Quincy which has become a nuisance and a hazard over the years. Completion is scheduled for March 1.

The final barrier to the work was cleared away earlier this week when the Conservation Commission was assured that water pumped from Badger's Quarry would not wind up in nearby Swingle's Quarry.

State Approves City Hall For National Register

The Massachusetts Historic Commission has approved an application to place Quincy City Hall on the National Register of Historic Places, announced Mayor Tobin.

The next move is up to the federal government.

Associate Degree Nursing Programs Topic At Women's Center

The Women's Center at Quincy Junior College will sponsor a meeting concerning associate degree nursing programs as a career opportunity Tuesday, Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting is open to everyone interested in nursing as a career and will be held in the Arts and Humanities Room in the rear of Quincy High School.

Ellen Kennedy, chairman, division of nursing education at Quincy Junior College will be the guest speaker. Miss Kennedy will discuss nursing education in general and the proposed associate degree nursing program to begin in Sept., 1979, at Quincy Junior College in particular.

Miss Kennedy commented, "Women are returning to school or to work in ever increasing numbers. Since nursing, as a service profession, is a particularly attractive career, it is important to understand the types and differences in nursing programs. We consider it most important to provide that service to the community through this type of meeting."

Those interested in attending the meeting may call the Women's Center at 479-8445 to register or to obtain further information.

Information for people who plan to live beyond 60.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

CHILDHOOD DISEASE DANGER

Seven year old Joey came down with mumps. Three months later he was deaf. Five month old Marcy choked to death from the violent spasms of whooping cough. Twelve year old June was left mentally retarded after encephalitis, brought on by an ordinary case of measles, inflicted brain damage.

So sad and so needless! Mumps, whooping cough and measles can be totally prevented with available vaccines. Yet, some 20 million children under age 15 haven't been totally immunized against one or more of the seven preventable childhood diseases - mumps, whooping cough, measles, diptheria, polio, rubella, and tetanus. What happened to Joey, Marcy and June could also happen to any of the other 20 million if they have not been immunized.

If this sounds scarey, it's meant to. It takes only a few minutes to have a child vaccinated against these serious diseases that can cause death and disability. Vaccines work - if you let them.

City Club To Hold Charity Breakfast

The Quincy City Club will conduct its fourth annual Christmas Charity Breakfast Program Sunday, Dec. 10, at 10 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point.

A catered breakfast will be served followed by the Christmas Program which will include viewing the gifts being donated to the hospitals and groups for 1978 Christmas Charity Projects and discussion of the 1979 organization activities.

Richard J. Koch, president of the City Club, said that for the past three years the organization has provided $4,000 in gifts to various agencies during the Holiday Season.

Colored television sets, colored drapes and striped color window shades have been donated to the Long Island Hospital patients for use in the various wards.

The Boston State Hospital has been the recipient of various types of underclothing and toiletries for the past several years and the Medfield State Hospital was added to the list. Gift items have also been donated to the Faxon House Detoxification Center in the form of bedding, a Home for Girls and gifts for the Retarded Children's Christmas Party in Quincy.

At Christmas of 1975, four wheel chairs were purchased by the Quincy City Club as a public assisting endeavor and are assigned to those requesting and needing the service whenever the chairs are available.

A fifth wheel chair was obtained last year and all five are now in use and have been continually used since the purchase.

When returned, they are reassigned from a waiting list of requests at no charge to the persons.

All the funds expended are received from the 90 members of the organization and several nonmembers.

Donald E. Conboy and Paul Lee are cochairmen of the Christmas Donation Program while Dr. Allan Yacubian is Gifts Project Chairman.

Thomas R. Burke is treasurer and Joseph M. Lydon, secretary of the City Club.

FAREWELL SERENADE -- Quincy High School Band serenades Lloyd Creighton as he waves from office window to acknowledge the student's salute on the occasion of his retirement. Creighton left this week, a month early, to start his retirement in Florida after 15 years as principal of Quincy High School. He is being succeeded by Lloyd Hill, former assistant principal of North Quincy High School.

Jewels & Gems

by Stan Manin

A birthday, the new year, a new job or move to a new town may give you an urge to create a new image for yourself. Your choice of jewelry can be extremely suggestive of your "type". Diamonds and gold always indicate elegance, while wide ear loops and arm bangles might give a more bohemian look. Handcrafted wood and metal jewelry can lend an "earthy" aura. When appearances create strong first impressions it's worth extra thought to help direct that impression in a favorable way.

We at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490 provide that extra attention you like to have when choosing jewelry for yourself, or as a gift. The Turquoise and Zircon symbolize prosperity as December's birthstones. An ancient Persian king discovered a turquoise mine on the eve of a victorious battle, so the stone came to symbolize victory or a fortunate event. The Zircon has been known since before the days of Christ and was once believed to contain magic power against evil spirits and poison. Stop into our new shop next door, "Something Special" where you will find a wide variety of greeting cards and gifts.

HELPFUL HINTS:

Prevent infection by wearing only solid gold or silver earrings for the first nine months after ear piercing.

Save Energy. Save Money.

How? With our Energy Conservation Loan and low interest rates.

If at least half of the home improvements are to save energy, homeowners who are approved by the bank now may borrow between $1500 and $7500 from Quincy Savings Bank at an Annual Percentage Rate of just 10.00%. And, for similar projects between $500 and $1499, approved borrowers will pay a low Annual Percentage Rate of 11.00%.

Why are we offering what could be the lowest rates you'll find? Simply because we want to encourage energy-saving in the home. Through such improvements as added insulation. Better siding or a new roof. Combination windows and doors. Weatherstripping and caulking. New heating systems, including solar panels.

Tall Ships Program For Retired Federal Employees

Mrs. Jacqueline Wenz, of Boston Gas Co., presented a program on the Tall Ships, which visited Boston in 1976, at a meeting of the Quincy Chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees held recently.

Also at the meeting, members were reminded that reservations for the Christmas party must be paid to Mrs. Wermers, Sunflower Rd., Holbrook, by Dec. 1.

Legislative chairman Ray Dunn spoke on bills passed by Congress affecting the Association, and the Chapter president reported on the mid-year dinner held in Norwood, with retiring Congressman James A. Burke, guest speaker.

Mr., Mrs. Lester Mosher Honored By SSARC On 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Mosher, of Hingham, were cited recently by the South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens (SSARC) for many years of participation in programs and activities for retarded citizens of the South Shore.

The tribute took place on the Mosher's golden wedding anniversary with Mrs. Mildred Kirsh, of Quincy, immediate past chairman of the group, presenting them with a 50th wedding anniversary cake and a gift from the Workshop Parents Group.

The Workshop Group is comprised of the parents of the 40 young men and women enrolled in the SSARC sheltered workshop at St. Thomas More School, 8 Blanchard Blvd., Braintree.

Mrs. Mosher is currently involved in a project to raise funds to refurbish a building at Webb Memorial Park as a permanent base of operations for the workshop and organization.

A drive is underway towards this end.

Ben Landey, chairman, Jim Delaney, cochairman, and Sylvia Roberts, secretary, are Quincy residents active in the Workshop and SSARC Board.

New Will To Live And Enjoy Life

South Shore Stroke Club: 'We Stress Abilities--Not Disabilities'

By PETER BARNICLE

Determined not to allow their handicap to keep them housebound, members of the South Shore Stroke Club have embarked on a program with the motto "we stress abilities not disabilities".

Not content with having found a new will to live and enjoy life, they are recruiting new members with a missionary zeal. The club has a visitation committee which will call on stroke victims and urge them to join in the activities of the club and make the most of their limited capabilities.

The club's next activity is a Christmas party to be held Dec. 6 at Adriano's Continental Restaurant in Holbrook.

Bruce Richardson, 14 Polk Rd., Hingham, president of the club, has suffered two strokes, the second one three years ago.

"I sat around the house for about two years, feeling sorry for myself. Then I decided to do something about it," he said.

He contacted the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission which put him in touch with a group at Braintree Hospital devoted to showing stroke victims therapeutic value of determination.

Out of this came the idea for the South Shore Stroke Club which organized last August with eight members. At last count the club has 41 members.

One of his earliest recruits, even before the club was formed, was Mrs. Carolyn Raimondi, 88 Summit Ridge Dr., Braintree, a mother of four.

"I was sitting on a bench at the South Shore Plaza feeling very sorry for myself one day when Bruce approached me. He said I looked terribly depressed and told me about the club. He said it would help me. It certainly did. It has entirely changed my life," she said.

Mrs. Raimondi is vice president of the club. The group meets in the family room of her home on the first Wednesday of every month.

The club has made day trips to Quincy Market, the Museum of Fine Arts, Plimoth Plantation and to several Red Sox baseball games.

Every Tuesday afternoon they bowl at Wright Brothers Sports Center in Holbrook, where the management makes every effort possible to make things easier. Some of the members bowl from wheelchairs.

Annette Legere of South Boston is among the enthusiastic bowlers. Her niece, Patricia Furbush of Walpole, drive to South Boston weekly to pick her up for the weekly bowling session, and she also sees that she gets to the monthly meetings in Braintree.

Family encouragement is very important in helping those who have lost the use of both an arm and a leg.

Richardson, an ardent golfer before he became afflicted, went to Hyannis last summer with his brother, Robert, and watched him play a round.

"I had to sit in the golf car and I winced every time he hit the ball," Richardson said. "I told him I wouldn't go with him the following day, but he insisted."

Robert told his brother he had spent half the night trying to come up with a solution.

"On the first tee he drove two balls down the fairway and made the approach shot. Then he had me get out of the cart, lean on my cane and make a chip shot onto the green and make the putt," Richardson said.

"When we started, I thought one hole would be enough, but I wound up completing the 18 holes," he said happily.

He also has a fishing rod attached to a special harness which permits him to go surf casting.

Richardson had to re-learn how to drive and now uses a car with special controls which permit him to transport some club members to activities.

Sidney Winders, 48 Raleigh Rd., East Weymouth, has also learned to drive with the special controls needed by one who has the use of only one arm and leg.

Winders, club treasurer, was a tool and cutter grinder for Pneumatic Scale Co., in Quincy when he suffered a stroke in December, 1976.

"I can be pretty handy doing odd jobs around the house. Of course, he said with a smile, "I can't do the dishes."

At the monthly meetings members discuss specific problems and seek advice on how others overcame them.

"The purpose of the club," Richardson explained is to develop and administer programs for former stroke patients in the areas of rehabilitation, welfare and health. We seek to help them adjust to their environment. It is a group of people helping people."

The group often works together on special projects. Last summer the club entered a float in the Hingham Fourth of July parade. The theme of the float "Strike Out Strokes" depicted their enthusiasm for bowling.

Club members built the float themselves.

"It was quite a task," Richardson recalled. "One member would hold a nail with his good hand, while another used his good hand to hammer it. It was the same thing in sawing boards—one held the board and another the saw."

The club was awarded second prize for originality, and one would say, perseverance.

They have found people are more than willing to help them in any number of ways. J. A. Tomasi Nursery of Hingham, Richardson's former employer, supplied the flat-bed truck for the float and Kent's Carpetland donated the carpet covering.

When the club needed legal assistance in applying for certification Senator-Elect Paul Harold took time out from his campaign to prepare the papers without cost.

The club is anxious to make contact with patients who have suffered strokes and are now just staying at home worried about being a burden on their families.

Those interested in the club can contact Bruce Richardson at 749-4266 or Carolyn Raimondi at 848-4159.

SOUTH SHORE STROKE CLUB certification is presented to club's officers by Senator-elect Paul Harold. Sometimes You Wonder If This Is Really Quincy

For most of the estimated 12,000 people who were there, it was a sorry sight.

Right before their eyes, the annual Quincy-North Quincy High School football game--a cherished Thanksgiving Day tradition since 1933-- was turned into a disgusting spectacle.

Beer, booze and rowdyism marred what has long been--a morning of good fun and sportsmanship before Thanksgiving dinner.

According to long-time fans who were there, it was hard to believe that this was Quincy and they were at Veterans Memorial Stadium watching Quincy and North Quincy in what has been a 46-year spirited but clean rivalry in the stands as well as on the field.

It was a good game on the field as have most of the games been when traditional rivals Quincy and North face one another.

But in the stands and along the sidelines, it was something else.

Kids as young as 13 and 14 were reported seen carrying six packs of beer. Others smuggled beer and booze under their coats and jackets. A couple of youths reportedly "passed out", either from too much booze or drugs.

The pre-Thanksgiving Day snow added to the problem. Snowballs and ice were hurled at the two bands as they lined up for the show at half-time.

One musician was reported hit on the side of the head and another--a girl--struck in the face.

The players themselves were pelted with snowballs and ice.

And sadly, during all of this, some adults sat in the stands and laughed. To them, it was a funny sideshow.

Meanwhile, a gang of youths invaded Adams Field across the street and started to haul down the wooden score board to build a bonfire with. They were also zeroing in on the new electric scoreboard before they were dispersed by police.

Around the same time two youths drove off in an MBTA bus and slammed it into a house in Wollaston.

And three youths were apprehended spraying blue paint on an exterior wall at the new addition to North Quincy High School.

You find yourself wondering: What the hell is going on in Quincy?

Are we going to accept all this as a way of life today and just let conditions worsen until the punks and rowdies take complete control?

Are we just going to turn our heads and let it all happen? Just let it go on and encourage those getting away with it to continue to do what they please?

There were a reported 22 police officers on duty inside and outside the stadium last Thursday.

Some people complain that the police for the most part did nothing to stop the snowballing.

"They could at least have gone into the stands and told them to 'cut it out'," said one woman.

Two youths, however, were taken into custody in connection with the snowballing.

A police officer on duty expressed "complete disgust" at the overall situation. He has never seen a sorrier sight, he said.

It's too bad that all the snow ballers weren't ordered out of the stadium. And it's too bad that some of the young drunks weren't taken to the police station where they could later be claimed by their parents.

But there were around 12,000 people in the stadium. The wrong move by just one police officer, could have triggered a riot. In the alcoholic condition some of the people--adults included-- were in--it would not have taken much to light the fuse of violence.

And if there wasn't any riot and police did cart most of the offenders off to the station you could just hear some indignant parents crying "police brutality".

Maybe that's one of the problems--the parents. Some of them really don't know where their kids are or who they are with, or what they are doing. Some of them really don't care. Often times, it's their kids who get into trouble and take others with them.

A tightening of the parental reins would help.

A little tougher attitude in our courts would help, too. Sometimes you get the feeling that the professional deadbeat, the thief, the vandal, the assorted punks, get the breaks in the courtroom. And few if anyone seem to care about the victim. If the victim seeks justice in a courtroom, it seems all kinds of legal technicalities are thrown in his path so that the guilty walks out and thumbs his nose at society. And does it all over again.

The stolen bus incident, the paint spraying, and the scoreboard vandalism, raises a question: who's going to pay for the damage? Probably the insurance company which means the money is really coming from you and me.

Maybe it is time for a law making parents financially responsible for the actions of their offspring while they at least are juveniles. Hitting people in the wallet or pocketbook hurts but it certainly gets their attention. Parents might tighten the rems on their children a little.

Coincidentally, on this same page is a letter from a Quincy Sun reader in California who read the article in The Sun recently about the $10,000 vandalism at Atlantic Junior High School. He also sends along a clipping from a newspaper telling how an Illinois town is successfully dealing with vandalism by making parents financially responsible.

Maybe the time has come for Massachusetts and/or the city of Quincy to take similar action.

Maybe it is time to get a little tough before the incidents of Thanksgiving last week get worse.

To File Home Rule Petition

McCauley Would Require Homeowners Be Notified When Property Value Raised

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley plans to introduce a home rule petition at the next Council meeting requiring the board of assessors to notify homeowners when the value of their property is raised.

McCauley noted that when an assessment is raised on residential property the owner is unaware of the change until he or she receives the tax bill later in the year.

"The homeowner is then faced with unforeseen additional taxes which usually have to be paid within 30 days of receipt of the tax bill," said McCaulev.

"The notification by the Board of Assessors would allow the homeowner to raise his payment to his bank, if he has a mortgage on the property, or to set aside the additional monies in a savings or tax account if he pays his own taxes."

McCauley pointed out that, while most repairs or improvements on residential property do not result in increased assessments, enlargement of property such as an addition of a room or a garage, usually results in an assessment increase.

McCauley also said he plans to introduce a home rule petition requiring the mayor, the assessors, the city treasurer and the auditor to appear before the Council each year to explain the tax rate before officially setting it.

The Councillor introduced the proposal as an ordinance last June and the City Council passed it but the measure was vetoed by Mayor Tobin on grounds that the Council had exceeded its authority by passing an ordinance affecting the assessors.

The veto was sustained by a 5-4 vote.

A home rule petition must be passed by the City Council, approved by the Mayor and then submitted to the State Legislature for its approval.

Santa's Mailboxes At 4 Downtown Locations

Richard J. Koch, of the Christmas Festival Committee, announces that "Santa's mailboxes" for children writing letters to Santa Claus have been set up at four locations in Quincy Square.

The mailboxes, child size so that children can deposit their own letters without assistance, are in front of Sears, on Hancock St.; at the parking area, behind Child World; in front of C.V.S., on Hancock St., and adjacent to the Quincy Cooperative Bank, McIntyre Mall.

Adults are cautioned that the boxes are only for use by children writing to Santa Claus, express to the North Pole.

Deadline for mailing the letters is Dec. 20, when the mailboxes will be removed.

"Santa's mailboxes" is one of the annual Christmas Festival activities sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

4 Nominated For Service Academies By Burke

Tom Gorczyca, of 157 Highland Ave., Wollaston, has been nominated by Congressman James A. Burke (D-Milton) as his principal candidate for the vacancy at the Air Force Academy.

Other Quincy residents nominated as alternate candidates for United States Service Academies are Richard Schaetzl, 88 Clement Terrace, North Quincy, and John Shea, 25 Lafayette St., Quincy, West Point; and Francis LaPierre, 21 Randlett St., Wollaston, Air Force Academy.

READER SPEAKS OUT

In DuQuoin, Ill. Parents Pay For Children's Vandalism

[Editor's note: Lewis W. Trout, formerly of Quincy now living in California, wrote the following letter to Rep. Robert Cerasoli of Quincy and sent a copy to The Quincy Sun.]

Representative Robert Cerasoli
House of Representatives
State Capitol
Boston, Massachusette 02108

Dear Bob:

While reading a recent issue of The Quincy Sun, I was surprised to learn that the Quincy School Committee was lamenting the fact that children who vandalize property AND THE PARENTS OF THESE CHILDREN can not be held accountable. One school official was quoted as saying that there was no law that required PARENTS to pay for the damage caused by their offspring. He added that such a law would be unconstitutional. [NOKI-DIBLE]

It's a good thing that the people of Du Quoin, Illinois don't have the same defeatist attitude of some of the staff officials on the Quincy School payroll. When youngsters run wild in Du Quoin, their parents pay the price. In the Chicago suburb of Deerfield, vandalism losses have dropped by two-thirds since the passage of a parental responsibility law in 1975.

The Democratic Party has changed since I left Quincy in 1965. Ed King sounds like the kind of Democrat that could make me a staunch party man. There's little doubt in my mind that he would sign a parental responsibility law if one gets to his desk. To solve the vandalism problem in the Quincy school system, I urge you to introduce the legislation at the state level making parental responsibility law throughout the Commonwealth. While your bill works its way through committee, give Dan Ramondi a call and have him propose the required City ordinance. Then you'll be able to point to results in Quincy and the whole state just like those in Deerfield, Illinois.

Enclosed is a copy of the recent Los Angeles Times story about the two Illinois programs.

Sincerely yours,
Lewis W. Trout, QHS '65
7373 Cambridge Ave.
Rancho Cucamonga, Calif.

The news story follows:

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UP) - When youngsters run wild in Du Quoin, their parents must pay the price.

For youngsters who vandalize and are caught, the responsibility for their actions falls on their parents' pocketbooks.

"There is no way police can move around and be mother and father to these kids," Police Chief Walter Minton said.

"If some youngsters breaks a window or damages a roof in running across a building and we have his identity, we call in the youngster and the parents for a talk and we read them the law on parental responsibility."

There have been 10 to 12 such meetings of police with youngsters and their parents since the parental responsibility law took effect.

"And we haven't had any repeaters," Minton said. "The first time, we talk to them, but the second time they talk to the judge."

The law makes parents liable for fines of from $25 to $500.

The Chicago suburb of Deerfield adopted a parental responsibility law in 1975. Officials there said vandalism losses have dropped by two-thirds during the past three years and said burglary is down 35% and theft 14% this year.

Donnelly Urges 25%
Tax Cut Here On Gas, Oil

by the margin we won by.

SUN—Why did you win that big?

DONNELLY—It was a combination of reasons. Obviously, I came out of my political stronghold, Dorchester, much stronger than anybody else came out of their political strongholds. There's also a tremendous amount of people that used to live in Dorchester and now live in Quincy, Braintree or Milton. Over the course of the campaign, those people identified with Brian Donnelly better than they did with any of the other candidates. I think I was the most conservative candidate, especially on fiscal matters. I think that well represents the feelings of the people who live in the 11th District. We had a good organization and we worked hard. I lost 30 pounds in the campaign. But sometimes you never know. People in Washington are asking me: "What is the message behind your tremendous vote?" There are thousands of people in Washington who have nothing to do but sit on government payrolls and speculate about things. We told them when we find out what the mandate is we'll let you know.

SUN—What role did Jim Burke's last minute endorsement play?

DONNELLY—There's no question that it helped. But you don't win 48 per cent of the vote on an endorsement. Politics is a perceptual business. People perceive the type of individual they want to represent them and those perceptual judgments are made by the weekend before election day. That's a standard rule in politics.

SUN—What have you been doing since election?

DONNELLY—After the primary, my wife and I went for a week in Fort Lauderdale. On our way back we stopped in Washington and we went out to dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Burke and we've been back ever since. I've really been trying to pick my staff. We're writing job descriptions and salary ranges and looking for people who fill those qualifications and are willing to put in the amount of work that's necessary.

SUN—Who are going to be your chief aides?

DONNELLY—The only staff member we've picked out so far is my personal secretary, Cathy Raftery of Milton. She'll go with me to Washington. Cathy has worked up in the State House since Gov. Peabody's time. She knows politics and she knows people. I want somebody in my Washington office who is local so when somebody comes down from the district they'll get the appropriate treatment. Here's the criterion of the jobs: Individuals who are willing to work about 60 hours a week and have sensitivity towards people's problems. A great amount of a congressman's work is dealing with people's frustrations with the bureaucracy.

BRIAN DONNELLY

'People just don't believe anymore that the government can do anything to solve their problems.'

[Quincy Sun Photo by Steve Grochowski]

SUN—How many people are we talking about?

DONNELLY—18.

SUN — What's the salary range?

DONNELLY — It runs from about $10,000 a year to the top person, who will make about $25-30,000.

SUN—What are your plans for district offices?

DONNELLY—We're going to have one in Quincy and one in Brockton. And we're in the process now of moving into the John F. Kennedy Building in downtown Boston. I'm also looking into the feasibility of having a mobile van that will travel throughout the district on a scheduled route.

SUN — Will you keep the Quincy office in the Post Office building?

DONNELLY—My initial reaction is that I'd like to be on a street level and I'd like to be in the middle of the downtown area. It's convenient for handicapped people if they want to come in. Also, Quincy is making a good effort to revitalize the whole downtown and I think that, as a congressman, I'd like to be part of that. In terms of budget restrictions I don't know if we can do that but I'm looking into it.

SUN—How much will you be like Jim Burke?

DONNELLY—There'll be differences in style because there is a difference in age. I'm 30 years younger than Jim Burke. But I think in terms of motivation Jim Burke and Brian Donnelly come from the same type of working class stock. I think you'll see a continuation of his constituent services. I want people to get to know me almost on a personal basis, if possible, so they won't feel reluctant to pick up a phone and call their congressman. One of the major problems I find is that people just don't believe anymore that the government can do anything to solve their problems. When they think of government it's the government that is sticking its hand in their pockets, taking their money. The people who go out to work every day don't think they're getting a fair shake and they're not.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS By Tom Henshaw

Author Finds John Adams 'Most Fascinating'

Author Catherine Drinker Bowen visited Quincy, escorted by Historian William Churchill Edwards, to do research on her forthcoming book on President John Adams.

She started out to write a biography of artist Charles W. Peale, Mrs. Bowen said, "but as I read more and more of that period the name of John Adams kept coming up and before long this spirited Quincy man had completely captivated me.

"To me John Adams was the most fascinating figure of the Revolutionary period. I like his spirit, the way he fought with people and his amusing letters."

TEACHER RAPS KIDS

Miss Mary E. Costello, a third grade teacher at Coddington School for the past 50 years, said that today's children are neither as well behaved nor as studious as their parents were.

"Parents were more interested in their children's school life than they appear to be now," she said. "The trouble today is that youngsters are given too much freedom. They are allowed to see too many movies."

NORTH ALUMNI WIN IN MUD

Quincy-South Region Raises $406,821 For United Way

Quincy and the 20 other communities in the South Region raised $406,821 during the 1978 United Way of Mass. Bay campaign, according to William G. Fish, president of BayBank Norfolk Trust, and chairman of the drive in the South Region.

The amount fell short of the $420,000 goal, but was $35,890 ahead of the amount raised a year ago. In the region 28 United Way agencies will share in the funds to provide human care services.

The general campaign raised $19,265,711, setting a new record in the annual fund raising drive throughout 66 cities and towns of the Mass. Bay area.

McIntyre Chairman Of Harvard Club Meeting

James R. McIntyre, former Mayor of Quincy, was chairman of the recent meeting of the Harvard Club of Quincy held at the club's downtown Boston facilities at the National Shawmut Bank.

McIntyre, member of the club's executive committee, introduced Michael F. Brewer, assistant vice president of Harvard/Radcliffe. Brewer, who handles governmental and community affairs for the university, discussed the DNA research controversy and the on-going dispute over construction of a new power plant for the Harvard medical facilities in the Roxbury section of Boston.

William H. Hahn Jr., Highland Ave., Wollaston, president of the club, presided at the meeting.

The club draws its membership from the Quincy, Braintree, Milton and Weymouth areas. Philip M. Percy (843-3107) is chairman of the membership committee.

Ceramic Highlights

by Gloria

The types of ceramic glazes are numerous, and the variety of finishes and techniques for using them can be so involved that it would take volumes to explain them, so I will give some basic facts about glazes to help you decorate your ceramic pieces. If you are to use your piece for food or drink, it must be done in a "lead-free" glaze. Glazes are transparent, semi-transparent or opaque and come in many colors, finishes and textures. They are composed of combinations of clays, minerals and chemicals. Glazed pieces are either sponged or brushed on, using the manufacturer suggested amount of coats. They should for best results be put on fired pieces [bisque]. Some manufacturers say glazes can be put directly on greenware. Be sure to follow label directions. The glazed pieces are placed in a "kiln" and heated to the proper temperature needed to mature the glazes. The usual range for maturing glazes is between 1873° F and 2290° F. Some common finishes for glazes are: glossy, satin, matt, transparent, opaque, woodtone, speckle, crystal, foamy, metallic, crackle and art-tone.

TIPS AND HINTS:

Pinholes in your finished glazed piece could have been caused from dust, underfiring in bisque stage or too rapid firing. To correct, re-apply a thin coat of the glaze uesed and refire. If pinholes appear in greenware stage, use fingertips to rub clay which fills them in.

Open Sundays NowThru Dec. 17 12 to 5 P.M. 20% off on greenware, 30% off on Ceramichrome Glazes and Stains on Sundays only.

Residents Unhappy

Morrissey Seeks Compromise On 'No U-Turn' Sign Complaints

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has been in touch with MDC Commissioner John Snedeker's office regarding residents' complaints about the "No U-Turn" sign at the intersection of Quincy Shore Drive and East Squantum St.

Morrissey said he was contacted by many of the residents of the Quincy Shore Drive-Bay State Rd. area, who feel the sign presents a hardship in getting to their homes as well as increasing the volume of traffic on Bay State Rd."

Morrissey said he contacted Ken Kerwin, traffic engineer of the MDC, who made the decision to put a right arrow on East Squantum St. coming out of Squantum.

"Kerwin said his office had received a number of requests to put up the right arrow to speed the flow of traffic out of Squantum," said Morrissey. "Kerwin said the U-Turn sign had to be erected to protect the turning vehicles."

Morrissey said he is meeting with the Senior Traffic Engineer and the Commissioner's Office to iron out the problem.

In a letter to Snedeker, Morrisey asked the MDC to consider a compromise solution that would allow motorists to make a U-Turn except from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m., when the peak traffic out of Squantum would be turning right into Boston.

It sounds good to say that individual savings in the United States from annual personal income grew from $41 billion saved in 1967 to $67 billion in 1977. But figures have a way of deceiving unless closely examined. Actually, we have been losing in the past decade the capacity or inclination, possibly some of both, to preserve the good old American virtue of thrift.

First of all, the dollar in 1977 was worth little more than half what it could buy in 1967.

Then there is the fact, attested by the National Consumer Finance Association, that saving in the past ten years claimed a constantly diminishing share of personal income, declining from 7% to 4%.

We are painfully aware of what inflation and rising taxes have been doing to household budgets. The Conference Board discloses how much by noting that the average U.S. family had to raise its pretax income by at least two-thirds in the 1970's to maintain the standard of living it enjoyed at the start of the decade.

From 1967 to 1977, the Consumer Price Index leaped 86%, an inflation average rate of 8.6% per year. Increased personal taxes – federal, state, and local – combined to take an estimated 23% of pretax income last year, one of the highest percentages on record.

The average American family has therefore barely managed to break even in the 1970's. Median income of U.S. households, the National Consumer Finance Association reports, grew from around $10,000 in 1970 to about $16,000 in 1977. But after inflation and Federal taxes, their actual purchasing power remained about the same. Bring State and local taxes into the picture [which the NCFA does not report because they vary locally] and you can see why families that "never had it so good" are perplexed that they are not getting ahead.

The ten-year comparison shows that shelter and transportation are taking larger shares of personal income. Shelter now costs 23% of personal income, up from 21% ten years ago. Food absorbs a smaller share [16%] than ten years ago [18%].

Looks like we needed that increase of 145% in total personal income -- from $626 billion in 1967 to $1,536 billion in 1977 -- just to keep our heads above water!

Salute To 75 Jubilee

SHYO Musical 'Celebration' Opens Saturday Evening

Sacred Heart Youth Organization will present its 10th annual musical, "Celebration", Saturday and Sunday, and Tuesday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m. at the Sacred Heart School Hall, Glover Ave., North Quincy.

The show will feature highlights of the shows for the past nine years in recognition of the tenth anniversary of the parish youth activity.

Dedicated to the 75th jubilee of Sacred Heart Church, the musical is being directed by Ed Rooney. Former June Taylor dancer, Marianne Dennis, who now has her own studio, is choreographer.

Rev. Thomas C. Garrett is spiritual director of the Sacred Heart Youth Organization, with Thomas P. Koch, president.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Ann Flynn and Miss Debra Koch, co-chairmen of the ticket committee, any member of the cast or chorus, or at the Sacred Heart Rectory, 386 Hancock St., North Quincy.

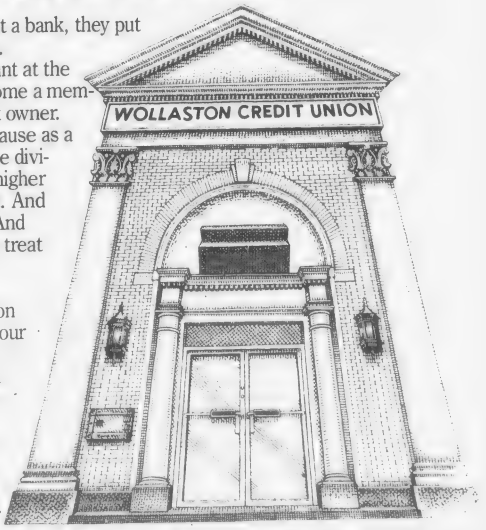
Between the drug store and the pizza parlor is not a bank.

When you open an account at a bank, they put your money away and that's that.



But when you open an account at the Wollaston Credit Union you become a member of the credit union and a part owner.

Which is no small point. Because as a part owner, you get a share of the dividends. In the form of generally higher interest on your savings account. And generally lower rates on loans. And because you're a part owner, we treat you differently here.

One more thing.

As a member of the Wollaston Credit Union, you are invited to our annual meeting and encouraged to voice your opinion about what we ought to be doing. Your vote carries as much weight as our president's. So we wouldn't be a bank even if they asked us.

Wollaston Credit Union, 651 Hancock Street. Phone 773-3500. Open Mon. & Thurs., 9 to 8 P.M. Tues., Wed. & Fri. until 5 P.M.

We're what a bank isn't allowed to be.

Deposits fully insured by the Massachusetts Credit Union Share Insurance Corporation. Up to $33,000 for single accounts and to $66,000 for joint accounts.

Back In Town. . .

HO! HO! HO! -- Santa Claus gives a hearty greeting to his many fans as he rides along in Quincy's Christmas Festival Parade, perched high on the city's new fire truck.

Christmas Parade Winners

Gloucester, Chicopee Top Bands Squantum, St. Joseph's CYO Best Floats

A biting wind and temperatures below freezing did little to chill the enthusiasm of more than 200,000 spectators at the Quincy Christmas Parade on Sunday.

Gloucester High School Band won the New England Marching High School Bands competition. Chicopee Comprehensive High was in second place and the Marching Presidents of Quincy High School took third place.

In the Class A competition Chicopee Comprehensive won top honors, followed by Quincy High and the Pirates of Hull High. In Class B Gloucester High was first and Norton won second prize. East Bridgewater High was the winner in Class C. Somerville High was second and Westwood High won third place honors.

Hull High School won the color guard competition, followed by Gloucester and Hull. In the drum majorette competition Chicopee Comprehensive was first, with Norton and Chicopee High, second and third.

Among the floats the Squantum Meadow Street Neighbors entry, "A Circus" was judged the best in the adult category and it also won The Mayor's Trophy. Second prize was given to "Alice in Wonderland", entered by Curtain Call Theater.

St. Joseph's CYO entry "A Boy and His Dog" was first among the youth category floats and St. John's "Under the Big Top" was second, followed by the Koch Club float "Christmas Toys".

First prize winners will receive $500, second prize gets $300 and $200 goes to each of the third place winners.

The commercial award went to "Star Wars" entered by the Boston Gas Company, and the individual trophy was won by "A Salute to Mickey Mouse" entered by Representative Michael Morrissey.

A specialty award was made to the Hallamore Clydesdales entered by Hallamore Transportation Company.

The committee also made a disaster award for the Wampatuck DeMolay of Braintree float "blew apart" in the high winds before the start of the parade.

Donnelly: Odds Good For New Fore River Bridge

SUN—What committees have you asked for?

DONNELLY — I've asked for the Ways and Means Committee, which Cong. Burke is on. I think there ought to be a member from Massachusetts. I'm lobbying very hard for that assignment.

SUN—What are your chances?

DONNELLY—I think the odds are fairly decent that I'll get it. A lot of it, obviously, is up to the Speaker, who is from Massachusetts. My second priority is the Public Works and Transportation Committee. It deals with the economic development issues. That can be useful in making sure that the 11th District gets a fair share of the federal disbursement. The South has been beating us for many years in terms of getting money. Public Works and Transportation would give me more clout so I'm making a strong bid for it. I'm going to Congress with one of the highest vote pluralities in the nation. That carries some clout, too.

SUN — Where does the new Fore River Bridge stand as far as federal help goes and what are your plans for pushing it?

DONNELLY—Cong. Burke had the necessary language change so that federal funds can be used to replace it even though it is not in disrepair. Now it's my responsibility to chase the money. I think we need a major commitment from General Dynamics that they will not only maintain their present facility but will expand it so that more people can be hired. I haven't dealt with General Dynamics before so I want in writing that we're not going ahead on this bridge without an absolute firm commitment.

SUN—What is the next step?

DONNELLY—Well, they're going through a design process and they're working on the state level. But the bottom line step is to get the federal money.

SUN—When will the bill be filed?

DONNELLY—It won't be a bill. It will be part of an economic development package. It wouldn't be a single piece of legislation. Rather it would be more of a process of coming out of a committee. The Public Works and Transportation Committee, by the way, has a lot to do with it.

SUN—What are the odds of getting it in the next 10 years?

DONNELLY — I think we're talking about seven to eight years. I think the odds are very good. A lot of it depends on General Dynamics. They've got to stay a viable industry and make a big commitment. It's incumbent on Speaker O'Neill to be very helpful here. This is his state. Not all the people who work in General Dynamics live in the 11th District. I'm going to be looking to O'Neill for help on this one.

SUN—Do you have any ideas you're going to push for a New England energy policy?

DONNELLY — The so-called National Energy Policy that passed Congress last session is a giant joke on the people. Carter's whole philosophy on energy is repressive. He wants to tax oil more so that people will use less. That discriminates against the Northeast. It totally disregards our problems and I resent it. It doesn't make sense because there are certain basic necessities that call for the use of oil. You have to have an automobile today. You have to have a nice warm house. One of the things I'm going to bring up at the Democratic caucus next week is to bring back the ad hoc committee on energy that was abolished in the last Congress and gave it some defined powers and put some people on there that are independent of the pressures of the White House and the oil companies. We can develop our own alternative sources of energy. When Sen. Kennedy was down at the Chamber of Commerce breakfast he said that 30 years from now, when the Arab nations are all returned to being deserts, we will be the major energy supplier in the world. That is true. But over the next 30 years, it's going to be very rough going.

SUN—Do you expect Arab oil to dry up?

DONNELLY—It's a fact that, at tops, there's 50 years of oil at present consumption rates.

SUN—Do you feel perhaps it's time to lower taxes on gas and oil or even remove them entirely?

DONNELLY—Sure. Especially in the Northeast, we've got to, if we want to compete economically with the other sections. Take Carney Hospital. Carney Hospital pays almost half a million dollars a year in utility bills. Take a hospital of similar size in Mississippi and they'd probably be paying half of that or 25 per cent of that. Very simply, Carney just passes that on to you in your daily charge. I absolutely think we should lower the tax, not the corporate tax, but the consumer tax. The taxes Carter wants to put on are consumer taxes. A dollar for a gallon of gasoline is only going to hurt one group of people and these are the working people who need their autos.

SUN—What would you suggest lowering them by?

DONNELLY—They should be lowered by 25 per cent on a regional basis. The whole government strategy has to change. It has to start taking into account the unique problems of regional areas. We pay the highest taxes in the country. What we ought to be getting is a little preferential treatment. I think energy taxes ought to be lowered more in the Northeast so that bills would be comparatively the same all across the country.

SUN—How do you feel about wage and price controls?

DONNELLY—The only experience I've had with that was Nixon's controls and they controlled wages pretty good but they never controlled prices. It's just too difficult to control prices. I'm not going to support wage and price controls unless I see a good faith effort on the part of the White House to solve the economic problems of the Northeast. He's asking me to vote to limit the wages of my people while not guaranteeing me that the prices they have to pay are controlled, too. He is also not telling me what the end result is going to be for my people five or 10 years down the road. You're not going to limit wages and prices for a while and stop inflation. It's not going to stop until you get at the major causes: deficit spending by the federal government and the balance of trade deficit. We're not competing economically on the world market.

SUN—Are you interested at all in international affairs?

DONNELLY—I am to a certain extent. But I'm much more interested in Quincy than I am in Bolivia. Cong. Burke was constituent oriented but traditionally Massachusetts sends the Mike Harringtons and the Father Drinans who are worried about the world at large. The confines of my world are within the 11th District. The thing that really concerns me, that frightens me, is the whole economy of this country. I'm frightened that the roof is going to fall in unless we have some people who show leadership. You can read all the press releases you want from the Carter administration and Tip O'Neill but we're still running $40, $50, $60 billion a year deficits.

SUN—Can this continue in the face of Proposition 13 mentality?

DONNELLY—I've always felt that a certain percentage of Congress is out of touch with reality. They forget the problems of the people who work and are struggling to pay the mortgage or the car payment because they live in a very plastic world down there. They go off to dinner at the White House and all that. There must be thousands of coatholders in Congress. They open doors for you and they pour your coffee and they light your cigarettes. You can see how easily people can forget what it's like to really struggle.

SUN—I heard Margaret Dinneen say that people should be careful with their votes because the winner of the election is going to be a congressman for the next 20 years. Do you feel that way?

DONNELLY — I hope that means Margaret is going to support me for 20 years. She was kind of rough on me in the campaign. But the people in this district are politically very sophisticated. As supportive as they are of me right now, if I don't do the job they'll be the first people to turn on me. Would I like to stay in Congress? Not having been there yet, I can't really say. But I have no political ambitions. Legislative bodies are very frustrating. I know the problems of the 11th District and the solutions. But the job is to convince 434 other people plus the president and the bureaucracy. It's tremendously frustrating. Maybe I'll become too frustrated and leave.

SUN—Will you continue to work for the Social Security reforms that Jim Burke advocated?

DONNELLY — Absolutely. Social Security today does not provide people enough money to live on when they're retired. We've got to do something to change it. Congress quadrupled the taxes on it without reforming the system. I think we either have to take disability and medical payments off Social Security and fund them directly from the general fund or, like Mr. Burke said, pay a third of the Social Security out of the general fund. The Social Security tax is no more than a tax on employment. It's a regressive thing. One thing this government should be doing is encouraging business people to hire more people. Instead, they're making it more difficult. My whole philosophy of government is that it is much too big, much too bureaucratic, much too unaccountable. The bureaucracy rarely responds to the elected members of Congress much less the average citizen taxpayer. The bureaucracy is surly and it really doesn't accomplish much except spend money. We should start disbanding the bureaucracy, disband it and regionalize it. Bureaucrats resent elected officials. They resent people telling them what to do. I know the bureaucracy on the state level. I represent 23,000 people and I call them about a problem that affects my people. Their attitude is: Who the hell am I to tell them? Basically I resent bureaucracy. They're going to have a tough person to deal with in me. There's a tremendous bureaucratic lobby, by the way. Most of the congratulations I've received have been from bureaucrats. They're sending them to the wrong person.

SUN—What do you think of Carter the next time around. Is he in trouble?

DONNELLY—According to the

"DESSIE" -- Linda Bishop, in title role of Dessie, cries out in rage when her father, portrayed by Conrad Bishop, refuses to help her regain custody of her child. The drama, on child abuse, is being presented, free of charge, by the South Shore Council for Children and Children's Protective Service, produced by The Independent Eye, Lancaster, Pa.

Liquor Establishments Can Stay Open Until 2 A.M. New Year's Eve

The Quincy Licensing Board Tuesday voted to allow all establishments in the city serving liquor to remain open until 2 a.m. on New Year's Eve.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn made the motion after noting that the extended hours were traditional. He also informed the board that there have been no police problems in previous years.

Fire Chief Edward Barry cast the only dissenting vote.

SSCCPS To Present Child Abuse Drama 'Dessie' Dec. 4

The South Shore Council for Children and Children's Protective Services (MSPCC) will present "Dessie", a drama and discussion about child abuse, free of charge, Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m., at East Milton Congregational Church, Fellowship Hall, 610 Adams St., East Milton Sq.

The nationally acclaimed drama, written and performed by Conrad and Linda Bishop, depicts the world of an abusive parent, using the frustrations every parent sometimes feels.

They "built the play out of little things the average person can recognize . . . and come to see that there isn't much difference, potentially, between Dessie and themselves".

A discussion will follow the play.

Parents, counselors, social workers, police, day care providers, teachers, and concerned citizens are invited.

For more information and reservations, which are limited, call or write the South Shore Council for Children, 1354 Hancock St., Quincy, 472-4224.

Las Vegas Night At Houghs Neck Post Saturday

Houghs Neck Legion Post, 1116 Sea St., will hold a Las Vegas Night Saturday at 8 p.m.

Vice commanders Paul Shaw and John Christensen are in charge of the event which is open to the public.

Proceeds will go towards the Houghs Neck children's Christmas party Dec. at 17 Atherton Hough School. Between 500 and 700 children, infants through sixth graders, are expected to attend the party.

'Poinsettia Fair' Dec. 6 At 1000 Southern Artery

The 1000 Southern Artery Senior Citizens Center will hold a "Poinsettia Fair" at the housing complex Wednesday, Dec. 6 from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The fair will feature home baked goods, Cabot cheese, hand made gifts, toys, decorations, knitted and crocheted items as well as ceramics, jewelry, white elephants and a silent auction.

A fish chowder luncheon will be served at three separate sittings at 11 a.m., noon and 1 p.m. Tickets for the luncheon will be on sale in the center office.

Donnelly: Carter's Energy Policy Discriminates Against Us

polls he's kind of fallen on his face, except for the Israeli-Arab situation. A lot depends on what he can do for the economy. If he doesn't straighten out the mess we're in I think he's going to have some political problems. But it's really too early to tell.

SUN—What are the chances of a strong Democrat moving in there? A Jerry Brown or a Ted Kennedy?

DONNELLY—The Democratic party always has wolves at the door, waiting for you to stumble. I don't mean to be overcritical of Carter but in terms of his performance toward the people I represent it hasn't been good. I look around and see most of our federal facilities have moved. I see an energy policy that totally discriminates against our industry and our people. He doesn't know politics very well, either. When the President came to Hanscom Field they invited me out there. I looked around and I asked one of his advance people: "Where's Speaker McCormack?" I was told: "He's not on the list." I said: "Are you telling me the President of the United States is coming to this state and the Speaker hasn't been invited?" Mr. McCormack is a revered figure. I thought that lacked political sophistication.

SUN—Do you have any priority on the legislation you're going to file?

DONNELLY—Mostly economic stuff, a limit on the growth of government, a constitutional amendment on deficit spending and substantial energy legislation, which will be filed as amendments to bills coming out of committee.

SUN—What would the deficit spending amendment say?

DONNELLY — That only in times of emergency, and with the approval of Congress, will the government be allowed to spend more money than it takes in.

SUN—It wouldn't put a cap on taxes?

DONNELLY—No. But in terms of taxes, one of the reasons I want to go on the Ways and Means Committee is because that's where the tax law is written. Our whole tax structure is very repressive. The more you make, the more they take. I think we have to put incentive back into the tax structure. When someone goes out and works hard, they should get a reward for it. They shouldn't have Big Daddy taking all their money away.

SUN—What are you saying? That sounds like creeping Republicanism.

DONNELLY—I think the leadership of the Democratic party is really way to the far left. They're socialists. I don't think that's the Democratic party of my people. We grew up where if you produced, you were left alone. The government didn't tell you what to do. You could send your kid to the school that you wanted to send him to. You could do anything you wanted as long as you didn't hurt anybody else. My philosophy is that government exists for three reasons: to help people who legitimately can't help themselves, to protect us from outsiders who would forcibly change our system of government, and to establish a nation of law and order so we won't go around shooting each other. Other than that, government ought to leave people alone.

SUN—You sound like a libertarian.

DONNELLY—No, not that far. I'm a working class Democrat. I look at the job as a once in a lifetime opportunity to do what everybody else in the district talks about over the coffee tables and the bars. You'll see me in the papers a lot because I'm just not the go-along-to-get-along type, rub my back and I'll rub yours and we'll all be wonderful and we'll all stay here.

SUN—Isn't that the kind of a guy the leadership sits in the corner and forgets about?

DONNELLY—Sure, politics is the art of compromise but they don't respect you if you go there and become a clone. The job has certain innate powers and you can make it that much more powerful through political skill. I'm darn sure that if they think they're going to have problems with this new guy Donnelly, they're going to be a little bit nicer to me. Nobody in politics gives you anything. That's a giant myth. The guys who get something are the hell raisers because you've got to shut them up.

King Sticking To Promises To Roll Back Taxes $500 Million

Gov.-elect Edward J. King is sticking by his promise to roll back local property taxes $500 million -- but it may be a little more difficult than he thought during the campaign.

King was a guest of the city at Sunday's Christmas Parade and, of course, someone at the post-parade reception in the Neighborhood Club had to bring up campaign promises.

Since King's election Nov. 7, there have been reports of a $100 million deficit that might have to be taken into consideration before anything is rolled back.

"Now $100 million is a lot of money," said King. "We expected some surprises but I would say that that is a lot more than we thought of.

"But we did say that $500 million is a conservative figure and it is certainly an attainable goal.

"We did not expect everything to be perfect when we set the $500 million figure. Our estimate included a letdown in the economy for at least two quarters, which was the consensus nationally."

King promised that his administration, which takes over the state government in January, "will contrast rather sharply with those of the past 10 years."

"There is going to be a difference," he said. "We recognize that people have to work. We also recognize that they all cannot work for the government. The taxpayers are clearly saying they cannot pay anymore.

"If people have to work and they can't be on that side then there's one answer and that is what we call the private sector. That's where we're going to make the effort."

Cong.-elect Brian J. Donnelly, also a guest at the parade, told the reception that one of the major focuses of his first term will be to make the federal government aware of the 11th District.

"My job will be to make the government start responding in a way they really haven't responded over the last 15 to 20 years about our unique problems here," he said.

Fitzgerald, Brennan Couldn't Ask For Anything More

It Was A Great Day For 2 Quincy Toms

By TOM SULLIVAN

Thanksgiving was a big day for two Quincy Toms — Fitzgerald and Brennan.

The Presidents rallied for two touchdowns in the last period to give Fitzgerald a 13-7 win over North Quincy before 13,000 fans in his first season as Quincy coach. It was Quincy's 24th win in the series. North has won 19 and there have been three ties.

Brennan, the smallest player on the field at 5-7 and less than 140 pounds, had one of his best days as he rushed for 97 yards, continually carrying two and three players with him, and he scored the winning touchdown, after setting it up.

The Presidents' win gave them a 5-5 record, while North fell to 3-7, an extremely deceiving record. The Raiders were far better than that and were out of only two games this fall.

"This is just great," Fitzgerald said. 'The boys never gave up after falling behind and they showed what they could do. Brennan is a great little competitor and he did one heck of a job today. And our quarterback, Charlie McCall, who started because our starting quarterback, Dave Austin, was out with a shoulder separation, really did the job.

"It was a tough spot to put him in, starting the North game, but he showed a lot of poise. We didn't pass as much as usual but he passed well when called upon, he ran the option real well and his handoffs were perfect. He has always played a lot on defense but his offensive play had been with the junior varsity."

"This was a typical Quincy-North game," North coach Dave Burke said. "Quincy did a fine job but our boys also did a terrific job. Both teams hit hard. We had a good first half but let down in the second half. What can I say?

"We didn't pass as much as usual but when I am ahead I don't pass much. It was a good, hard hitting game."

The game was won up front and in the second half Quincy's offensive line did a tremendous job opening up the holes for Brennan and Ralph Pickering and giving McCall excellent protection.

Brennan and Pickering did the bulk of the Quincy ball carrying with McCall also running well and doing some good passing. Pickering and John Sullivan blocked well.

Assistant Coach Peter Chella had high praise for the offensive line. He hailed the performances of Geoff Caflisch, Fran Duggan, who started and played most of the game although only a sophomore; Russ DiPietro, George McCarron, Paul Bandera, Tom Rand, Fran Barry, Ron Cross, Howie Chadbourne, Gerry Grassi and Jim Peters. And he cited Bob Ciardi for passing the ball back flawlessly for Tony Marinelli, who did some outstanding punting.

On defense Assistant Coach Bill Maver praised the entire unit but had good words in particular for Pickering, Lou Mathews, big Chuck Silva, who was playing his only game of the year after being ineligible until Thanksgiving; John Nichols, Steve Cacciatore, Mike Trifone, Glen Lydon, John Rizzi, Fran Donovan, Jeff Giordani, Lou Venturelli, Bandera, Billy Murray, Don Murray and Dean Prescott.

Tom Quinn, who led both teams in scoring this year with 72 points (Brennan had 66), was held scoreless for the second game in a row but he and Jim Holleran did just about all the Raider running. Quinn picked up 61 yards and Holleran 32.

In addition to the running of this pair, Kevin Cobban played well at quarterback and John Connolly did some fine blocking.

Assistant Coach George Liset lauded the offensive line—Mike Spinale, Joe Venezia, Brian McGilvray, Paul and John White, Larry Baker, John O'Leary, Dan McIntyre and Pat McKenna.

On defense Ken McPhee cited McGilvray, Spinale, Venezia, Baker, Leo Graham, Pat Ennis, Paul McNamara, Tom Malloy, Matt Hemphill, John Hernon, Glen Healy, Brian Hewitt, John Lothrop and Dave King.

Penalties hurt Quincy again in the first half and it had only one first down during the half. One drive was stopped in North territory by a 15-yarder and another set up the North touchdown in the second period.

Neither team could muster an attack in the opening period until North punted late in the period but a 15-yard penalty against Quincy enabled the Raiders to keep the ball and they drove to their score early in the second quarter.

Another penalty set Quincy back to its six from where Holleran scored around left end. Spinale kicked the point.

The 7-0 lead lasted until early in the fourth period when Quincy drove from its 47 to score. McCall threw to Cahill-in the far left corner of the end zone and Cahill made a fine catch to complete a 19-yard touchdown play. Quincy faked a kick and Donovan's pass for the go-ahead points was knocked down by King and Graham.

Quincy now was fired up and held North, forcing one of several fine Ennis kicks. The Presidents drove from their 46 with Darrell O'Neil making a miraculous catch of a McCall pass to give Quincy a first down on the North 25.

Brennan ran for five, McCall added eight around left end and Brennan raced 11 yards for a first down on the one. It took three tries but Brennan finally went over and Giordani kicked the point.

A key play came on the ensuing kickoff, a line drive kick which bounced off a North player and was recovered at midfield by Quincy's Bob Harnais.

Time was running out and it appeared that Quincy could hold the ball until the end but a surprise pass was intercepted on the six by the Raiders' Baker, giving North one more chance. However, Quincy held, took over on the 22 and ran out the clock.

● S.S. Hockey

Flyers Move Into Top Spot

The Quincy Flyers finally moved into first place in the South Shore Division of the South Shore Hockey League by defeating last year's champion, Neponset [Ashmont], 7-4, while Bridgewater, which had been leading, was bombed by West Roxbury, 9-1.

The Flyers will meet West Roxbury, the Greater Boston Division leader, Sunday night at 9:15 at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham in one of the big games of the season. Quincy is 7-1-1 and West Roxbury is 8-0-1.

The Quincy Panthers continue to play well and defeated the Quincy Sabres, 10-2, to make their record 6-3-0, leaving them three points behind the Flyers.

Another Quincy entry, the Braves, defeated South Boston, 5-2, for their fourth win in a row.

The Flyers-West Roxbury game could be a preview of the playoffs. Both have strong squads, Quincy with the speed and West Roxbury with the passing ability.

● Pee Wee House

Forman's Hat Trick Paces UCT, 6-4

UCT defeated Mug 'n' Muffin, 6-4, with Bob Forman having the hat trick and Bill Heeney, Kevin Golden and Fred Catarius one goal each.

Game Dedicated To Creighton

The holiday game was dedicated to Lloyd M. Creighton, retiring Quincy High principal.

Just before the kickoff Creighton, who has been principal at Quincy for 15 years, was presented a citation from School Committee Vice Chairwoman Patricia Toland on behalf of the school administration.

Creighton left last weekend for Sarasota, Fla., where he will spend the winters. He will summer at his cottage in Meredith, N.H.

"I hope to see more Quincy-North Quincy games," he said.

He correctly predicted before the game that Quincy would be the winner.

Fitzgerald, Hill Share Something In Common

Quincy coach Tom Fitzgerald and Quincy's new principal, Lloyd Hill, had something in common on the holiday.

It was Fitzgerald's first holiday game as Quincy coach after being assistant at his alma mater, North Quincy, the past nine years.

Hill doesn't officially take over as Quincy principal until the first of the year, but has been working with retiring principal Lloyd Creighton making the transition.

It was his first game as a Quincy school official after being assistant principal at North for the past several years.

Lubarsky In Good Company

Dave Lubarsky, who can tell you about any Quincy game back to the turn of the century, was in good company at the Quincy-North Quincy game.

Dave, the king of sports trivia, was seated between Norfolk County Sheriff Cliff Marshall and former State Rep. Joe Brett.

Conroy Finds Being Fan Easier

Among the spectators on Thanksgiving was Hank Conroy, who retired last year after 14 years as Quincy's head coach.

"It is a lot easier looking on as a fan, but I miss the excitement of coaching when Saturday and Thanksgiving come," he admitted.

Fitzgerald, Burke In Lockerroom Talks

It was like old home week Thanksgiving for Quincy Coach Tom Fitzgerald and North's Dave Burke.

The two were all-scholastic teammates at North in the early 40s.

Fitzgerald, first-year coach at Quincy, was an assistant at North for the last nine years, the last three under Burke.

Burke had been an assistant coach at Quincy for several years before taking over as North's head coach.

Following the holiday classic Fitzgerald spoke to the North players in their dressing room and Burke did the same in the Quincy locker room.

Mele 'Scouts' Game

As usual, Quincy's Sam Mele, Red Sox scout, was at the Quincy-North Quincy game.

Like all the Sox fans, Sam agreed it was tough to lose Luis Tiant and said he hopes the Sox will move quickly to get some pitching help.

Field In Good Shape

As usual, George Page and his crew had Veterans Memorial Stadium in good shape for the holiday game despite the pre-Thanksgiving snow.

"Give the school department credit, we had all its equipment and it certainly did help," said George, who with his able crew, was at the stadium early to get it in condition.

PROPERTY TAX LOSES AT POLL

According to a recent survey by Opinion Research Corporation for the U.S. Government on the average citizen's opinion on taxes, it will come as no surprise that the results showed that the least popular tax of all was the property tax. The purpose of the survey was to find out attitudes on the proposed value-added tax, property tax, income tax and sales tax.

Although no particular tax received a resounding approval, it was a clear-cut message that American's major complaint with our fiscal system lies with the property tax. When queried as to which tax was the "least fair", 45 percent selected the property tax, the federal income tax placed a far second with a 19 percent disapproval.

On the subject of raising more state revenue, 71 percent preferred the increasing taxes on sales or income. On raising more federal funds, 70 percent of those polled indicated the best method would be to eliminate tax loopholes.

League schedules for the various divisions are available at the main desk of the 'Y'. League Director Jim Rendle announces that a total of 100 teams will be participating in scheduled games on Saturday.

Undefeated PeeWee B's Rack Up 9th

Quincy Pee Wee B team is having an outstanding season with a 9-0 record in the South Shore Conference and 16-1-1 overall.

Tonight (Thursday) the team will host Billerica at 7:30.

In their latest game the Pee Wee B's defeated Hingham, 7-3, with John McGlame having a hat trick. Brian Chase two goals and Sean Barry and Rich Horrigan one each. Bobby Kane had three assists, Rick Cicchese and Chase two apiece and Horrigan, Barry, Jamie Seamans and Cooke one each.

The Pee Wee B's also defeated Stoneham, 3-2, on goals by Mike Hays, Chase and McGlame having the goals and Horrigan, Barry, John Kelly and Phil Sheldone assists.

The team topped Brockton, 4-1, with Horrigan, O'Connor, Barry and Reidy having the goals and Kelly, Chase, Seamans, Hohmann and Cooke assisting.

They suffered the only loss to South Boston, 6-3, with Seamans, Barry and Kane scoring the goals and Barry, Seamans and McGlame having assists.

The team bounced back to wallop Scituate, 8-0, sparked by Barry's hat trick. Sheldone had two goals and Cooke, O'Connor and Kane one apiece. Horrigan had three assists as did Sheldone and Barry, Kane and Chase one each.

In a 2-0 win over Milton Barry and Kelly had the goals and Horrigan, Sheldone, Chase and McGlame had assists.

Recreation Department Office Moves To Merrymount Park Friday

The Quincy Park - Recreation Board announces that the Recreation Department's administrative office will be relocated on Friday.

The Department will move from the John F. Kennedy Health Center, to its new quarters at 100 Southern Artery in Merrymount Park across from Adams Field. The department offices will be open to the public Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. The office can be reached by telephone through the City Hall switchboard at 773-1380, Ext. 204, 205, 206.

The move now brings the Park, Recreation and Forestry functions of the board all to one location.

North Quincy K. Of C. Sponsoring Hockey Tourney

North Quincy K. of C. will sponsor a youth hockey tournament during Christmas vacation from Dec. 26 through 30 at the Youth Arena.

Grand Knight Tom Cashman announces that there will be four divisions in the first K. of C. tournament, Pee Wees, Bantams, Squirts and Girls. The boys' teams are all of Division II and the Girls Division I.

K. of C. councils are urged to sponsor a team. Those interested should contact Cashman or the Youth Arena (479-8371), ask for Beverly Reinhardt.

It is expected that more than 600 youth hockey players will take part in the tournament.

Bellotti's Daughter Files Kidnapping Complaint Against Wollaston Man

A warrant alleging kidnapping has been issued for Alfred MacKinnon,25, of Wollaston, on a complaint filed by Mary Bellotti, 25, daughter of Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti.

Quincy and state police said that MacKinnon had not been apprehended at Quincy Sun press time Tuesday.

Mary (Lizzie) Bellotti said her former boy friend took her against her will from Quincy on Saturday evening and held her at an undisclosed place in Boston, according to police.

Miss Bellotti returned home safe. All questions concerning the incident were referred to the attorney general's office, but Bellotti declined comment.

District Atty. William Delahunt said it would be inappropriate to discuss a pending case.

Guest speakers will be Senator-elect Paul Tsongas and Robert J. Blackwell, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Maritime Affairs.

Thanksgiving Marred

who worked so hard to make the day a part of Quincy's tradition - the athletes, the fathers' booster clubs, the bands, the cheerleaders and the pep squads - had to be subjected to such treatment. It is unfortunate to have the day marred by such unthinking behavior."

At North Quincy the three juveniles apprehended were charged with malicious damage to real property. Police said they sprayed the Hunt St. walls of the new building with blue paint. They appeared Tuesday in juvenile court.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
Norfolk, ss. Probate and Family Court

No. 191193
Notice of Fiduciary's Account

To all persons interested in the estate of ELMER L. STEVENS of Quincy, in said County, a person under conservatorship and to his heirs apparent or presumptive.

You are hereby notified pursuant to Mass.R.Civ.P. Rule 72 that the First account of JAMES E. FARRELL as Conservator [the fiduciary] of the property of said ward has been presented to said Court for allowance.

If you desire to preserve your right to file an objection to said account, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before the 13th day of December, 1978, the return day of this citation. You may upon written request by registered or certified mail to the fiduciary, or to the attorney for the fiduciary, obtain without cost a copy of said account. If you desire to object to any item of said account, you must, in addition to filing a written appearance as aforesaid, file within thirty days after said return day or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order a written statement of each such item together with the grounds for each objection thereto, a copy to be served upon the fiduciary pursuant to Mass.R.Civ.P. Rule 5.

Witness, ROBERT M. FORD, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this 9th day of November, 1978.

BANK WITH US

This is an ad about friendly & courteous HANCOCK BANK, the largest independent commercial bank in Norfolk County. With 16 branch offices we can serve customers from Quincy to Plainville and in'between... not to mention the over 300 supermarket locations that our MONEY & VC cards cover. That means check cashing privileges where you buy your groceries!

As a full service A FULL SERVICE BANK bank we offer a variety of checking accounts for families as well as businesses (both large and small LEMONADE)...and savings accounts that come in all sizes...regular pass book savings, 90 day notice and certificates of deposit.

....and loans. Mortgage loans, Home Equity loans, , , , , ETC.

Full service banking means what it says, total banking services to businesses as well as individuals. With all these services, however, the most important one is CUSTOMER SERVICE. That means having bank employees who are friendly and courteous. Employees who remember you and employees who you remember because they know how important a friendly attitude is. Right?

ANNOUNCING MASSACHUSETTS' MOST VALUABLE BANK CARD.

NOW YOU CAN GET UP TO $350 CASH, DAY OR NIGHT.

We've increased the amount of money you can get from BayBanks X-Press 24.™ Now you can use your BayBanks Card to withdraw up to $350 cash (per day, per card) from your Something Better checking, NOW or savings account. Even though the bank may be closed.

And, when the bank is open, you can use your card and BayBanks X-Press™ to OK your own personal checks for the same $350. (Another increase!) All you need is a Something Better checking or NOW account. Just put your check into any BayBanks X-Press, push a few buttons, and take the check to any teller. You'll find BayBanks X-Press machines in each of the more than 150 offices of the 9 BayBanks in Eastern Massachusetts.

NOW YOU CAN CASH ANY KIND OF CHECK. AT ANY OFFICE OF A BAYBANK.

Now you can go into any of the BayBanks and use your card and the BayBanks X-Press unit to approve all kinds of checks yourself. (Up to $350 per day, to a maximum of $700 a week.) This includes payroll checks, government checks, even checks drawn on other banks. All you have to do is open a Something Better checking or NOW account and qualify for Reserve Credit.

Please send me more information.

History of the Infant of Prague

In the country of Austria, in the city of Prague,
A royal procession was wending its way,
Regally decked in colors bright,
To the monastery of the Discalced Carmelites.
Princess Polixena had come to give
These holy friars a precious gift;
A treasured heirloom she received
On her marriage to Polish nobility.
A beautiful statue of the Holy Child,
So gentle and loving, so winsome and mild.
Royally crowned and regally robed,
His left hand holding the earthly globe.
Prophetical words were uttered that day,
For Princess Polixena was heard to say,
"Respect and honor to this image show,
And material want you will never know."
Carmelite history literally proves,
That spiritual and temporal wants were few,
Indeed the miracles were very great
When the Divine Infant they would venerate.
But depression settled on the house indeed,
When this devotion they would recede.
In 1631, Prague was sacked and over-run
By Protestant Swedes, who mocked and reviled
All things Catholic, and in a pile of rubble lay,
The Miraculous Statue of the Infant of Prague.
When peace returned to the war torn land,
There came to the monastery a little band
Of weary friars in dire need,
To rebuild their home, destroyed by the Swedes.
Father Cyril of the Mother of God,
Loved the Infant most of all
And diligently searched until he found
The Miraculous Image hidden until now.
Lovingly he cleaned and brought it back,
But the tiny hands were badly cracked.
And when before It he knelt to pray,
In sweetest tones, he heard It say:
"Have pity on me and I will pity you,
Give me back my hands and I will give to you
A peace above all early bliss,

The More Honor You Show Me —
The More You I will Bless."

Feeling the message was heavenly sent
Father Cyril quickly went,
To ask the Prior to again renew
The old devotion the community once knew,
And for an offering he implored
That the broken hands might be restored
Vain the plea that Cyril made,
But undaunted and undismayed,
To the Infant again he prayed,
"Little King, the means supply,
And with your wish I will comply.
Send to me some wealthy friend,
And your broken hands, we'll quickly mend."
The Infant spoke as oft before,
"Place Me near the sacristy door."
Father Cyril obeyed the command
And after Mass, a Praguearian man
To the Prior an offering gave
To repair the Statue of the Infant of Prague.
With the restoration of the Miraculous Babe
Prosperity again to the Carmelites came.
Miraculous happenings at once began,
And replicas of the Infant were in great demand.
Devotion to the Infant actually dates
To Sixteen Hundred and Twenty-eight (1628).
It rapidly spread to every clime
And is a popular devotion in our present time.

Tobin Asks Early Payment Of Tax Bills

By TOM HENSHAW

Real estate tax bills are on their way to Quincy taxpayers at long last and the city is moving to make it physically – but not necessarily fiscally – easier to pay them.

Starting today [Thursday], there will be two meter maids stationed in front of City Hall to see that space at the Hancock St. curb is reserved for taxpayers only while they are paying their bills.

"There will be no parking in front of City Hall by anyone except people coming in to use City Hall or pay their tax bills," said Mayor Tobin. "This will go on long enough to handle the rush."

Tobin said Treasurer Robert E. Foy III and Auditor Charles L. Shea have been in touch with local banks, who pay some 60 per cent of the tax bills under mortgage agreements, to expedite payments.

"They told the city that they will cooperate with us," said the Mayor. "We are requesting the other 40 per cent of the taxpayers to pay their bills as soon as possible to help the city financially."

The bills were delayed for more than a month while the city converted from manual to automated processing of the tax rolls.

To File Legislation

Harold Would Make Parents Liable For Up To $300 Of Vandalism

Sen.-Elect Paul D. Harold says he plans to introduce a bill in the State Legislature that would make parents responsible up to $300 for vandalism done by their children to public buildings.

Harold told the Quincy Taxpayers Association that the measure would be one of a package of 21 bills he plans to file before the December deadline. He'll be sworn in Jan. 3.

He said the bill was proposed to him by School Committeewoman Joan Picard following vandalism at Atlantic Junior High School that did $10,000 worth of damage in one night.

The $300 ceiling on responsibility, he said, would be placed because "we wouldn't want to hold parents responsible for the total amount. It's tough being a parent.

"There is a certain point where children are acting on their own and you can't really hold a parent responsible for what a child might do. Raising children is not that certain a science."

Harold said he also plans to sponsor a bill that will "put some type of ceiling on spending as a means of controlling increases in taxes both on the state and local levels."

"It's going to be one of the most important pieces of legislation for the coming year," he said.

"Elected officials are all good guys and the problem is they can't say 'no'. What we have to do is limit the amount of money they can spend.

"I have served in the City Council for three years and the first week I was there it was much easier to vote for or against programs. Later you see things not necessarily on their merits but on personalities."

Harold told the taxpayers he also plans to file the following:

- An amendment to a law under which tax concessions cannot be given to developers unless the land they are developing has been ruled blighted. Under his amendment, it would not necessarily have to be blighted.
- Creation of an advisory board for the MDC so that cities and towns within the district would have a chance to vote on its budget. "This is one way of controlling the fixed costs of the city."
- A measure that would give cities and towns the right to veto the county budget. The veto

Point Cafe Gaming Charge Dismissed On Tie Vote

By PETER BARNICLE

On a 2-2 tie vote, the Quincy Licensing Board Tuesday dismissed a complaint against the owners of Jimmy's Cafe, 21-23 Des Moines Rd, Quincy Point, charging they had permitted the premises to be used for illegal gaming.

After a two hour hearing, board member Allan F. MacDonald moved that the cafe's license be revoked on the grounds the owners, James M. and Rose N. Mitchell, were aware of the gambling. Fire Chief Edward Barry seconded the motion.

Board chairman John Gillis and Dr. Samuel Solomon opposed revocation. Police Chief Francis X. Finn disqualified himself because of police involvement in the investigation.

The hearing was delayed nearly an hour while the board sought a ruling from Norfolk County Judge Alan Dimond on the legality of introducing a transcript of telephone calls as evidence.

The two telephones at the cafe had been tapped by police after they had obtained a court order.

The transcript was prepared in connection with the arrest of Robert Mitchell, son of the owners and bartender at the cafe. He was arrested April 23, 1977, during a raid on the cafe, one of a series police conducted that day in a crack-down on

Hearing On Community Development Planning

The Planning Department will hold an open hearing tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in the Quincy High School Method Center to give residents a chance to discuss current community development activities and offer suggestions for future programs.

The hearing is being held prior to the submission of Quincy's 1979-80 Community Development Block Grant application.

Mayor Tobin said the opinions and suggestions of those attending the hearing will be taken into consideration in the development of the community development application.

Planners will be present to provide information and answer questions.

Transportation for elderly and handicapped persons will be provided by the Council on Aging by calling 773-1380, extensions 243 and 244.

Sheets Asks Impact Study On MBTA Stations

A resolve filed by City Councillor James A. Sheets for a study of the impact of Quincy's three MBTA stations on the local crime rate has been sent to the Council's Public Safety Committee.

Sheets said the Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy stations, with their easy access to the city, have existed long enough for measurement to be taken of impact on surrounding areas.

Registry's CRAC Unit To Aid Police On Traffic Problem

Chief Francis X. Finn and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Alan Mackey announce the CRAC (Controlled Registry Action to the Community) enforcement team of the Registry will assist the Quincy Police Department in enforcing moving traffic regulations.

The effort is being conducted to cut down the rate of motor vehicle accidents and injuries, and to make this Christmas a safer one for citizens travelling on foot or in vehicles.

Traffic offenders will be prosecuted.

Condon, McGrath Insist:

Cost Per Student, Declining Enrollment Arguments For Cap On School Budget

City Councillors Joanne Condon and Stephen J. McGrath say that the comparatively high cost per student in Quincy schools as well as declining enrollment played a role in their bid to put a cap on the school budget.

The two freshmen councillors introduced an order last month urging the state legislature to forbid the City Council from appropriating more money for the school budget than it did the year before.

They noted that, as of June 30, 1977, the cost of educating a student through Grade 12 in Quincy was $1,912, while it was $1,510 in Brockton, $1,536 in Pittsfield, $1,544 in Somerville, $1,573 in Springfield, $1,655 in Worcester and $1,769 in Framingham.

"The cost per student figure is useful when viewed in relation to a cost figure of a community of comparable size," they said in a statement.

"Fiscal responsibility by holding the line on the school budget should not be viewed as being detrimental to education.

"As a matter of fact, the Brockton School Committee in October unanimously voted to adopt a no-increase policy exactly the same as the one we have proposed.

"The Brockton School Committee has publicly stated that they are now looking at ways to cut the $1.5 million necessary to offset anticipated collective bargaining salary increases.

"This voluntary action is commendable and appears to be a sound approach to fiscal responsibility."

"The decline in enrollments is expected to continue until the late 1980's, according to a task force report prepared for the Quincy School Department. As of Oct. 1, declining enrollments are evident throughout the system. Several grades have less than 15 students. This indicates a need for reorganization, which has been discussed by the School Committee in relation to school closings.

"Declining enrollment is the key to the necessary cuts in the budget to offset collective bargaining salary increases. Fewer students require fewer teachers, less teaching material, fewer lunch matrons, fewer teacher aides and less support staff. In four years our enrollment has declined 2,417 students. By the late 1980's, an additiona drop of about 3,500 students is predicted.

"Obviously the taxpayer is asking for relief. This has been evident on the local, state and federal level. We do not understand the apparent reluctance of the School Committee to begin to look, as other communities are doing, at where controls can be implemented; rather than offer justifications as to why reductions cannot be made."

General Dynamics Hopes To Land 10 More LNG's

General Dynamics Quincy shipyard christened the fifth of its 10 planned liquified natural gas (LNG) tankers last week and disclosed it is seeking to build 10 more under the contracts worth $2 billion.

P. Takis Veliotis, vice president of General Dynamics and former general manager of the yard, said proposals are being developed for the new LNGs, which could provide work for 5,000 employees for four years.

Veliotis said present work at the yard is expected to be completed by the end of 1980 but if the 10 contracts were obtained work would be extended through 1984.

Fore River is in competition with yards in Newport News, Va., and Louisiana, Veliotis said.

Robert J. Blackwell, assistant secretary of Commerce for Maritime Affairs, the main speaker at the christening, also lent an optimistic note to the ceremonies.

"I'm sure that General Dynamics here in Quincy will be a formidable competitor for any shipbuilding orders that are generated by the LNG projects," he said.

Some 2,000 shipyard workers and their families witnessed the ceremonies at which the newest LNG was named "Leo." The keel was laid in September, 1976.

Harold Would Give License Board Access To Criminal Records

Senator-elect Paul D. Harold has informed the Quincy Licensing Board he is filing a bill which will permit local licensing authorities access to criminal records of applicants for food or liquor licenses in their area.

At present the board must be made aware of any drug or liquor convictions against the applicant, but they do not have the legal right to look at other criminal offender record information.

Access to criminal records would be strictly limited by terms of the bill and would be made available only to properly certified agencies, Harold said.

O'Connell Retiring As QTA President

Harry E. Roemer, executive director of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, will be acting president of the organization until a president is chosen, it was announced by the retiring president Peter F. O'Connell.

Other officers chosen at a recent meeting of the QTA include:

Fred E. Bergfors Jr., first vice president; Harry R. Bjorkman, second vice president; Robert T. Mahoney, third vice president; Thomas E. Turynowicz, secretary; Roger Perfetti, treasurer; Nick Pepe, assistant treasurer.

Named to the executive committee were Peter F. O'Connell, Dr. Philip L. McCarthy and Evelyn H. Kilbourn.

O'Connell said the executive committee will meet to see if the association's bylaws can be changed to permit the executive director to serve as chief officer.

Eliminates Side Effects

Research Team Headed By Quincy Specialist Develops New Drug To Control Glaucoma

A Quincy specialist in eye ailments is a director of a team of researchers that has come up with a new drug to control glaucoma, one that produces few, if any, side effects.

She is Dr. Deborah Pavan Langston of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, daughter of Mrs. Elmyra Pavan of Crabtree Rd, Squantum and the late Harry Pavan, a Quincy attorney who was city solicitor at the time of his death.

Dr. Langston, who headed the research team with Dr. William Boger, developed the drug called "timolol maleate" after 2½ years of clinical research. It was recently approved by the FDA.

The latest issue of "Events", the quarterly publication of the MEEI, calls it "not only one of the most potent glaucoma-controlling drugs on the market, but it also does not induce any of the annoying or debilitating side effects."

Glaucoma is a disease in which liquids build up inside the eyeball causing internal pressure that could damage the optic nerve and eventually cause blindness.

The pressure is relieved through the use of drugs such as the widely known "pilocarpine", which also produces such side effects as blurred vision and a diminution of night vision.

"There's no cure for glaucoma yet," said Events in reporting the development of Timolol, "but these results certainly sound encouraging.

"The Food and Drug Administration agreed and now thousands of glaucoma patients may control further progression of their disease without accompanying side effects."

DOVE Project

Temporary Shelter Established For Battered Women

A temporary shelter has been established in the Quincy area by DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) to offer a comprehensive program of direct and supportive services to battered women.

DOVE, a newly created nonprofit agency, has also instituted a special hot line which is manned 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to provide aid at the time of crisis. The telephone number is 471-1321.

Through the hot line women can receive counselling, referrals, emotional support of aid in obtaining temporary housing.

The temporary shelter can house 11 women and their children. It is staffed round the clock by trained personnel and is free of charge to women who are victims of domestic violence.

Other services such as support groups, legal aid and advocacy work are also offered through DOVE.

Anne Keating, president of DOVE, said the program is a result of the cooperative efforts of a number of South Shore agencies including the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, the Norfolk County District Attorney's office, Quincy Community Action, Survival, Quincy police, and South Shore Mental Health.

Those desiring more information about DOVE should write to P.O. Box 287, Quincy, Mass. 02269.

Sons Of Italy Present $10,000 To City For Little League Field

The Quincy Lodge of the Sons of Italy celebrated the seventh anniversary of the opening of their Social Center, 120 Quarry St., West Quincy, with the presentation of a $10,000 check to the City of Quincy for its Capital Improvement fund.

It brings to $175,540 the total amount donated by the lodge to charitable, civic and scholarship programs in the past six years.

James Mastrantonio, chairman of the board of trust, presented the $10,000 check to John Quinn, president of the Quincy City Council.

The Lodge also announced the presentation to the city of a $10,000 emergency vehicle for the use of the police department to transport accident victims.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin and Police Chief Francis X. Finn accepted the gift from Lodge Venerable Rocco Buonvicino on behalf of the city.

Assistant Venerable Domenic D'Arcangelo was master of ceremonies at the annual dinner.

The check to the capital improvements fund is earmarked for construction of two Little League baseball fields. The money, along with a similar amount donated last year, will provide half the funds for the planned enlargement of one Little League Field and the construction of a new one at Merrymount Park, off Southern Artery. The city is providing the rest of the funds needed.

During the year from November 1977 to the present the lodge has contributed $50,239 to various organizations, Venerable Buonvicino told members and their guests. Much of the money came from the bingo games sponsored by the lodge.

Among contributions were $1,000 each to the Bishop Ruocco Fund, The Cardinal Medeiros Charity Fund, Italian Home for Children, Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, charities and education fund. The lodge also contributed $7,000 to the Order Sons of Italy National Charities and $500 to the Don Orione Home.

Joseph Sacco and Richard Realini were co-chairmen of the anniversary dinner.

CITY COUNCIL President John Quinn expresses thanks to James Mastrantonio, chairman, Board of Trust, Quincy Lodge, Sons of Italy, for $10,000 donation to go toward construction of a new Little League baseball field for Quincy youngsters.

City May Recover $300,000 In Federal Grants Costs

The Tobin Administration is exploring a little known federal regulation that may enable the city to recover funds it has spent on the indirect costs of administering other federal grants.

City Auditor Charles L. Shea said it might net the city $300,000 a year at a conservative estimate.

The indirect costs are those paid by the city for services, like staff time, that it provides for such federal programs as CETA and urban development grants.

The regulation has been in force for some time but cities have never taken advantage of it until the past four or five years.

Quincy's bid for reinbursement of indirect costs is being orchestrated by Touche Ross Co., which is currently in the midst of an audit of the city's financial operations.

Touche Ross has handled similar programs across the country, netting close to $1 million for Paterson, N.J. and $400,000 for Stockton, Calif., a city close to Quincy in size.

Auditor Shea said such reimbursements can be used as budget items in anticipated revenue.

Mayor Tobin said the city will also explore the possibility of setting up a grant management office in the city government to handle federal grant applications.

Such an office, said Tobin, would be 100 per cent reimbursable under the indirect costs regulation.

"If we can recoup money with it then we will certainly give it serious consideration," he said.

CENTURY CLUB PLAQUE is presented to Mayor Tobin by Paul E. Hurley, right, president of the Quincy YMCA, and George H. Ramsden, Jr., executive director of the YMCA, in appreciation for his 1978 contribution to the YMCA sustaining membership drive. The Mayor and many other sustaining contributors assisted the association in sending needy boys and girls to camp throughout the year and aided with the building program. Jewels & Gems

Fine china and crystal require special care, especially when it comes to cleaning. When sitting decoratively in your china closet, you don't have to worry too much about breakage, but serving with it, care should be exercised. When finished with the meal, do not simply pile all the dishes in the sink. That's where more things break than anywhere else. Stack the dishes carefully in an area away from activity. The same for crystal; never leave crystal in the sink waiting to be washed. Once washed, however, wipe and put away immediately.

Come to us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490 for all your jewelry, crystal, china and stainless steel flatware. We're proud of our fine selections of these items and will be happy to assist you in choosing the right item for everyone on your Christmas list. For fine greeting cards and lovely gift items, visit our girls Ellie and Meryl at our new shop next door, "Something Special". Hours: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Mon. thru Sat.

HELPFUL HINT:

Do not put fine china and crystal in the sink with other pieces. Stack separately, wash and dry quickly.

Harrington Seen Getting Harold Seat

The appointment of Robert Fleming as city solicitor would seem to forecast Dennis Harrington will be back in the City Council come January.

City Hall insiders expect Harrington to be elected by the City Council to fill the at-large seat being vacated by Paul Harold to serve full-time as state senator.

They are convinced Harrington could have had his choice: the $23,800 city solicitor's job or the $3,000 council seat.

The former Ward 6 councillor who was runner-up in the three-seat at-large race last year, apparently prefers the give-and-take action and limelight of the council chamber and political arena to poring through law books in the back room for legal decisions.

Both Harrington and Fleming served as assistants under Solicitor Richard Barry who has left to return to private law practice but will be available as a consultant.

Unless Harrington fools everyone and decides to stay on as a $19,000 assistant solicitor, he is sure to be elected by the eight remaining council members to fill the Harold seat. He served with most of them as Ward 6 councillor.

There will be no special election to fill the seat. [Taxpayers get a break once in a while]. The city's Plan A charter spells it out: in the event of a vacancy on the City Council it shall be filled by a vote of the remaining councillors.

Looking ahead, it will give Harrington an advantage in the 1979 city elections. He will have eight months in office before the preliminary election to make enough noise to get the voters' attention.

And, he will have the added advantage of being listed on the ballot as a "present City Councillor" which vote-wise, means almost as much influence as "incumbent".

THEY MAY HAVE been opponents for the 11th Congressional seat, but they obviously remained friends.

City Councillor James Sheets received a letter the other day from Falls Church, Va. containing a check for $10. It was from Pat McCarthy, who like Sheets, lost the election to Brian Donnelly. The check from McCarthy, who now lives in Falls Church, was to help Sheets pay off his campaign deficit of some $15,000.

AND, Donnelly, the winner of the election, will be the keynote speaker at the fund-raiser for Sheets to be held Dec. 19 at Monatiquot Village, Braintree. Congressman James Burke, whom Donnelly succeeds, is honorary chairman.

SPEAKING OF DONNELLY, in the final days of the vital primary election after spending a lot of his own money campaigning, he thought he was a loser--not the winner. During a recent in-depth interview with The Sun's Tom Henshaw, he confided:

"I'm the eternal pessimist. I thought we had lost. My wife said to me ... a couple of days before the primary she had been down at the South Shore Plaza and she said, 'I saw this beautiful dress and it cost $150. Can I buy it?'

"I said, 'We can't afford it. We're three months behind in the mortgage. I'm going to lose and we can't afford a $150 bill. You're just going to have to wear one of the ones you have.'

"She went down the day after the election and it was gone. My wife is like a little girl. She wears a size 3. She has a tough time buying clothes. She hasn't forgiven me for that yet."

No doubt he'll make amends for inauguration day, in Washington in January.

INCIDENTALLY, The Sun's Tom Henshaw has a feature story in the current issue of Hockey magazine. Subject is George Owen, the Harvard boy who played defense for the Boston Bruins with Eddie Shore 45-50 years ago. Owen now lives in retirement in Milton. A photo with the feature was taken by former Sun photographer Steve Liss.

SMILE DEPT: Gov.-elect Edward King is pretty fast on his feet. At the reception given him by Mayor Arthur Tobin at the Neighborhood Club following the Christmas Parade, Tobin bestowed an honorary Quincy citizenship on him.

"I have some good news, Governor, and I have some bad news," Tobin said in making the presentation. "The good news ... I am very, very pleased to make Gov. Ed King an honorary citizen of Quincy. The bad news, Governor, -- along with this goes an honorary tax bill."

King, accepting the citation, mused:

"I wonder if His Honor will accept an honorary check?"

In addition to the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell invented the grooved wax cylinder with spiral sound track for Thomas Edison's phonograph.

Present Silver Tray To Historical Society

The Captain's Table Meets Again But Maybe For The Last Time

The Captain's Table met last week for what may be the final time to yield its most cherished possessions to the Quincy Historical Society.

The Captain's Table was formed in 1933, in the depths of the Depression, by a group of young community leaders to discuss their volunteer work to help the nation back to prosperity.

The early meetings were held at Ship's Haven Restaurant and then at the Neighborhood Club.

There were 12 charter members at the first meeting 45 years ago. Later, it was expanded to a membership of 18, Last Thursday, 10 survivors got together at the Neighborhood Club.

They included:

T. Clinton Johnson, retired auto dealer; Matthew Cushing, former senior vice president of the South Shore Bank; A. Cushing Cutler, former treasurer of the Alfred Hale Rubber Co.

Harold Moye, retired auto dealer; Dr. Morgan Sargent; Judge Paul C. Reardon, retired justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court; former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin.

Frank Remick, head of Remick's of Quincy; John R. Herbert, former editor of The Patriot Ledger and the Boston Herald Traveler, now president of the Quincy Cooperative Bank; Samuel Wakeman, former general manager of the Fore River Shipyard.

They presented the Dr. Joseph P. Leone Memorial Silver Tray to William A. O'Connell, president of the Historical Society for future safekeeping.

The tray was originally given to the late Dr. Joseph P. Leone, director of City Hospital and a member, in 1962 on the eve of his retirement to Florida.

It bears the engraved signatures of the 16 men who were then members of the group. Each of them paid $5 toward the purchase and engraving of the sterling silver plate.

In addition to the Leone tray, the club's original charter plus other related documents and a brief history of the organization were given to the Historical Society.

The Captain's Table was started as an informal group and it has remained informal ever since, so informal that no one recalls precisely how many members there have been over the years.

Originally the meetings were held once a month with each member assigned alphabetically to serve as captain and select the subject for discussion.

The rules specifically stated that all discussions were off the record.

Later, the meetings became more and more irregular as membership and interest waxed and waned. Last week's meeting, in fact, was the first in 11 years. It may be the last.

The Real Meaning Of Christmas

By CHARLES WADDINGTON
Capt. The Salvation Army
Quincy Temple Corps

In recent years the spiritual meaning of Christmas has taken a back seat to the more commercial aspects of the season.

Certainly, there is nothing wrong with holiday gift-giving, for sharing with others is part of the season's beauty. But when the trimmings and spending take precedence over the real meaning of the holiday, that's when it's time to turn off the flashing lights and engage in some personal reflection.

When was the last time you gave a treat to a needy child, paid a visit to an institutionalized individual or helped a family get back on its feet? The Salvation Army does all this and more. People who have volunteered their time to The Salvation Army during the holidays have found the true spirit of the season re-entering their lives and the lives of those they have assisted. It is a feeling that greatly enriches them long after the season has come and gone.

The spiritual basis of The Salvation Army has been the motivating force behind its programs of social service since its very inception. It is that spirit which glows its brightest at Christmastime.

As Christmas draws nearer, The Salvation Army asks us to remember the needy and experience the warm, satisfying feeling of helping others.

At Christmas time, Salvation Army brass music fills the air. Where do the musicians get their training? Why does The Salvation Army emphasize music in its ministry?

In 1877, General William Booth founder of the Army, wrote "The last Sabbath we had a little novelty, which apparently worked well." The General's "Novelty" was asking a recent convert, a cornetist, to march at the head of a procession. "He certainly improved the singing and brought crowds all along the line of march, wondering curiously what we should do next," the General continued.

The Army still uses street corner music to attract the passerby to its message of Salvation, and at Christmas to draw attention to its kettle, and remind the public that "sharing is caring".

Many youngsters get their first musical training at The Salvation Army. There are over 300 young people's brass bands sponsored by The Salvation Army for youngsters who have arrived at some degree of proficiency. Nationwide there are almost 400 adult brass bands.

Doesn't Luis Remember When Sox Rescued Him?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Count me among the precious few who weren't shell-shocked when "Loyal Luis" Tiant picked up his bat and ball and can of California Paint and gyrated over to the "Big Apple". How soon they forget!

Doesn't El Tiante remember that the Red Sox rescued him, sore arm and all, from baseball's scrap heap back in 1971 when no other major league club would hire him? And has he forgotten the Sox gave him yet a third chance despite the pathetic 1-7 record he compiled that first season in Boston. And, lest it has slipped his mind, it was Dick O'Connell and Eddie Kasko who demonstrated sufficient faith in the crafty Cuban to keep him on the roster when his value on the open market was zilch. Still Luis, upon obtaining a Yankee contract that guarantees him many years of financial security, had the brazen affrontery to bad-mouth the Red Sox organization, claiming they "treated me like dirt".

Well do I realize words like "loyalty" and "gratitude" are seldom found in the lexicon of today's overpaid athlete, thus it comes as no surprise that Looie seems utterly devoid of those old-fashioned virtues. Of course, El Signor is correct when he maintains that a pitcher's age is relatively unimportant as long as he pitches effectively. No one can quarrel with that commonsensical approach but if our Milton neighbor is 38, then I'm Napoleon. And, as I understand it, the Sox brain-trust guaranteed the flamboyant one contracts on a year-to-year basis, ad finitum, for as long as he could get the batters out. But, apparently "hung up" on and fearful of his age and diminishing ability, he nixed the Sox fair offer.

Good luck to Luis with the Pinstripes, save when facing our heroes, but I cling to the belief that Luis' holdouts, excess weight, lack of condition [at times], ultimatums and temper tantrums that made Don Zimmer reluctant to relieve him, even when he was being hammered, cost the Bosox pennants the past two seasons. Check the records!

What's the big deal about losing a starting pitcher who produced only 25 wins in two years? Even if the Sox don't manage to sign Slayton or Renko, I'll wager a Fenway Frank that a Dick Drago, Bob Stanley, Andy Hassler, Jim Wright or others of that ilk would amass 25 wins, given two seasons in a starting role. But what are we [myself included] getting so steamed up about and flirting with hypertension when baseball is portrayed as just fun and games and a passing fancy? So let's again sound the clarion call of "wait till next year" even though my patience is well-nigh exhausted after a 60-year yearning for another World Championship flag at Fenway.

Dec. 15 Deadline For Elderly Tax Abatement Applications

Homeowners who are 70 or older, and couples where one of the partners is 70 or over, who meet certain criteria, are entitled to property tax abatements if they make application by Dec. 15, according to Greater Boston Legal Services, 1 Cliveden St., Quincy.

Widows, blind persons, disabled veterans and their dependents may also be entitled to property tax abatements if they file before the Dec. 15 date.

Quincy residents can contact the City Assessors office at city hall.

Persons who are unable to pay property taxes because of "age, informity or poverty" may apply for a "hardship abatement". In some circumstances, tax deferrals are available to persons 65 or older.

If further assistance is needed South Shore residents may call the Greater Boston Legal Services at 472-3177 or contact the state Property Tax Bureau at 727-4231.

Burgin defeated Charles A. Ross, 15,963 votes to 9,416.

In other contests, John P. Flavin and John H. Taylor were elected to the School Committee, ousting Mrs. Esther V. Purcell, who had held the post for three years.

Neil A. McDonald, Joseph Kendrick and Laurence J. Curtin were the winners in the race for three at-large seats on the City Council, but Edward J. Sandberg, who lost out by 228 votes, asked a recount.

WOODRING AT LAUNCHING

Secretary of War Harry S. Woodring was the chief speaker at the launching of the SS Ancon, first of three ships to be built for the Panama Railroad Co. to go down the ways at the Fore River Shipyard.

The $4 million, 10,000-gross ton ship, which was said to be virtually "sink-proof" was scheduled to carry a maximum of 206 first class passengers between the Canal Zone and New York via Haiti.

The ship was christened by Mrs. Woodring in ceremonies that were broadcast nationally by the Columbia Broadcasting System. The sister ships were to be the SS Panama and the SS Cristobal.

Over 100 Children Participate In Christmas Program At Squantum Church

Over 100 children and adults participated in "The Hanging of the Greens" Christmas program at First Church of Squantum recently.

The program, sponsored by the Board of Christian Education of the church, began with a worship service in the church sanctuary, with music by the Junior Choir.

Participants then proceeded to different locations in the church to either decorate the church for Christmas, or to work on a Christmas craft project, for all ages, to take home with them.

Projects completed, the group reassembled in Fellowship Hall and decorated the Mitten tree with over 50 pairs of mittens for poor children. They will be donated to the City Missionary Society of the United Church of Christ, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin said a special prayer of offering.

A birthday party for the Baby Jesus, complete with a Christmas birthday cake and the crowd singing "Happy Birthday," completed the festivities.

Members of the Junior Choir that participated include Blythe Bumpus, Nancy Ellis, Tracey Gale, Kerry Galvin, Kim Galvin, Brigham Golden, Jill McInnis, Sarah Mildram, Susan Mildram, Lee Ann Miller, Andrew Ogilvie, Lori Beth Ogilvie, Betty Reid, Karin Reister, Kristen Reister, Susan Scott, Chris Shionis, Lillian Shionis, Deborah Stohlberg, Francesca Stroscio, James Sumner and JoAnn Warren.

Ellen Ogilvie was chairman of the program, assisted by decoration chairmen Ann McInnis, Barbara Colwell and Marie Reister.

Grace Holmes, Barbara Frazer, Mary Gifford and Paula Stohlberg were in charge of the craft tables. The kindergarten project was directed by Kathi Fluhr, assisted by Laurel Bumpus.

Barbara Walter baked the Christmas birthday cake.

ENC To Present Handel's Messiah At Wollaston Nazarene Church

Eastern Nazarene College will present Handel's Messiah Dec. 10 at 7 p.m. in the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, 35 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

This year the performance will have a new feature. All interested singers are invited to attend a brief rehearsal Dec. 10 at 3:30 p.m. and then to join with the ENC Choral Union in presenting the Messiah at 7 p.m.

This invitation is both for those who have sung Messiah before and also for anyone who always wanted to but never had the opportunity. Participants are urged to bring a copy of Messiah if possible (any edition), but some copies will be available to borrow.

Singers should plan to bring a brown bag lunch—beverage will be provided—or they may eat in the college cafeteria. Dress is white tops and long dark skirts or dress pants for women and dark suits for men.

For further information call Robert Howard at 773-6350 or 471-7970.

The performance will be accompanied by an orchestra composed of members from the Quincy Symphony Orchestra and students from the college.

Koch Club Scheduling Santa Visits To Shut-In Children

The 22nd annual Santa Claus visits to shut-in children sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy will be made Saturday, Dec. 16 and Sunday, Dec. 17 between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

The program is conducted primarily for children who are shut-ins year round or will be confined to their homes during the Christmas season.

Only parents of the shut-in children may make the request for Santa's visit. They may contact Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, 328-8286 and arrange for the time most desirable for the parents and children to be visited.

Although Dec. 16 and 17 are the assigned dates, the Koch Club will honor any time, day or evening, that parents may feel would be more preferable for a visit to their homes by Santa.

Richard M. Morrissey is chairman of the Santa's Visitation Program of the Koch Club.

Originally, the service was offered to Quincy residents only. However, calls from parents in Braintree and Weymouth were honored and the South Shore is now included.

The Koch Club stresses that only parents of shut-in children may make the request for the Santa visit and it will be scheduled at the family's convenience.

would be weighted so that Quincy, the only city in Norfolk County, could outvote outlying towns.

• A bill that would place a projected dollar amount on every program mandated by the state but paid for at a local level. If the projection were more than 10 per cent off, the program would be terminated in a year.

"It's very easy to be in favor of something like the breakfast program at the state level while the money has to be raised at a local level," said Harold.

"This is how different interest groups can bypass a city council and go to the State Legislature to have mandated for the local level what the local government refuses to do."

• A bill requiring some type of qualifications or licensing for assessors. "We license barbers and plumbers but we don't require any qualifications for assessors, who have such a dramatic effect on people's lives."

• A study by Massport of the Town River to test the feasibility of putting a foreign trade zone in the area. "Town River is underutilized and undertaxed. If we upgraded it we would increase tax revenues and provide jobs on the South Shore."

• A bill that would raise the drinking age. "The 18-year-old drinking age just doesn't work. If you read the editorial in The Sun this week on what happened at the Stadium on Thanksgiving, this is just one example."

• A study of the impact of building a new Norfolk County Superior Courthouse in Quincy on the site of the Bargain Center. "It would be an asset to the downtown area but we don't want to end up with a white elephant like they have in Cambridge."

Tobin Asks Early Payment Of Tax Bills

bills went into the mail around 4:30 p.m. Monday, said Foy, and all of them should be out by the end of the week, but Tobin was even more optimistic.

"They will be all out by Wednesday [yesterday] evening," he promised.

Taxpayers have 30 days following the mailing of the bills in which to pay them, which could present a problem to some since the 30-day period extends into 1979.

Those who wait until the last minute to get the money up will not be able to deduct the payments from their 1978 income taxes if they are made after Jan. 1.

"Some people may find it to their advantage to make the payments next year, depending on whether they have had a good or bad year this year," said Tobin.

The Mayor said that the machines began running off the tax bills last Thursday at the processing plant in Newton and have been running around the clock, except for a brief breakdown Monday night.

"The big obstacle is behind us," said Tobin, referring to the fact that the tax rolls are now automated and can be run off much faster in the future.

The delay cost the city some money in interest on funds borrowed in anticipation of taxes but Treasurer Foy said estimates of the cost would not be available under later in the month.

Point Cafe Gaming Charge Dismissed

illegal gambling.

The younger Mitchell pleaded guilty to several gambling charges and was heavily fined.

Judge Dimond ruled that the transcript could be read at the hearing, but could not be shown to the board members.

Detective Paul Snow read the transcript of 16 telephone calls made between March 26 and April 20, 1977. They were both incoming and outgoing calls from the cafe with "Bob" as one of the parties. The calls dealt with race results and wagers made by various unnamed persons.

Atty. Joseph Killion, appearing for the Mitchells, asked if any gaming apparatus had been found at the cafe. Detective Snow and Lt. David Rowell, in charge of the investigation, said no equipment was found.

Under questioning by Killion, Lt. Rowell said no charges were ever brought against the owners of the premises. The telephone conversations were between Robert Mitchell and David Taylor and others identified only by a first name according to the transcript read by Snow.

MacDonald pointed out that on several occasions, according to the transcript, Mrs. Mitchell had answered the phone and turned it over to her son. He said it seemed improbable that she did not hear the conversation.

Atty. Killion argued there was no indication on the transcript of the time lapse from when she answered the phone to the time her son picked it up.

He also noted that in one conversation, according to the transcript, Robert told a caller somebody had left money on the bar along with a numbers play, and said he did not want it to happen again.

Killion conceded that "Bob talked about gaming and results, but that is not gambling."

Chairman Gillis commented that the Mitchells have been longtime residents of Quincy Point and have a good reputation. He said he thought they have been penalized enough.

He told the board that the unions at General Dynamics use the cafe for meetings on occasion and had written a letter in support of the Mitchells.

MacDonald insisted that "a license is a privilege and the owners have obligations to know what is going on in the establishment." He added that if the place was being used for bookie operations "it should be closed."

Just before the motion Gillis suggested to Mitchell that his son not be employed, even as a spare bartender at the cafe.

American Education Week & National Book Week

In recognition of American Book Week and National Education Week, Nov. 13-19, Adams and Pollard Elementary Schools, in conjunction with the Quincy Public School system, featured special presentations to stress the importance of reading and the enjoyment that results from becoming involved in books.

At Adams Elementary School's Open House, sixth grade students dressed as well-known storybook characters greeted parents and guests and handed out programs outlining the various exhibits on display. Colorful bulletin boards of student art and essays lined the halls and brightened the classrooms as an impressive showing of parents turned out to view the work and talk informally with teachers. Such projects as storybook hand and finger puppets, student-created animated films, illustrated bookmarks, student-written essays and reviews of stories, and posters painted to depict scenes or characters from books could be found throughout the classrooms.

In the Media Center, a lecture by Dr. Henry Patterson stressed to the numerous parents present the importance of shaping constructive attitudes toward school and careers to children on the elementary grade level. It's also important that the parents become involved in the education of their children so that positive attitudes are supported outside of the classroom as well.

Media Specialist Mrs. Cathy Casey pointed out the advancements in book illustrations and text to get away from traditional stereotypes of men and women in careers. She presented a short movie and slide presentation stressing occupational awareness and the beginning of healthy attitudes toward work in the elementary grades.

Pollard elementary school students also participated in activities relating to National Book and Educations week. Their activities were highlighted by a dazzling fashion show presented to parents and classmates on Thursday. Students dressed as various characters from popular childrens books were judged on the originality and imagination displayed by their costumes. Everyone from The Hobbit's "Gollum" to The Wizard of Oz's "Tin Man" competed for prizes on the primary or intermediate grade level.

The students at Pollard have also been busy creating bulletin boards, colorful book jackets and bookmarks, as well as puppets and essays to entertain the guests that have been visiting the school to participate in the open house and productions that have been going on all week.

It is hoped that by creating stimulating and exciting projects as follow-up activities to reading, students will be encouraged to spend more time reading and to look more closely and be able to review what they've read. And hopefully, by becoming involved in the fun and activities of Book Week students and parents both will begin to enjoy and appreciate the world of entertainment that books have to offer. And what better way to encourage the growth and education of your child than through the sharing and discovering of books. Look inside at the proud and happy faces involved in Book Week - and "Catch The Reading Habit!"

These 6th grade students dressed as characters from popular childrens books were on hand to greet and guide parents through the Open House activities at Adams Elementary School. Kneeling in the front row l-r are, Heratio the Cat - Michele Delvecchio; Mother Hubbard - Lesly DeStefano, the witch from "Snow White" - Anne Marie Doyle. Standing l-r Raggedy Andy - Mary Pellegrini, Raggedy Ann - Mary Foy, Little Red Riding Hoods grandmother - Laurie Davis, and Little Red Riding Hood - Tina Calabro.

Peggyanne Purralt practices her writing as her grandmother Mrs. Casassa encourages her progress at the Adams school.

Adams Elementary School Principal Dr. Henry Patterson holds up one of the many bookmarks to be entered in the Quincy Public School Department's Bookmark Contest.

Hockey player Mike Pugliessi and his f as "Fast Watson"], ready themselves fashion show at Pollard.

Ronnie Della Chiesa sets up a sentence in a scene to be filmed by his 3rd grade teacher Eve Powell. The animated films were a project to reinforce sentence structure as the students arrange the words piece by piece during the animated sequence.

Open House at Adams

Kathleen Bitetti works on the puppets from the show "3 Billy Goats Called Hurricane" that she and some classmates will present to kindergarten students during Book Week at Pollard.

Award winners in the storybook fashion show are, [front] Kevin Wynn as "Gollum" from "The Hobbit", [standing l-r] Marie Colarusso as a pig from "3 Little Pigs", Kristen McGhee as "Runaway Ralph", Nakul Vakil as a Dinosauer, Wendy Carboneau as Charlot from "Charlot's Web", and the "Tin Man" portrayed by Julie Coste.

Twins Richard and Tony Sachetti [l-r], are busy putting the final touches on a poster they made to be displayed during the Open House at Adams Elementary School.

Ecumenical Ceremonies

Quincy Christmas Nativity Program At First Parish Church Sunday Evening

The Quincy Christmas Nativity Program sponsored by the Christmas Festival Committee will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. at United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

The public is welcome to attend and join in the program that will be climaxed with the placing of the Christ Child in the Nativity Scene at Hancock Cemetery across the street from the church.

Rev. Keith C. Munson, minister of United First Parish Church, will welcome the guests to the Church of the Presidents while Rev. Thomas C. Garrett, associate pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, will preside over the program.

The program will begin with Christmas Carols by the first and second grade students of Sacred Heart Church.

The first reading of the evening will be by Rev. Winston Clark, pastor of Quincy Point Congregational Church, followed by carols with the first and second grade school students joined by the congregation.

A second reading will be by Mayor Arthur Tobin, and the Youth Choir of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, will follow with a series of Christmas carols.

The final reading of the program will be offered by Rev. Cornelius J. Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, and upon completion, a final selection of Christmas music will be provided by the Folk Singers of St. John's Church, Quincy Center. A procession will be conducted from the Church to the Nativity Scene for the placing of the Christ Child Statue.

Upon completion of the Nativity Program, hot chocolate and refreshments will be served at the Parish Hall.

The Sunday program will complete the 1978 Christmas Festival Program, initiated with the Christmas Lighting Ceremonies Nov. 24, Santa's arrival Nov. 25, the Christmas Parade Nov. 26 and the Santa mailboxes installation Nov. 27.

Each year, the Christmas Festival is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association through the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee.

Richard J. Koch is the Festival Committee Chairman of the Christmas Nativity Program.

Koch Club Christmas Basket Fund Drive Underway

The Koch Club's 23rd annual Christmas Basket Fund drive for 1978 is underway.

Any members or friends of the Koch Club wishing to donate canned goods or non-perishable foods are requested to leave them with the officers of their respective leagues or programs.

Each year, food baskets are distributed through local charitable organizations and through the Koch Club to needy families.

Those wishing to contribute toward the purchase of turkeys for the baskets may contact Thomas F. Nestor, chairman of the Christmas Basket Program or Richard J. Koch, Executive Director of the organization, at 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Deadline for donations of food stuffs or money is Wednesday, Dec. 20.

Chamber Labor Relations

Management Policy Seminar

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Labor Relations Management Policy and Practices Seminar for firms with five to 50 employees today (Thursday) from 9 a.m. to noon at the organization's conference center.

Attorney Warren D. Atlas of Boston, a member of the Boston and American Bar Associations sections on Labor Law, will conduct the program which is designed to help employers build and strengthen employee's morale, loyalty and commitment.

The seminar will examine, from management's perspective, factors which lead to union organizational activities, programs that the employer must establish long before a union drive and the employers legal rights and obligations when confronted by a union's demand for recognition or petition for an NLRB conducted election.

For more information, contact Ron Frazier at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, 36 Miller Stile Rd., Quincy, 479-1111.

7 New Foreman Jobs

Council Votes To Revive DPW 'Ward Gang' System

The City Council has voted to revive the old "ward gang" system of assigning public works employees to specific wards to handle maintenance, repair and cleanup work.

The Council approved the creation of seven new foreman jobs over the objections of Councillors Paul D. Harold and Francis X. McCauley.

Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti estimates that the new jobs would cost $9,000 in funds already in his budget this fiscal year and about $20,000 in next year's budget.

The vote of 7-2 pitted ward councillors, who are conscious of constituent services, against councillors-at-large, who expressed concern about next year's tax rate.

McCauley (at large) said he was worried that new equipment for the ward gangs plus seven new laborers hired next year to replace the newly named foremen might elevate the tab to $100,000 next year.

"Ward councillors are the ones who get the calls about problems in the wards," retorted Councillor Stephen J. McGrath (Ward 5). "I'm not going to be the one to tell a constituent that he has to learn to do it himself."

"The at-large councillor takes the heat, too, for the tax rate," said Harold (at large).

"The Department of Public Works can't go in and wax floors for people. This is one of the few departments in the city government that we can control and cut back."

"The ward gangs and budget cuts are not incompatible," replied Councillor James A. Sheets (Ward 4). "I'd rather have a good ward system and cut the budget elsewhere."

Seven out of the nine councillors agreed with him.

$14,000 Consultant Contract For Wollaston Business Area Study

A $14,000 contract for a consultant study of the Wollaston business area has been signed by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin on behalf of the city.

At the ceremony at Barry's Deli, 21 Beale St., the Mayor noted that Norfolk County is aiding in funding a similar project in North Quincy.

"This study along with that of North Quincy and the ongoing study of Quincy Center gives us a three-pronged action for upgrading our central business districts," Tobin said.

Ward 5 City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath said the study, to be done by Sasaki Associates, will receive $7,000 from the city's community development budget and $7,000 from the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council.

"We are planning to hold several public meetings to get input from residents into the study's recommendations," McGrath said. "Sasaki will address market strengths and weaknesses, public works' goals and the parking inadequacies of the area."

McGrath said the study contract is a good example "of everyone working together to a common goal." He said Mayor Tobin had made a commitment to him to support efforts to revitalize Wollaston and "he had been very cooperative."

John Nourse, director of the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council, said the contract showed the importance of "an active and concerned business community to the success of such a project.

Jon Delano, president of the Wollaston Center Business Association, and his board of directors, were present. They were the initiators of the project.

WOLLASTON CENTER study contract is signed by Mayor Arthur H. Tobin in ceremony at Barry's Deli, Beale St. with city and county officials and residents attending. At signing were [seated, from left], Mrs. Nancy White and daughter, Jennifer; City Councillor Stephen McGrath; Mayor Tobin; John Nourse, director of economic planning and development for Norfolk County; Mrs. Jean Feeney and daughter, Kara. Standing, Vincent Oliveira, South Shore Sewing Machine; George Kanelos, Wollaston Florist; Jon Delano, Delano Camera and Supply; Dale A. Pederson, president of Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council.

Koch Club Collecting Toys For Needy

Approximately 1000 items of toys have been received to date by the Koch Club of Quincy for assorting, refurbishing and distribution to needy children at Christmas time in the Quincy, South Shore and Greater Boston area.

The program, in its eighth year was initiated in 1971 with 300 gifts provided to victims of a pre-Christmas fire. Each year, the requests have increased. A total of 10,000 toys of all types have been delivered in the past seven years.

Families and individuals in Quincy and neighboring communities have been responsible for providing a great many of the used items of toys.

The Koch Club has been a coordinating agency for the project with many organizations assisting in helping including children of the Massachusetts Fields, Parker and Sacred Heart Schools in Quincy and Candlepin and Ten Pin Bowling Leagues of the Wonder Bowl Alleys on Southern Artery.

The children of the Koch Club basketball and bowling leagues participate in the program each year.

Employees of Otis Elevator have been assisting in the project for the past five years with a total of approximately 200 gifts donated to children in need at Christmas. Mrs. Alice Buchan has been the coordinator from the Otis Elevator Company for the toys from the employees project.

The girls of the Woodward School package a number of gifts each year with Christmas wrapping for Christmas gifts.

Persons planning to donate useable toys to the program are requested to do so as soon as possible in order to provide ample time for the necessary cleaning, refurbishing and packaging.

Frank E. Osborne is chairman of the committee preparing and packaging the toys for delivering to churches, organizations and families in time for Christmas.

Board Approves License For Jenelle Gourmet

The Quincy Licensing Board Tuesday approved a common victualer's license application to Jenelle International Gourmet, 764 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Theodore and Gloria George, owners of the food and gift shop, were called before the board to answer a complaint they had been dispensing food without a proper license.

George explained that they had been informed a license was not required for operation of a microwave oven to heat sandwiches. He told the board the prepared sandwiches were heated by the customers.

Fire Chief Edward Barry, a board member, expressed concern that a customer might be injured using the oven. George said that after he had been informed of the license requirement he removed the oven.

Dr. Samuel Solomon, city health commissioner, assured the board the microwave ovens were widely used in hospitals and other institutions and that no troubles have been reported.

The board withdrew the complaint and issued the common victualer's license to the shop.

Mary Jo Riley To Speak At Community Education Conference

Patricia Ann Terrific As 'Annie' Quincy Grandparents, Critics Agree

By PETER BARNICLE

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Daly of Dale Ave., South Quincy, have made two trips to the West Coast in the past six months and both times to see the smash musical "Annie".

More precisely it was to see their 11-year-old granddaughter in the lead role of the production which has won nationwide acclaim since it opened.

Patricia Ann Patts, the diminutive "Annie" is the daughter of Donald and Peggy [Daly] Patts, and is being hailed as the best of the young actresses playing the role. There is a company in New York, another in New York and the third on the West Coast.

Even without the accolades of the critics, Patricia's grandparents are sure she is the best.

"It's Patricia Ann not Patty as the fan magazines keep referring to her," grandfather Daly, retired assistant superintendent of schools, in charge of vocational education, in Quincy, said. "That's the way her name appears on the billing, and that's what she prefers."

Mrs. Daly said proudly that Patricia is being seriously considered for the role in the film version.

"But, of course, they are not going to start filming until 1981. She's tiny now, only four feet, three inches. By that time she may be a lot taller," Mrs. Daly said.

Patricia's mother is the former Peggy Daly of Quincy. She is a graduate of Archbishop Williams High School and the New England Conservatory of Music.

"When she was in the CYO she won a state award for dramatics," her father recalled.

Donald Patts is formerly of Braintree. He and Peggy were married at St. John's Church, Quincy, and went to Sacramento, Calif., where he worked in the state personnel office. Patricia was born in California.

The family returned East when she was a month old and found a home in Hanover while Patts was with the New England Regional Commission as an administrator.

Patricia was six when the family moved back to California, where Patts is now in the real estate business.

Living in Altadena, a suburb of Los Angeles, Mrs. Patts joined a small theater group "The Jesters" and imparted her interest in dramatics to her children.

Mary Margaret, 16, is now appearing in childrens' television shows. Her brothers, Donald, 15, Barry, 14, and James, 8, have also taken part in theatricals. James has made a number of TV commercials.

Before "Annie" came along, Patricia appeared in "Gypsy" as the young Gypsy Rose Lee.

Early this year Patricia entered a contest with 25 other girls from the area to try out for the role of "Annie".

Martin Charnin, director and lyricist for "Annie", and the man who picks the cast, watched her audition and said "That's it." He has been quoted as saying "She's the youngest kid who ever played the role and she is totally winning. She has a smile that lights up the whole stage."

Patricia opened in San Francisco in June and in October the musical moved to Los Angeles and her grandparents attended both openings.

"We've been told that it is sold out through the end of February," Mrs. Daly said.

Patricia's present contract runs through June and in the meantime she has to keep up with her school work. A tutor handles her studies four hours a day, as required by California law.

Patricia's maternal grandmother, Mrs. James Patts of South Weymouth, is equally proud of the young star.

So is her grand-uncle, Frank Daly of Euclid Ave., Quincy, who recently retired as a captain of the Quincy Fire Department.

FAME HAS COME early to Patricia Ann Patts, now starring in the musical "Annie" in Los Angeles. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Patts. Her father is from Braintree, her mother, the former Peggy Daly, is from Quincy.

INSEPARABLE -- Patricia Ann Patts, star of the musical "Annie" and her pal "Sandy" have been acclaimed in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Patricia is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Daly of Dale Ave., South Quincy.

Invites Donnelly, EPA Officials To Meeting

Kelly Seeks Water Quality Control Waiver To Void Sewage Plant Need

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has invited Cong.-elect Brian J. Donnelly and environmental officials to appear before his Committee on the Environment Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 7 p.m. in City Hall.

The purpose of the meeting will be to muster support for the MDC's petition for a waiver of the strict water quality control standards set up by the federal government.

Such a waiver would negate the need to use 120 acres of Deer Island for primary and secondary sewage treatment plants with accompanying facilities in Squantum or Broadmeadows.

Kelly said he and Donnelly intend to file federal legislation in support of the MDC's waiver bid.

Federal officials expected to attend the committee hearing include Ken Johnson, special assistant to the administrator of EPA's Region 1, and Wallace Stickney, director of environmental impact for the EPA.

"While the West Coast congressional delegations have been very active," said Kelly, "the EPA has informed me that there has been no corresponding effort on the East Coast."

Kelly noted that recent efforts have been made by South Shore legislators to block the building of sewage treatment plants in Quincy.

"These efforts are admirable but they do not go to the heart of the problem," he said.

"If legislators from the South Shore are filing legislation the North Shore will soon follow suit, thus creating a stand-off. It does not solve the problem."

Kelly said he views as "totally unacceptable" current efforts on the state level to fill in three acres at Nut Island for primary sewage treatment.

He said the hearing will discuss "the filing of federal legislation under which the extended outfalls of Deer Island to the Graves will be deemed acceptable, as are the ocean outfalls of the West Coast."

If the proposals are accepted by the federal government, Kelly said, "the one centralized primary treatment plant at Deer Island with extended outfall would be acceptable.

"This would alleviate the need for a primary treatment plant at Nut Island or new facilities at Broadmeadows or Squantum."

McCauley Tries Again For Tax Rate Explanation To Council

Once City Councillor Francis X. McCauley gets what he feels is a good idea it's hard to shake him loose from it.

Last June, McCauley proposed an ordinance change that would require the Mayor, the treasurer, the auditor and the board of assessors to appear before the Council to explain the tax rate.

The Council passed it unanimously; the Mayor vetoed it, claiming the Council acted beyond its authority in telling the assessors what to do; the Council sustained the veto by a 5-4 vote.

Monday night McCauley reintroduced his idea, this time in the form of a home rule petition to the State Legislature, the only body that can exert authority over the assessors.

"I'm just trying to correct the problem that the Mayor had with the ordinance when he declared it illegal," said McCauley, but his colleagues on the Council were still not satisfied.

"I'm not clear," said Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, "whether or not a home rule petition can amend the city charter to say that the Mayor can be forced to appear before the City Council.

"Nor am I sure that a home rule petition can modify the independent status of the board of assessors."

McCauley's petition was referred to the Ordinance Committee with a copy to the city solicitor for a legal opinion.

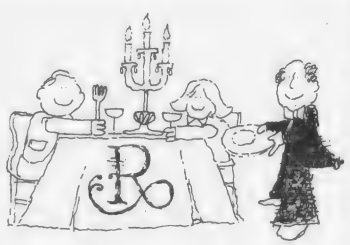
Another McCauley measure sent to the Ordinance Committee was a home rule petition that would require assessors to notify within 30 days anyone whose residential property valuation was increased.

Tobin Bill Would Prevent Sewerage Disposal Here

Mayor Tobin is planning to file a bill in the State Legislature that would prohibit the disposal of sewerage, sludge or residue in the city of Quincy, specifically Squantum and Broad Meadows.

The bill would also ban the construction of any sewer plants on those locations.

The measure, which Tobin said will be filed by Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, is aimed at forestalling a plan by the MDC to dump sewerage sludge and fly ash on a 70-acre site at Squantum Point.



Tobin said he is having another bill prepared that would clear the way for construction of a second Norfolk County Superior Courthouse in Quincy.

Tobin noted that the proposal for a second courthouse was turned down by the town of Dedham and that Norfolk is the only large county in the stae without two courthouse locations.

"It would be a tremendous asset to Quincy economically by bringing people into the city," said the Mayor.

Jackets Presented To Players

Local 1139 Babe Ruth Champs Honored

The members of the Quincy Employees Union Local 1139 Babe Ruth League baseball team, winner of the city championship, were recently honored by their sponsor at a reception and dinner at Fore River Clubhouse.

Dinner was prepared and served for the more than 80 guests by members of Local 1139 supervised by President Wesley Clark and Paul Zambruno.

Guest speaker was Robert Curran, chairman of the Babe Ruth International board of directors, which include many former major league players.

Curran presented Manager John L. McDonnell with a Babe Ruth pen and pencil set on behalf of Babe Ruth headquarters. Last season was McDonnell's 41st year of coaching teenage boys.

Clark spoke on the need for more organizations such as his group to fill the void and help prevent juvenile delinquency. He said it leaves a good feeling among all 1139 members that, in sponsoring this group, they are helping form these boys into tomorrow's men.

Ray Cattaneo, Morrisette Legion baseball coach, congratulated the players and said, "Keep the rules and live up to the sportsmanship you learned during your baseball careers and it will help you be successful in whatever path you choose to follow."

Twohig presented a plaque to Paul Zambruno on behalf of the players, coaches, manager and parents for his time and effort in helping out the team.

Atlantic Wrestlers Pin Point

The Atlantic Junior High wrestling team defeated Point, 36-21, last week as it won six of the 10 matches.

Atlantic's Jamie Fennell won by default in the 80-pound class, Jay Pillard won by a pin at 100 pounds, Chris Butler won by pin at 116, Richie Palma won by pin at 125, Jim O'Neil won by default at 145 and Steve Kallenberg won by default in the heavyweight class.

Broad Meadows edged Sterling 21-18, when Jim Delamano pinned his opponent in the final match, the heavyweight match, to clinch the close win.

Sterling held an 18-17 edge going into the final match.

Amorsino Hopes Things Different

Quincy Opens Against Ames

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy High basketball team will open next Tuesday night when it hosts Oliver Ames of North Easton at the Vo-Tech gym and Coach Joe Amorosino is hopeful that the Presidents will rebound after his most frustrating season a year ago.

Quincy went through a 1-21 season last winter but Amorosino used many sophomores and juniors and he feels, with the experience they gained, things should be different this year.

"We lost a lot of close games last year and the younger players did well," the Quincy coach said. "This year they are more mature and they have looked good in scrimmages against Sharon, Boston English and Darian, Connecticut."

Amorosino has two major problems, however, as the Presidents open their season. Brian Donovan one of his top players, a 6-4 junior, is out for an indefinite period with an injury, but he may be back soon.

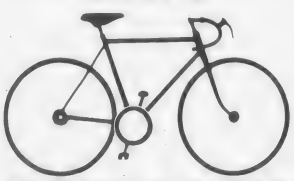
"This is one of those questionable things, he may be out for another week and he could be out for as long as six weeks," Amorosino explained.

Another prospective starter, Dave Austin, 6-1 junior who saw considerable action last year, as did Donovan, is out until at least mid-season with a shoulder separation suffered in football.

Amorosino is building around a number of varsity returnees, including Capt. Dana Guidice (6-1), Andy Carrera (5-8), Scott MacDonald (5-9), Ritch Finnegan (6-0) and Stanley Benson (6-1).

"Most of these are juniors and gained valuable experience last year," Amorosino said.

Up from the junior varsity are Ray Coscia (6-1), Mike Connolly (6-4), Tom MacKay (5-8), Steve Priscella (6-2), Kurt MacDonald (6-3), Dan Flannery (5-7), Dave Parry (5-8), Steve Marsters (6-0) and Paul Bandera (6-1).



Amorosino will again have a team stocked with underclassmen, but this year the juniors have a lot of experience and the situation is different than last year.

"This is a very eager team and the boys are raring to go," Amorosino said. "They have played a lot and kept themselves in fine condition during the summer and, although we don't have the size of some of the other teams, we will be a hustling team.

"We will have a good defensive team and, if our offense comes along, we will win some games. The boys have set some high goals and I think they will attain them. They have a fine mental attitude and I am pleased with the progress we have shown."

On Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 16 and 17, Quincy will compete in a holiday tournament at Hingham. The Presidents will meet Franklin at 7 o'clock on the 16th and will meet the Hingham-Hull winner on Sunday at a time to be announced.

YMCA Swim Teams Off To Impressive Start

The Quincy YMCA boys and girls swim teams got off to successful starts last week, with the boys hosting Somerville and the girls going to Lynn.

Both took a commanding number of first places with some of the new team members doing remarkably well and showing great promise.

Eight-year old Patrick Burke took firsts in the 100-yard individual medley and the 25-yard backstroke, while seven-year old Billy Jolliemore had seconds in the 25 and 50-yard freestyles.

In the 9-10 class, Gregg Doyle won the 100 individual medley and the 50 butterfly, Jamie Goodrich won the 100 freestyle and the 50 breaststroke. Mike Murphy won the 50 backstroke and Doyle, Goodrich and Murphy teamed with Ian Knox to win the medley relay.

In the 11-12 class Peter Boylan won the 50 butterfly and Joe Barnes won the 50 backstroke. Boylan, Barnes, Campbell, Knox and John Lawlor won the medley relay.

John Santini easily won the 13-14 200 individual medley and the 100 freestyle and Frank Weisslinger won the 50 freestyle and the 100 backstroke.

In the 15-17 class Joe McKenna won the 200 freestyle and the 100 butterfly. He, Peter Burnham, Jack White and Walter Carroll won the freestyle relay.

In the girls 8 and under competition, Julie McConville won the 100 individual medley and the 25 butterfly, Meg Given won the 25 freestyle and Kristin Powers won the 25 breaststroke. These three and Marybeth Molignano won the medley relay, and Meg, Kristin, Marybeth and Lisa Boylan won the freestyle relay.

Jennifer Morrissey won the 9-10 50 butterfly and the 100 freestyle, Abigail Cook won the 50 freestyle, the freestyle relay team of Abigail, Jennifer, Lauren Powers and Kate McConville won and the team of Regina McCue, Audrey Burke, Ann Kingston and Christine Glazier was second. The medley relay team of Glazier, McCue, McConville and Cook won but was disqualified.

In the 11-12 class Ellen Powers won the 200 individual medley and the 50 breaststroke, Wendy Molignano won the 100 freestyle and Christine DeWolfe won the 50 backstroke. The medley relay team of DeWolfe, Powers, Sydney Cook and Molignano won and the freestyle relay team of Mary Murphy, Molignano, DeWolfe and Cook also won.

In the 13-14 class second places prevailed, except for Patricia McCue who won the 200 freestyle and the winning freestyle relay team of Betty McKenna, Maeve Lawlor, McCue and Mary Lawlor.

Saturday the boys will host Cape Ann at the Quincy Y pool and the girls will travel to Andover.

Girls B Team, Burlington Tie

Quincy's Girls B team tied Burlington, 4-4, after taking a 2-0 lead.

Sheila Graham and Maureen Allen gave Quincy its 2-0 lead in the first period with Kristen O'Gara and Maria Burke assisting on Graham's goal, but Burlington came back in the second period to tie the score.

In the third period Burlington went ahead, 4-2, but Quincy tied it in the final three minutes with Marie Burke scoring an unassisted goal and Linda Bujarski scoring the tying goal with assists for Allen and Laurie Barba.

● S.S. Hockey

Flyers Upset W. Roxbury, 9-5

The Quincy Flyers won their biggest game of the season Sunday when they upset the previously unbeaten West Roxbury Eagles, Greater Boston Division leaders, 9-5, in the South Shore Hockey League.

The Flyers extended their South Shore Division lead to three points over Bridgewater. The Flyers are 8-1-1 and Bridgewater is 7-3-0.

Coach Jerry O'Rourke termed the win "an absolute team victory. There were no individual stars and all players contributed to the scoring."

West Roxbury, now 8-1-1 in its division, had been averaging nine goals a game and held the opposition to a 3.3 average.

Dennis Bertoni, David Noonan and Jim Connolly spearheaded the defense, Kevin Jago and his wings did most of the scoring and Moe Randall excelled in goal.

Other results last Sunday: Jamaica Plain 8, Quincy Panthers 2; Randolph 15, Quincy Sabres 1; Neponset 6, Quincy Braves 1.

The Flyers will face South Boston next Sunday night at 7:40 at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham. Other games there: Randolph vs. Jamaica Plain, 6:10; Quincy Braves vs. West Roxbury, 6:20; Quincy Sabres vs. Braintree, 7:30; Quincy Panthers vs. Stoughton and Bridgewater vs. Neponset, both at 9.

St. Joseph's Goliath 'A' Team Defeats Nazarene

In a game marked by strong defense, St. Joseph's Goliath "A" basketball team opened its season with a 19-8 win over Wollaston Nazarene.

Leading the way were Chuck and Jim Jachnig with eight and six points respectively. Billy Foley controlled the boards and scored four points and Chris Shaughnessy had the other point and had many assists. Also contributing strong games defensively were Joe Godfrey, Ricky Mahoney and Jimmy Quinn. Brian Rapalje had three points for Nazarene.

● Little Loop

Harold Club Sweeps Bryan VFW

The Paul D. Harold Club was the big gainer in last week's Quincy Bowling Little Loop action as it swept four points from Bryan VFW Post to move to within one point of the league leading Bryans.

Other scores: Local 1451 4, Hennessy Plumbing Supply 0; Dick Morrissey Club 3, Wollaston Bowladrome 1; Atlantic Fuel Oil 3, Atty. George G. Burke Club 1; Hutchinson Oil 3, Joseph Brett Club 1; Quincy Elks 3, James R. McIntyre Club 1; Quincy Sun 3, Montclair Men's Club 1. McIntyre, Hutchinson, Elks and Sun are only two points off the pace.

The standings: Bryan Post, 16-8 [total pinfall of 7671]; Harold, 15-9 [7679]; McIntyre, 14-10 [7785]; Hutchinson, 14-10 [7767]; Elks, 14-10 [7638]; Sun, 14-10 [7590]; Atlantic, 13-11 [7682]; Local 1451, 11-13 [7520]; Hennessy, 10-14 [7650]; Bowladrome, 10-14 [7639]; Montclair, 10-14 [7574]; Morrissey, 9-15 [7668]; Brett, 9-15 [7661]; Burke, 9-15 [7520].

Morrissey Club rolled the weekly high team three of 1389 and the high single of 483. Steve Turner of Burke Club had high three of 340 and Dick Hallberg of Harold Club and Turner tied for high single of 130.

Last Week's 300 Club: Turner, 342; Pete Alibrandi, 333; Hallberg, 330; Jay Dolan, 312; Tom Doherty, 306, and Bob Leonard, 300.

The Top Ten: Hallberg, 112.0; Alibrandi, 107.0; Steve Pecevich, 102.4; Paul Leonard, 101.0; Mike Hatfield, 100.4; Doherty, 100.2; Gary Connolly, 99.3; Joe Crifo, 98.9; Fred Norton, 97.2 and Chris Petrillo, 96.1.

● Basketball

ENC Women At Bentley

The Eastern Nazarene College women's basketball team will play at Bentley College Friday night and will be at Barrington, R.I., College Saturday in its last game before the holiday break.

The Crusaderettes dropped their season's opener last week to Boston College, 62-42, after jumping off to a sizeable lead. B.C. rallied for a 36-25 halftime lead and dominated the second half.

Lois Malvesti, former Quincy High standout, had 14 points, Nanette Baumgartner had 10 and Maureen Mulcahy scored eight.

Point Junior Girls Defeat Atlantic, 33-16

The Quincy Point Junior High girls' ninth grade basketball team opened its season with a 33-16 win over Atlantic.

Point was paced by Mary Travers' 17 points, while Denise Jolley had eight. Karen Walsh, Laurie Peters and Rosana DePietro played excellent games.

Point's eighth grade team also won, 16-8, with Tricia Travers outstanding both ways and scoring 10 points. Mickey Dauphnee, Heather Slicis and Julie Papile contributed to the win. Mary Fitzgerald had eight points for Atlantic.

YMCA Seeking Basketball Players, Coaches

Quincy YMCA is looking for basketball players and coaches to participate in a competitive schedule.

The Y is sponsoring teams for boys 13 and under and 15 and under.

Both Y teams will play against other Ys as well as against boys' clubs and other organized teams. Practice for both teams will be held at the Y starting Saturday, Dec. 2, at 11 a.m.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE MYTHS

MYTH: High blood pressure affects only persons who are nervous and tense.

FACT: High blood pressure affects the easy going as well as the up-tight person. The term describes the state of a person's arteries, not his mind.

MYTH: You always get a headache or become dizzy if your blood pressure is up.

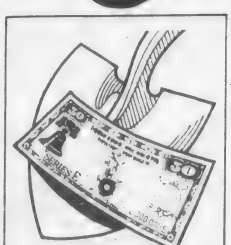
FACT: For some people, that's true, but high blood pressure usually has no symptoms until the heart, brain, or kidney have been damaged. That's why high blood pressure is called the "Silent Killer".

MYTH: Only fat people develop high blood pressure.

FACT: Overweight people are more likely to have high blood pressure, but thin people have high blood pressure too.

MYTH: Nothing can be done about high blood pressure.

FACT: Blood pressure can be lowered and controlled at a healthy level with drugs and - for some people - by dietary changes.



MYTH: High blood pressure can be cured by your doctor.

FACT: You don't get over high blood pressure. Treatment usually continues for life.

● Executive League

Darcy's Blanks Washington

Goalie Harry Kamatausu got his first shutout as Darcy's Pub defeated Washington Tap, 2-0 in the Executive Hockey League. Kevin Glynn and John Morris had the goals and Bill York and Peter Lynch had assists.

Jim Horner and Warren Mills scored four goals apiece to lead Hofbrau to an 11-2 romp over Al's. Steve Marini assisted on all of Mills' goals and three of Horner's. Mills assisted on two Horner goals and Horner reciprocated. Dave Towle and Fred Cashman had one assist a piece. Towle, Marini and Charlie Watts had the other Hofbrau goals. Bill Milano had both of Al's goals with two assists for Steve Dyment and one for Harry Crispo.

John McNeil, Charlie Chambers and Dave Costa scored two goals apiece to spark Sportlight Tavern over Sundowner's Cafe, 7-3. Ralph Gibbs had the other goal. Bill Linehan had four assists, Al McKay two and Costa and Ken Gardner one each. Tom Malchow, Bob Carroll and Ted Ahola had the goals for Sundowner's with Malchow and Carroll having assists.

In previous games Glynn and York went on a scoring spree as Darcy's overwhelmed Sportlight, 11-4.

Glynn and York each had three goals and five assists.

Bob Donovan had two goals and two assists, Dennis and Bob O'Connell a goal and two assists apiece, Jack Hurley a goal and Al Gullickson an assist.

Ed Linehan had a pair of scores and John McNeil and Charlie Chambers a goal each for Sportlight. Al McKay had three assists, Bob Murray two and McNeil one.

Marty Tolson's two goals and two assists led the Washington Tap to a 5-3 decision over the Hofbrau.

John Emmott and Jack Crowley each had a goal and an assist and Bill Sweeney had a goal for the Tap.

Chuck Bahenna, Warren Mills and Jim Horner had the Hofbrau goals with assists going to Paul Lewis, Steve Marine [2] and Horner.

Sundowner's Cafe defeated Al's Cafe, 1-0, on a forfeit.

Crusaders On Road For 3 Games

The Eastern Nazarene College men's basketball team, with a split in its first four games (both losses were by two points), will play at Western New England College tonight (Thursday).

The Crusaders will be at Barrington, R.I., College Saturday and will travel to Southeastern Mass. University Monday for its final game before the holiday break.

The Crusaders were edged by St. Francis, 69-67, last Saturday at Biddeford, Me., after holding a slim 42-41 edge at the half.

ENC still led, 67-66, with just 16 seconds remaining in the game but St. Francis hit on two foul shots to regain the lead and, after ENC had taken possession with six seconds left, another foul gave St. Francis an insurance point.

Jerry Perera led ENC with 15 points, Rick Scearce had 13 and Quincy's Bob Dacey scored 12. Jim Bryan pulled down 11 rebounds.

Earlier in the week the Crusaders had opened their home season by bombing UMass.-Boston, 104-72.

At halftime ENC had only a 48-41 lead but exploded for a 56-31 edge in the second half.

Freshman Mark Carr took scoring honors with 25 points. Perrera had 19 and Dacey, former Quincy High star, and Glenn Bryan scored 14 each.

Earlier ENC had made an outstanding showing in its first ever appearance in the Codfish Tournament at Boston State.

The Crusaders defeated Southern Maine, 72-69, in the opening game but were nipped by the host team, 92-90, in the title game.

Perera and Bryan were named to the all-tournament team.

John Abdelahad Elected Quincy-S.S. Realtors President

John G. Abdelahad, president of New Home Brokers, 170 Forbes Rd., Braintree, has been elected president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors for 1979.

Abdelahad will be installed at the 41st annual installation ceremonies Jan. 11 at Wollaston Golf Club, Milton. A social hour at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by dinner.

The new president opened his real estate firm in 1972 and began a building and construction company the following year. Previously he was employed by Management Assistance Inc., as a computer specialist.

Abdelahad is a member of the National Association of Realtors, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors and the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors since 1972.

JOHN G. ABDELAHAD

He has been a director of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors since 1975. In 1977 he served as secretary and in 1978 was vice president. He has also served as a director of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors this year.

Abedelahad has completed a number of real estate educational programs and holds the Realtor GRI designation.

Steven Monticone Promoted At State Street Bank

Steven R. Monticone of Quincy has been promoted to assistant vice president in the Bank Investments Division of State Street Bank and Trust Co., Boston.

He is supervisor of the Wire Transfer Dept.

A graduate of Quincy Junior College, he attended the University of Massachusetts and has been with State Street since 1969.

Monticone is married and the father of three children.

Thompson Re-elected President

$6 Million Growth At Weymouth Savings

George H. Thompson of Weymouth was re-elected President and Chief Executive Officer of the Weymouth Savings Bank at the 146th annual meeting held recently.

Norman J. Reilly of South Yarmouth and Dorothy G. Delano of Braintree were re-elected vice presidents.

H. Winslow Bettinson, vice president of radio station WJDA, was elected clerk of the corporation. Maynard Allard, who served as clerk of the corporation for many years, has retired and moved to East Harwich, Cape Cod. Allard will continue, however, to serve on the Board of Trustees.

Re-elected for a three-year term as trustees were Thomas K. Brydson, Frank Lagrotteria, and Kenneth F. Parry, all of Weymouth; John M. Dean of Norwood; Dorothy G. Delano and Dr. Vincent Pattavina, both of Braintree.

Thompson reported that the bank had a growth of approximately $6 million. Its deposits exceed $68 million and its assets $75 million. Approximately $4 million was paid in dividends to depositors.

Six new corporators were

GEORGE THOMPSON

elected: Dr. Ronald L. Brackett of Marshfield, a Weymouth dentist; Ruth Doucette of Braintree, realtor; Gary Mirliss of Stoughton, owner of Henry's Men's Store in Weymouth Landing; Daniel Quirk, president of Quirk Chevrolet, Braintree; Wanita Turner of Weymouth, policewoman; and Bernard Whitman of Marshfield, special program director, Weymouth South High School.

Raymond C. Warmington, retired vice president, was elected honorary corporator.

Thompson announced that the new enlarged North Weymouth bank is now completed and an "open house" will be held there next week. He said that construction plans for the new Braintree office on Quincy Avenue were progressing satisfactorily. Construction is expected to start in the near future with an opening planned in 1979.

HOW MANY HOUSES IN YOUR FUTURE?

Sometimes a look into the past will give you an educated guess as to your future homeowning status. So it goes with a recently completed survey of homeowners by a major Mortgage Insurance Company.

If you are an average statistic, you can expect to own three or four homes in your lifetime. The survey found that 76% of all newly-married couples start out by living in rental housing - primarily apartments. It then progresses to the purchase of the first home with the advent of children. Sixty eight percent of couples owning their first home have at least one child.

Although 31% reported their home adequate, 55% reported they were actively looking for a larger house. Although larger quarters was a major reason for moving, 63% said a more expensive home in a better neighborhood was a better investment in light of their experiences in the first two homes.

Keep Christ In Christmas

History of the Infant of Prague

In the country of Austria, in the city of Prague,
A royal procession was wending its way,
Regally decked in colors bright,
To the monastery of the Discalced Carmelites.
Princess Polixena had come to give
These holy friars a precious gift;
A treasured heirloom she received
On her marriage to Polish nobility.
A beautiful statue of the Holy Child,
So gentle and loving, so winsome and mild.
Royally crowned and regally robed,
Prophetical words were uttered that day,
For Princess Polixena was heard to say,
"Respect and honor to this image show,
And material want you will never know."
Carmelite history literally proves,
That spiritual and temporal wants were few,
Indeed the miracles were very great
When the Divine Infant they would venerate.
But depression settled on the house indeed,
When this devotion they would recede.
In 1631, Prague was sacked and over-run
By Protestant Swedes, who mocked and reviled
All things Catholic, and in a pile of rubble lay,
The Miraculous Statue of the Infant of Prague.
When peace returned to the war torn land,
There came to the monastery a little band
Of weary friars in dire need,
To rebuild their home, destroyed by the Swedes.
Father Cyril of the Mother of God,
Loved the Infant most of all
And diligently searched until he found
The Miraculous Image hidden until now.
Lovingly he cleaned and brought it back,
But the tiny hands were badly cracked,
And when before It he knelt to pray,
In sweetest tones, he heard It say:
"Have pity on me and I will pity you,
Give me back my hands and I will give to you
A peace above all early bliss,

The More Honor You Show Me —
The More You I will Bless."

Feeling the message was heavenly sent
Father Cyril quickly went,
To ask the Prior to again renew
The old devotion the community once knew,
And for an offering he implored
That the broken hands might be restored
Vain the plea that Cyril made,
But undaunted and undismayed,
To the Infant again he prayed,
"Little King, the means supply,
And with your wish I will comply.
Send to me some wealthy friend,
And your broken hands, we'll quickly mend."
The Infant spoke as oft before,
"Place Me near the sacristy door."
Father Cyril obeyed the command
And after Mass, a Praguearian man
To the Prior an offering gave
To repair the Statue of the Infant of Prague.
With the restoration of the Miraculous Babe
Prosperity again to the Carmelites came.
Miraculous happenings at once began,
And replicas of the Infant were in great demand.
Devotion to the Infant actually dates
To Sixteen Hundred and Twenty-eight (1628).
It rapidly spread to every clime
And is a popular devotion in our present time.

WEYMOUTH SAVINGS BANK

Money-Talk

A newspaper of financial information from Weymouth Savings Bank

Introducing a brand new concept in banking

Rte. 3A

The North Weymouth Banking Center

Rte. 3A

Are you in there Girl Friday? three-year-old Tarnya Puntiri asks the Girl Friday 24 hour teller at the North Weymouth Banking Center. No, Tarnya, there is no person inside. Girl Friday is a safe, new automatic banking service whereby customers can do their banking business any time of the day or night.

Behind the now famous rotating clock, which is the symbol of Weymouth Savings Bank, the brand new North Weymouth Banking Center at 383 Bridge Street has opened its doors.

Outside, the handsome brick facade is balanced with 100 feet of glass. Three drive-in windows and one walk-up window serve the daytime banker in a hurry. The Girl Friday teller allows customers to do their banking 24 hours a day and there's a huge off street parking lot.

Inside is the largest, most complete customer service area of any bank on the South Shore. Against a backdrop of blue carpeting, hanging plants, and warm Hitchcock colonial furniture stands a long, white serpentine counter where as many as ten tellers can keep traffic flowing comfortably. Behind the tellers is a floating island for clerical help.

The North Weymouth Banking Center is conveniently located on Bridge Street, Rte. 3A, easily accessible to Quincy, Hingham and Hull, as well as Weymouth.

Why is North Weymouth Banking Center more than a bank? Just look at the services it offers for the convenience of its customers.

- Girl Friday (Automated Bank Teller) Fully automated teller services 24 hours a day 7 days a week
- N.O.W. accounts
- Term Deposit Certificates
- All kinds of loans — home improvement, collateral, personal
- Savings Bank Life Insurance
- Travelers Checks
- Safe Deposit Boxes
- Keogh Retirement Plan
- Individual Retirement Accounts
- Money Card
- Mortgages
- Energy Loans
- Student Loans
- Gift Checks
- Revolving Credit

Hi. I'm Liz Litchfield. I'm one of the many friendly tellers who are waiting to serve you at North Weymouth Banking Center.

Here is the long curved counter at North Weymouth Banking Center where ten tellers can keep traffic flowing comfortably.

Why are we more than a bank?

...Because of our people and our services

Cindy will help you if you're on foot

If you're on foot, Cindy Carey will serve you at our walk-up window.

Meet Hank

Hank Bush is one of our many tellers who will be glad to serve you at one of our three drive-in windows.

Carl is the man to see for loans

Carl Paolucci is our manager. He can help you with auto loans, personal loans or home improvement loans and give you the most attractive interest rates and friendly attention.

Ann will open a N.O.W. account for you

Ann DiGravio will open a N.O.W. account for you. Our N.O.W. account is absolutely free and it earns 5% interest. It is like getting a savings account that acts like a checking account. And we offer free overdraft protection. If you overdraw your N.O.W. account, we'll add funds to keep paying your checks up to an amount agreed upon.

Ask Lee-Ann about our safety deposit boxes

Lee-Ann Lavender shows you the vault at North Weymouth Banking Center which houses 1100 safety deposit boxes. These work on a two-key system. The box can only be opened when both the customer's and the bank's master keys are used to insure safety and privacy.

Susan can help you with Term Certificates

Actually our assistant manager Susan Butler can help you with just about anything in the bank — Savings Bank Life Insurance, Travelers Checks or Term Certificates which pay the highest interest allowed by law.

Judy asks -- "Would you like a Money Card?"

Judy O'Neill will be glad to get you a Money Card. With it, you can bank round the clock. Use it in our 24-hour automated teller — Girl Friday — which is open day or night seven days a week. You can get up to $150.00 in cash from your savings or N.O.W. checking account. You can also make deposits and payments with it. Our Money Card provides you with check cashing privileges at supermarkets, too. And it's safe. Only you can use it with your personal ID number.

Dear Friends:

Welcome to our brand new North Weymouth Banking Center. As a community service, we prepared this newspaper for you, so you could meet the people at our new banking center and understand our many services. Also it contains several articles which we hope will give you some useful financial information.

Again, welcome to our new banking center. Refresh yourself at our hospitality table. And please take advantage of our Christmas gifts, our calendars and register for our drawing. You might win a grandfather clock, a color TV or a piece of Hitchcock furniture.

It's a pleasure to be of service to you.

Sincerely

George H. Thompson

You can build a tax sheltered individual retirement account

Build your own retirement nest egg — 100% tax-deferred — at no risk with high savings bank interest.

If you are one of the many millions of persons in the United States who are employed, but who are not covered by a qualified company retirement or profit-sharing plan, by a government retirement plan other than Social Security, or by a qualified self-employed retirement plan... then you can begin...right now...to build toward financially secure retirement years with your own tax-deferred savings plan.

Federal law now makes it possible for you to have your own tax-sheltered retirement savings plan earning high interest here at Weymouth Savings Bank.

It's called an Individual Retirement Account. With an Individual Retirement Account you can conveniently build your own nest egg for retirement years through systematic saving — up to 15% of your compensation to a maximum of $1,500 per year — plus the high interest earned here at Weymouth Savings Bank... all sheltered from federal income tax during your working years.

That's right. Every dollar that you deposit in your Individual Retirement Account is a before-tax deduction from your gross income...These deposits and all of the interest that we add to your IRA are not taxed until you retire and start drawing benefits from your account...a time when most people are in a lower income tax bracket than they were during their working years.

Who is Eligible for an Individual Retirement Account?
You are...

If you are working full-time or part-time...and if you are not now covered by a qualified company retirement or profit-sharing plan, by a self-employed retirement plan or by a governmental plan other than Social Security. In cases where a husband and wife both work, and one is covered by a qualified pension plan while the other is not, the one not covered may establish an Individual Retirement Account. If both work, and neither is covered by a qualified pension plan, either one or both may establish an Individual Retirement Account, and each may contribute up to 15% of his or her compensation, or a maximum of $1,500 per year to their retirement account.

If you leave a company where you have a vested interest in a retirement plan, and go to a company that does not provide a plan, you may take the lump sum payment received from your old company's plan and start your own Individual Retirement Account with it...without paying tax on the lump sum, even if the amount exceeds the $1,500 per year maximum contribution.

If your employer sponsors a qualified retirement plan...and you cannot participate because you have been with the company too short a time, or because you work part-time too few hours to qualify...your employer may contribute to an IRA Plan on your behalf. Also, if your employer does not now sponsor a qualified plan, he may, if he wishes, start an IRA Plan for you. Although you must report the amount your employer contributes on your behalf as income, you may then deduct this contribution from your gross income.

Since 1962, federal law has permitted self-employed persons to establish H.R. 10 retirement plans. However, under an H.R. 10 plan, if a self-employed person wishes to contribute on his own behalf, he is also required to contribute on behalf of his employees. The new law specifically allows a self-employed person to establish an IRA without contributing on behalf of his employees.

An Individual Retirement Account is Flexible, Convenient

You can build your retirement nest egg with regular weekly, monthly, or lump sum savings, however you prefer. Should circumstances force you to skip one or more deposits, or to discontinue deposits entirely, your IRA account balance continues to grow, earning high, tax-deferred interest.

If, after you establish an Individual Retirement Account you should join a company that offers a qualified pension plan, your deposits in your own IRA plan must stop. However, you may leave the balance of your IRA on deposit here earning tax-deferred, high interest until retirement.

When You Can Draw Your Retirement Benefits

Federal law specifies that you may start receiving benefits from your Individual Retirement Account (1) upon retirement any time between the ages of 59½ and 70½, (2) upon permanent disability, or (3) should you die prior to or during retirement, the balance in your account will be paid to your named beneficiaries.

Benefits you draw from your IRA fund after retirement will be considered ordinary income for federal income tax purposes. And only those benefits which you actually receive each year during retirement will be taxed.

If, for some unforeseen reason, you wish to cancel your Individual Retirement Account or withdraw part of your IRA balance before age 59½, you may. However, if you do so, and are not disabled, federal law requires that the amount withdrawn be included in your ordinary income for the year, and that you pay an additional 10% federal tax on the amount withdrawn before age 59½.

How an IRA Tax-Shelter Helps Your Retirement Nest Egg Grow

No. of years saved in IRA Plan	Total tax-deferred amount you deposit	Total tax-deferred interest added	Total IRA Account balance	Total federal taxes deferred
5 years	$ 7,500.00	$ 1,924.70	$ 9,424.70	$ 2,744.81
10 years	$15,000.00	$ 8,090.04	$ 23,090.04	$ 7,561.14
15 years	$22,500.00	$ 20,404.06	$ 42,904.06	$15,652.71
20 years	$30,000.00	$ 41,633.36	$ 71,633.36	$28,853.05
25 years	$37,500.00	$ 75,789.35	$113,289.35	$49,937.50
30 years	$45,000.00	$128,688.37	$173,688.37	$83,084.96

Data based on an individual in the 25% federal income tax bracket who makes a lump sum IRA deposit of $1,500 per year. In the above illustrative examples, "total tax-deferred interest added" is computed at an annual rate of 7½% compounded quarterly.

Guide to writing checks

Here are some basic principles to follow in writing checks.

• Fill out the check stub first, before you write your check. This will eliminate a major checking account problem — insufficient funds.

• Use ink or typewriter and start at the far left of the line. If you don't use the whole space draw a line in the remaining space.

• Date the check the same day you write it.

• When filling in the amount of the check, make sure that the writing and the figures agree. The written sum is the one that is binding. Sometimes a disparity will cause the check to be returned.

• Use the word "and" only once, between the dollar and cents figure. For example, write "one hundred seventy three and 28/100" not "one hundred and seventy three and 28/100."

• Sign your name exactly the way it appears on your signature card and on your check.

• Always endorse the back of a check across the extreme left and exactly as it appears on the face of the check. If your name is misspelled, endorse the check twice — first the incorrect way and then the correct way.

• Don't erase or write over anything written on a check. It looks suspicious.

• To deposit a check, use a restrictive endorsement "for deposit only" on the back of the check above your name and account number.

95% of senior citizens end up broke

The land of plenty. That's what they call the U.S.A. We live in a country with the highest per capita income ever known to mankind. Yet 95% of our citizens who reach the age of 65 are flat broke. Of every 100 who reach their golden years, only 2 are financially independent, 23 must continue to work, and 75 are dependent on friends, relatives or charity.

We're eating more beef, less vegetables

American tastes shift from decade to decade. Just take a look at how our tastes have changed over the past ten years.

• Annual per capita consumption of trimmed and processed beef was 93.2 pounds in 1977 compared with 73.6 pounds in 1965.

• Consumption of fish was 12.2 pounds in 1977, 10.9 in 1965.

• In 1977 the figure for chicken was 44.9 pounds, compared with 33.1 in 1965. Figures for turkey were 9.2 pounds in '77, 7.5 in '65.

• But butter consumption has gone down and margarine consumption has gone up. The figures: butter — 4.4 pounds in '77 compared with 6.4 in '65: margarine — a rise to 11.6 pounds from 9.9 in '65.

• U.S. consumers are eating fewer fresh vegetables but more frozen and canned vegetables. Fresh vegetables — 92.4 pounds in '77, down from 98.3 in '65. Frozen vegetables went up from 8 pounds in '65 to 10.3 in '77. So did the use of canned vegetables, from 46.9 pounds to 53.1.

• The rise in popularity of potatoes is recorded in these figures: 107 pounds per capita in 1965 and 120.6 in '77.

• But diet-conscious Americans are eating less cake and fewer biscuits: wheat flour consumption was down to 108 pounds in '77, compared with 113 in '65.

What you should know about direct deposit of Social Security checks

1. Why is there so much interest today in the direct deposit of Social Security checks?

The Treasury Department has initiated a program to encourage the recipients of all recurring Federal payments to deposit these directly into a financial institution. Under this plan, an individual can have his check sent directly to his financial institution for deposit.

2. How will I benefit from direct deposit of my Social Security check?

It saves making a special trip just to deposit your check. It eliminates worry about the check being lost or stolen in the mail. And, any time you are away from home, your check is automatically deposited for you.

3. Can I have it deposited to any account?

By law your Social Security check must be directed to one specific account.

4. How do I sign up for this service?

Simply complete the government form (SF-1199) available at any of our offices, and our personnel will be glad to help you complete the form.

5. Do I send the form directly to Social Security?

No, you should complete the top half of the form only and take it or mail it to us. We will complete the form, sending one copy to you and one to Social Security.

6. After I sign up, when will you start receiving my check?

It should take about a month for the form to be processed. At the start of the program, it could take slightly longer.

7. What about terminating the direct deposit program?

Simply contact the Social Security office and request that they start sending the checks directly to you. Also notify us.

8. Is there any charge for this service?

No, it is a completely free service of the Weymouth Savings Bank.

9. What if the amount of my check changes?

The correct amount of your check will be deposited each month.

10. I get payments from both the Social Security and Supplemental Income. Do I have to fill out two forms?

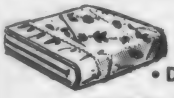
Yes, a separate form is necessary for each check you receive.

11. My spouse and I receive a check jointly. Can we use direct deposit?

Yes, just so the account in which it is deposited is in both your names.

12. Can I deposit my check directly to my spouse's account?

No, the account to which your check is deposited must carry your name.



13. Can my minor children's checks be deposited to my checking account?

If the checks carry your name as representative payee, they may be deposited to your checking account. If you wish to deposit these funds to a savings account, you must have a separate account for each child.

The New Look Starts Here

STOP AND SHOP OFFICES are virtually set to go into this new 10-story office building to be built on the Della Chiesa Parking Area. Drawing by Edgar H. Wood and Associates for Campinelli Investment Properties of Braintree shows Granite St. in foreground with Hancock St. joining in lower right corner. Presidential Cooperative Bank and Baybank Norfolk County Trust Co., occupants of current building at the corner, will go into street floor offices of new building. Construction of the office tower is contingent on city obtaining federal UDAG grant to build parking garage over MBTA tracks [far left in drawing].

Vol. 11 No. 11 Thursday, December 14, 1978 10¢

Dramatic Downtown Facelift Goals:

2 Office Buildings, Motel, Shopping Center, Courthouse

By TOM HENSHAW

If current plans and hopes materialize, the face of downtown Quincy will undergo its most radical change in more than half a century.

Mayor Tobin announced Monday that Garland Corp., a women's sportswear manufacturer, will open a retail sales outlet in the old Gilchrist building in Parkingway next Monday, Dec. 18.

At the same time, Tobin disclosed that the administrative offices of Stop and Shop stores will be the prime tenant in the 10-story office building planned for the Della Chiesa Parking Area. The building, he said, is 90 per cent set.

The Mayor also outlined these future plans and possibilities for revitalizing the downtown business center:

● City planners have been talking with a major motel chain [reportedly Holiday Inns] about building a 150-room motel on or near the site of the Gilchrist building, on which Garland has a one-year lease.

"They brought down some of their operations people," said Tobin, "and they said they were interested and wanted to see the design of the roads, the East-West Connector and the Upland Rd. Extension.

"There is a possibility of putting a mercantile store on the street floor with the motel and a garage over it. The motel people felt some mercantile operation in the building would be excellent."

● The city is still in a favorable position to obtain the new Norfolk County courthouse on land currently occupied by the Bargain Center and now there is talk of an adjacent office building.

"A developer has already talked to us about putting up an office building near the courthouse, if we are lucky enough to land it," said the Mayor.

Tobin refused to confirm or deny reports that the Bargain Center is considering relocating in the Parkingway, possibly in conjunction with the motel building.

● A developer who has built a major shopping center in a city north of Boston is exploring the possibility of putting a similar complex into the John Hancock Parking Area, Tobin said.

"We are doing right now what John Hynes did for the city of Boston when he was mayor 20 years ago," he said. "He did the

Widow Wins 500 Gallons Of Gasoline In QCBPA Promotion

Mrs. Allene Tompkins of 124 Merrymount Ave., Quincy, is the winner of 500 gallons of gasoline in the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association Christmas Shopping promotion, while 36 other lucky coupon holders are winners of holiday turkeys.

Mrs. Tompkins, a widow, deposited her coupon at Woolworth's. A retired elementary school teacher, she taught for many years in the Quincy schools and later in the Weymouth schools.

"This is wonderful," she said when informed of her prize. "I've never won anything before in my life."

Given her choice between 500 gallons of fuel oil or 500 gallons of gasoline, she chose the gasoline.

"Can I get unleaded?" she asked. "That's what my car uses." And, that's what she will get.

In addition to her teaching, Mrs. Tompkins has been owner-operator of Herron's Haven, a guest house on Merrymount Ave.

Winners of the holiday turkeys donated by the participating merchants are:

S. Cannata, 105 Beechwood Rd, Braintree, who deposited a coupon at Barker's; John Chinn,

Burke: A Man With Roots Is Very Careful What He Does As A Congressman

"I'm like that song Jimmy Durante used to sing: 'Ever have the feeling that you wanted to go and yet you had the feeling that you wanted to stay?'"

It was Cong. James A. Burke (D-Milton) on the eve of his retirement after 20 years as Quincy's man in Washington, stepping down at the age of 68 because of ill health.

Burke, who recently lost a foot to diabetes, will be succeeded Jan. 3 by Cong.-elect Brian J. Donnelly (D-Boston), 32, the young State Rep he endorsed for the job.

"I appreciate the opportunity the people have given me," he said, "but, I've said it before and I'll say it again, I'm leaving while the music is playing and I intend to take time to smell the roses.

"I had planned to retire when I was 65, to tell you the truth. I stayed in office because I knew I could do things for the 11th District in the position I was in down there."

Burke was the second ranking Democrat on the House Ways and Means Committee at his retirement.

"I was in a powerful position," he said. "It took me 20 years to get there. If you're able to do more for your district by staying in office, then I say stay in office.

"We should hold on to men like Tip O'Neill, Eddie Boland and Silvio Conte. The South has been successful over the years because

$71,210 In New Wiring

The Quincy Department of Wire Inspection during November issued 82 permits for work to cost an estimated $71,210, according to Thomas E. Purpura, acting wire inspector.

Twenty-eight certificates of approval were issued to Massachusetts Electric. A certificate of approval was also issued to the Quincy Nursing Home, 11 McGrath Hwy. following the annual inspection.

During the month a total of 133 inspections were made and 22 defects were noted. Fees of $876 were collected.

The department made 11 re-inspections in the period and answered four fire calls.

$22.6 Million Contract For S. Quincy MBTA Station, Parking Garage

A $22,692,100 contract to build the MBTA's Quincy Adams station and parking garages for 2,000 cars has been awarded to Blount Brothers of Montgomery, Ala., and Braintree, the lowest of four bidders.

Work is scheduled to begin in January and be completed in 27 months.

The MBTA will decide later whether or not to open the station for service before the contract is completed since access to the station will be by local streets alone.

Blount Brothers also will build bus and kiss-and-ride facilities, a toll collection plaza, and access ramp from Independence Ave. for emergency vehicles and complete access ramps to the Southeast Expressway.

The MBTA has set its goal to open service on the Red Line to South Braintree at September, 1979, and it said the project is on schedule.

'Deplorable Conditions'

Tobin, Kelly Seek New Dog Pound

Both Mayor Tobin and City Councillor Leo J. Kelly are hot on the trail of a new dog pound for Quincy.

Kelly wrote to Tobin this week asking him to give consideration to the allocation of funds from the city-wide Community Development Block Grant for a new pound on the site of the old one.

And Tobin said he has commissioned a cost analysis of building a two-story addition to the Public Works Building on Sea St. to accommodate the pound and the city's sign department.

Kelly said he has discussed with Laurence Babin of the Vo-Tech School the possibility of students doing the major part of the construction work and Babin agreed it was possible.

"The present dog pound is in deplorable condition, unfit for man or beast," said Kelly, "and a new facility would be another step forward in our attempt to alleviate the citywide problem of stray animals."

He said a woman architect has been in touch with him with an offer to design the new pound without fee.

Tobin said he has a committee working on a new pound. It is made up of George Riley, his administrative assistant; Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti; Dog Officer Frank Berlucchi; Police Chief Francis Finn; Health Commissioner Dr. Samuel Solomon; and Building Inspector Allan McDonald.

The Mayor said citywide block grant funds are committed but possibly funds could be taken out of the ward grants, provided the ward councillors are willing to give up a little.

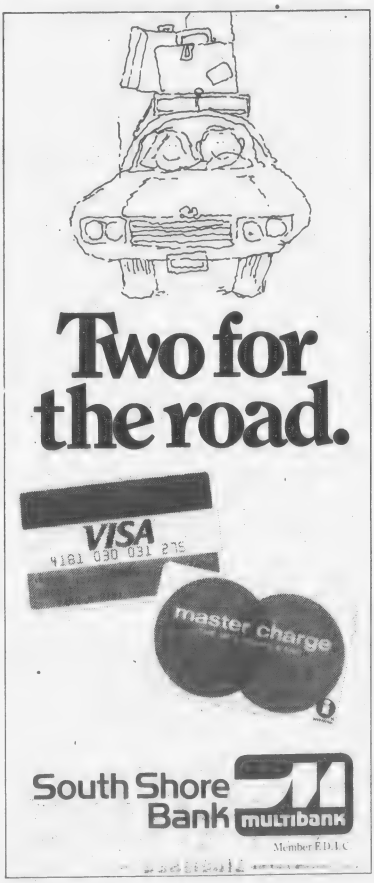
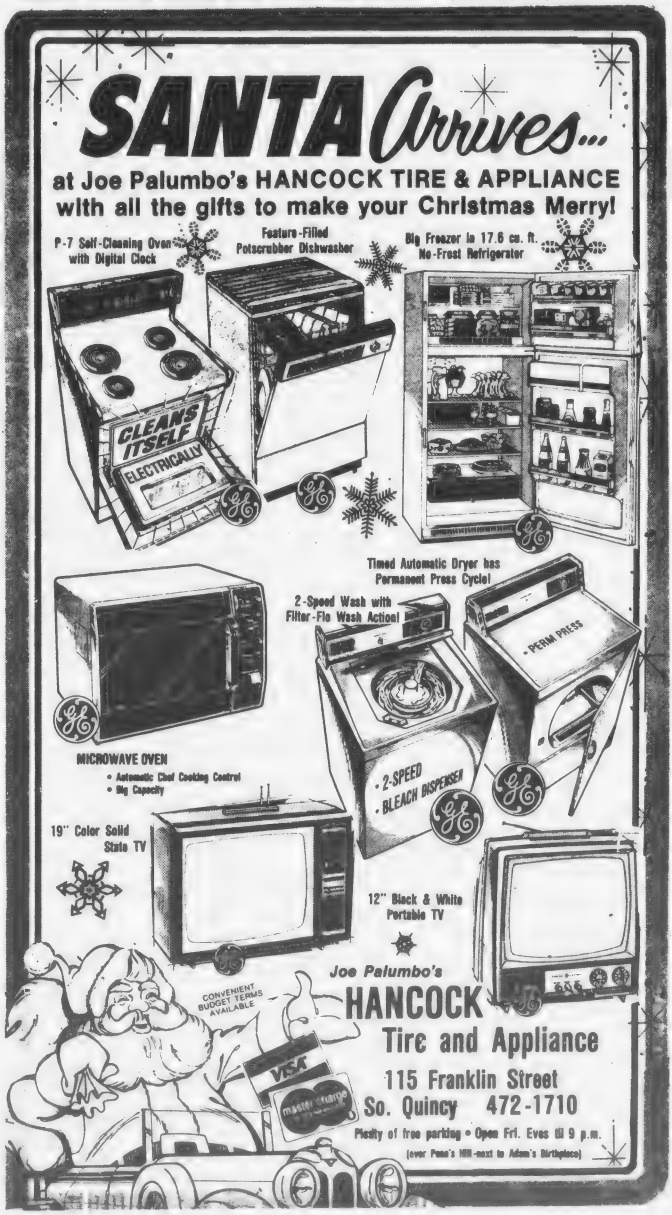
OSCO Pinball Machines Request Tilted By License Board



A request from OSCO Drug Co., 132 Granite St., Quincy, for a license to install pinball machines at its store was unanimously turned down by the Quincy Licensing Board on Tuesday.



Paul Massa, representing Metrovend, distributors of the machines, said the machines have been installed in other OSCO stores in the Greater Boston area. He said OSCO is more of a department store than just an outlet for pharmaceuticals.

The license would cover two digital solid state pinball machines and two electronic video machines, Massa said.

"For the life of me I can't see any reason for a pinball machine in a department store," board chairman John Gillis commented.

"Some kid goes in and puts two quarters in a machine and gets nothing. But the owners get their 40 percent, or whatever," Gillis said.

Kathleen Lyons Promoted At N.E. Life Insurance

KATHLEEN LYONS

Kathleen Lyons, of 34 Moffat Rd., Merrymount, has been named assistant manager of group output accounting at New England Mutual Life Insurance Co., Boston.

In her new position, she is responsible for the payment of all group life and health commissions and the preparation of premium and commission statistics for company publications and awards.

She has been with New England Life since 1970, and has held various positions in group policyholder services. Her most recent position was that of supervisor of group accounting.

2 Residents In Students 'Who's Who'

Two Quincy residents were among the 28 Framingham State College students elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1978-1979.

The students are Elizabeth A. Schaetzl, daughter of Mrs. William J. Schaetzl, of 88 Clement Terrace, North Quincy, and Maryann Dunn, daughter of Maurice F. Dunn of Gilmore St. and Ann M. Dunn, of 103 Norfolk St., both Wollaston.

Miss Shaetzl is a senior, majoring in food and nutrition. She has been class secretary, treasurer of the dormitory council, a member of the class council, Student Union Board, Home Economics Club, Black and Gold Service Committee and the Food and Nutrition Curriculum Committee and has been named to the dean's list.

She graduated from North Quincy High School in 1975.

Miss Dunn is also a senior majoring in food and nutrition. She has been named to the dean's list, participated on the tennis team and intramural sports, been a member of the chorus, the Home Economics club, and cochairperson of the Special Programs committee on the Student Union Board.

She graduated from North Quincy High School in 1975. Students elected to Who's Who have been selected by a campus nominating committee. They are chosen for their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

Applications Available For QJC Nursing Program

Applications for the Quincy Junior College Associate Degree Nursing Program are now available, announces Ellen Kennedy, Director of the Division of Nursing.

The nursing program will begin in September, 1979, and all documents required for admissions consideration must be submitted to the Admissions Office by March 1.

The nursing program is based on the philosphy that nurses need to have a sound knowledge base in behavioral, biological and physical sciences and their application to the practice of nursing. Thus there is a liberal arts and sciences component to the program as well as the nursing component. The liberal arts courses provide the student an opportunity to study the structure and nature of Man as well as his relationship to the environment. The nursing concepts and skills are organized around the theme of man's response and adaption to psychological and physiological change. Students practice nursing skills in the college laboratory before doing their actual clinical experience.

Those interested in applying for admission into this program need to have completed high school or obtained a High School Equivalency Certificate; and completed particular courses at the high school or college level. A packet of information is available which explains the application procedure and contains the admissions documents needed for application.

Prospective students are encouraged to weigh carefully their goals and their ability to make the time commitment necessary for this full-time program. The admissions committee will consider various factors to help them determine if a student can be successful in the College nursing program.

Anyone interested in obtaining the Quincy Junior College Nursing Program Admissions packet may go to the College Admissions office or call 786-8777.

DOVE Seeking Toys, Gifts For Battered Women Shelter

DOVE (Domestic Violence Ended) is seeking donations of toys and other gifts for children who will be spending their Christmas at a shelter for battered women and their children.
who will be spending their Christmas at a shelter for battered women and their children.

A spokesman for DOVE noted that domestic violence is more prevalent during the holidays and it is expected that the shelter in the Quincy area will be busy.

"For this reason, we want to insure that Christmas Day is made as pleasant as possible for the women and their children who have suffered from domestic violence," the spokesman said.

Toys for the children and gifts for the women would be gratefully received.

Those willing to make a donation should call DOVE, 471-5087.

Floating Hospital Friends Elect 2 Residents

Virginia Kurtzman and Mae Reavey, both of Quincy, were recently elected corresponding secretary and recording secretary, respectively, of the newly formed Friends of Boston Floating Hospital for Infants and Children.

Formed by parents whose children have been patients at the hospital, the organization's aim is to increase public awareness of the hospital, provide patients with diversions from the hospital routine and raise funds for the proposed hospital to replace the present overcrowded and outmoded facilities.

The group's first project will be to finance the cost of the playroom in the new hospital building.

For information on becoming a member contact Mrs. Bruce Ryan at 15 Pond St., Milton or through Box 231, New England Medical Center Hospital, 171 Harrison Ave., Boston.

Jewels & Gems

by Stan Manin

Use imagination when figuring how to store jewelry in an orderly fashion. Jewelry boxes come in many sizes and varieties, or devise your own storage system. Often, the best way to keep necklaces from tangling, carring pairs from separating, or some pieces just becoming forgotten because they are lost in a dark corner of a jewelry box, is to hang everything up. Design a wall pattern for hanging, or desidn a mobile with your jewelry as part of the design. Let us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490 design a piece of jewelry to your specifications. We do our own diamond setting, designing and remodeling on the premises, and encourage you to trade an old piece for a new one. Antique and estate jewdry is one of our specialties. We're known as the place to find that gift for the impossible person...and we're always glad to help. For greeting cards and gifts, be sure to visit our new shop next door, "Something Special". We're here 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Mon. thru Sat.

The bill system.

A plug for pay-by-phone.

Since we introduced Pay-by-Phone in early 1978, hundreds of customers have taken advantage of this convenient new way to pay bills. They've found, as you will, that they can save a lot of valuable time every month. Because they can pay so many of their bills in minutes, with a single phone call. In turn, that saves the cost of postage and envelopes.

Checking: With or without checks.

The basic requirement for Pay-by-Phone is an interest-earning NOW checking account at Quincy Savings Bank. You can open one at any of our six REDi-BANK offices and ask to have Pay-by-Phone as part of your NOW checking account. (If you already have a NOW account here, it's even simpler to add the Pay-by-Phone feature.) With the combination, you have the option of continuing to pay your bills by writing a regular check, when you want to, or by telephone if you prefer. This convenience is what makes Pay-by-Phone so helpful.

Ring any bills?

Just about. Because with the growing popularity this new service is gaining, more and more businesses now accept Pay-by-Phone payments. So chances are that most of the stores, utilities, credit card companies and others you pay each month already are included. In any case, once your list is approved, you then have only to ring up the Pay-by-Phone number and say who you want to pay and how much and when. Any time of the day or night. Any day of the week. In good weather or bad, when even the mailbox seems too far to go to pay bills.

For each transaction, there's only a 13¢ charge. That's less than the stamp alone. And your NOW account earns 5% interest from day of deposit to day of withdrawal, which helps offset charges for Pay-by-Phone transactions.

Dial your bills away.

Only you have access to your Pay-by-Phone account, so there can't be any transactions unless you tell us to make them. And each month, you get slips showing each transaction and a statement fully describing your bill payments. So you always have a record of what you've paid. Just like cancelled checks. Pay-by-Phone couldn't be much easier or more convenient.

Place a Colette call.

For more information or an application, call Colette Duffy at 471-3500. She's one of our customer service representatives and will be pleased to answer any questions you may have about our newest service. She'll explain how our bill system works. For you.

'Santa Claus' will put a little twist into gift-giving when he arrives Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m., for the annual Christmas party of the Quincy Catholic Club at the Viking Club, Braintree.

Instead of presenting packages, he will collect them from members and guests. The gifts will be distributed to patients at Medfield State Hospital.

There will be a musical program by the St. Catherine's Boy Choir.

Mrs. Thomas Kenney will serve holiday punch and hors d'oeuvres. Mrs. Kenney also will be in charge of holiday table decorations.

Mrs. Stephen Lindsay will serve as hostess. She will be assisted by:

Mrs. John McRudin, Mrs. Albert Battista, Miss Phyllis Ross, Miss Virginia Ross, Miss Grace DiRado, Mrs. William W. Hancock, Mrs. Warren Burrell, Miss Mary Donovan, Miss Katherine Donovan, Mrs. Joseph Connolly, Mrs. John O'Malley, Mrs. Vincent Picardi, Mrs. John Wayland, Mrs. Maurice Daly, Mrs. Robert Foley, Mrs. Hugh Johnston, Mrs. Paul Waters, Miss Mary McGillicuddy, Miss Veronica McGillicuddy, Mrs. Thomas Hackett, Mrs. John Kradolfer and Mrs. Russell Fruzzetti.

Covered Dish Luncheon For Squantum Women's Club

Squantum Women's Club will hold a covered dish luncheon at 12:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 14 at Fellowship Hall, First Church of Squantum.

There will be unlimited guest privileges, but each person attending must bring an entree or salad. Coffee and dessert will be provided by the executive board.

The program will feature "Golden Days of Radio—Part 2" by Mel Simons. Part 1 was presented last year.

The veterans' service committee will sell ceramics made by patients at the VA Hospital in Brockton.

Mrs. Jerry J. Palmerino, second district director, will be a special guest.

Wollaston Garden Club Christmas Meeting Dec. 21

The Wollaston Garden Club will hold its Christmas meeting Thursday, Dec. 21 in the social hall of the Wollaston Congregational Church, Winthrop Avenue.

A coffee hour will start at 1 p.m. Hostesses will be Mrs. Horace Rolfs, Mrs. Leonard Suttil, Mrs. Scott Kelsay, Mrs. Horace Turnor, Mrs. John Marshall, and Mrs. Charles McConaghy. Mrs. Arthur Shattuck will be in charge of flower arrangements.

The business meeting will follow with Mrs. Rolfs presiding.

Club members will present a "Show and Tell" program in which hobbies and collections will be displayed. There will be a gift exchange.

The club is participating in the decoration of Christmas wreaths for the Quincy Historical Society.

Volunteer Coordinators Needed For Earth Corps Education Program

Volunteers are needed to coordinate activities for Earth Corps, an eight week environmental education program for students ages 9-16, beginning Jan. 29, from 3-5 p.m., at Lincoln Hancock Community School, Quincy.

Sponsored by the Massachusetts Audubon Society in conjunction with the Lincoln Hancock School, the program was developed at the request of parents and concerned citizens, to help students gain a better knowledge of man's interaction with the natural world.

Earth Corps topics will include plants and animals, geology, man-built environment and a look at action projects.

Volunteers, who should have a good working relationship with children and the desire to bolster environmental education efforts, will be trained by the education staff and community coordinator of the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

For more information, call Mary Jo Riley, at Lincoln Hancock Community School, 786-8717.

nuts and bolts work to lay the foundation for Mayors Collins and White to build on."

The next step in the process of redeveloping Quincy Sq. takes place Monday, Dec. 18, when the City Council will be called upon to approve an application for a $2.6 million federal UDGA grant to build a parking garage over the MBTA tracks on Granite St.

Council approval does not constitute a commitment, Tobin said, "just a positive answer to the approach or concept. We are still working out the details, which have to be filed for UDAG in January."

"The Stop and Shop complex is contingent on the garage," said the Mayor, "and the garage is contingent on the development. The federal people are not going to choose us for a UDGA grant unless we can show them we are negotiating seriously to bring in potential development.

"I see a domino effect. Once that building gets underway I see the Planning Department's role a lot easier in talking to people who want to move in."

One of the tenants in a building across Hancock St., Edward A. Viner & Co., stock broker, is reported ready to move into the new office building when it is built.

The Rev. Bedros Baharian, citywide development coordinator, said the new office building will have about 1,000 people moving in and out of its doors every day.

Tobin noted that the buildings fronting on the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts. now bring in some $55,000 in taxes to the city each year.

The office building, he said, will mean three times that much in revenue "even though there is a tax proposal in the package," meaning that tax breaks are included to entice the developer.

Tobin said the Garland Corp. took a one-year lease on the Gilchrist building, which is owned by Grossman Properties, "to give us flexibility. If we have to knock down buildings and relocate people we have to be flexible."

Garland, he said, has shown an interest in remaining in Quincy after the lease expires, perhaps at a different location.

James M. Lynch, vice president of finance for Garland, told a news conference Monday morning that "even though we are coming in on a temporary basis we certainly hope it will be for many, many years."

"When we choose a location," he said, "we make sure that we select a town or city that is on the upgrade, a city that attracts good people, a city with a future."

The Quincy store will be the sixth outlet in the Garland chain. The others are in Brockton, Cohasset, Saugus, Waterville, Maine, and Beaufort, S.C. The company has mills in Brockton, Beaufort and Warrenton, Ga.

Cynthia Mullen, merchandise manager for Garland, said the Quincy store will employ about 40 people, full and parttime. Fifteen local people were hired last Saturday, she said.

On hand to welcome the Garland contingent were Joseph Angelo of Remick's, Edward Coyle, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, and William Austin of the South Shore Bank.

Angelo, whose store handles other lines of women's sportswear, said he welcomes Garland because "competition makes keener retailers out of all of us."

Harold-Marshall Bill Calls For New Jail

Sen.-elect Paul D. Harold is co-sponsoring with Sheriff Clifford H. Marshall a bill that would provide for the construction of a new Norfolk County jail and house of correction.

Harold said he recently toured the old jail, part of which was destroyed by fire.

"Even before the fire which destroyed the entire north wing," he said, "the Dedham facility was outdated and was not able to meet minimum standards of one inmate to a cell.

"The county has been in need of a new jail and house of correction for more than a decade and now, because of its reduced capacity, the whole court system is being backed up.

"Before the fire there were 105 inmates. When the facility reopens without the north wing, the capacity will be reduced to 72."

The only long term solution, said Harold, is a new facility which is estimated to cost $12 million, provided federal funds are made available.

Paul Revere Sons of Liberty BOWL

The original Bowl was made by Paul Revere, a great patriot and skilled silversmith, in the year 1768. Later, an exact replica was ordered by the Fifteen Sons of Liberty whose names were engraved around the original Bowl and it memorialized the vehement protest of the Massachusetts General Court to the Government in London against their oppressive and arbitrary acts. The Bowl was used at every meeting of the Sons of Liberty for many years.

Times Sure Have Changed For GOP

The Republican elephant seems to be headed for political virtual extinction and it's going to be a sad day if it comes.

Quincy is a typical example of a once GOP stronghold coming apart at the seams.

Today, Quincy has only two Republicans in elective office: City Councillor Francis McCauley and School Committeeman Frank Anselmo. And, Anselmo is there only because McCauley vacated the seat after being elected to the council and Anselmo [who had lost in the same election] was elected by the school committee to fill the vacancy.

It wasn't too many years ago that Republicans held just about every elective office in Quincy and every state office in this area.

The big political names locally were those like Thomas Burgin, John Mackay, Amelio Della Chiesa, David McIntosh, Charles Hedges, William Jenness, Charles Ross, Avery Gilkinson, Clifton Baker, etc., etc.

It wasn't until the mid-1950's that Democrats started capturing City Council seats [James McIntyre, Charles Shea] and then state representative seats [McIntyre, Shea, Joseph Brett] the senate seat [James McCormack], and Congressional seat [James Burke].

Less than a half-century ago Democrats were pretty much in the same boat the Republicans are today. They used to joke in those days that Democrats could hold their rallies in a phone booth.

But times have certainly changed. Look at a few figures':

In 1949--just 29 years ago--Quincy had 14,786 registered Republicans, 7,034 Democrats and 22,125 independents. That means there were twice as many Republicans as Democrats.

In 1958--just nine year later--there were 14,938 registered Republicans to 12,405 Democrats and 17,117 independents. Democrats increased by over 5,000 while Republicans gained only 158. Democrats were on the move while Republicans were standing still.

In 1978 Quincy has 29,221 Democrats to only 6,885 Republicans and 13,536 independents.

So, in less than 30 years, Democrats have increased by over 22,000 while Republicans have dropped by nearly 8,000.

Interestingly, Quincy now has 13,536 independents or 8,500 fewer than in 1949. Obviously, the Democrats are doing a much better job at converting independents than Republicans are doing.

Unless Republicans pump some healthy young blood into the GOP elephant's veins, he's going to be as scarce as the buffalo or as extinct as the dinosaur. [Geritol and Serutan aren't going to be enough.]

The last thing we need is a one-party system. But we're headed in that direction unless the Republicans get up off their memories of the good old days and start doing something.

The last thing we need is a one-party system. But we are speeding along in that direction and we're going to get there fast unless the Republicans get up off their fond memories of the good old days and start doing something.

If they don't--or can't--maybe someone should try to figure out how to put a capital "I" on independents and create a brand new party.

SPEAKING OF FIGURES, you might be interested in knowing that women are gaining in political numbers, too. There are now 27,735 female registered voters in Quincy compared to 21,986 male. Women outnumber men by 5,749. Their voice will be heard more and more politically here, and elsewhere.

TAXES: Warren Corbett, former Quincy police detective now security manager for the South Shore Bank, spent Thanksgiving with his son, Joseph, in LaPorte, Ind.

LaPorte is a city of 25,000 with a school district of another 15,000 for a total 40,000 people. Corbett's son has a seven-room home with 2½ baths and a double garage on an acre of land. His taxes for a year: $500.

Corbett notes that his own home in Quincy is about half the size of his son's with one bath and no garage but with three acres of land. His taxes: about $2,000 a year.

"And out there," says Warren, "if you have a pile of leaves in your yard, you can burn them and no one gives a darn."

NICE GESTURE DEPT: Joseph Fanning of Sea St., Adams Shore can tell you there are still some pretty nice people in this old world.

Fanning has been confined to a wheelchair for the past four years as the result of a spinal injury suffered at work. The other weekend, a group of volunteers from the Germantown Heritage Society arrived at the Fanning home and built a 60-foot wooden ramp from the back door to the garage to enable him to get to the family car more easily. The volunteers and youngsters who helped them on the project, want to remain anonymous but Fanning thinks their neighborly act should be noted.

"It gives you something to think about when you see friends willing to help out like this," he says.

Burke: 'I'm Leaving Office Without Any Rancor' they've never fought the seniority system. It's carried them.

"It's funny, I didn't believe in the seniority system when I went down there. But the longer I stayed the more I believed in it."

Burke, whose announcement that he planned to vote for Donnelly came on the weekend prior to the September primary and gave him a big boost, sees Donnelly as an ideal successor.

"I read the interview he had with The Sun the other day and I approve of about 95 per cent of what he said. I have a great deal of faith that he'll carry out his legislative promises.

"I think we were fortunate to have the selection of candidates we had in the primary, Brian, Jim Sheets and the others. I think we selected the candidate that offered the most to the district."

Burke denies reports that there are hard feelings between him and Patrick H. McCarthy, the Randolph attorney who sought to unseat him in 1976 and finished second to Donnelly in 1978.

"I hold no enmity in my heart towards anybody," he said. "I'm leaving office without any rancor. Over the 42 years I was in politics I doubt if any man can say I've done anything against him personally."

He did, however, note that McCarthy, who now lives in Falls Church, Va., grew up in California and came to Massachusetts to go to college and later run for Congress.

"At the beginning of the campaign," said Burke, "I was asked which type of candidate I thought should be elected. I said it should be a man who had roots in the district and legislative experience. Brian Donnelly covers everything I said.

"A person who lives here and intends to live here the rest of his life will be very careful what he does as a congressman. He's concerned about what his neighbors and friends think of him.

"I have my brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews, all my relatives live in the 11th District. I'm concerned about their opinion of me. I believe that holds true for any man.

"A stranger who comes into your midst doesn't have those concerns. He has no roots. Somebody who just moved in here and rents his house and rents his furniture has nothing to tie him down. I don't think that's the type of man we should have in office.

"You'll notice I moved back to Milton and I intend to stay here until I die."

Burke will be at his Milton home on Jan. 3, the day Donnelly is sworn in as his successor. "That's his day," he said. "My day is over." Nor does he plan to offer Donnelly any unsolicited advice.

"He's been through a campaign," he said. "He knows what the issues are. He's a young man who has his own ideas. I respect him for that. I don't think I should impose myself on him.

"My predecessor, Dick Wigglesworth, was a good congressman. His methods and mine were different. I expect Brian Donnelly's methods will be different from mine."

Burke, then a State Rep himself, recalls a visit he made to Washington in 1937 when Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Milton) was in office.

"I went into the office and told them who I was and that I'd like to see the congressman," he said. "They said he's very, very busy. I didn't even write my name down. I just turned around and walked out. I thought it was a very cold way of greeting people.

JIM BURKE

'A person who has roots in the district will be very careful what he does as a United States Congressman.'

"When people came down to see me I had them sign their names and addresses in a guest book. Then my people called me and I made it a point to see them sometime during the day, maybe have lunch with them in the House lunchroom."

Burke estimates that tens of thousands of constituents have been to the capitol to see him in the past 20 years.

"During Easter vacations we used to have about 4,000 youngters come down," he said. "I've got four big boxes of pictures of groups of visitors. The youngsters who came down in the early years came back later on as parents of children of their own."

Burke's papers are going into the Kennedy Library at UMass-Boston. His congressional records and his records of hearings by the Ways and Means Committee will go to Curry College in Milton.

"I've got thousands of mementoes to dispose of," he said. "I don't want them cluttering up space. I intend to keep active myself in the things I've been interested in, the elderly, the handicapped, diabetic groups."

He plans to do volunteer work for them.

"I'll have time to get up to the State House if I want to appear at a hearing," he said. "Several groups have been in touch with me to help them out on legislation. Not special interest groups but people who are trying to make things better for the elderly and handicapped."

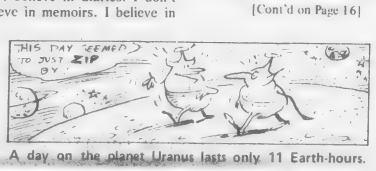
He's not going to write his memoirs.

"I've always kidded everybody that I kept a diary," he said. "But anyone who knows me knows I don't believe in diaries. I don't believe in memoirs. I believe in letting the record stand the way it is."

The biggest thing on that record, in Burke's estimation, is his direction of the Subcommittee on Social Security.

"The work I'm proudest of is the work I did on Social Security," he said. "I was able to keep it financially strong. Social Security recipients right now are guaranteed to receive their checks right up until the year 2000 and beyond."

Burke is leaving Congress with one major task undone. He'd like to see SS contributions come one-third from employees, one-third from employers and one-third from the general revenues. His bill to that end lost out in the last Congress.



"It's going to come, just as sure as we're sitting here," he said. "I'm five years ahead of my time. The only way they beat me was through procedural methods. If I could have gotten a vote on the floor it would have carried.

"I hope Brian Donnelly will join the effort down there to restructure Social Security and lift the repressive taxes from the backs of the working men and women of this country."

One of Burke's last acts in Congress was to lay the foundation for possible federal funding of the Fore River Bridge replacement, an economic necessity for the South Shore since the present bridge limits the General Dynamics Shipyard's ability to build super large tankers.

"The problem was that the bridge is structurally perfect," said Burke. "We got language in the bill that makes it eligible because of economic conditions. The language is in there. It's up

Message From Memphis: Democrats Seriously Divided

[Senator-elect Paul Harold attended last week's Democratic National Conference in Memphis, as an alternate delegate from the 11th Congressional District. Here are his impressions]

By PAUL D. HAROLD

MEMPHIS, TENN. -- The Democratic National Conference in Memphis was billed as the "convention that no one wanted to go to."

And probably for good reason, the main one being that it was an issues convention in which they didn't want issues discussed. It was feared that such a discussion might embarass the President and serve as the jumping off point for a challenge from within the party for the 1980 Democratic Presidential nomination.

Despite the fact the agenda was pre-set, and the whole proceedings were orchestrated by the Carter administration, the delegates were determined to be heard, even if only in a few areas.

The one area in which they were heard loud and clear was in Carter's proposed fiscal year 1980 budget. In an attempt to control inflation, the President has proposed cuts in federal spending. Since he intends to increase military spending and since certain expenditures cannot be cut, by law [such as social security, food stamps and welfare] the cuts will have to come from state and local programs funded by the federal government [such as CETA, housing and revenue sharing].

Massachusetts delegates [36-5] supported an amendment to the budget resolution which would insure at least current funding levels for social services. With inflation, current funding would actually mean as much as a 10 per cent reduction in this area, but this amendment was voted down, at the behest of Carter lieutenants.

Carter got what he wanted, but he also got a message that there is a serious division in his party, which if not healed, could fester into open warfare.

Speaking of warfare, the Massachusetts delegation which was feared by the Carter administration as the potential nucleus for anti-administration leadership, was able to vote against the administration only once.

Conveniently, someone scheduled the Massachusetts delegation flight to leave the convention at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, even though the convention was scheduled to run until 6 p.m.

The President addressed the conference Friday night in what delegates called a "lack luster performance". There was a small group of delegates who were genuine Carter supporters and just as small a group who were anti-Carter, but the vast majority of the delegates just seemed to tolerate the President. The press was also cool to the President's address. Most of the media classified it as a "Big Yawn".

A "blah" speech in politics usually isn't of great consequence, unless there is something else to compare it to. It was, however, compared to the speech the next day by Senator Edward Kennedy on national health insurance, which just about everyone agreed was "fantastic". His speech was as good as Carter's was bad, most of the delegates and press again agreed.

Since there was nothing happening at the convention, this comparison became the main story for most correspondents. Copies of the President's speech lay piled high on the White House press office tables, while copies of Kennedy's speech were underlined, circled, and quoted paragraph by paragraph by reporters.

The Kennedy speech, added to the underlying fear of the Massachusetts group by Carter supporters didn't make for friendly relations with the Georgia delegates who were staying in the same motel with the Bay Staters. Some Georgians actually winced when they heard a Boston accent, and saw red when certain delegates dispensed blue and white Kennedy buttons. [They were in such demand that some motel employees received the buttons as tips.]

It is doubtful that Kennedy would challenge Carter for the nomination in 1980 unless Carter falters and the economy sours between now and then. In which case the party regulars and union chiefs would look to Kennedy to save the White House for the Democrats.

Germantown Community Needs Survey Scheduled For January

Judy Miller, outreach coordinator of the Germantown Service Center, will conduct a community needs assessment in January to determine residents opinions on major problems faced by the community.

The survey will also assist the staff in the evaluation of present center programs.

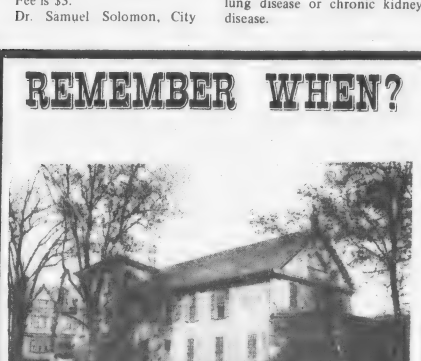
Results of the survey will be analyzed and programs will be planned according to the needs expressed by the residents.

Individuals having personal problems may call the Center at 471-1189 and appropriate referrals will be made with confidentiality assured.

Further information can be obtained by calling Mrs. Miller at the Center, 471-1189, Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Make-up Pneumonia Clinic Scheduled For Dec. 13

The Quincy Health Department will conduct a make-up Pneumonia Clinic at the J. F. Kennedy Health Center Auditorium Wednesday, Dec. 13, from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.



Fee is $3.

Dr. Samuel Solomon, City health commissioner said the vaccine is usually advocated for people of high risk such as:

- Persons above age two with chronic physical conditions like chronic heart disease, chronic lung disease or chronic kidney disease.
- Diabetes mellitus
- Persons in nursing homes and nursing personnel
- Sickle cell anemia, or persons having bad spleens removed

All senior citizens who are prone to pneumonia.

Meanwhile, negotiations on a new contract for some 20,000 members of the CIO Shipbuilders Union got underway in New York.

Fred Burgess, president of Local 5 at Fore River, said the first negotiating session will deal with "a general and uniform change in the wage rates." Pay scales were said to average $1.60 an hour.

Officers of Local 5 urged that workers vote in favor of a union shop in a coming NLRB election as a means of strengthening the union at the negotiating table.

KING DONATIONS PLANNED

Forty one churches and 39 civic, educational and charitable organizations were listed to share in $15,000 being distributed by the King Family Fund on the 106th birthday of its founder, Theophilus King.

Bethany Congregational Church was to receive $3,000 and the Quincy Community Chest $1,200 from the fund, which was established Dec. 14, 1912 on the 68th birthday of its founder.

SCHOOL BUILDING TO START

The School Committee voted to start considering the next phase in the city's $4 million school construction program which was to include a Montclair addition and a new school in the Whitwell St.-Furnace Brook Parkway area.

The Committee also posed the question to School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard as to whether the city should add to the Atherton Hough School in Houghs Neck or build a new school in the Great Hill section.

ALUMNI WHIPPED

Buzzy Ciriello scored 15 points and Pete Ramponi had 12 as the Quincy High School varsity ran up a 28-10 halftime lead and coasted to a 58-42 victory over the Alumni. George Burke had 10 points for the Grads.

Burke: American People Haven't Recovered From Kennedy's Death

to the future . . . to do something."

He said he foresees a new bridge in "no less than seven years and no more than 10."

"I think the shipyard has a good future," he said. "It's got enough work to keep going beyond 1983. We're fortunate to have General Dynamics here.

"I remember the day Ted Kennedy and I walked out of the Bethlehem shipbuilding office in Bethlehem, Pa., after they informed us they were closing the shipyard down.

"Ted said to me on the way out, 'What do we do now?' I said, 'We pray'. We were fortunate General Dynamics moved in here. We should give them all the cooperation we can."

If he had it to do all over, Burke allows that he might do a few things differently. "I might have changed some of my votes if I had been able to see what the results of them would be," he said. But Vietnam, the great issue of his career in Congress, was not one of them.

JIM BURKE

'I don't believe in memoirs. I believe in letting the record stand the way it is.'

"I believe my votes on the Vietnam war were correct, based on the information I had at the time," he said. "Now that it's all over some people have complained about some of the votes I cast. But when you're in Congress and your country is in trouble what do you do?

"I changed my mind about the Vietnam war around 1966. One of the talks I gave before the Veterans of Foreign Wars I called Vietnam a bottomless pit. I said we ought to get out of there. It's great for the Monday morning quarterbacks now.

"Commitments were made long before I got to Congress. It was a mistake on the part of this country. We've suffered a lot since. We lost 50,000 young men. A lot of men got involved in drugs. It was a terrible price to pay."

Burke recalls a bill filed by Cong. William Fitts Ryan of New York calling for an end to the Vietnam conflict.

"It was the only motion before the Congress to end the war. It came in the closing days of that Congress and all those who were shouting against the war had gone home. It lost.

"The day the vote was taken there were only 235 members of the Congress who voted on the question. Those who spoke the loudest against the war were among the absentees. They had previous engagements to go home and speak against the war."

Burke voted for the measure.

Another historic event that took place while Burke was in Congress was the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. He blames a lot of the turmoil of the 1960s and early 1970s on what happened in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

"His death was such a great shock to the American people that I don't think they've recovered from it to this day," he said. "It led to the disillusionment of a lot of people in the government. More than likely he would have had a better way of handling the people when the country was in trouble."

Is Ted Kennedy acting like a presidential candidate?

"Ted Kennedy is acting like a Kennedy," said Burke, who has watched them all his political life. "All Kennedys act like presidential candidates and they always will act like presidential candidates."

Burke said he thinks he'll live to see another president from Massachusetts.

"It might be Ted Kennedy," he said. "It might be Tom O'Neill. It might be Ed King. I've known him from the time he used to come to Washington on Massport problems. He's an able man.

"If he's given the opportunity in this state he'll do a good job. But if they're going to throw roadblocks in his way and try to stop him at every turn and then say he didn't deliver on his promises, well, that's another thing.

"They call him a conservative. I get a kick out of these labels the news media gives people. I like Frank Hatch but I never could see how the newspapers could say he was a liberal and King was a conservative.

"I've always considered myself a bread and butter Democrat. One liberal organization once said I was the most conservative member of the New England congressional delegation. Then a conservative organization called me the most liberal one. I was very happy. I sent them both letters of thanks.

EXCESS SALT CAN HURT

When a healthy person consumes more salt than is needed, the kidneys dispose of the salt and excess fluids that accumulate - at least to a point. Habitual and excessive use of salt raises blood pressure in susceptible persons and aggravates hypertension in persons who already have it. The exact relationship between salt intake and high blood pressure is, as yet, unresolved. However, rigid salt restriction can often reduce blood pressure according to medical authorities.

Adults and children need only about the equivalent of one-quarter teaspoon of table salt a day. Even when working in a hot, humid environment, most people need no more than 2,000 mg a day - still less than one teaspoon.

Most American diets contain roughly three to five teaspoons of salt a day, far more than the body needs.

The salt in our diets primarily comes from foods with high salt content. Such foods include not only potato chips and salted peanuts, but also many foods that don't taste salty. A 10-ounce can of condensed soup may contain more than a teaspoon of salt.

Donnelly Here For Water Control Standards Hearing

Cong.-elect Brian J. Donnelly was scheduled to be at City Hall last night [Wednesday] at 7 p.m. for an Environmental Committee hearing on a possible waiver of federal water control standards.

The waiver is being sought by the MDC to negate the need to use 120 acres of Deer Island for primary and secondary sewerage treatment plants with accompanying facilities in Squantum or Broadmeadows.

Committee Chairman Leo J. Kelly said Donnelly had agreed to handle questions on other federal issues that might interest city councillors.

Kelly said he wanted to talk to Donnelly about the possibility of federal funds to replace the public landing in Houghs Neck that was destroyed by the great snow storm last February.

"I don't recall another congressman appearing before the City Council," said Kelly. "If it goes well I hope he will use the Council frequently as a sounding board for issues."

Fire Won't Delay Opening Of Granite Place

The smoky fire that destroyed supplies and buckled a concrete floor at the Granite Place Apartments on Granite St. will not delay the opening of the $8.1 million project.

Peter O'Connell of O'Connell Brothers Construction Co., the developers, said the target date is still March 1, four months ahead of the schedule set by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

O'Connell estimated the damage at more than $100,000, mostly in stored material such as doors, rug padding, electrical supplies and finished lumber. It will take 10 days to restore the building, he said.

Fire Chief Edward Barry said the fire was caused by a spark from a welder's torch igniting rolls of carpet padding. Three alarms were turned in for the fire in which no one was injured.

Special Tax Exemptions Deadline March 8, Not Dec. 15

Applications for tax exemptions by Quincy home owners over 70, blind persons, widows and disabled veterans can be filed anytime before March 8, 1979, according to John Comer, chairman of the Quincy board of assessors.

The extension was made this year because Quincy property tax bills were not mailed out until Dec. 8.

The Greater Boston Legal Services, 1 Cliveden St., Quincy, earlier announced that Dec. 15 was the deadline for filing of such applications.

Comer said that taxpayers seeking abatements have 30 days from the date the tax bills were mailed to file applications for an adjustment of their bills. This would make the deadline Jan. 8, 1979.

He said that homeowners should keep in mind that there is a difference between an abatement, where the owner contends his property has been overvalued, and an exemption which is a statutory law.

Funeral Mass For Frank Andrea, 72, Longtime Quincy Florist

A funeral Mass was celebrated Wednesday in St. Joseph's Church, Holbrook, for Frank Andrea, 72, a florist in Quincy and Holbrook for many years.

Andrea died at New England Baptist Hospital Saturday, following a long illness. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Born in Genoa, Italy, he came to this country as a child and lived in Quincy until he moved to Holbrook 37 years ago.

He was the owner of Andrea's Flower and Gift Shop in Quincy and Andrea's Greenhouses in Holbrook. He was widely known as the developer of the "Patricia" geranium.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred [Priscello] Andrea; two sons, Ralph M. Andrea and Robert K. Andrea, both of Holbrook, and six grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were handled by Sweeney Brothers Home For Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

St. John's CYO Conducting 'Share Your Christmas' Project

St. John's CYO is inviting fellow parishioners to participate in the annual "Share Your Christmas" program for the benefit of the needy and homeless men at Pine Street Inn and Rosie's Place for Women, both in Boston.

CYO members will collect all donations of clothing and bring them to the altar as part of the offertory of the Masses on Dec. 16 and 17.

Socks, stockings, underwear, T-shirts, knitted stretch hats, warm caps, inexpensive gloves or mittens, are all needed, along with other types of clothing.

Donors are asked to wrap their gifts in Christmas paper. They are also requested to identify the items, the size, and whether for a man or woman, on the outside of the package.

There is also a need for blankets, and sheets at both Pine Street Inn and Rosie's Place. The CYO will be happy to collect them and deliver them to the two shelters.

Board Extends Golden Bowl 2 A.M. Closing For One Year

By PETER BARNICLE

The Quincy Licensing Board on a 3-2 vote Tuesday extended for one year the 2 a.m. closing permit of the Golden Bowl Restaurant, 85-89 Franklin St., Quincy, pending completion of negotiations for the purchase of additional property to enlarge parking facilities.

Atty. George G. Burke, appearing for restaurant owner, John Yee, said the restaurant, formerly John's Constitution, had been purchased from Frederick Padula with the understanding that three houses on Federal St. would be sold to the new owners.

Burke, explained that the houses at 8, 12, and 16 Federal St. adjoin the present parking lot and that the new owners planned to raze the dwellings to expand the parking at the restaurant.

He told the board his client had paid $100,000 in back taxes owned by Padula and was now carrying two mortgages on the property. Burke said the 2 a.m. closing license and acquisition of the dwellings were essential to the restaurant.

Burke told the board that his client had taken options on the property at 8 and 16 Federal St., owned by Frederick Padula. The options have been exercised but a purchase and sales agreement has not been signed.

The property at 12 Federal St. was owned by Louis Padula, a brother of Frederick, who died during the period of negotiations. Louis had declined to sign an option prior to his death and his children, Louis Padula Jr., and Mrs. Priscilla Ivil have refused to sell the property.

Frederick had also told the purchaser, according to Burke, they would have an MBTA lot for parking. The MBTA, however, Burke said, had terminated Padula's lease on the land.

"My clients run a very good restaurant," Burke said. "They are carrying a tremendous overhead and I doubt if anybody else could make a success of the business."

He pointed out the second floor of the building is not used and the basement function room is occupied only on rare occasions. Additional parking space is needed if these two areas are to be utilized, he said.

Police Chief Francis X. Finn, a board member, pointed out that "Chinese restaurants traditionally do a late night business."

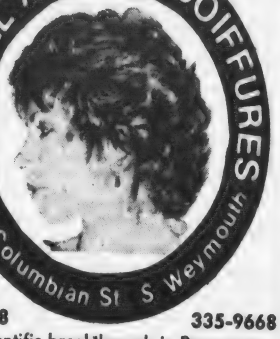
He said that since the temporary 2 a.m. closing license had been granted in August there has been no trouble reported at the Golden Bowl.

Board chairman John Gillis commented that the restaurant would be opened until 2 a.m. even without the late closing liquor permit.

Queried as to whether or not he would sell the property at No. 12 Federal St., Louis Padula Jr., replied "Only at the price my father was asking." The price was not disclosed.

Atty. Burke said his client would be willing to purchase the property at a price set by an appraiser chosen by the board, or anyone else. Up to the moment neither party has had an appraisal of the property, the board was informed.

Board member Allan F. MacDonald suggested that three qualified appraisers be retained to look at the dwelling and land and that a price be set on an average of their reports.



Burke said that was agreeable to him and Louis Padula Jr., indicated he would consider that approach.

It was pointed out that the estate of the late owner of the property will be in probate for at least a year.

Chief Finn made a motion to extend the temporary 2 a.m. closing permit for one year and it was seconded by Dr. Samuel Solomon.

Chairman Gillis, Dr. Solomon and Chief Finn voted in favor of the extension, MacDonald and Fire Chief Edward Barry opposed the motion.

Brownie Troop 192 Awarded Do-Dad Patch

Brownie Troop 192 of Quincy was awarded the first Do-Dad Troop patch at the fall meeting of the Blue Hill Girl Scout Council held recently at the Milton Women's Club.

Under the leadership of Joanne Dondero, the troop is the first 100 percent Do-Dad Troop. Do-Dads are fathers of Girl Scouts who join their daughter's troop and assist in various ways with programs planned especially for dads and daughters.

Jane McGinnis, of Braintree, member of the Board of Directors and daughters Chris and Cathy, related their experiences while living and scouting in Iran for two years.

Reports were heard from Wider Opportunity participants who attended national and international events this past summer.

Slides and reports of the National Convention held recently in Denver, Col., concluded the meeting.

Blue Hill Girl Scout Council is a United Way Agency and member of the Norwood United Fund serving girls in 19 communities south and west of Boston.

RCA Discovering What Remo Knows: Nipper Quite A Popular Pooch

By PETER BARNICLE

Nipper is "alive" and well, and living in Quincy.

He has been living here for the past 20 years. First up on Hancock St. and now down at 12 Revere Rd., where he sits every day outside South Shore Television Sales and Service, his head cocked to one side as he quizzically surveys the passing scene.

Quincy's Nipper is a plastic three-foot tall model of a fox terrier made famous at the turn of the century as the trademark of the Victor Talking Machine Company. When RCA acquired Victor it also acquired Nipper.

Remo DiNicola, South Shore Television's owner, received Nipper from Eastco Co., the RCA distributors, and has prominently displayed him at the entrance to his store ever since.

"The children just love him," says Remo, "They stop to pat him, put their arms around his neck and hug him."

Some of the children try to feed him ice cream, others offer pieces of pizza or candy.

"Even grown-ups smile and pat him on the head when they pass by," the merchant said. "It's great to see people smile."

The dogs who happen down Revere Rd. are a bit suspicious of the big white pooch sitting placidly in front of the store. Most of them veer out into the middle of the street and wait for a reaction which never comes. Then with a couple of defiant barks they take off towards the Hancock parking area.

During the winter months Remo provides Nipper with a shag rug to sit on so he won't get chilblains. When it rains Nipper dons his raincoat and when the mercury plummets he has a sweater.

Although he never leaves his post, Nipper is a law-abiding canine. He is always leashed and during the Christmas season his chain leash is entwined with green holly.

The leash saved Nipper from a dognapper six years ago, according to Remo. The placid pooch was sitting outside the store, then on Hancock St., when a tipsy stroller got the idea he would make a wonderful lawn decoration.

While Remo watched from a window the would-be dognapper grabbed Nipper around the neck and started to run.

"I guess he didn't realize Nipper was leashed," Remo recalls. "Anyway he got to the end of the leash and that was it. He went head over heels and sprawled on the sidewalk."

Nipper, however, lost his head—literally—and one of his legs was damaged.

At that time no new Nippers were being manufactured and it took five years to locate another damaged dog willing to give Nipper a new head and a leg. Now he's as good as new.

Since then RCA has revived its' interest in the trademark and plans to spend an estimated $8 million a year to restore it to a place of prominence.

A firm in Louisville, Ohio, Old King Cole Co., has started producing hand-painted replicas of Nipper in anticipation of an increased demand.

The real Nipper was the pet of a British artist, Francis Barraud who painted the original "His Master's Voice" in the 1890s and sold it to Britain's Gramophone Corp. Nipper was 11 when he died in 1895.

When the Victor firm was granted the North American rights of the British company the trademark was part of the deal and became widely known in every part of this country.

Remo has a second version of Nipper—same size, same color—but made out of papier-mache and so not equipped to face the New England climate. He sits inside the window. This version has a built in speaker system which, when turned on, allows him to make the appropriate canine growls and barks.

EVERYBODY'S FRIEND -- Nipper, attired in sweater, scarf and tam-o-shanter, is greeted by Janet DiTullio, 5, and Roberta DiTullio, 7, of Lancaster St., Quincy Point. Nipper, a replica of RCA's famed trademark, attracts wide attention from children and grown-ups as he sits outside South Shore Television on Revere Rd., placidly surveying passersby.

Community Theatre Selects Cast For 'Sweet Charity'

The Quincy Community Theatre announces its cast for the production of "Sweet Charity" to be presented at Broad Meadows Junior High School Feb. 2, 3, 9 and 10 at 8 p.m.

The cast includes:

Jane Grasselli, Jill Alexander, Michelle Kamel, Evelyn Griffin, Hope Medoff, Joan Herbert, Anna Ragusa, Alyce Spencer, Joe Flaherty and Mildred Vento and other Community Theatre members.

The show is being directed by Kathy Bertrand. Musical director is Richard DeMone. Choreographers are Maria D'Arcangelo and Diane Flanagan. Pianist is Gordon McConnerty.

Tickets are available at Baskin Robbins, Quincy; Colonial Bakery, Wollaston; Sawyers Campus Shop; Craft Hut, North Quincy, and at the door.

Janice Ford Art Exhibit At Library

The paintings of Janice L. Ford, of Cohasset, are on display in the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library through the month of December.

Miss Ford's abstract expressions have been exhibited at the Hanover, Pembroke, Scituate and Cohasset Arts Festivals. Many of her paintings hang in private collections as well as galleries and shops.

She studied at the Museum School of Fine Arts and the Massachusetts College of Art.

At Music Hall

4 From Quincy In Boston Ballet's 'Nutcracker'

Four Quincy youngsters have roles in Tchaikovsky's Christmas classic "Nutcracker" being presented by the Boston Ballet Company at the Music Hall in Boston.

The Quincy group join the cast tomorrow (Friday) evening and will appear through Dec. 24.

Lynda Lee Rice, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Rice, 282 Palmer St., Germantown, will appear as a Candy Cane. Lynda, a sixth grade pupil at Snug Harbor School, recently appeared in the Boston Ballet's production of "Cinderella".

Kristen Campbell, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Campbell, 16 Elm Ave., Wollaston, has the role of a doll in the battle scene of the toy soldiers and the mice. Kristen is a third grade pupil at the Myles Standish School and has been attending the Boston Ballet School for the past two years. Mrs. Campbell is an art teacher at Sterling Junior High School.

Kathryn Gralton, 8, and her brother, Robert, 11, children of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Gralton, 196 Marlboro St., Wollaston, also have roles in the ballet. Katnryn has been cast as a soldier in the battle scene and Robert will appear in the prologue and in the party scene. Kathryn is in the third grade at Beechwood Knoll School and Robert is in the sixth grade at the same school.

BALLARINA -- Lynda Lee Rice, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Rice of Germantown, is appearing in the Boston Ballet Company's presentation of "Nutcracker" at the Music Hall in Boston.

QHS's Page & Stage To Present 'Thieves' Carnival'

The Quincy High School Page & Stage Drama Club will present its first production of the year, "Thieves' Carnival", by Jean Anouilh, Dec. 14, 15 and 16 at 8 p.m. at Broad Meadows Junior High School, 50 Calvin Rd.

The play is under the direction of Stephen Weeks, an English teacher at Quincy High School and advisor to Page & Stage. Assisting Weeks is Melissa McCauley.

The play, the most successful of Anouilh's works in the United States, deals with a carefree prank that is loaded with humorous whims, romance and masquerades.

Cast members include Anthony Andronico, Barbara Anglin, Peggy Burchill, Sandy Cahill, Katy Carlisle, Patty Hogan, Kelly Hooper, Brian Kelly, Jim Ladas, Kathy Mann, David Masidlover, David Meenan, Sean O'Sullivan, Anthony Quintiliani, Robbie Roche, Ed Sutliff and John Swanton.

Members of the production crew include Stephen Keefe, technical director; Julie Fraser, production manager, publicity crew, Robin Parsons, Mary Barr, Chris Spink and Terri Pearson, publicity; Joan Fantucchio, and Maureen Kelly, prop crew; Ann Marie Nigro, Francie Maloney, Danielle Carbonneau and Carolyn Donovan, costumes; John Ellis, Michael May and David Carbonneau, stage crew.

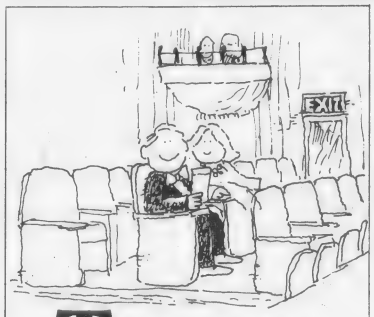
'Gift Of The Magi' Saturday At YMCA

"The Gift of the Magi", adapted from a story by O. Henry, will be presented Saturday at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of the Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy.

The story, considered an American Christmas classic, will feature performances by members of the "Y" Dramatic Club, ranging in age from 7 to 16. Cate Mann is directing the play.

Brenda Kelly In Holiday Concert Broadcasts



Brenda Kelly of 62 Tyler St., Quincy, a student at the University of Lowell will perform in two concert broadcasts Dec. 19 and 24.

As a member of the College of Music Concert Choir, she will appear on the WCVB-TV (Channel Five) "Good Morning" Show, December 19 from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., under the direction of Dr. Edward F. Gilday.

The University Concert Choir performance of Dec. 14, at the Cyrus Durgin Hall arts center on the campus, will additionally be taped and aired on Merrimack Valley radio station WCAP (980 a.m.), on Dec. 24 at 3 p.m.

THE COOKIE TREE, one of the earliest American versions of the Christmas tree, stands beside Mrs. Frank Wiot of Albatross Rd., Adams Shore, at the spinning wheel, during opening of exhibit of early Christmas toys and decorations at Quincy Historical Society. Many American housewives had wooden molds for springerle cookies or tin cookie cutters to make tree decorations. The exhibit at the Historical Society on Adams St., is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. until Dec. 30.

S.S. Creamery

Liquor License Transferred

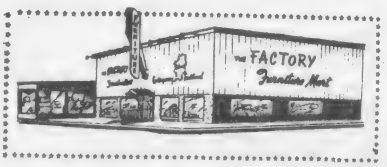
Transfer of an all alcoholic beverage and retail package goods store license from South Shore Creamery to Southern Artery Liquors, Inc., 657-659 Southern Artery, was approved on Tuesday by the Quincy Licensing Board.

The new owner, Thomas E. Hall, told the board he plans to concentrate on the sale of liquor and eliminate the canned goods and food products sold by the previous owner. He said he will emphasize the sale of wines.

Conservation Commission Hearing

The Conservation Commission was scheduled to hold public hearings last night [Wednesday] at 7:30 p.m. at 1000 Southern Artery on two proposals to alter wetlands.

One hearing involved the plan by the National Fire Protection Association to clear and grade undeveloped land in the Pine Hill area of West Quincy for construction of a headquarters building.



The other involved the intent of Anthony LaPuma of Braintree to construct a single family house and regrade land on Chick St., Wollaston.

Sludge Disposal Ban Among Them

Morrissey Files Nearly 70 Bills For 1979 Consideration

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has filed and co-sponsored nearly 70 bills in the 1979 legislature, including 25 for constituents.

Morrissey said one of the most important bills is one prohibiting the disposal of sludge or sewerage residue within the boundaries of the city of Quincy. Such legislation could have an important impact on the proposal to dump sludge at Broadmeadows or Squantum.

Three of Morrissey's bills pertain to Massport. One would require one member of the board to be from the South Shore, another would have Massport build a permanent noise monitoring station in Squantum, and third would require Massport to hold a public hearing in any community within a 12-mile radius of the airport that would be affected by a flight pattern change.

Morrissey also filed three bills dealing with real estate. One bill sets up continuing education provisions for real estate brokers as a condition for license renewal.

Another bill would allow consumers, instead of banks, to hire and select their own attorneys, to handle a title search and the passing of papers in the sale and purchase of a home.

The third real estate bill would allow any person who passes one of the two parts of the real estate license exam to take the section which they didn't pass on the next exam date.

Morrissey said that close to 6,000 bills have been filed and are being put in legal format to be sent to the printer for the beginning of the legislative session.

Fenno House Christmas Party

The annual Fenno House Christmas party will be held Sunday, Dec. 17, in the common room of Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Festivities will begin with a social hour at 5 p.m. followed by dinner at 6 p.m., catered by Fasano's of Braintree.

The entertainment will be provided by Paul Wiggin, who has presented more than 400 concerts for senior citizens in housing and nursing home complexes.

11 Sacred Heart School Lunchroom Monitors Complete CPR Course

A group of 11 lunchroom monitors from Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, have completed the CPR course given by the Quincy Heart Saver Task Force.

The monitors who completed the course are: Betty McSweeney, Marie Barry, Kay Riley, Joann Seymour, Phyllis Conley, Patricia Moran, Gail Donovan, Claire Hoffman, Janet Larson, Bernice Hendsbee and Mary Douglas.

The volunteer instructors were Rose Mysiuk, Joyce Wiencek, and Patricia McCarthy, all registered nurses at Quincy City Hospital, and Madeline Burke, RN, from Lemuel Shattuck Hospital.

Persons interested in future Heart Saver courses may contact the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at 179-1111.

The Task Force is urgently in need of qualified instructors to assist in giving CPR courses. Those wanting to volunteer can contact Vincent Sullivan at 471-0100.

In working with glazes you will experience the fact that most often they flow during the firing process, and it is difficult to use several of them on a piece without them running together. Here is the time to use underglazes. Opaque water soluble underglazes are a combination of color pigment and clay. They do not flow, and are an excellent medium to use to achieve an all overcoverage that has design work on it or for figurine work. These colors require a three coat coverage and are applied to greenware with either a brush or sponge. When the piece is finished and bisqued fired it does not look completed; therefore it should be glazed with either a transparent gloss or dull glaze and refired. In summary, an "underglaze" means you wish to add color UNDER a glaze.

TIPS AND HINTS:

Wipe off the lids to jars of paint and rim of jar before securing cover, this helps keep paint free of dried paint chips and makes jars easier to open.

Miller Accents Hustle, Defense

'Homeless' North Opens Against Brookline At Vo-Tech Gym

North Quincy's "basketball team without a home" will open its season next Tuesday night against Brookline at Quincy Vo-Tech, the Raiders' "home gym."

Coach Eddie Miller, whose team finished with a 9-11 record a year ago, hopes to make up for a lack of height with hustle and good defense.

"We have always had a strong defensive team and I hope we will score more this year," Miller, a former Raider standout himself, said. "We had excellent defense last season but had trouble scoring."

Miller is building around five seniors, Kevin Cobban (5-8), the quarterback in football and also the "quarterback" of the basketball squad; Jim Holleran (6-0), Robby Nolan (6-1), Billy Harrow (6-2) and Mark Roberts (5-9).

Cobban, Holleran and Nolan played regularly and Harrow and Roberts saw some action last winter.

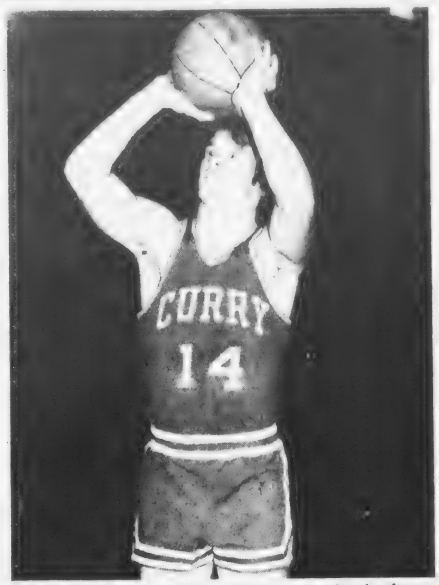
The North coach has two junior transfers, Joe Flynn (5-8) from Sacred Heart of Weymouth, and Billy Timmons (6-0) from Boston College High.

Flynn, whose brother, John, was an excellent player at North and who went on to have an outstanding football career at Trinity College, was a starter at Sacred Heart, while Timmons saw some service at B.C. High.

"I hope this is a good sign and that a lot of other boys will decide to stay at North Quincy in the future," Miller said. "The fact double sessions are over and we hopefully will be in our new gym next year should help us keep North Quincy athletes in North Quincy."

Other juniors are Rich Keenan (5-8), and Billy O'Connell (6-2).

There are a large number of fine looking sophomores and among the best are Mark Millane (6-3), Vic O'Leary (6-3), Bob Bolster (6-1) and Paul Mallory (6-1), who may stay with the varsity.



"The sophomores look good and should give my junior varsity coach, Paul Bregoli, a strong team," Miller added.

"Cobban is a fine ball handler and Holleran and Nolan are also fine players with experience," the Raider coach said. "We won't have any outstanding scorer but several are good shooters.

"We play the "iron" of the Suburban League, Brookline, Brockton and Cambridge, in our first three games and I'll be able to tell a lot more after those games.

"You have to give our seniors a lot of credit, they have never had a home court. We don't get much practice at the Vo-Tech gym so we don't enjoy any home court advantage."

--TOM SULLIVAN

CURRY STAR -- Steve Connolly, a junior guard and a former Quincy High standout, is one of the top defensive players on the Curry College basketball team.

Broad Meadows Wrestlers Pin Atlantic

The Broad Meadows wrestling team, defending city junior high champion, improved its record to 3-0 with a 36-18 win over Atlantic.

The Burt brothers, Mike and Jerry, started the scoring for BM with two straight pins. Rich Monahan, Glynn Straughn and Eric Swanson also won by pins.

BM earlier had easily defeated Point, 45-7, the Burt brothers, David Vecchione and Jerry McSarry winning their matches with pins.

Sterling defeated Central, 33-19, with Mario Venturelli, Joseph Bush, Robert McDermott, Mark Picot and Glen Oriola winning by pins and John Kozloswki winning a decision.

In junior varsity action Sterling's Paul Rennie, Paul Kenny and Justin Obert won by pins and John Cacciatore and Steven Ricci took decisions.

Atlantic's varsity defeated Central, 33-24, rallying after Central had won the first four bouts by pins.

Chris Butler got Atlantic rolling with a pin, followed by pins by Richie Palma, Scott Sluhocki and Jim O'Neil, a decision by Frank Schacht and a pin by Steve Kallenberg in the heavyweight finale.

Atlantic's junior varsity also won, 33-18, as Steve Burke, Michael Pimental, Frank Scanlon, Paul Norton and Paul Martin won by pins and Ed Fournier won a decision.

Special Swimming Program For School Vacation

The Lincoln Hancock Community School Council announces a special program of recreational swimming sponsored by the council during school vacation.

These special morning swims are scheduled each vacation period at the pool in the Charles Djerf Community Center of the school. They are open to all Quincy residents having a recreation department pool participation card. Persons who do not have a card can still participate by picking up a parent permission form at the community school office next week.

The program will be held Wednesday, Dec. 27; Thursday, Dec. 28, and Friday, Dec. 29 with the following schedule (all coed):

Nine to 9:50 a.m., elementary; 10 to 10:50, junior high, and 11 to 11:50, senior high and adults.

Co-Ed Gym Program

A coed Junior and Senior High gymnastics program is being presented by the Quincy Recreation Department Tuesdays and Thursday evenings from 6:30 and 9:30 at Atlantic Junior High School.

Recreation Director Charles L. Alongi said floor exercises, tumbling and complete instructions in the use of various apparatus are being offered.

Small Turnout Disappoints Lewis

North Has New Hockey Coach And Old Problem

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy has a new hockey coach, and an old problem.

SOUTH BOSTON SAVINGS BANK IS COMING TO LAKIN SQUARE QUINCY.
WATCH FOR OPENING

Kevin Lewis, who played under Bob Sylvia at Quincy High and later at Merrimack College is disappointed by a small turnout, the same problem which plagued his predecessor, Ron Erikson, but he hopes to improve on last year's 4-15-1 record.

The Raiders, who also have a new junior varsity coach in Kevin Jago, a former Raider star himself who later played Junior A hockey, have only 22 boys on the varsity and 16 on the jayvees but Lewis was pleased last Saturday when they defeated Milton, 6-2, in a scrimmage and later walloped Boston English, 6-1, in a jamboree at Boston Arena.

"We have to get more interest in hockey and I hope that a lot of boys will decide to stay at North instead of going to outside schools as so many now do," Lewis said. "We played Boston College High in a scrimmage and they are loaded with Quincy and North Quincy players."

The new coach has a good nucleus of veterans. A major problem is in goal where Karl Olson, who saw a lot of varsity service, Tim McCormack and Bob Tierney, who were on the jayvees and saw a little action with the varsity, are fighting for the job.

"None of them have really been tested but they looked good against Milton and English and I'll be able to tell a lot more about them after playing in the Cranberry Tournament at the Hobomock Rink in Pembroke," Lewis said.

Kevin has three top defensemen in Co-Capt. Leo Doyle, Mark Rooney and Brian McGilvray. Doyle and Rooney were starters a year ago and McGilvray played a lot.

The experienced forwards are Co-Capt. Paul Cooney, Pat Ennis, Dan Cronin, Paul Reardon and Eddie Marella, all of whom have impressed in practice.

Other forwards, most of whom have played on the junior varsity, are Tom Gerry, Leo Graham, Dave Parsons and Brian Ofria.

Other defensemen include Paul McDermott, a transfer from B.C. High; sophomore Mark Andrews, whose brother John was a fine player at North, and Bill Bradley, who is believed to be the first freshman to make the varsity at North.

Three other sophomores, Rick Reinhardt, Paul O'Sullivan and Jim McGinnis, make up a fourth line but will play most of their hockey with the jayvees.

Lewis' first line consists of Cooney, Ennis and Marella. Collins, Gerry and Graham make up the second line and Parsons, Cronin and Reardon or Ofria form the third line.

Doyle and Rooney make up the first defense duo, McGilvray and McDermott will be the second unit and Andrews and Bradley will make up the third pair.

"Our co-captains, Doyle and Cooney, are the keys to our success," Lewis said. "They are fine leaders. This is a group of real hard workers and they have a lot of desire."

North faced King Philip Tuesday in the Cranberry Tournament sponsored by Silver Lake. If they won the Raiders played the Silver Lake-East Bridgewater winner.

In the 6-1 jamboree win over Boston English, Ennis had three goals and two assists, Marella had two goals and an assist, Gerry had the other goal, Cooney and Doyle had two assists apiece and McDermott had an assist. All three goalies played and did a good job.

The Raiders will open their Suburban League season against Brockton Dec. 20 at 6:40 at the Quincy Youth Arena, the home ice for North and Quincy.

Razer's In PeeWee Lead, Keohane's Upsets JDA

Razer's Edge held its one point edge in the Pee Wee Division of St. Ann's Youth Hockey League with a 4-1 win over Art Tailors last week.

Steve Kelly had two goals and Steve Doran and Chris Meyer one each. Mike Sullivan had the goal for Art Tailors with Chris Howley assisting.

Keohane's handed JDA its first loss, 3-0, to move into a second place tie with JDA. Joe Riley, Mike Barron and Steve Breslin had the goals with an assist for Walter Downing. D. J. Riley earned the shutout with a fine effort in goal.

Dunkin Donuts and winless Nobile Sporting Goods played to a 3-3 tie. Wayne Chambers had two goals for Donuts and John Palisi one. Ken Gardiner, Mark Sexton and Mike Ainsley scored for Nobile with assists for Mike Deluca, Mike Stanton, Danny McDonald and Scott Raptelis.

In the Bantam Division unbeaten Plaza Olds maintained its three-point edge by nipping Associated Woodworkers, 3-2, on goals by Brian Webb, Eddie Page and Peter Clark. Page, Dan Ceurvels and Jeff Gale had assists. For Woodworkers Greg Therrien and Paul Maloney had the goals with an assist for Kevin Coyman.

Blackwood defeated N. Quincy K. of C., 5-3, with Richie O'Sullivan, Andrew MacDonald, Paul Halloran, Steve MacDonald and Steve Burke scoring the goals and Jim McDonough, Greg McMillen, Mike Phelan, Mike Ahern and Dave Beaton having assists. Neal Beagle, Brian Burns and Peter Quinn scored for the Knights with Mark Roden having an assist.

Lydon Russell handed winless Bike 'n' Blade its sixth straight defeat, 5-2, as Bob Conti scored twice and John Keller, John Doran and Gregg Trenholm once each. Keller, Doran, Gordon Trenholm and Kevin O'Callahan had assists. Kurt Olson and Mike O'Reilly had the B 'n' B goals with an assist for Rich Comeau.

Harold Club Holds Slim Lead Over McIntyre

Only one point separates the top five teams in the Quincy bowling Little Loop with Councilor Paul D. Harold Club holding the edge with a 19-9 record (total pinfall of 9035).

The James R. McIntyre Club is in second place with 18-10 (9187); followed by Hutchinson Fuel Oil, 18-10 (9105); Bryan VFW Post, 18-10 (8967); and Quincy Elks, 18-10 (8958).

The rest of the standings:

Quincy Sun, 14-14 (8849); Richard M. Morrissey Club, 13-15 (8974); Atlantic Fuel Oil, 13-15 (8973); Montclair Men's Club, 13-15 (8825); Local 1451, IAM, AFL-CIO, 12-16 (8745); Joseph E. Brett Club, 11-17 (8976); Wollaston Bowladrome, 10-18 (8897); Hennessy Plumbing Supply, 10-18 (8859); Atty. George Burke Club, 9-15 (8732).

Last week's results: Harold 4, Bowladrome 0; McIntyre 4, Burke 0; Hutchinson 4, Sun 0; Elks 4, Atlantic 0; Morrissey 4, Hennessy 0; Montclair 4, Local 1451 1; Bryan Post 2, Brett 2.

The weekly 300 club: Dick Hallberg, 356; Steve Pecevich, 352; Gary Connolly, 320; Fred Norton, 309; Paul Leonard, 306; Mike Hatfield, 300.

McIntyre Club rolled the weekly high team three, a season high of 1402, and also had high single of 494. Hallberg of the Harold Club rolled high individual three of 356 and Pecevich had the high single of 158, high for the year and the third highest in 25 years of league competition.

The Top Ten: Hallberg, 113.0; Pete Alibrandi, 104.2; Pecevich, 104.2; Leonard, 101.1; Connolly, 100.3; Tom Doherty, 100.0; Joe Crifo, 97.0; Dan Logue, 96.0; Scott London, 96.0.

Plans are being considered for a 25th anniversary dinner and dance with all proceeds over expenses to be presented to the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

Traficante, Morash Set Quincy Track Club Records

In weekend action at Franklin High School, the Quincy Track Club's Georgia Traficante set two club records in the 10-11 age group and Harry Morash set another in the first meet of the winter series.

Traficante won the mile in 5:52.2 and the 440 in 71.5 and also placed second in the 50. Morash set a boys' 10-11 record running the mile in 5:53.3.

Donna Reardon won the mile, Linda Morash won the 880, Penny Sawyer won the 50 and Michelle Millane won the shot put.

Kevin Wood took thirds in the high jump, 50 and 440, and Mike Williams won the 50.

In the recent National Junior Olympics Cross Country championships in Shawnee Mission, Kansas, Vicki Finlayson of Abington, a QTC member, encountered a disappointing setback but displayed a lot of courage to finish 49th and win a ribbon.

Vicki was 10th after a quarter of a mile in the 14-15 girls' 2.5 mile race among a field of more than 200 when a girl running behind her stepped on the back of her shoe, pulling it off.

This caused Vicki to drop back to about 40th due to sub-zero temperatures and the hard ground. A half mile later her sock came off and all that was left to cover her foot was her tights, which most runners wore due to the extreme cold. She fell back to 60th with about a half mile to go when a coach from Taunton told her she had to beat 10 girls to place in the top 50 and receive a ribbon.

She put on a dramatic finishing kick to place 49th.

"I thought about dropping out because my foot hurt so much and because I wasn't running the way I usually do, but I had put in so much training and had come here to run so I tried my best to finish," the QTC star said.

"This was the biggest, most talented field I had run against so it was a learning experience."

Her coach, Jeff Hennessy was impressed with his star runner's attitude and determination.

"Vicki is a strong willed girl and usually accomplishes what she has to," he said. "I was pleased with her, at least she won something for her troubles. All the other kids from Massachusetts congratulated her.

"She has something to look forward to as she is in the same age group next year and the Nationals are in New Jersey. I would like to thank Abington High Coach Jim Hoar for his efforts and the Abington VFW for sponsoring Vicki on her trip."

Broad Meadows Girls Roll By A-N, 27-8

In junior high girls' basketball action, Broad Meadows defeated Atlantic-North, 27-8, Kathy Flynn had eight points and Janet Witham six, while Meg Goldrick and Cathy Riley also played outstanding games.

The BM junior varsity topped Atlantic, 13-4, paced by Jean Rudolph and Mary Kussman.

Broad Meadows earlier defeated Point, 28-14, sparked by Janet Witham's 11 points. Kathy Flynn and Jeanne Holler also played well.

The Point junior varsity evened things with a 12-2 win.

Atlantic-North nipped Central, 31-30, in a come-from-behind effort. Susan Walty hit on two foul shots with a minute left for the win. Walty and Maureen McAleney paced the offense while Pat Sullivan excelled on defense.

The Central jayvees edged Atlantic, 17-14. Central jumped out to an 8-0 lead but Atlantic came back and outplayed the winners the rest of the way.

Sterling defeated Broad Meadows, 20-10, in a game which was close until the final minute of the third period when Nancy MacDonald scored six of her game high 14 points. Eileen Morrison and Janice Burke stood out on defense.

The Broad Meadows jayvees won, 12-8, sparked by the fine play of Ellen Deady, Mary Kussman and Paula Riley.

● South Shore Hockey

'Quincy Night' At Pilgrim Arena

Last Sunday was the biggest night of the year for the four Quincy entries in the South Shore Hockey League as all won in games at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham.

The Flyers held their South Shore Division lead with a 3-0 win over South Boston, their sixth straight win. Sunday they will meet Bridgewater, which trails the Flyers by only one point.

The Quincy Panthers bombed the Hingham Hornets, 13-2, to remain five points behind the Flyers. Hingham scored first but Chip Colette tied it for Quincy with the first of his two goals and it was a breeze the rest of the way.

Jay Nolan, the league's top scorer the past two years, joined the Panthers and he and Danny Imperato accounted for 12 points between them and Bill Dailey had two goals and three assists.

Quincy's Comeau's Braves defeated West Roxbury, 3-2, to move into a tie with Randolph for the last playoff spot, as Randolph lost to Jamaica Plain.

Charlie Shea's Quincy Sabres completed the sweep by defeating Braintree, 5-4. Steve Cronin scored the first goal and also the winner.

Bridgewater edged Neponset, last year's cup winners, 4-3, to stay a point behind the Flyers.

Derek McCleary, managing director and president of the league announced that Imperato was named Player of the Week for his four goals and three assists for the Panthers.

Flaherty Referees Leonard-Muntz TV Bout

Dick Flaherty of Braintree, formerly of North Quincy, has been refereeing amateur and pro boxing bouts for 13 years but last Saturday he received his first national TV exposure when he handled the Sugar Ray Leonard fight in Springfield. The undefeated Leonard won by a sixth round TKO over Armando Muntz.

The bout was part of the Wide World of Sports and the announcer was Howard Cosell.

Flaherty, who got his boxing start under Jimmy Gardner while competing for the Quincy Police Club, had been on some cable TV but this was his chance on national TV.

Dick, a former Golden Gloves welterweight champion, was a member of the basketball, baseball and track teams at North Quincy. He graduated from Northeastern University.

He handled former Quincy boxer Frankie Calabro.

He is an MDC police officer attached to the Blue Hills District and teaches criminal investigation at Northeastern's Weymouth campus. He is studying for his Masters Degree.

"This wasn't my biggest fight," Dick said. "The biggest was the Marvin Hagler-Finnegan bout."

Bantam A's, Pee Wee A's Win

The St. Mortiz Bantam A hockey team snapped a three-game losing streak with a 3-2 win over the South Shore Kings Monday night at Shea Rink in West Quincy.

Tom Murphy's two goals and the outstanding work of goalie Tom Good sparked St. Moritz to its third win. Dennis Farrell scored the other goal with assists for Mitch McInnes and John Goodwin.

Earlier the Bantam A team had lost to Assabet Valley, 4-2 and 14-2 and to Hobomock, 7-1.

The Pee Wee A team was nipped by Roslindale, 2-1, with Jeff Murphy scoring the only St. Moritz goal and Brian Ostiguy assisting.

Mathew Ostiguy scored twice to lead the Pee Wee B team to a 6-4 win over Pilgrim Olympic. Tim O'Brien, Gary Orlando, Jeff Bina and Brian Ostiguy scored the other goals and Orlando, Brian Ostiguy, Mathew Ostiguy, Steve Drake and Larry Bonome had assists.

45 Turnout For Quincy Wrestling Team

Interest in wrestling continues to be on the upswing at Quincy High and Coach Carmen Mariano has his biggest turnout (45) since the sport was revived five years ago as the Presidents seek to approach last year's 16-2-1 record.

Quincy, after posting its best record since the sport was revived made an outstanding showing in the state championships.

Quincy, following impressive showings in scrimmages against Newton South and Braintree, opened its season Tuesday at Needham. Saturday the Presidents will host Brookline at 6 o'clock at the Quincy gym and next Wednesday will go to Weymouth South for a 3 o'clock meet.

"Although we lost only four wrestlers to graduation, they took a tremendous amount of talent with them," Mariano said. "Three were sectional place winners, two were state place winners and one was a state champion."

The Presidents, however, have many outstanding grapplers back from last year's team including Co-Captains Steve Notorangelo and Steve Venturelli, who made outstanding showings in the state tournament.

Rennie Crowe, Tony Akoury, Jim Mullarkey, John Vespaziani, Mike Shea, Frank McManus and Kurt Braun are seniors who have two years of varsity experience.

Juniors who have a full season of varsity experience are Paul Orlando, Martin Doyle, John Fitzgerald, Joe Irvine, Todd Veale, John O'Leary, Joe Callahan, Jeff Heath and Geoff Caflisch.

Jim Graham, Mike Dalton and George McHugh will help in the upper weights and Mariano has two transfers with significant experience who should give the Presidents a real shot in the arm.

Mike Gordon from Connecticut is a 169-pound junior who is receiving plenty of valuable competition from the new assistant coach, Tim Cahill, a 1977 sectional champion for Quincy.

Bill Burt, another junior, was a member of the defending New Hampshire state championship team.

"The quality of our sophomores continues to reflect the high calibre of the wrestling program in the junior high schools," Mariano said. "Two boys, John Herald from Central and Greg Oriola from Sterling, come to me with more technical knowledge of the sport than any sophomore has ever shown and Mike Monahan and Jim Silcox from defending city champion Broad Meadows are as far along physically as underclassmen can be."

Don Barnard from Point is a key to the team's hopes in the lower weight classes and John Madden from Sterling succeeds two highly successful brothers at Quincy.

Other first year hopefuls are Sophomores Ed Ryan, Kevin Mock, Joe Souza, Bernie MacCauley, Dan Murphy, Kyle Frazier, Al DiVincentis, Ed Mackey and Reed Vanelli, and juniors Gordon Spencer, out last year with a back injury, and Jim Megnia, a converted basketball player who shows much potential.

"We at Quincy High are fortunate in having Joe Streadwick on our coaching staff again," Mariano said. "His help and that of Tim Cahill has proven invaluable. Thanks to them, and the fine attitude of all the boys, practices have gone exceptionally well."

Quincy faces its toughest schedule this year. In addition to its strong Suburban League opponents, Lowell, the defending state champion; Chelmsford, a perennial state power, and Bay State League powers Dedham and Norwood are on the schedule.

--TOM SULLIVAN

MEMBERS OF the North Quincy K. of C. recently enjoyed an "Evening at Wonderland". The sixth race, won by Hi Pardner, was dedicated to the group and a Paul Revere Bowl was presented to the group. Participating, left to right, were Charles Doherty, Grand Knight Tom Cashman, Wonderland promotions director Dick Powers, Ed Hogan, Arthur Keefe, Stan Radzik, Bob Lawson and Howie Crowley. Leadout Kevin Harris is shown with the winning dog.

Instructional Ice Skating Registration Friday

The Quincy Recreation Department will hold registration for the second 10-week session of instructional ice skating Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the new department offices, 100 Southern Artery in Merrymount Park at the former Nike site.

Instruction, starting in January is offered according to skating ability and is under the direction of Mrs. Anne Eagles, a USFSA professional. Classes are based on USFSA standards and testing is done at the conclusion of each 10-week session. The program is open to Quincy residents from six to 16 years of age.

Persons can register for classes on Monday or Wednesday from 3 to 4 p.m. All classes are 50 minutes in length and are conducted at the Quincy Youth Arena.

RELO

Jack Conway Company To Participate In National Christmas Program Telecast

The South Shore and Cape Cod real estate firm of Jack Conway and Company will be involved in a nationwide television program Dec. 19 when the company's relocation branch—RELO/Inter-City Relocation—airs a 30 minute Christmas special on Channel 4, Boston, and Channel 10, Providence.

The show is entitled "The Bear Who Slept Through Christmas" and is a replay of the most successful award-winning program which was aired for the national audience last year. The show will begin at 8 p.m. and will prominently identify RELO, the largest relocation service in the world, Jack Conway Company and other RELO members.

"I think this is rather exciting," said Conway, president bearing his name of the Company "because most of America watches these interesting and timely Christmas specials, and this is a fine opportunity to tell our RELO story to tens of millions of viewers. This kind of national exposure of the RELO service will be of great help".

RELO is a not-for-profit relocation service which is owned by its 1200 members, and the service this year is involved in a billion dollars in referral activity. RELO members will send out 145,000 referrals of corporate and business transfers through their large network of brokers.

The Jack Conway Company is a 23 office real estate brokerage firm which this year will do about 25 percent of its sales in the relocation area.

Hancock Bank To Hold Prime Rate At 11%

Hancock Bank & Trust Company, Quincy, will hold its prime, or base lending rate at 11 percent in the face of a general increase to 11½ percent by most other banks, William E. Kelley, Hancock president has announced.

This move will have a favorable impact on both large and small commercial borrowers of Hancock Bank, as most loans call for an interest rate related to the base rate.

Kelly said that this action supplements the Hancock Bank's practice in recent months of offering the lowest average residential mortgage rate in its service area.

Kelly said a review of the bank's average cost of funds did not indicate a further increase was warranted at this time, hence the decision to remain at 11 percent.

Hancock Bank is the largest independent commercial bank serving Norfolk County, with 16 offices.

Brownell Seeks Home Improvement Tax Concession

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has requested the City Council to adopt the provisions of a new law he sponsored which encourages homeowners to improve and maintain their homes.

Brownell's legislation permits homeowners to make up to $4,000 of improvements or repairs a year to their homes without having to fear an increase in their property tax assessment.

Brownell said he is asking the City Council to approve the measure because the law requires local acceptance before it can be in effect in the City of Quincy.

Recently, the town meeting of Hull adopted the law by an overwhelming vote. Brownell said he feels that the citizens of Quincy should be allowed to benefit from its provisions.

The basic concept of the law is to provide a tax concession to homeowners to keep their property up while at the same time discouraging neighborhood deterioration.

O'Connell Gardens Granted $42,000 SBA Loan

O'Connell Gardens, of Quincy, has been granted a $42,000 loan from the Small Business Administration for land acquisition and construction purposes, announces Congressman James A. Burke.

They have also applied for a small business loan from the South Shore Economic Development Corporation ($14,300) and from a local bank ($85,900), bringing their total economic assistance effort to $143,100—he stated.

The Small Business Administration provides guaranteed, direct or immediate participation loans to small business concerns to help them finance plant construction, conversion or expansion.

In addition, the loans provide small businesses with working capitol which can be used to acquire equipment, machinery, supplies or materials.

Dr. James Kennedy Named Mental Health Adult Services Director

Dr. James L. Kennedy has been named director of Adult Services at the South Shore Mental Health Center, 77 Parkingway, Quincy Center.

Dr. Kennedy will coordinate such programs as outpatient evaluation and psychotherapy, day treatment services, residential, alcohol and elderly services and satellite adult clinics.

He received his degree in clinical psychology from Arizona State University and most recently served as chief psychologist at the Blackstone Valley Mental Health Center.

HOME OWNERSHIP- A CASH RESOURCE

Sometime in everyone's lifetime, for luxury or necessity, there may be a requirement for a large amount of cash. Today's homeowner is probably the best prepared individual to cope with this "need for money" problem. His equity in his home is a ready source of cash.

Let's assume he bought his house about ten years ago for $20,000 and has now reduced his mortgage to $10,000. Since home values rise, his house is now worth $35,000 which gives him an equity of about $25,000. On a conventional mortgage basis, a bank may loan him 80% of value, or $28,000. Thus, after paying off his existing $10,000 loan, he would come out with $18,000 cash, or nearly what he paid for his home 10 years ago.

I'm not suggesting that everyone run out and refinance their homes. I do point out, however, that another excellent reason for owning a home is the increasing equity produced through rising prices.

Whether buying or selling, turn to Realty World - President Real Estate for all your real estate needs.

Quinn Asks D.A.'s Opinion

Conflict Ruling Sought On Downtown Project

By TOM HENSHAW

The Norfolk District Attorney's office will be called on to determine if there is a conflict of interest between City Councillor Francis X. McCauley's Presidential Cooperative Bank and the 10-story office building that is proposed for the city-owned Della Chiesa Parking Area.

The question arose Monday night when McCauley, who is president of the bank, disclosed to the Council that the bank has been negotiating to buy the property at the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts., which eventually will be taken as part of the office building complex.

McCauley produced two letters, one from him to City Solicitor Robert J. Fleming Jr. asking a legal opinion on the problem and one from Fleming suggesting that McCauley not participate in any deliberations on the subject since it would create a conflict of interest.

Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, saying that he felt "betrayed or fooled," noted angrily that McCauley had already participated in such discussions and "I don't know if he went back to the bank and told the board of directors to move more strongly in the direction of purchasing the property."

McCauley denied any wrong-doing and Raymondi told him that no such accusations were intended.

Council President John J. Quinn said he plans to send the McCauley-Fleming letters to Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles J. Hely, the DA's authority on municipal legal affairs, for a ruling "to clear the air on it because I don't want any heavy bickering."

"If there's going to be a little bickering," said Quinn, "we want to get to it and get it over with and get on with the project. It's a hell of a project. There's a

Harrington Can Have Seat

Harold Council Successor To Be Selected Jan. 8

Sen.-elect Paul D. Harold plans to resign from the City Council following its Jan. 2 meeting and, if things go according to plan, his successor will be chosen by the Council and sworn in Monday, Jan. 8.

And it appears that his successor will be former City Councillor Dennis E. Harrington.

Harold, who will be seated as a state senator Jan. 3, told The Quincy Sun he plans to participate in the Jan. 2 Council meeting, which starts at 10 a.m. to hear Mayor Tobin's mid-term address, and then hand in his resignation.

Council President John J. Quinn said he plans to call a special meeting of the Council for Monday, Jan. 8, so that no time will be wasted in picking Harold's successor as a councillor at large.

"I think the way the councillors look at it the ones who ran for office should be given first crack at it in order of the way they came in," said Quinn.

Hails Zero Growth School Budget

Educators Must Be Made Aware Of Money Scarcity, Says Toland

By PETER BARNICLE

The Quincy school department budget for 1979-80 which has been presented to the school committee has met with initial approval of Patricia Toland, the committee's vice chairwoman, who had asked that the budget be kept at "zero-growth".

The total budget given to the committee for it's consideration is set at $33,128,993, down .5 percent from last year.

"I am very happy the budget was brought to us with not only zero growth, but slightly under," Mrs. Toland said. "I was pleased to see Dr. Creedon [School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon] was able to do even a little better."

Mrs. Toland said that she made the motion for a zero growth budget as part of the goal setting process.

"We have engaged in the goal

220 More To Be Laid Off At Shipyard

A total of 220 more production workers will be laid off Dec. 31 at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard, according to Joseph Wornum, spokesman for the Quincy and Electric Boat divisions.

This is in addition to the 300 laid off three weeks ago for a total of 520 in the month of December due to a slowdown in work since the delivery of the fifth liquified natural gas (LNG) tanker.

Wornum said a recruiting team from General Dynamics' Electric Boat Division in Groton, Conn., will be in Quincy to recruit Fore River workers who wish to continue employment in Groton.

The shipyard currently employs nearly 6,000 workers.

Koch Club, Salvation Army, Elks Put 'Merry' In Christmas For Needy With Food Baskets, Gifts

By PETER BARNICLE

Christmas will be brighter this year for a number of Quincy families and hospital patients because of the unstinting generosity of fraternal, civic and social groups who have given time and effort to see that the joy of the holiday season reaches all.

Toys, gifts, and food baskets are being distributed to those in need and to those who will spend a lonely Christmas week-end in area hospitals.

The Salvation Army, the Koch Club and the Quincy Lodge of Elks, along with scores of volunteers, joined in the effort to spread a little happiness.

Capt. Charles Waddington, in charge of the Quincy branch of the Salvation Army, reports that approximately 100 needy families in Quincy have filed applications for Christmas dinner bags.

The bags contain canned goods and vegetables. Each family will also be given a voucher to purchase meat at a local store. The vouchers will be distributed according to the size of the family.

"Although we set a deadline for filing applications, nobody need go hungry," Capt. Waddington said. "We will take care of people regardless of when they come to us."

The Salvation Army has already held a series of three Christmas parties for children. Each child was given a gift and a candy-filled red stocking after watching cartoons and joining in singing Christmas carols.

During the Christmas season the Salvation Army has also visited hospitals and nursing homes in the area, handing out 'rememberances' to more than 700 patients. The gifts were prepared by volunteers from the Campfire Girls, members of the Ladies League of the Salvation Army and other volunteers.

The Koch Club is distributing approximately 1,700 Christmas gifts including, games, books, toys and other items to needy children. The distribution is being made in Quincy, other South Shore communities and the Boston area, according to Richard J. Koch, executive director of the organization.

Gifts and clothing have already been delivered to Boston's South End where a recent fire destroyed the belongings of a number of families.

The Koch Club will also provide food for between 35 and 40 needy Quincy families. The food distribution will include provision for turkeys, canned goods, and fresh fruit and vegetables.

Food supplies will also be donated to Friendship House, a storefront kitchen where the needy may enjoy meals day or night.

All ages and groups joined the Koch Club in the program which is now in its 23rd year.

Members of the Spirit Committee at Broad Meadows Junior High School collected 1,500 items of canned goods while a number of senior citizen groups such as the Drop In Center, Montclair Senior Citizens and members of the Granite City Grange provided funds for the purchase of turkeys.

Over the past two decades a number of anonymous families and individuals have provided the Koch Club with money to purchase food and this year additional donors assisted to help offset the rising price of food.

Polio Victim At Home For Holidays

A Merry Christmas For Sybil After All

By PETER BARNICLE

After long weeks of agonizing uncertainty Sybil Mattson, 7 Carter St., Quincy, a polio patient for 23 years, has been assured of a Merry Christmas just as she wanted it - in her own home.

The state public welfare department has informed Mrs. Mattson that there will be no change in her status until such time as the department is able to come up with a program designed to handle her case.

Patricia Ling, spokesman for the welfare, said the decision was reached after a preliminary re-evaluation of the case. She said Sybil will be able to retain the three aides who care for her around the clock.

Sybil is confined to bed in her home and the threat to terminate payment to the aides meant she would have to consent to being sent to an institution. Paralyzed from the neck down since 1955 she has been cared for by family, friends and neighbors, and for the last several years by the aides who were paid by the welfare department.

In addition to the welcome word from welfare Sybil this week was visited by a group from the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

The group, employees of the policy collection and control services department at the insurance company, were alerted to Mrs. Mattson's problems by several articles in The Quincy Sun and made her their special project this holiday season.

For the past 32 years "Parties With A Purpose" have been a tradition with John Hancock. This year the group held sales of baked goods and books to raise funds.

Representatives of the group went to the Mattson home on Monday and presented her with a check.

Sybil's holiday season was also brightened by word that Joseph Hanlon, director of the March of Dimes in this area, is sending confirmation that his organization will not terminate the aid which it has been giving over the years.

Several months ago the March of Dimes, which is now involved with birth defects, had notified her that payments would end on Dec. 15. Hanlon was able to have the case reviewed and has now assured her aid will be continued.

Sybil underwent a tracheotomy two years ago, and now breathes through a tube in her throat which is connected to an Emerson volume ventilator. Several weeks ago she entered Beth Israel Hospital for a check-up and doctors discovered she has now developed diabetes.

In spite of it all she has a ready smile for all visitors and there are many.

Ice On Ponds Not Safe Yet For Skating, Walking Koch Warns

Although ice is covering many ponds in the Quincy area, walking or skating on any natural pond area is not safe at this time, Richard J. Koch, Quincy Park Recreation Board executive secretary warns.

Koch said that although the weather early this week was extremely cold, it was due largely to the wind factor. The cold did not penetrate to a depth necessary to provide a solid safe ice surface.

Sailor's Home Pond had ice of one and a half inch thickness on the edges, according to measurements taken by the park department. Gates at the pond will not be opened until the ice surface is sufficiently frozen with a 3.5 to 4 inch ice depth throughout for maximum safety, Koch said.

He also cautioned that salt water requires even more extensive freezing for safety and skating. Walking on ice at Black's Creek or along any salt water beach area should be completely avoided.

Laura Almeida Wins Hancock Suggestion Award

Laura M. Almeida of 12 Lancaster St., Quincy Point, has won a total of $200 in awards through the Suggestion Awards System at John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Miss Almeida, of the electronic data processing department, won three cash awards based on ideas to change the programming of a weekly EDP job, eliminating a manual function which resulted in a time saving.

The suggestion award system was started 29 years ago. Since its inception some 8,655 awards have been granted totaling $272,060. During the first half of 1978, some 86 employees have been awarded $6,585.

Jewels & Gems

by Stan Manin

There is much speculation about why the price of gold has gone so high recently. Some experts attribute the rise in the demand of gold to its investment security in a world of constantly increasing inflation. There has been, also, since 1976, an increase in the size of the market. The oil rich Arab countries began realizing their wealth around that time and found themselves with a surplus of western dollars. Rather than banking the money, they often chose to invest it in gold ingot form or jewelry. So, true to the law of supply and demand, in a highly controlled market, the price of gold went up as the demand increased.

You'll find a wide selection of gold jewelry, for Christmas gifts and other occasions, available from us at GRONO & CHRISTIE, INC., 536 Adams St., East Milton, 696-1490. Come in and browse in our regular jewelry department or our estate department to find that special gift. Gift certificates are also available in any amount. While you're in the area stop next door at our "Something Special" shop. Ellie and Meryl are there to help you choose gift items, and cards. Hours: 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Mon. thru Sat. Merry Christmas.

City Club Donates Over $2,000 In Christmas Gifts

The Quincy City Club has provided more than $2,000 in gifts to hospitals and organizations in its fourth annual program of Christmas charitable endeavors.

Richard J. Koch, president, said the major gift this year is to the Massachusetts Hospital for Crippled Children in Canton, where a controlled basketball unit has been purchased for the school gymnasium.

The facility allows wheelchair patients to shoot baskets with the ball returning each time to the arms of the participant for continual shooting.

The equipment will not only provide recreational enjoyment for the patients but is also considered excellent therapy. It will be located in the existing gymnasium and be moved to the new one when it is completed.

Long Island Hospital has again been chosen for the fourth year as one of the City Club's recipients for Christmas gifts. The 1978 donations include a 19 inch color TV set for patients in Ward D.

One portable stereo-type deck was also donated to provide musical enjoyment for patients at each of the different buildings.

Cooking equipment and utensils have also been provided for the recreation area where several cooking groups of patients conduct weekly programs.

Toiletries and a number of items including underwear will also be purchased for gifts to the Boston State and Medfield State Hospitals for distribution to the patients.

Gifts will be purchased and provided for the annual Christmas Party for Retarded Children, an ongoing commitment of the City Club.

Pillows, blankets and pajamas were purchased and donated to Faxon House of Quincy for use by the patients of the Detoxification Center.

Donald E. Conboy and Paul Lee are co-chairmen of the ways and means committee while Dr. Allan Yacubian is gift chairman.

The City Club with 90 members is basically a service organization, its prime activities consisting of charitable endeavors. The organization meets four times a year.

Founded in September, 1974, the City Club is planning its fifth anniversary year with a series of events and endeavors in 1979.

Irving Isaacson Beth Israel Brotherhood President

Irving Isaacson will be installed as president of Beth Israel Brotherhood at a ceremony at 9:30 a.m., Dec. 31 at Beth Israel Synagogue, Grafton St., Quincy Point.

Other officers to be installed are:

Morton Arons and George Go lub, vice presidents; Gustavius Robinson, treasurer, and Barry M. Steinberg, secretary.

Members of the board of directors are: Henry Gretsky, Emanuel Kaplan, Samuel Skoler, David Minkofsky, and Benjamin Needel.

In the spirit of the Feast of Lights the officers will signify their dedication by lighting the large Chanukah Menorah in the course of the installation. A festive breakfast will follow the ceremony.

Koch Club To Distribute 1,500 Toys For Christmas

The Koch Club of Quincy will distribute some 1,500 new and used toys to needy children in the South Shore and Boston areas in the next two weeks for presentation to boys and girls on Christmas.

The first and second graders of Sacred Heart School, North Quincy, for the second year have provided 200 new gifts toward the Koch Club Christmas Program. Parents of the students also provided a money tree toward the purchase of turkeys.

Granite City Grange dressed 15 dolls, donated a box of canned goods and provided a donation to the Christmas charity effort.

Students of the Woodward School will provide Christmas wrapping and package 150 items to make the presents more attractive and enjoyable for those boys and girls receiving the gifts.

Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club, said that the extensive collection and delivering of Christmas toys and food to the needy could not be accomplished without the assistance of many organizations who join with the Koch Club each Christmas to make a more enjoyable holiday season for those in need.

The Massachusetts Fields School students and parents have cooperated with the Koch Club for the past six years in its Christmas endeavors while the Parker School PTA and students have again contributed dozens of useful toys.

The Otis Elevator Co. employees of Quincy each year provide 50 beautiful gifts for presentation to needy children in Quincy. Mrs. Alice Buchan is coordinator for the Otis employees.

Members of the Wonderbowl boys and girls bowling leagues each year provide over 150 new gifts, Christman-wrapped for presentation to needy children.

Kay Kyser Finds More To Life Than Leading A Band

Kay Kyser no longer leads a big band--and doesn't want to.

"That was then," he says. "This is now."

The Ole Professor closed the door on his College of Musical Knowledge in the 1950's "to try to do a little something more for mankind."

He's doing that something more with The First Church of Christ, Scientist. A Christian Science teacher for a number of years, he is now head of film and broadcasting with the Mother Church in Boston.

And, he still has the charm and that image of genuine sincerity and niceness he projected on radio and in the movies during the big band era of the 1930's-1940's and the early 1950's on television.

I had lunch with him, Win Bettinson of WJDA and Frank Mitchell of the Quincy Co-operative Bank and Rotary Club at the Quincy Neighborhood Club the other day.

Mitchell arranged the get-together. It was one of the most pleasant afternoons I have spent in many years. Mitchell and Bettinson felt the same way.

And Kay [you're calling him by his first name a minute after you meet] was enjoying himself, too, as we big band buffs reminisced about the good old days.

Where's the old Kyser gang now? Harry Babbitt, Ish Kabibble [did you know his real name is Merwyn Bogue?] and Ginny Simms are all dabbling in real estate.

And, beautiful Georgia Carroll who succeeded Ginny as lead female vocalist? Well, she married the boss and she and Kay have been happily married for 34 years now.

They make their home in Chapel Hill, North Carolina where it all started for Kay back in the 1920's when he was at the University of North Carolina and had a six-piece student band.

He was also a cheerleader and when he was off rooting for the football team, filling in for him with the band was a young fellow by the name of Johnny Mercer.

In the mid 1930's, Lew Wasserman came up with a musical quiz format that blossomed into the College of Musical Knowledge with Kay, the former cheerleader, being promoted to professor.

"Evenin' folks, how y'all" was his greeting to radio listeners and it became as famous as FDR's "My, friends." Kay gave the program a hometown flavor by asking contestants where they came from. And he did everything but stand on his head to give contestants the right answers to musical questions. Top prize was $25 but those were the depression years and $25 was a lot of money.

Some of the band's top numbers: "Thinking Of You" [Kay's theme], "The White Cliffs of Dover", "Why Don't We Do This More Often", "There Goes That Song Again", "Who Wouldn't Love You", "Praise The Lord and Pass The Ammunition", "Ac-cent-chu-ate The Positive".

Another big seller was "Woody Woodpecker Song". And in case you've ever wondered, that was Harry Babbitt doing the woodpecker's zany Ho-Ho-Ho Ha! Ha! throughout the number.

There was another novelty song that became a big hit for the Kyser band. Kay didn't want to do it because he couldn't see any potential in it. But he was finally talked into it.

"The first night we played it in a theater, they almost took the roof off," he recalled. "I still wasn't convinced. We played it the next night and it got even a bigger reaction."

The number: "Three Little Fishes" in 1939.

Columbia couldn't press the records fast enough to keep up with the early demand," said Kay.

Kay never played an instrument. Probably the closest he came was knocking on a hunk of wood in the background while Harry Babbitt and Trudy Erwin sang the duet, "Who Wouldn't Love You". Kay doesn't read music, either.

"I was like the audience," he says. They tried numbers out on him. Most of the time he recognized a future hit when he heard one. But not always.

He has two big regrets, he confesses. He had the opportunity to introduce two numbers but turned them both down. One, he thought, was much too long. That was Cole Porter's classic, "Night And Day". The other was one that Horace Heidt got to do instead: "I Don't Want To Set The World On Fire".

Guy Lombardo was one of Kay's closest friends. "He befriended me and encouraged me," says Kay.

It was Lombardo who suggested that instead of stopping between numbers, the Kyser band play a string of songs "to keep them on the dance floor" as Lombardo did. Lombardo also gave him tips on recording techniques.

Did Kay have his own favorite big band?

"I liked them all," he says. "They were all good. Each did it differently, but each did it well."

He confides, however.

"I used to get goose pimples listening to Tommy Dorsey play trombone."

He liked Glenn Miller's musie too and calls him "the last of the big band stylists." Miller spent hours and hours rehearsing his band to develop and maintain his famous "sound". But when the union ruled musicians would also have to be paid for rehearsing, it cut out the time that went into styling.

Do you remember a gal by the name of Jane Russell sang with the band? She recorded "As Long As I Live" in 1947.

And, that Kay discovered a young singer who is well known today to TV viewers. He replaced Harry Babbitt when the latter went off to war with the Navy. Hint: he recorded "Ole Buttermilk Sky" and "The Old Lamplighter", both in 1946: Give up? Mike Douglas.

Douglas, now in his 17th year on TV earns about $2 million annually.

"He deserves every penny of it," says Kay. "He's a hardworker and a good, decent family man."

One of Kay's rare public appearances was on the Douglas show two years ago to help celebrate the show's 15th anniversary.

What about rock 'n roll?

Kay doesn't knock it but recalls with a smile the time one of his daughters was having a coming out party at a hotel back home. A rock 'n roll band was hired.

"It was too much for me," Kay remembers. "I had to get out of there before my head came off."

He notes, however, that rock 'n roll has helped many young people in one way.

"By learning three chords on an electric guitar, they can play just about all of that music. So, it does give them a sense of accomplishment."

Does he think the big bands will ever come back?

"I really couldn't say. It's much more costly today to pay and transport a big band around. That's probably why there are so many small groups and trios."

You get the impression he would like to see the music of the big band era return. Does he ever get a hankering to lead a big band again?

"No. It was enjoyable back then. But that's all in the past."

Actually, it was at the height of his musical career that he was looking for something more meaningful in his life.

During World War II, Kay limited the band's personal appearances to military bases and installations. They appeared in over 600 camps shows including tours of the Pacific area.

It was on bloody Okinawa that Kay first began to realize that there was more to life than just entertainment.

"The kids were ducking bullets for me and thanking me for performing for them," he recalls. I said I should be the one doing the thanking.

"It was then I started to think there was more to life than how well you did at the box office. I wanted to do a little something more than that for mankind."

And the way he says it, you know he means it---sincerely.

Take Precautions

Don't Let It Become 'Season Of Tragedy'

It may be the "Season to be Jolly" with Christmas just ahead, but according to Police Chief Finn and the International Association of Chiefs of Police it can be a season of tragedy.

Accident statistics during the year show that over half of the traffic fatalities involve alcohol. Add to that Christmas revelry, heavy holiday traffic, extra pedestrian activity and last-minute, hurry-up shopping and we have the makings of heartache and disaster.

"This year we're accelerating traffic enforcement, alerting emergency medical personnel and are appealing to the public to ask each citizen to apply a little preventive "know-how" to avoid holiday tragedies," Chief Finn said. Special know-how guidelines include:

- Plan enough time to cope with crowded streets and stores on last minute shopping trips. Keep your temper under control.

- If you are a pedestrian, be aware that motorists may not see you, especially in snowy or rainy weather.

- If you plan a party, serve food with the drinks and discourage overindulgence.

- If you or a friend have been drinking, arrange to have someone else do the driving.

"And above all," Finn emphasized, "the best present you can give a loved one is you. So don't forget your basic safety know-how, even in the spirit of the holidays!"

Early News Deadline For Next Week's Sun

Because of the Christmas holiday there will be an early deadline for news and sports items to be published in next week's Quincy Sun.

All such items from organizations and sports teams and leagues must be submitted to The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., by Friday at 1 p.m. to assure publication in The Sun issue of Thursday, Dec. 28.

McCauley Asks Brackett St. Widening Study

City Councillor Francis X. McCauley introduced a resolve at Monday's City Council meeting requesting a Traffic Commission to study of the feasibility of widening Brackett St.

Brackett St. runs between McGrath Highway and Southern Artery and, McCauley said, it is used by an increasing number of vehicles traveling from downtown Quincy.

He pointed out that construction of a planned senior citizens', housing facility containing 150 units will increase traffic on the street. A street widening could be done in conjunction with the construction of the new development, he said.

McCauley said the matter was discussed back in 1966 when a medical office complex was planned for the area but no action was taken because the proposed development was cancelled.

They Put 'Merry' In Christmas For Needy

The program to refurbish and recycle used toys was started at Christmas, 1971, with the collection of 300 gifts for a number of families left homeless by a pre-Christmas fire. This year the number of items distributed will raise the total to more than 12,000, for the eight years of the project.

Koch said the project has grown so big that the Koch Club alone can no longer cope with it. Assistance has come from a number of organizations, families and individuals to make the program a city wide effort.

Eighty-five percent of the donated articles have been salvaged and refurbished or recycled for the enjoyment of children.

Students at Massachusetts Fields, Parker and Sacred Heart schools provided hundreds of new and used toys for the project while students at the Woodward School for Girls supplied Christmas paper and gift wrapped 150 items for presentation to needy and retarded children.

Approximately 175 dolls were refurbished by the Dress-A-Doll Committee, under the direction of Mrs. Simone Koch and Mrs. Ginny Derringer, for presentation to some happy girls at Christmas. Women and girls from Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and Milton took many of the discarded dolls and washed and groomed them, and provided them with new clothes.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks expects to deliver about 180 Christmas food baskets during the holiday season.

Leo Nunnari, chairman of the Elks' Christmas committee, said the baskets contain all the makings of a Christmas dinner from potatoes, squash and onions to fruit and nuts. Of course, the Christmas turkey will also be included.

The turkeys vary in size from 10-12 pounds up to 18 to 22 pounds for families of eight or more people., Nunnari said.

Harold Slawsby, manager of the Capitol Market in Quincy, opened the store on Sunday to fill early orders. He was aided by four volunteers from the store staff.

Martin Blake, exalted ruler of the Elks, said that funds for the Christmas food baskets came from the individual members of the organization and 21 members assisted in preparing the gifts.

Most of the baskets were given to Quincy families, but some were delivered to Weymouth and Braintree. One each went to families in Hanover and Westwood.

Conflict Ruling Sought On Downtown Project

million different steps to it and any one of them could cave it in if it isn't handled right."

The matter came up Monday night when the Council was asked to pass two resolutions and three orders which would lay the groundwork for construction of the $10 million project that will include the offices of Stop and Shop and a federally funded $4 million parking garage over the MBTA tracks.

The measures were referred to the Council's Downtown Development Committee after Raymondi vainly tried to have them placed in the Oversight Committee for an investigation that its chairman, Councillor Paul D. Harold, saw as unnecessary.

In his letter to Fleming, McCauley said his Presidential Cooperative Bank leases space in the building at the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts., which is to be demolished once the new set-back structure is finished. The bank may then become a tenant in the new building.

"The bank, for some time, has been interested in purchasing this building and, at the present time, is waiting to enter into a purchase and sale agreement with the owners," wrote McCauley.

"The bank feels that this action is necessary in the event that the proposed plans for the Della Chiesa parking lot do not materialize."

Fleming wrote back that under state law, McCauley, as a municipal employee "must not engage in a particular matter in which to his knowledge he, or a business organization in which he is serving as an officer, director, trustee, etc., has a financial interest."

"In reviewing the Della Chiesa project and Councillor McCauley's business organization's involvement," Fleming continued, "I would suggest that any participation by Councillor McCauley as a city councillor would create a conflict of interest.

"I would further suggest that Councillor McCauley not participate in any manner."

Most of the Council appeared to be satisfied with Fleming's opinion -- but not Raymondi.

"I don't think we should pass over this matter lightly," he said.

Raymondi said he had attended many meetings of the Downtown Development Committee, including executive sessions, along with McCauley at which the Della Chiesa project was discussed.

"I would have appreciated it if the councillor had indicated to me that his bank had ongoing negotiations to purchase that particular piece of property," he said.

"Only through his capacity as a city councillor was he able to get inside information on some of the sensitive areas that were not made public and only a city councillor would know if there were enough votes to pass the proposal.

"This is a very dangerous situation when the president of a bank can act as a city councillor, go to meetings and...I don't know if he went back to the bank and told the board of directors to move more strongly in the direction of purchasing the property.

"We all sit here in a matter of public trust. The City Council has an administrative authority over its members. If an individual pursues a course of conduct which will raise suspicion in the public sector that he has engaged in acts in violation of that public trust.

"What are the people of Quincy going to think when they find out that the City Council has voted for a $4 million federal grant [for the garage] and authorized the Mayor to give tax concessions to a developer and a councillor is president of the bank that happens to buy the land right in front of that development?

"That is a moral issue that we should discuss tonight."

Raymondi said he did not learn of the negotiations between McCauley's bank and the New England Merchants National Bank, trustees of the property, until Friday. "Use the word 'betrayed' or 'fooled', that is what I felt," he said.

"I'm not casting aspersions on anyone," he said, "but I'm not going to take a vote unless someone tells me that what I'm doing is consistent with the law and my public obligation. I'm telling the people I represent that I see a problem and I'm not going to put it under a rug."

After the bank buys the property, Raymondi said, the developer "has to come to them and say, 'What is your purchase price for this property?' Do you think the price might increase a little bit?

"God help the City Council if we vote today and find ourselves in court next week because what we did was illegal."

McCauley told the Council that he was aware of the potential conflict of interest but did not bring it up because there was no specific plan to develop the Della Chiesa parking area.

"I was well aware from the very beginning," he said, "that this was a dangerous situation for me to be in but as long as there were no specific proposals, I watched and waited because I've seen so many of these things go down the drain.

"However, in recent weeks, in the newspapers and at press conferences held by the Mayor, the matter was coming into focus. Names were starting to be mentioned. It was at that point I went to Mr. Fleming."

McCauley explained that the bank was negotiating, not with a developer, but with the owner, or rather with the New England Merchants National Bank, trustee for the estate of two elderly women who owned the building.

"When we moved in there 13 years ago," he said, "we wanted to buy the building but it was not for sale. We started negotiations in the latter part of 1977 after both women had passed on. I think I did an honest thing.

"I think my reputation over 15 years in city government speaks for itself. You may not like Frank McCauley. Maybe he's a little too blunt at times. But nobody's ever accused me of being dishonest, not up until now.

"I think I've acted above board. I am going by the advice of the city solicitor and if he feels that I should leave the room, if he doesn't think I should be sitting at this table right now, I'll accept his advice."

Raymondi said he was not suggesting any wrong doing on the part of McCauley but "just because you're a city councillor you're not above any kind of discussion by the City Council. We have an obligation, Frank, like it or not, we have an obligation to find out."

Councillor Harold, who frequently sides with McCauley on votes that split the Council, came to his colleague's aid, saying "I think he did the proper thing by going to the city solicitor and saying anything else is bringing discredit on the whole Council.

"The best way to kill any type of proposal by a developer is to get the city council in a spat the like of which characterizes the City Councils of Brockton, Woburn and Boston but not the City Council in Quincy.

"That's why the developers were coming to Quincy, because they thought the people would act responsibly. I think in this case the councillor from Ward 2 [Raymondi] is acting very irresponsibly."

Harold said the Tobin administration had put a lot of work into the Della Chiesa proposal and "I think it deserves proper consideration. But all of a sudden the subject of downtown development is changed to a personal feud that does no one any service.

"Let it be known from the outset that we're dealing in good faith, that we're not out to discredit someone's reputation because there might be an election around the corner."

Harold Successor To Be Chosen Jan. 8

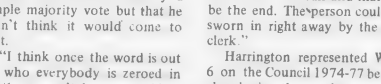
The order of finish in the 1977 city election went like this:

Harold [21,246], Quinn [13,866] and Francis X. McCauley [13,659] were elected followed by Harrington with 13,377, former State Rep. and Councillor Joseph E. Brett with 12,528 and Michael J. Faherty with 9,457.

"It looks like Dennis Harrington can have it if he wants it," said Quinn. "I think he is going to take it but that's not certain."

Harrington, who is now an assistant city solicitor, was not available for comment.



"If he doesn't take it," said Quinn, "an outside shot would be Joe Brett. Joe sent a letter in saying he would be interested."

Quinn said the successor to Harold would be chosen by a simple majority vote but that he didn't think it would come to that.

"I think once the word is out on who everybody is zeroed in on there won't be any problem with a vote," he said. "I think it's pretty well agreed along those lines.

"Somebody will make a nomination from the floor. Somebody will second it. We will have a roll call and that will be the end. The person could be sworn in right away by the city clerk."

Harrington represented Ward 6 on the Council 1974-77 before abandoning the ward race to run at large.

The Battle of Bunker Hill was actually fought on nearby Breed's Hill, and lost by the Revolutionaries.

DPW Recommends New FR Bridge

The Mass Department of Public Works recommended that a new Fore River Bridge be built, large enough to "enable all vessels that could be constructed in the foreseeable future to pass up and down the river."

The DPW estimated that a vertical lift bridge with minimum approaches would cost some $13.5 million while a larger bridge, tied in with the proposed Shawmut Trail from the Southeast Expressway to Lincoln St., Hingham, would go $27.4 million.

KENNEDY CAKE SCRAPPED

Ernest J. Montilio of Quincy gave up plans to bake a seven-foot high cake for President Kennedy's inaugural after the waiters' union said its members would not serve food at the dinner if non-union cake was on the menu.

"I had to bow out rather than embarrass the President," said Montilio.

A spokesman for the American Baker and Confectionery Workers Union said it was not so much the non-union cake as the fact that the union had offered its cake to Michael Deane, dinner chairman, before Montilio did.

"The order was changed when our prior offer was called to Mr. Deane's attention," said the spokesman.

James McGonnigal of Local 5 Shipbuilders Union said he had been asked to investigate Montilio's bakery and found that it was a family bakery and thus not expected to be organized. Five of the 25 employees were members of the Montilio family.

Montilio was asked if he had been approached to bake a cake for the inaugural of Gov. John A. Volpe.

"I'm going to stay out of politics and stick to baking," he replied.

PRAISE FOR LA RAIA

The City Council voted 8-1 to override Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa's veto and amend the salary schedules of city employees upwards, adding $569,000 to the city payroll.

Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia cast the only dissenting vote.

"Six months from now," said George Yarrington, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, "Councillor LaRaia will be considered the most intelligent member of the Council by the general public for this stand tonight.

"It is nice to see a councillor have the courage of his convictions.

$111,244 For Water Pollution

The U.S. Environmental Protection AGency has awarded Quincy a grant of $111,244 for the design of water pollution control facilities.

The funds will be used to design a pump station, force main, and interceptor sewers to serve Faxon Park and South Quincy.

Construction of the proposed facilities will aid in improving the water quality of Town Brook.

Total estimated design cost is $156,165. The federal grant will cover 75 percent of the design cost while state and local funds will cover the remaining 25 percent.

Educators Must Be Made Aware Of Money Scarcity, Says Toland

setting program so the school committee is not constantly reacting to the suggestions and recommendations of the superintendent," she said. "We have set our own course to enable us to make decisions about the priorities of the system.

"One of the first goals we set was a budget goal, and the goal for this year was to bring in a budget at zero growth. The purpose of the goals is to give guidelines to the superintendent and his staff," she said.

She indicated that the committee will also get involved in instructional, professional and plant goals.

"We know there are some costs that will not stay the same because of inflation. We have come from a time of abundance in the 1960's when lots of money was available to a time of scarcity and educators must be made aware of it," Mrs. Toland said.

On the motion for a zero growth budget made last fall, Mrs. Toland was joined by school committee members Joan Picard, Mary Collins and Christopher Kennedy. School Committeeman John Sullivan and Frank Anselmo opposed the motion.

Sullivan said this week that his objection was based on restricting the superintendent in making up the budget.

"Each line item should be given its own respected identity when it is treated by the school committee," Sullivan said. "At that time a decision should be made as to whether the line item should be increased, decreased, or remain the same.

"What I don't like to see," he said, "is the budget going through many, many weeks of close school committee scrutiny and then at a large public hearing have somebody make a motion for an overall cut, not caring where the hammer falls."

Sullivan said such action defeats the entire purpose of the many meetings the committee holds to examine the items in the budget. He said the cuts should be made in the work sessions of the committee.

Dr. Creedon told the committee that cuts had been made in non-salary items. He frankly admitted that with the rapidly rising cost of fuel oil the figure for that item may have been underestimated.

He pointed out that salary items make up more than 82 percent of the budget and that negotiations are presently underway with teachers aides, custodians, maintenance employees, the Quincy Education Association, management and secretarial-clerical help.

Salary figures in the 1979-80 budget include approximately $500,000 for step raises and other salary increments, even before the conclusion of negotiations.

This figure will be offset by the elimination of 25 professional jobs through attrition and not hiring teachers on a one-year contracts. He said he did not think tenured teachers would be affected.

Creedon pointed out that a five percent increase in salaries would mean approximately a four percent increase in the salary schedule, wiping out the .5 percent cut.

In an effort to hold the non-salary items down, Creedon said he had cut funds spent for the purchase of textbooks and other instructional material.

"If you ask can we hang in there with the decrease in the instructional line, I will say yes," Creedon said later. "Where we have taken cuts is in the area of purchase of equipment, such as audio-visual equipment. We'll just do with what we have."

He noted that with enrollment declining from 3.5 to 5 percent a year the school system has made adjustments in the purchase of textbooks and general supplies.

"The thing that compromises all of this, of course, is the rate of inflation," the superintendent said.

He said that if enrollment goes down at the average of between 500 to 700 students a year, or 3.5 to 5 percent, and inflation goes up six or seven percent "those two do not equate."

He said that one of the problems is the rapid rate the system has to pay for special education. At the moment nearly $500,000, is spent for 65 students in special schools. The Quincy schools system pays these schools an average of $7,343 per pupil, as compared with the average cost of $1,900 within the school system.

He did note that school districts get six times as much state aid for these students, but at this time he could not provide the amount of that aid, he said.

What Christmas . . . And Chanukah . . . Mean To Me . . .

Pupils in Quincy's elementary and junior high schools were invited by The Quincy Sun to submit articles on the theme "What Christmas Means to Me", and "What Chanukah Means to Me".

The Sun is happy to share their unedited thoughts with you and hope you enjoy them as much as we do.

Christmas means happiness and sharing. People receiving gifts and giving them. Christmas is also Jesus' birthday. That's why we go to church on Christmas. The reason there is Christmas is Christ was born.

Christmas means school vacation and family gatherings. We usually have turkey, squash, sweet potatoes, plain potatoes, cranberry sauce, corn, and stuffing. Later all my cousins play with the things that we get.

Pamela Sue Gullicksen
Grade 4
Atherton Hough School

Hanukah means getting presents, dradles, money and toys. It is singing, happiness, candles and lots of food and other things. And it means Jewish stars lit up brightly with sad feelings. And also Hanukah has its own meaning because of its history.

David Levine
Grade 4
F. W. Parker School

It means joys and sadness It reminds me back 700 years when Gudah Macabee (Hammer) and John and Johnathon, Simon, Gohgua, with there small army they beet the Aribs to save Pallestien.

Eric Goodman
Grade Four
Wollaston School

I love giving the gifts and seeing the faces all happy when the family opens them.

It is great fun to decorate the tree and the house, putting up the manger and making the cookies.

I really enjoy going shopping, because I get to see all the lights and the decorations in the square.

Christmas caroling is another fun thing to do when my cousins come over, and we play with our gifts.

It's my favorite celebration!

Jennifer Kane
Grade 5
Cranch School

Hanukah means lighting candles and getting presents. I like Hanukah. It is a lot of fun.

Sharon Goodman
Grade 2
Daniel Webster School

Christmas is a time for love, a time for sharing a happy time for celebrating.

It's a time for happiness and to get together. A time to have a happy holiday, a time for having a shiny day, having good feelings and a happy holiday time for doing good things. It's time for helping one another, time to do your thing, time to forgive one another. A time to have good feeling, a happy time. It's happy merry, Christmas when all the people in the world are giving presents and sharing them with one another.

What you do with one another is important. Having good feelings inside you is important. Receiving and giving presents to one another is Christmas. It is a time to get all your important feelings inside and to express your feelings about one another. Merry Christmas

Donna Burgess
Grade 6
Pollard School.

Chanukah is a happy holiday. It's a joyful moment for the Jews.

It reminds them of days long ago.

The children get presents, the adults get Chanukah gelt.

Gelt means money.

We play, we sing, spin dradles.

Morgan Aronoff
Grade 4
Atherton Hough School

DOLLS GALORE -- Kerry O'Donnell [left], 3, and her sister Deborah, 18 months, of 244 Newbury Ave., Atlantic, have plenty of company in these hundreds of dolls awaiting distribution at Christmas to under-privileged youngsters. Members of the Koch Club and a score of volunteers repaired, refurbished and re-dressed the dolls to bring a little happiness. The distribution of dolls is a tradition of many years standing with the Koch Club.

Christmas means families getting together setting by the glittering tree singing Christmas carols and exchanging gifts. Christmas is seeing the beautiful trees, their glowing lights and glowing tinsel. Christmas is having the snow fall gently to the ground while you're inside drinking hot chocolate and sitting by the fireplace. Christmas is listening to the merry sound of the carolers as they sing your favorite song. Christmas is seeing the glowing smiles of children as they open their presents.

Kristin Rooney
Grade 6
Mass. Fields School

Chanukah is the very best day when Santa comes. He brings presents to the children.

Michelle Gilman
Grade 2
Daniel Webster School

Christmas means a lot to me because it is Christ's Birthday and some of my favorite songs are Christmas carols. We put up our tree a couple weeks before Christmas and decorate it Personally, I think our tree is the best. On Christmas morning my twin sister Joyce and I are always the first one up and we wake our little brother and run downstairs and when my mother comes downstairs we open our presents and we play inside and have Christmas dinner.

Janice O'Donnell
Wollaston School
Grade 6

On Hanukah we all get together. I like the holiday. Hanukah is a nice holiday. We get presents.

Leigh-Beth Beavers
Grade 2
Daniel Webster School

It means a lot so I'll tell a few things. It means miracles, presents, praying and a lot of thoughts. We don't have Santa but it doesn't matter because Chanukah is a time to give presents to other people.

Scott Chansky
Grade 4
F. W. Parker School

It means sharing gifts with one another.

You go to church to pray for Jesus.

Later after you open all your presents.

You can have a feast with your whole family and friends.

You can play games with your brothers, sisters and cousins.

Dennis DeCoste
Grade 4, Rm. 20

Listen . . . you can almost hear the choir. At Christmas, people share many beautiful thoughts. Let's keep the flame of oneness burning eternally.

What Christmas Means To Me...

Christmas means getting presents from everyone. Mostly I like the feeling that they give it to you because they love you. Also that you love them. So that means Christmas is love and happiness.

Mark Gilloohy
Grade 4
F. W. Parker School

I love Christmas because you get a lot of gifts.

I love Christmas because Santa Claus comes and gives you lots of gifts.

I love Christmas because you can make a lot of presents for family and friends.

Donnamarie Lynch
Grade Four
N.S. Hunting School

Christmas means a lot to me, like decorating the tree, and helping Mother prepare Christmas dinner. My sister and I try to stay awake on Christmas Eve, but we never succeed. On Christmas morning my family and I get up early and open our presents. It's "so" exciting when I get a big box, with what I wanted in it. Christmas is such a joyful time of the year!

Vanessa Rush
Grade 3, Rm. 32
Merrymount School

Christmas to me is when the whole family gets together. I think it's nice to have the whole family over at Christmas. It's a chance to see the family together, at my own house. That's what Christmas means to me.

Freddy Kiley
Grade 6
Wollaston School

My family gets together and has a party. We open our presents. Then we play with them.

Dino Confalone
Grade 2

Christmas to me means giving and receiving and decorating the tree. It also means a time of peace and love and celebrating the birthday of Jesus Christ.

Jonathan Paul
Grade Five
Cranch School

We go to sleep early and we get up late. We have somebody come to the house and his name is Santa Claus or Saint Nicholas.

They come and give us toys we can play with our toys and have a whole lot of fun.

Tracey ODonnell
Grade Four
N.S. Hunting School

Christmas time is a time to share. Make people know you care. Giving things and love to others. Letting people know you care for them and love them. Christmas is cold outside but warm inside everyone's heart.

Kim Amico
Grade Six
Cranch School

There are many traditions that people in America observe during the Christmas season. One of them is Santa Claus, who rides on a sleigh with flying reindeer and brings toys to all good girls and boys. Many people trim trees and decorate the house with Christmas lights. Some people put up a Christmas wreath which signifies eternal life. Many people set up nativity scenes. Another tradition is giving and receiving gifts. These are some of the traditions people celebrate at Christmas.

Michelle Connolly
Grade 7
Broad Meadows Jr. High

What Christmas means to me is getting gifts from your parents and grandparents and your good friend Santa Claus. The gifts don't matter, it is just the thought that counts. So that's what Christmas means to me. Once in awhile say to somebody "We wish you a Merry Christmas!" and that way they'll know that you care for them.

Diana Dabrowski
Grade 4
F. W. Parker School

Christmas is the most exciting time of the year. It means making my family happy when they open the huge and colorful presents. It's fun to get presents, but it's fun to give them. Christmas means a busy time of the year. There's shopping, looking, parties, caroling, trimming the tree, and visiting lots of friends. I love Christmas morning best of all. There's always lots of surprises just for me. Then my family goes to church and then to my Nana's. When we get there, there are more gifts and surprises and a huge turkey dinner. Most of all I like giving to other people. It's fun to watch their faces when they see what I gave to them. That's what Christmas means to me.

Rosemary Brennan
Grade 6
Mass Fields School

Christmas is a time to be thankful for everything you have. It's a time for giving and receiving. It's a time to celebrate Jesus' birth.

It's beautiful at Christmas time, all the decorations are bright and everybody is happy and cheerful.

It's a time where the family gets together and shares their love.

Lisa O'Connell
Grade Six
Cranch School

Christmas is a happy day because it is Jesus Birthday. Eveyone is happy on that day. It is a good day.

Matthew T. Brown
Grade 2
Daniel Webster School

Christmas to me is a time for celebrating Christ's birth by showing our feelings for one another. We do this by exchanging gifts with our family and friends.

Christmas is having a tree decorated with certain ornaments that we have made in previous years. It is setting up the manger and waiting to put Baby Jesus in it. Christmas to me is going to church in the morning on Christmas day. Christmas is a time for rejoicing Christ's birth because if he wasn't born we wouldn't be alive.

Mike Connolly
Grade 7
Broad Meadows Jr. High

Christmas means a lot to me. Christmas means sharing and being extra nice to people. It also means preparing the Christmas dinner, putting up the Christmas tree up, and decorating the tree. I also think Christmas means opening gifts on Christmas morning. Christmas also means loving and giving, people and relatives, and going to church on Christmas morning. Does Christmas mean a lot to you?

Erin Graham
Grade 3, Rm. 32
Merrymount School

Christmas means to me having my family together and spending the day together. It means celebrating the birth of Christ. Christmas is a world wide Holiday. Other holidays are important, but I think Christmas is the most important. On Christmas we celebrate with a big buffet.

Christmas is a day to share your happiness with your family and the person you like best. Christmas makes your family feel closer because of the gifts you receive and give. We celebrate Christmas and the New Year that's coming ahead of us. I hate when Christmas is over because the part of the family that doesn't live with you has to leave to go home and the gathering is over. Christmas is a time for love. It means waiting for your mom and dad to get up so you can open your presents. It means getting dressed up and going to church. I wish Christmas came more than once a year.

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas means a lot to me. It does not mean getting presents. Christmas means giving presents to the people you love. Most people are cheerful. Buying the Christmas tree is fun. I think the real trees are the best. Decorating the tree with my family brings togetherness. On Christmas you go to church to celebrate Christ's birthday.

Mark Molloy
Grade 3, Rm. 32
Merrymount School

Christmas means I get to see my great-great grandmother. We go to Mass and all of my cousins come over to my house and my aunts come. My grandmothers come over. It is Jesus' birthday.

April Mercier

It means love and hope I get all the toys I want.

Lisa McLeod
Grade Four
Wollaston School

Christmas means to be kind to others and to share stuff. Christmas means to love each other and go to church and thank God for what you got and forgive someone.

Christmas also means to be jolly, like Santa Claus. Christmas means to have fun and be happy. When you go downstairs and open the presents, you look so surprised.

The best Christmas in my life was in 1977. I woke up and went downstairs and I opened up my presents. I was so surprised. I got all the toys I wanted. I was so happy I jumped for joy. Then we went to church in Boston. We ate a big feast. Then our cousins came and we played with the toys.

Ricky Golden
Grade 5

Christmas is a day of giving and a day of fun. I like putting up the Christmas tree. Then we decorate the tree.

Dale Wampler
Grade Four

Christmas means giving presents and getting them.

Christmas means going to church and knowing the real meaning of Christmas.

Christmas means putting up a Christmas tree.

Christmas means just having a fun, fun time playing with your toys all day.

Jeannine McLaughlin
Grade 6
Daniel Webster School

Christmas is a joyous time when families get together. Cellibrating Christmas is fun. I like to watch people open their gifts and I like to open mine. Christmas just isn't openning presents, putting up the tree is fun too. Christmas at my house is fun I play hockey and watch the football games.

David Shannon
Grade 8
Sterling Jr. High

Christmas means loving and caring for people.

It means giving and receiving gifts.

Christmas means eating with other people.

Christmas means Jesus is with us, and it is his birthday. That's what Christmas means to me.

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas means to me going to church and praying to God and thanking him that Jesus was born and died for us. It means giving and getting presents. On Christmas, I like to see happy faces on people and I like to help my mother cook dinner. Christmas means to me having a big dinner and then visiting our relatives. It means having fun and opening presents and sharing them. It means helping people when they're sick. I like Christmas a lot! I think Christmas is the best holiday!

Stephen Picarski
Grade 4 Rm. 20

Christmas time is the time for giving and to eat turkey and to see my family.

Neal Cunningham
Grade 6
Wollaston School

Christmas means giving. It's nice giving presents because everyone likes getting them.

Every Christmas my relatives get together and we have a vig party. Last year we got all dressed up and went to my aunts house. After the party was over our family went to a chinese restaurant. We usually stay at my aunts house until 11:00 p.m. I sleep until about 10:00 a.m. the next morning.

Catherine McNeil
Grade 4 Rm. 20

Christmas means to me getting together to eat Turkey and having cocktails, and opening your presents getting your stocking down. that what Christmas means to me.

Michelle Kalmbad
Grade 6
Wollaston School

Christmas is a special time of year. It is a time for happiness and joy singing songs, and caring for others. Christmas is a beautiful time of year with snow covered hills and trees. Christmas is a time to love and share, it is the most beautiful time. To me Christmas just doesn't mean getting a new toy. It means having fun and being with others. Christmas is a time to be honest and faithful and it is a very special time of the year.

Ann Duggan
Grade 6
Beechwood Knoll School

Christmas means a celebration. Our Savior, Jesus Christ, was born. He opened the gates of heaven for us. He showed us the way of life. He died for us. That's why we celebrate. We decorate a tree with pretty lights and bulbs. We have a feast. My family goes to church to pray with Him. We thank Him for saving us. That's what Christmas means to me.

Peggy Heim
Grade 4
F. W. Parker School

To me it means giving presents to your friends and lovedones. It means having your grandmothers and granfathers, and all your aunts and uncles over for Christmas dinner. It means putting up the tree and putting on the ornaments and watch it glisten. It means sending cards of love and friendship. It means being with that extra special person that you really like. May the world rejoice in Christmas!

James Grassi
Grade 7
Language Arts
Quincy Point Jr. High

When kids are little they can't wait for Santa Claus to come. They love sitting on Santa's lap and having a picture taken with him. They can't wait for Christmas eve to come.

Christmas can be a happy and sad time for people. It's sad when people dont have any homes, or food for Christmas. A happy time is when people have parties, sing carols, buy presents, and try to make other people happy and appreciate Christmas more than just receiving gifts.

To me, Christmas means giving thanks for what you have around you.

That I am healthy, have lots of friends to have joy with, have parents who love me and who try to do the best for me, are the important things.

Christmas to me is a time to rejoice and be happy and to appreciate everything around you. But to me Christmas means "Love".

Janet Walsh
Grade 9
Sterling Jr. High

Christmas is Christ's fearst day. It is a happy time of year, because we celebrate and have a good time. We decorate our tree with all types of things, like pretty ornaments and tinsel and a star. The star is like the North star that lead the wise men to the stable where Christ was. And that's why I think Christmas is a joyful time of year.

Paula Scanlon
Grade Four
Beechwood Knoll School

Christmas means receiving toys from Santa Claus and getting gifts from all different people. It means going to church and celebrating the birth of Christ. It means lots of people and having a big Christmas dinner. Christmas means going to church and singing all Christmas songs. Christmas is fun for everyone! That's what Christmas means to me.

Kevin Middendorf
Grade 3, Rm. 32
Merrymount School

On Christmas morning it is my turn to make my friends and family happy and to help celebrate Christ's Birthday.

Christmas means watching the bright glow on my little 2 year old cousin Joshua's face when he opens the big red fancy present to him from Santa. It means it's time to start sharing and stop thinking of myself. It is a time when my whole family comes down to my auntie's house. Even my Auntie Helen comes down from California. It means having candle light services at church, and stringing cranberries and popcorn for the birds and for the Christmas tree. Most important of all, Christmas means sharing and giving and making people happy.

Amy Carolan
Grade 6
Mass Fields School

Christmas means being with my family and grandparents. Christmas also means giving presents to my family, and singing Christmas songs on Christmas Eve. Christmas means to love everybody and to help and be kind. Christmas is a special day for putting up the Christmas tree and being with your family.

Beth Manning
Grade 3 Rm. 7
Adams School

For twelve years I've loved Christmas and I would like to tell you "What Christmas means to me".

Choosing the gifts is one of the reasons crowded stores.

Decorating the tree is fun and worth the hard work. Seeing the houses and lawns decorated is pretty and gives the other people a Christmasy feeling. Talking of feeling I like to go caroling; it gets you excited. It's fun to run home for some hot chocolate after singing.

It's good to wake up in the morning and run to the tree and open a present from a friend and find out it's something you wanted for a long time. The price or size doesen't matter; it's the thought of "giving and receiving".

I think the two best feelings I have are thankfulness and love. Thanfulness for all the wonderful things of Christmas and love for Jesus and for my family.

Santa Claus is big and fat.
I sure am glad I don't look like that.
Santa Claus gives us gifts.
Everytime he laughs his body shifts.
Santa Claus wears a red suit.

Christmas means love. Christmas is a time for caring and sharing, living and giving. Christmas means laughter and joy. Christmas is a time to reach out and hold someone's hand. Christmas is a time for warmth. The kind of warmth that you feel when you're with someone you love. That is what Christmas means to me.

It means celebrating Christs beginning. Christ's mass is what Christmas stands for. We show our love for Christ by going to church and praying for him. We also celebrate Christmas by having a family reunion. With all my relatives we sing Christmas songs, eat goodies, laugh, play and pray for people who don't or can't celebrate Christmas! But little kids like to think that Santa Claus is Christmas. Its so fun to watch little kids open presents with big smiles on their faces. Thats what Christmas means to me.

Merry Christmas.

Christmas means to me being home with my family and having a lot of fun. It also means decorating the Christmas tree. It means having nice dreams about Santa Claus. And it means getting up early to open gifts with my sister while my parents are sleeping in their beds. My sister and I have a lot of fun opening the gifts.

Eugene McCarthy
Grade 3, Rm. 32
Merrymount School

Christmas means helping and sharing with other people. It means having fun with your family and friends. It means decorating a Christmas tree and singing Christmas carols and giving and receiving presents. Going to church to pray for others who are sick and cannot spend Christmas with you. Most of all Christmas means caring for everyone and making better friends with someone that you have not been too nice to from time to time. That is what Christmas means to me.

Bobby Gralton
Grade 6
Beechwood Knoll School

Christmas means to me tip-toeing down the stairs at six o'clock in the morning and looking at all the presents that I wanted. Then smelling the turkey cooking overnight in the oven. Then I would play with all the toys and games and playing all day. That is what Christmas means to me.

Tim Price
Grade 6
Wollaston School

Christmas means to me going to church and celebrating the birth of Jesus.
It also means giving and receiving gifts from your family.
Christmas means visiting your relatives and giving and receiving gifts from them. Later I enjoy to stay up and play with my gifts.
All of these things make Christmas an exciting day!

Anne Hegarty
Grade 5
Montclair School

For me Christmas means a day to give, receive, and to share our love and presents. It means Christmas trees, snow, candy canes and presents underneath the tree. It means - having relatives and friends - coming to visit and having fun. It means rejoicing in song and in Christmas carols. It means making goodies for our wonderous feast. It means waiting for Mom and Dad to wake up to open our presents. It means dressing up and looking pretty. It means saying thank you and your welcome. It means going to church and praising Jesus and celebrating his holy birth. I wish it came more than once a year.

Carolann MacLellan

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas means to me the happiness and joy of any girl or any boy.

There is also another way Christmas is fun Jesus Christ was born under a star that shined like the sun.

The three kings came bearing gifts to the Lord so everyone could hear his magical word.

Christmas is snow all white and fluffy. Like Santa Claus laughing like a bowl full of jelly.

Christmas is a family gathering together to share their love forever and ever.

I hope you see what Christmas means to me.

The happiness and joy over one tiny toy.

Kris Picarski
Grade 7

Christmas is a joyous occasion. We trim our tree and watch many faces glow on Christmas morning. We smell cookies baking and the aroma of hot chocolate. Christmas means getting up early to see your presents and running to wake up a parent. Christmas means caring.

Andrea Garofalo

Christmas is a time for joy. Christmas is a time for toys. Children, delighted at the lights, start wishing everybody good-night. Then off to bed they scamper. Suddenly they awake to find that Santa's already gone on his way.

On that day they all bow their heads in silence to say "Thank You God for This Wonderful Day".

Geraldine Murphy

Christmas means people getting together and having fun. Christmas is the best day of the year. Christmas means love to me. Christmas day seems like Jesus Christ is born again.

James Keenan
Grade 5

I think Christmas is when you give presents and when you receive them. I think Christmas is when family and friends get together and celebrate Christmas. Most of all it is Jesus' birthday. If you fight with your brother or sister a lot, give your parents a break. Don't fight, have the Christmas spirit. Christmas is a lot of fun, it's even better when it's a white one!

Steven Austin
Grade 4
Atherton Hough School

Christmas reminds me of when Jesus was born in December on the twenty fifth. It also reminds me of the star that shines over Bethlehem.

For Christmas people usually get trees and decorate them with tinsel, bulbs and lights. Santa Claus is a symbol of the giving of the presents that the wise men brought Jesus on the night he was born.

Presents are given on Christmas Eve or early on Christmas morning when we wake up. People give presents to people they really like.

Christmas means Christ's Day. It means the day he was born.

I love Christmas because it symbolizes the peace and joy Jesus brought into our lives.

Lisa Lundi
Grade 7
Broad Meadows Jr. High

Christmas means important things to me. It means don't just think about yourself. Think about the poor, the needy, and the lonely. Once in a while I send a present or something to a person who needs it. There are more things that Christmas means to me. It means to love my family, my friends, and to do good deeds for people. The most important thing that Christmas means to me is Jesus was born on Christmas. What does Christmas mean to you?

Kevin Dicesare
Grade 3, Rm. 32
Merrymount School

Getting to see my father. I also love to open presents I love to get books. The funniest part of Christmas is putting up the tree with ornaments, candy canes, and a big star on the top. Christmas candles and lights everywhere. I love to bake pies for our Christmas Dinner. But my favorite part is to give out the presents I bought for my family and friends. The biggest part of Christmas is the Christmas Parade.

Michelle Morway
Grade 6

Christmas means love and getting together for parties.

Christmas means getting presents and giving presents.

Christmas means happiness.

Christmas means when Christ was born.

Christmas means going to church.

Christmas especially means having fun.

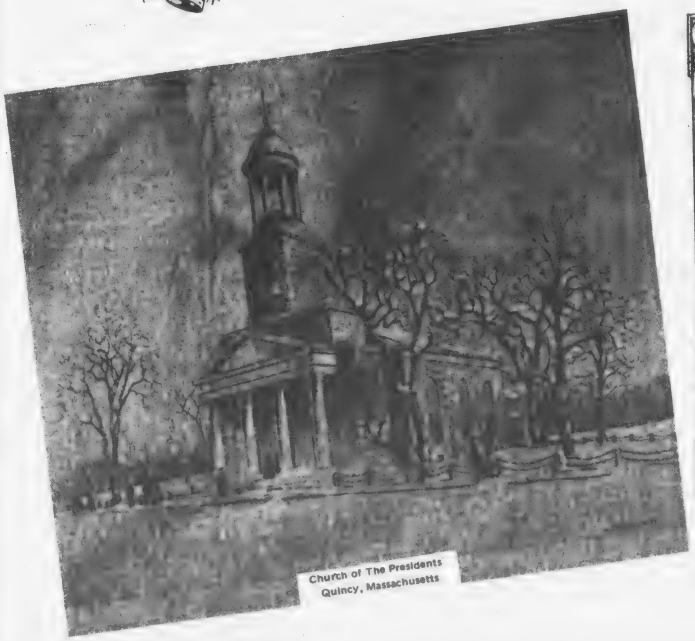
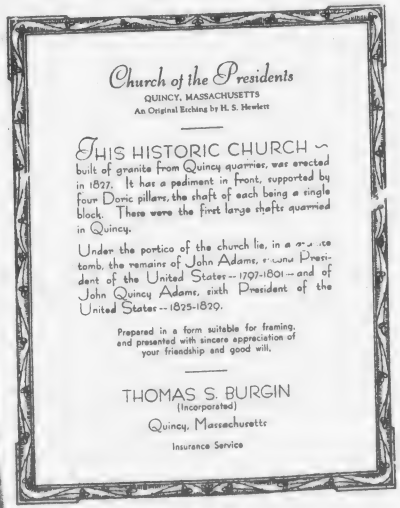
REMEMBER WHEN?





Back in about 1929 -- four years after Thomas S. Burgin founded what is now the Burgin, Platner Insurance Agency in Quincy Square, he used this etching and description of the Church of the Presidents as a Christmas remembrance for his limited number of customers.

Now, forty-nine years later, the Burgin Platner Agency enjoys distributing over ELEVEN THOUSAND calendars annually. This year, 1978, will mark the FIFTY-THIRD year of Dedicated Service to the people of Quincy and the South Shore. Burgin, Platner, "The Doorway to Protection".

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas to me is a very happy time of year. Its when the whole family gets together. It's a time for love, peace, and togetherness.

I think Christmas is a time to give other people something, it doesn't have to be expensive, just something to show you care. It's a time of year for everyone to be happy.

Christmas to me is picking out a tree and decorating it. It's a time for fun and laughter, no one should be unhappy or depressed at Christmas.

Christmas to me is just a time for love and for everyone to be together, family, friends, and even strangers. That's what Christmas means to me.

Terry Martini
Grade 8
Sterling Jr. High

Christmas to me means when people gather together celebrate. Christmas is the time of year when people change. Everybody wants to celebrate the coming of Christ. It is a time of togetherness, when nobody wants to be alone. It's when everybody wants to join in the Christmas spirit.

Patrick Marcham
Grade Six

Christmas is a time for joy and love when you are running to your living room to see what Santa left you.

After you have seen all your toys you might go to someone's house or just stay home.

Then you start to smell the delicious turkey that is in the oven cooking.

Finally it is time for dinner and we all eat a delicious dinner.

Then we all go to my aunt's house and drink eggnog and go Christmas caroling all over the neighborhood.

Christmas is a happy time of year. It is the time when Jesus was born. Christmas is a holy time. It is a time for giving and taking gifts. It's a time for loving and sharing, and gathering of families and friends. Christmas is a great time of year. I wish it would never end. On Christmas morning we hear the bells from the church, and the chirpping of the birds and I see the white snow on the trees. It's a beautiful sight. At night I see the sparkling stars in the sky. And before Christmas I see the people getting their Christmas presents and walking with their friends and talking with their friends. And in Quincy next to City Hall that beautiful manger makes you think you were alive at the time when Jesus was born.

Lor-Ann Merlino
Grade 6

Christmas is a time for love, sharing and peace. The best part of Christmas to me is being with my family because I love them very much. In my family we have a tradition. Every Christmas Eve my father reads. Twas The Night Before Christmas, and my mother reads the story of The Nativity. On Christmas you really don't have to give presents because, it is the thought that counts. Christmas makes me feel good all over. In my family we all get together to decorate the tree. I love Christmas very much.

Cindy Wilkinson
Grade 5 Rm. 5

During the Christmas season I like to make cookies and help around the kitchen. It is a happy time for me. I feel grown-up when I get to bake. My family and all my cousins go to my grandmother's house and stay late. In my religion we celebrate our savior Jesus' birthday.

This is what Christmas is all about.

Michelle Burns

On Christmas Eve, after Santa Claus has come to my grandmothers and grandfather's house, my grandmother calls us up. Then we go down there and everybody, is there. We all open our presents, then we all go into the dining room to eat some food. My cousins and I go back to play with the toys we got. After that we go home to bed and wake up in the morning to open our presents in our house. Then we go to church.

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas means to me the birth of Christ and going to church and singing in the choir. It means buying gifts for my family, going out to buy a tree, and decorating the tree the next day. It also means to have my grandfather and cousins come to celebrate with us. It means helping my mother make fudge and cookies. Christmas means to love and help other people. It also means to wake up the rest of the family early in the morning and to go downstairs and open all the presents and to empty my stocking.

Jeffrey Denneen
Grade 3, Rm. 32

I look forward to Christmas for many reasons. It is fun to give and get gifts. I like seeing all my cousins and relatives, because I don't see them very often. I like helping my mother cook and do other things around the house. I enjoy going to Christmas parties. I think Christmas is the most joyful time of the year.

Michelle Cleary
Grade 5

When I think of Christmas, I think of a big fire in our fireplace and my father throwing the wrapping paper in the fire. I think of the Christmas tree decorated, and under it all the presents. I think of parties at home on Christmas Day.

Christmas means a week off from school and playing with all the presents. I think of wrapping gifts with my mother and then delivering them to friends and relatives.

But the main thing we have to remember is it's Jesus' birthday.

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas is a jolly time of the year. I don't think of just getting presents. I think of giving presents too. Christmas isn't just Santa Claus. It's really the birth of Christ. Christmas is when Baby Jesus was born. It's very important that we know that. I like going into town and looking at the lights. Christmas means having fun and thinking how lucky we are that we have clothes to wear and food to eat. That's what Christmas means to me.

Colleen Hannon

Christmas is a time of love, and a time of joy. Everyone is busy wrapping presents and writing out cards to other people. Everyone is happy and filled with the Christmas spirit. When you walk outside, the first thing you see is children playing in the snow, laughing and running around.

Another nice thing about Christmas is decorating the house, putting up the Christmas tree and decorating it and then putting up your stocking so Santa can fill it up with goodies!

Then on Christmas Eve, everyone goes to bed early, and when we wake up and look underneath the Christmas tree and find a lot of presents for everyone!

Christmas means Jesus'' birthday, my mother's birthday and I can't forget Santa Claus and all my toys. First of all, Jesus. Jesus was born in Bethleham where his mother, Mary, and his father, Joseph were. He was born in a stable with all animals around him. My mother was born on Christmas Day too. I made a list of toys this year. On Christmas Day we go up the street to my grandmother's house. Then we go up to Reading and have dinner with my other grandmother.

It means that it is fun having people over. It is a pleasant and a nice, quiet day. It means to think of your friends and best of all, it means to have a nice day.

Kathy Cogswell
Grade 3

What Christmas means to me is that you get nice toys, which can be used alot, pretty Christmas trees and pretty bulbs are reflecting on the walls. The snow is white as a rabbit. It is pretty at night. Santa Claus is nice.

Adrienne Pierce
Grade Four
N.S. Hunting School

Christmas means so much to me: The decorating of the tall green tree. The shopping downtown & seeing the lights. The candles that reach very tall heights. The stories of Santa Claus riding his sleigh. The manger scene where baby Jesus lay. The white, fluffy snow that sometimes does fall. The sign in the window saying Merry Christmas to all. The special feeling that everyone gets. The perfect presents & stuffed little pets. The stockings that are hung straight in a row. The cookies made out of homemade dough. But most of all the love we share. On Christmas day we realize we care.

Nancy Keane
Grade 7
Broad Meadows Jr. High

Christmas to me is a special holiday. Christmas means buying special gifts for special people. Christmas means getting a tree and fixing it up. Christmas means wrapping presents and putting ribbons on them. Christmas is a special time because your whole family is together. Christmas is fun because you are receiving gifts and giving some. Christmas is waking up and opening presents. Its also a time for getting a special dinner for a special person. Christmas is celebrating Jesus birth, Christmas is welcoming the guests at the door, and having the nicest time of the year!

Tracey Cahill
Grade 6

Christmas means a lot to me, decorating our bright, shiny tree.

Christmas trees they shine so bright, a Christmas tree is a beautiful sight.

Christmas, it seems like a dream, when I see the presents gleam.

Christmas, it means holidays, lots of snow and big parades.

Christmas also means building lots of forts, lots of igloos of various sorts.

I like Christmas all year round, lots of white snow on the ground.

Christmas means a lot to me, a lot of things that you cannot see.

Brian O'Leary
Grade 6
Squantum School

Christmas means it is Christ's birthday. That's why we celebrate on Christmas day. Christmas is a very special time of year because we all join together. It also means the thought of the presents you receive. I like Christmas because I join with my family and friends. Christmas is a joyful time of year.

Susan Lynch

On Christmas Eve I go to bed and think of all the things that I will get. I hope I get all the toys and games that I want. Soon I'll be asleep. When I wake up I run down the stairs to see my presents, and play with the toys and games.

Then I go to church to celebrate Jesus's birthday.

Stephen Miller

To me Christmas means coming downstairs to see all the gifts in the stockings and under our tree. Christmas also means that Jesus is born so sweet and dear, so every Christmas morn we put him in our manger. Christmas also means giving and receiving gifts. It means feasting on good things to eat. But most of all it means to love everyone!

Stephanie Francis

Christmas means a time of making the world happy, giving presents and helping people out. Some people are not as happy as others these people might not have a family or a home.

Little children love Christmas time. They love to sit on Santa's lap. The twinkle in little kids eyes on Christmas morning always makes you feel good.

What Christmas really means to me is giving and caring for everyone.

June Canwell

Christmas is a time for joy; it's more than just receiving a toy.

People are laughing all around; by this I mean from town to town.

Houses decorated with various lights make the meaning of Christmas a more beautiful sight.

People are waiting for Santa to come, to bring bags full of gifts to everyone.

The Spirit of Christmas comes each year, and each time it comes I shed a tear.

Diane Holler,

What Christmas Means To Me . . .

Christmas means when Christ was born on Christmas. That's the most important. You should go to Mass on Christmas Eve. Then I think you should buy your mother, father, sister, brother, uncles, aunts, and grandmother, and grandfather a present.

Christmas to me means being with my family, friends, aunts, uncles and cousins of all ages. Besides the family and relations there's the true meaning of Christmas:

That night when Mary, the beautiful bride of Joseph came to Bethlehem to give birth to a child, a very special child. The East Star gave its wondrous light and that star led Mary and Joseph to a manger where the newborn child would be warm. The warmth from the child's mother's face for her face was as radiant as the East Star's was.

This is what Christmas means to me!

What Christmas Means To Me...

One night before Christmas old Santa sat rocking, wondering what he could stuff in each stocking.
He had always left candy and nuts, it is true.
But this year he wanted to leave something new.
What could he make that was merry and gay.
Something beautiful for Christmas day.
Wait! Santa had an idea.
He ran to his shop and worked there all night.
He found scissors, paper,
thread and some glue.
He found some paints - a lot of red and a little of blue.
He scissored and he snipped,
he dappled and he dripped.
He called in his elves and said,
"Look, here's my wonderful, magical stocking size book!"
It's surely a strange one!" the puzzled elves said.
"But hurry it's time to start packing the sled!"
"Wait!" shouted Santa.
"There's a last thing to do."
Then he wished to the world.
"Merry Christmas to you!"

Paul Revere Sons of Liberty BOWL

The original Bowl was made by Paul Revere, a great patriot and skilled silversmith, in the year 1768. Later, an exact replica was ordered by the Fifteen Sons of Liberty whose names were engraved around the original Bowl and it memorialized the vehement protest of the Massachusetts General Court to the Government in London against their oppressive and arbitrary acts. The Bowl was used at every meeting of the Sons of Liberty for many years.

Feast Of Lights Begins Sunday At Sundown

Chanukah Marks Jews' First Great Victory For Religious Freedom

By LESTER GLASSER

Chanukah, the Feast of Lights celebrating the first great victory for religious freedom won by Judah Maccabee and his army of Jews, will begin at sundown Sunday, Dec. 24.

The festival commemorates the dedication of the Temple of Jerusalem in the 2nd Century BCE [Before Common Era] after its defilement by Antiochus IV of Syria.

A pre-Chanukah Sabbath observance will be held at Temple Beth El, 1001 Hancock St., Friday, Dec. 22 at 8:15 p.m., Rabbi David J. Jacobs and Cantor Morris Semigran will conduct the services.

Sunday morning, Dec. 24 at Congregation Adas Shalom, 435 Adams St., the annual Chanukah breakfast will be held with services conducted by Rabbi Samuel S. Kenner at 9 a.m. followed by the traditional "latke" [potato pancake] breakfast. There will be entertainment by Eugene Bonderman, pianist and vocalist. Special guests will be his parents.

On the last day of Chanukah, Dec. 31, the annual family Chanukah breakfast will be held at the Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Grafton St., along with the installation of Brotherhood officers.

Services will be conducted by Rabbi Jacob Mann, starting at 8:30 a.m., followed by the installation at 9:30 a.m. and a special Chanukah meal, including latkes, will be served.

Jack Klaver, president of the synagogue, said he expects that the entire Beth Israel family will attend this joyous celebration which will start at 10 a.m.

Irving Isaacson will be installed as president of the brotherhood. Chanukah gifts will be presented to all the children who attend.

In the spirit of Chanukah, the Feast of Lights, the officers will signify their dedication by lighting the candles in the Congregation's large Menorah.

Chanukah, which means "Dedication", will begin this year with the lighting of the first candle in the special Menorah on Sunday, Dec. 24, at sundown.

The following Chanukah blessings are recited, usually by the youngest member of the family:

"Praised by Thou, O Lord our God, Ruling Spirit of the Universe, who has enabled us to attain holiness through the religious duty of kindling the Chanukah lights.

"Praised be Thou, O Lord our God, Ruling Spirit of the Universe, who has inspired the heroic deeds of our forefathers in times past at this season."

This blessing for the first night only:

"Praised be Thou, O Lord our God, Ruling Spirit of the Universe, who has granted us life, sustained us and permitted us to celebrate this joyous festival."

Each night of Chanukah a candle is added to the Chanukah Menorah until all eight candles are lighted. Special Chanukah songs are chanted, gifts are exchanged, games are played and most meals include the Chanukah special, "latkes".

The Jewish people observe this joyous holiday, celebrating the first great victory for religious freedom won by the Jews more than 2,000 years ago.

In 175 B.C. E., Antiochus IV, a Syrian-Greek emperor demanded that everyone in his empire follow his ways of worship. He forced the Jews to renounce their faith and to worship Greek idols which were placed in Jewish places of worship including the Temple in Israel.

But the Jews refused to give up their faith in the One God. Mattathias, the elder of the town of Modin in Palestine, in defiance of the tyrant, called the Jews to revolt.

They followed their leader into the hills where one of his five sons, Judah Maccabee, organized them into an army. Judah was called the "maccabee", which means "hammer", because of the blows struck for freedom.

After three years, the valiant little Jewish army drove the enemy from the Temple. The Temple was cleansed, a new altar was built, a large Menorah with candles was lighted and other ceremonies carried on. Once more the Jews were free to worship their own God in their own way.

On the eighth night, the following blessing is added:

"We celebrate the miracle of dedication. The Temple which Judah the Maccabee purified was one of rock and stone. The Temple which we have rededicated this week is a Temple of flesh and blood - ourselves. We light eight candles tonight, and know that all miracles of Chanukah are one - the miracle of man."

Grand Opening Celebration

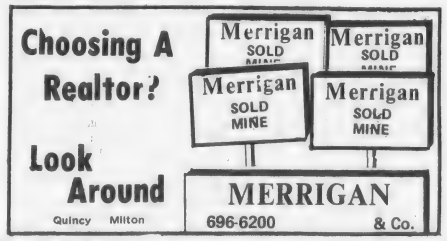
South Boston Savings Opens New Quincy Branch At Lakin Sq.

South Boston Savings Bank Tuesday opened a new branch at the corner of Adams and Beale Sts., Lakin Square, Quincy.

The new location was chosen for the convenience of residents of Quincy, Milton, Braintree and surrounding communities.

It features six lobby tellers, two drive up windows, safety boxes and "Leader 24", a 24 hour, seven day a week, self-service outside automatic teller.

The bank has over 70,000 depositors, and offers the highest interest available in Massachusetts, the bank notes. Total assets are more than $430 million.



During the grand opening celebration, the bank, which is the ninth largest savings bank in Massachusetts, will give away prizes such as an all expense paid round trip for two to Bermuda. There is no obligation, entrants need only register to be eligible.

Blankets will also be given away at the Quincy branch only, for opening a savings account of $200 or more, or depositing $200 or more to an existing savings account.

The Lakin Square branch is located on the same street as historic Adams Mansion, a few minutes from the Southeast Expressway and a few hundred yards from East Milton Sq.

SHARING THE SALVATION ARMY IS CARING

How Much Taxable Profit?

When you sell your home at a profit, the difference between the cost and the selling price is taxable [unless you defer it by buying a more expensive home]. The important cost basis is the sum of the original cost plus the dollar-value of improvements and selling expenses. Although the average homeowner can usually determine the amount originally paid for the home, he usually lacks information regarding improvements which have been made during ownership.

Amounts spent for replacements, alterations or improvements which increased the value of the property can be added to the original cost basis to determine the gain or loss at sale. Not only should the homeowner know the dollar amounts of the improvements, he should be able to substantiate these facts in the event of an IRS examination. So keep those records and check stubs.

Private Services For Charles W. Hedges, 77, Former City, State Official

Private funeral services are scheduled for Charles W. Hedges, 77, of 123 Elm St., Quincy, former state representative, City Councillor, senator and Norfolk County sheriff, who died Monday at Quincy City Hospital.

In accordance with the wishes of the family there will be no visiting hours.

On learning of Hedges' death, Mayor Arthur H. Tobin ordered all flags in the city to be lowered to half staff for a period of mourning.

Hedges, a highly respected Republican, was born in Westfield. His family moved to Quincy when he was eight and he graduated from Quincy High School in 1919. He also attended Dean Academy and Syracuse University.

While in College he played football on the championship teams of Coach [Chick] Meehan and after graduation played in several professional football games.

He assisted Coach Franklin Mitchell with the Quincy High School squad which beat Brockton in 1925. He also did some part-time coaching at Thayer Academy.

In 1925 he entered the credit rating business in Boston and two years later established his own company called "Standard Service Bureau, Inc."

In 1929 he was elected to the Quincy City Council and was re-elected in 1931.

In 1933 he was elected to the state House of Representatives and served there continually until he gave up his seat to enter the Army Air Corps in 1942. He spent 34 months in the Southwest Pacific and was a member of the Air Staff of General Douglas MacArthur.

Hedges was a staunch defender of MacArthur during the Korean conflict and was instrumental in persuading the general to visit Quincy in 1951 after he had been relieved of his command.

Hedges was wounded while serving as the first Air Intelligence Officer to conduct operations on Guadalcanal.

Following his honorable discharge late in 1945 he resumed his credit reporting business and rejoined the House of Representatives.

He remained in the House until 1950 when he was elected to the seat vacated by state Senator John D. MacKay. He served as a state senator for 10 years and was Republican floor leader in 1957-1958. He was a delegate to five Republican national conventions and was founder of the Quincy Young Men's Republican Club.

He served for a time as military aide to Gov. Christian Herter and as comptroller of the Massachusetts Air National Guard. He retired from the Air National Guard with the rank of brigadier general.

Hedges was a member of Wollaston Legion Post, George F. Bryan VFW Post, the Col. John Quincy Post of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, and the Disabled American Veterans.

In 1960 he was elected Norfolk County Sheriff, a post he held until 1974 when he was defeated by the present Sheriff Clifford Marshall, then a Quincy City Councillor.

At the annual Interfaith Brotherhood Breakfast in 1962 he was presented an award by the Quincy B'nae B'rith Lodge and Beth Israel Synagogue as a "dedicated public servant to whom public service is a sacred trust."

Mr. Hedges was widely known for his reforms in correction work and was instrumental in getting jobs for former inmates.

After a short retirement of two years he was elected to the retirement board in 1976 and the following year was campaign manager for Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia.

He is survived by his wife, Dr. Ella Goodale Hedges, who practiced medicine in the Quincy area.

Do's And Don't's From Fire Dept.

How To Make Your Christmas Safe

Every year the joy of Christmas is marred by tragedy when fire strikes a home where proper precautions have not been taken to insure the safety of the family.

Deputy Fire Chief Carl V. Valenti, head of the Quincy Fire Prevention Bureau, has issued a list of safety rules to caution people regarding the dangers of not property supervising Christmas decorations and toys.

CHRISTMAS TREES

Buy a tree that hasn't dried out from prolonged storage. Stand the cut end of the tree trunk in water until taken indoors. Place the tree securely in a stand that has a water receptacle for the cut end of the tree trunk. Keep the water receptacle filled by checking at least once a day. Use a stand that will support the tree. Place the tree away from fireplaces, radiators, space heaters, etc. Place tree where it will not block a door or exit. When needles become dry and start to shed dismantle and discard the tree immediately.

LIGHTING

Do not use candles on or near a Christmas tree. Use only electric lighting sets that are approved and bear the Underwriters Laboratories label. Before using electric set check for frayed wires, loose connections and broken sockets. Use only 15 ampere fuses on electrical circuits for lighting sets. Extensive holiday wiring is dangerous unless done by a qualified electrician. Avoid plugging too many cords into one outlet. Turn off all tree lighting before retiring or leaving the house. Provide a switch some distance from the tree for turning tree lights off and on.

DECORATION AND WRAPPING

Dispose of Christmas wrapping immediately after gifts are opened. Decorate the home with non-combustible material whenever possible. When combustible material is used make sure it is flameproofed. Santa Claus whiskers and clothing, cotton batting and certain papers ignite easily and burn intensely. Use only if flameproofed. Do not use the fireplace or stove to burn Christmas wrapping or decorations.

TOYS

Avoid buying pyroxylin plastic toys, or non-flameproofed costumes. Avoid buying toys operated by flammable liquids such as alcohol, kerosene, gasoline. They are especially dangerous. Buy electrical toys that are approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories. Electric trains and other electrical toys are not to be operated under or close to a Christmas tree. An upset may cause an electrical spark that may result in a fire.

GENERAL SUGGESTIONS

Avoid smoking near the Christmas tree or amidst decorations. Use a substantial fireplace screen to guard against flying sparks. Keep matches, lighters, and burning candles beyond the reach of children. Plan on what to do if a fire breaks out. Have a fire extinguisher or garden hose connected to a faucet, or buckets of water within easy reach of a tree. In case of fire, immediately call the fire department.

8th Annual William Horne Memorial Bloodmobile Dec. 28

The eighth annual William J. Horne, III Memorial Bloodmobile will be held 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 28, at St. John's School, Phipps St., Quincy.

Donors may call 472-2700 or 471-3866 for an appointment. However, walk-in donors will be accepted.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile donor drive is a special project of William and Marion Horne, 95 Monroe Rd, Quincy, and is carried on each year at the Christmas season.

The drive is named as a memorial to their son, William J. Horne, III, who died of leukemia in June, 1971, at the age of 23. He was a graduate of St. John's School, Boston College High School and Bryant and Stratton.

He was employed in Quincy as a computer programmer. He was married to the former Susan Ela of Foxboro, and the couple's first child, Angelique, was born two months after his death.

More than 100 donors give blood each year and this year, because it is the eighth year of the program the Hornes are calling it "Gallon Year".

They urge all residents to make a donation to keep the necessary life giving blood available. Donations may be credited to any individual, business or special group.

The Christmas Story

Luke. 2. 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. This first census took place while Cyrinus was governor of Syria.

And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a Manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you: you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

Christmas Masses At St. John's

Masses will be celebrated in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy Center, on Christmas Eve at 4 and 7:30 p.m. in both the upper and lower church. Both are children's Masses.

A Midnight Mass will be celebrated in both the upper and lower church on Sunday. On Monday, Dec. 25, Masses will be said at 8, 9:45 and 11 a.m. The latter, in the upper church is a children's Mass.

Today (Thursday) confessions will be heard from 4 to 5 p.m. and an Italian speaking priest will be available. Confessions will also be heard from 3 to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

On Saturday (Dec. 23) Masses will be celebrated at 4 and 7 p.m. for those wishing to fulfill their Sunday obligations. On Sunday the regular schedule of Masses will be followed with the last service at 12:15 p.m.

Christmas Services At Bethany Church

Rev. John Banks, pastor, announces the following schedule of Christmas Services for Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center:

Sunday, 10 a.m., Festival Service in the Sanctuary, with anthems by chancel, junior and cherub choirs. Sermon by Rev. Banks: "What the Heavens Tell."

Assisting in the service will be Rev. Elden D. J. Zuern, associate minister, and Linda Hayes Roberts, student assistant minister. Choirs under the direction of Lambert W. Brandes and Lois I. Brandes. Fellowship hour will follow in the Allen Parlor.

Sunday, 7 p.m., Christmas Eve Family Service in the Sanctuary, with church school pupils participating in choirs, candlelighting and the singing of carols. A Christmas Story, "The Innkeeper's Daughter", will be told by Rev. Zuern.

Sunday, 11 p.m., Midnight Service of Carols and Candlelighting. The ministers will read the gospel accounts of the Nativity which will be repeated in poetry and hymns. All worshipers will share in the lighting of candles following prayers and a meditation by Rev. Zuern.

Cambridge Symphonic Brass Ensemble At First Parish Church

The United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq., will present the Cambridge Symphonic Brass Ensemble at the 10:30 a.m. service to be held on Christmas Eve.

The program will also include an illustrated pageant for children and an address by Rev. Keith C. Munson, minister of the church.

A traditional candlelighting service will be held at 7:30 p.m., with the adult choir.

The Cambridge quartet, founded in 1966, has performed widely in the Greater Boston area. The music chosen for the service at the Church of the Presidents comes from the "Golden Age of Brass" and features music of the Venetian polyphonists Andrea Gabrieli and his nephew, Giovani Gabrieli.

Appearance of the ensemble was arranged by Mrs. Sally Brunner, music director at the church. She will accompany the group on the organ.

St. Mary's Masses

Christmas Masses will be celebrated in St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, at 5 p.m. on Sunday and at Midnight marking the Nativity of the Christ Child.

On Christmas Day Masses will be said at 7, 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m. There will be no Mass at 5 p.m. on Christmas Day.

On Saturday Masses will be at 4 and 6:30 p.m., and on Sunday the services will be at 7, 8:30, 10 and 11:30 a.m.

Confessions will be heard Friday 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m. On Saturday there will be confessions from 3:30 to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 6:30 p.m.

Good Will Performers Planning Auditions

Good Will Performers, a non-profit group based in Wollaston, will start holding auditions after Christmas for aspiring entertainers to join a planned additional show unit.

Director Edward Bennett said applications will be accepted from experienced musicians ages 25 to 70 who are available at least once a week for rehearsals or for performances.

There are also openings for vocalists to solo or sing in harmony groups, dancers, novelty acts, comedy, and instrumental specialties.

Instrumentalists sought for the orchestra include saxophone, clarinet, trumpet, trombone, accordion and stringed instruments.

All those selected will receive professional training, if necessary.

Further information may be obtained by calling 471-3725 or writing to Good Will Performers, Box 25, Wollaston, 02170.

Quincy Hosts Newton N. In Opener Saturday

By TOM SULLIVAN

Coach Bob Sylvia's 15th Quincy hockey team opens its season Saturday when it hosts Newton North a Suburban League power, at 6:40 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena and he is a bit concerned.

"I feel we are starting with a monkey on our backs," Sylvia said. "Most people are saying we are loaded, having the graduates of last year's undefeated junior varsity team. But, remember, these kids haven't had a taste of varsity action and it may take time, a little time for them to develop.

"Last year we had a season to remember, but seasons like that come around only once in a great while and we are starting with a pretty inexperienced squad."

Bob has taken nine teams into the state tournament and last year was the best of them all. After finishing a second in the league with an 11-4-1 record, the Presidents edged Marshfield, 5-4, and upset undefeated Don Bosco, 5-4, to make the Boston Garden for the first time ever. After defeating Saugus, 8-5, Quincy fell to top-seeded Burlington, 3-1, in the semifinals.

Sylvia lost 10 seniors to graduation but has some veterans returning, led by Mike Furey, one of the top defensemen in the state. Joining him are Robbie Craig and Scott Richardson, who played regularly last year. A few of the others played some varsity hockey but the Presidents are starting with a green team.

Sylvia has an all-senior 'red' line of John Norton, Bob Molloy and Jack Campbell.

An all-junior 'white' line comprises Tom Brennan, Craig and Richardson, and another all-senior 'green' line has Pat Clifford, Rich Ahola and Jeff Giordani, all up from the jayvees.

Another promising line includes juniors Bob Currier and John Furey and either junior Bill Walker or sophomore Mike Looby.

The veteran coach has six defensemen, all of whom look good and he expects the team to be stronger defensively this season.

"If we had been just a little stronger defensively last year, we might have gone even farther in the tournament," he pointed out.

Joining senior Furey are senior Bob Brennan, juniors Bernie Van Tassell, Billy Flynn and Chick Milford and a promising sophomore, Paul Flynn.

Others are senior Dave Campbell and sophomores Red Furey and John Balus.

"I've had many brother combinations through the years, but this is the first time I've had three brothers (the Fureys)," Sylvia said.

Juniors Jim Campbell and Chuck Dooley are fighting for the goalie spot and both look good. Campbell saw a little varsity action last year and played a little in the tournament, which gave him a lot of confidence. Dooley played for the jayvees. Another hopeful is sophomore Paul Sarno.

Jeff Gale is the Presidents' manager.

"Goal is a big question mark," Sylvia admitted. "Campbell and Dooley looked good in our 3-0 jamboree win over Scituate, but they haven't been tested and they must prove themselves.

"The six top defensemen look good and this right now looks like our strong point.

"Jack Campbell could be our key forward. He is big and strong. Norton is a heady player and Molloy is our most pleasant surprise. He attended a school conducted by Jack Garrity and it helped him considerably. We are coming along on offense and, if we can score our share of goals, we could do all right. The big question is 'how fast will our inexperienced players come along?'

"We have lost our junior high-freshman program, which had been a big help to us, and we must depend even more upon the youth hockey leagues."

The majority of the Quincy players came up through the youth leagues.

Sylvia's assistant coach, Jack Crowley; North Quincy's new head coach, Kevin Lewis, and the former junior high - freshman coach, John Perkins, all played for Sylvia at Quincy.

Bob will match wits with Lewis for the first time next Wednesday when Quincy and North meet at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

VOLLEYBALL STAR -- North Quincy's Lynne Tabor recently finished her varsity volleyball career at Northeastern University. She is a senior majoring in physical education. The Huskies finished third in the state tournament after posting a 13-9 record. Miss Tabor, who captained the basketball and softball squads at North Quincy High, was praised by Coach Donna Cameron for her rapid improvement in serving and hitting.

Troup Named QJC Head Hockey Coach

The appointment of Robert Troup as head hockey coach at Quincy Junior College for a one year term at a salary of $1,540 has been approved by the Quincy school committee.

At the same meeting the committee also approved the appointment of Christy Oliveira as head coach of girls' gymnastics at North Quincy High School. Miss Oliveira, a teacher at Sterling Junior High School, will receive a salary of $1,115.

Miss Amy E. Chessia, a teacher at Quincy Point Junior High School, was appointed coach of boys' swimming at Quincy High School at a salary of $910.

Barry Holten Debuts In Junior Olympic Bout

Barry Holten, 12, of 23 Watkins St., Wollaston, recently made his boxing debut in a 75-pound no decision Junior Olympic bout against Tommy Attardo of South Boston in Freeport Hall, Dorchester.

Young Holten, a student at Central Junior High School, is fighting under the colors of the Milton Youth Boxing Club.

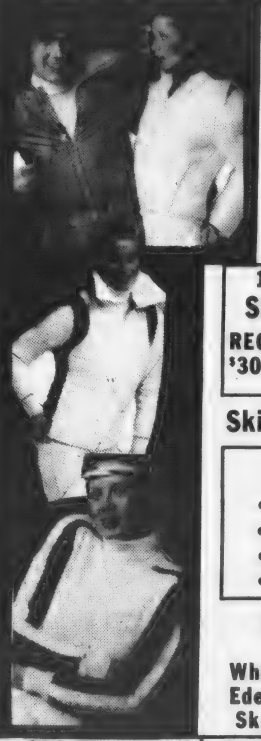
North Swim Team Bows, But Shines Individually

Although defeated in its first two meets, the North Quincy swim team had several outstanding performances.



The Raiders lost their opener to Newton North, 100-66, despite a double win by Ed Melanson, who won the 200 individual medley and the 100 butterfly. John Conley won the 100 freestyle and the 400 freestyle relay team of Richard Farmer, Bob Farmer, John Buckley and Sean O'Brien also won.

The 200 medley relay team of Bill Feeney, Bill Boudreau, Melanson and Conley finished second, while Conley took second in the 50 freestyle, David Donovan was second in the one-meter dive, O'Brien took second in the 500 freestyle, Feeney was second in the 100 backstroke and Boudreau took second in the 100 breaststroke.

North also bowed to Newton South, 89-76, as Conley won the 50 and 100 freestyles, Donovan won the one-meter dive and Melanson won the 100 butterfly and took second in the 200 individual medley and his 2:11.67 in the IM is expected to be good enough to put him into the state finals. Ed Boudreau won the 100 breaststroke and the 400 freestyle medley team of Buckley, Jim Morris, Conley and Melanson also won.

EAGER BEAVER -- Jay Nelson of North Quincy is having a good season for the Babson College basketball team. The rangy junior plays center for the Beavers and has been a big man on offense. In a recent 74-69 overtime loss to Springfield, Nelson hit on 10 of 13 shots and had 23 points. He has hit on 58 percent of his field goal attemps. He starred for North Quincy High and was a Suburban League all-star.

Presidents Host Brookline Friday

Quincy's basketball team opened its Suburban League schedule Tuesday at Weymouth South and Friday will host Brookline at 8 p.m. at the Vo-Tech gym.

Joe Amorosino's Presidents are already assured of a better record than last year as they took a 2-1 mark into their league schedule.

Quincy last weekend was edged by Hingham, 50-48, in the finals of Hingham's holiday tournament after topping Franklin, 61-53, in the semifinals.

The Quincy-Hingham game was close all the way with neither team enjoying more than a four-point lead at any time. Hingham won it on Mike Sullivan's two free throws with 30 seconds left to cap an 18-point performance. With 13 seconds left Quincy took a time-out to set its strategy but the set play never materialized and with time running out Scott MacDonald drove to the right of the lane and his shot skirted around the rim and dropped out as time expired.

"I was very pleased with our showing against a bigger and more experienced Hingham team," Amorosino said. "They started five seniors and I had only one in the starting lineup. It was a tremendous game and we have nothing to be ashamed of.

"We had 23 turnovers and they hurt. We played great defense and five or six times stopped them in the fourth period but we turned it over to them and that was crucial. We gave them too many points in the first quarter (Hingham led, 20-18)."

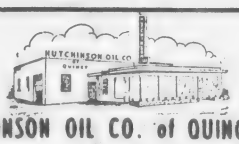
Brian Donovan paced the Presidents with 16 points and Ritch Finnegan added 12.

In the semifinal win over Franklin Jeff Connerty scored 20 points and Finnegan and Steve Priscella had 12 apiece.

Quincy had opened its season earlier in the week with an impressive 64-56 win over a tall Oliver Almes team which is favored to win the Hockomock League title.

"I can't tell you how much this means to me," Amorosino said. "I can't tell you how much it means to the kids." Quincy suffered through a 1-21 season last winter.

Connerty scored 13 points and Andy Carrera and Priscella had 12 apiece.



9 Quincy, North Players On Suburban All-Star Team

Five Quincy players and four from North Quincy were named to the Suburban League all-star football team as selected by the league coaches.

Named from Quincy were guards George McCarron and Steve Cacciatore, running back Tom Brennan, linebacker Ralph Pickering and defensive back Jeff Giordani.

North's representatives are guards Mike Spinale and Paul White, tackle Brian McGilvray and running back Tom Quinn.

The league cross country coaches also picked their annual all-star team which includes John McGuiggan of North Quincy and John Furey of Quincy.

Quincy Has Veterans, North Still Rebuilding

The Quincy girls' basketball team has a good nucleus of veterans as Coach Barbara Webster seeks to improve upon last year's 8-9 record.

Meanwhile, North Quincy Coach Brian Tilley faces more headaches as the Raiderettes hope to rebound following a dismal 1-15 record last season. It is again a rebuilding year for Tilley.

Quincy's First Ladies opened their season last weekend in the holiday tournament at Hingham. After topping host Hingham 55-49 in the opening round, the First Ladies were nipped by Bourne, 51-49.

They opened their Suburban League season Tuesday against Weymouth South and Friday will play at Brookline.

Paula Lynch (5-9) is back at center for Quincy, joined by Denise Leonard and Karen Murphy at forward and Lynn Powers and Susan Callahan at guard. Laura Reilly will also play at forward and Laura Miller at guard.

There are a number of fine sophomores including Linda Brennan, Maureen Walsh and Marie Callahan at guard, and Anne McCarron at forward. Juniors Eileen Smith and Maureen Maher will see action at center.

"We lack height, but hope to make up for it with quickness," Ms. Webster said. "We have some good shooters and we should be able to score."

Sophomore Walsh had 23 points in the close loss to Bourne.

At North Tilley lost almost his entire team to graduation.

The Raiderettes opened Tuesday at Brookline and Friday will be host to Brockton, always a league power.

Cheryl Ayles starts at center, junior Patti Bellotti is at guard and sophomore Julie Watts is also playing at center. Karen Melanson, the only senior, and Kia Alberti, are the guards.

Patti Micelli is a starting forward and sophomore Faith Lindberg and junior Kathy MacDonald also are forwards. Junior Judy Davis and sophomores Jackie Thayer and Karen Sorenson are the guards and another soph, Ann McElaney, is a forward.

"We are young and inexperienced but hope to compensate with an aggressive style of play," Tilley said.

Quincy Blanks Needham, North Splits 2 Matches

It looks like another banner season for the Quincy wrestling team, as the Presidents blanked Needham, 69-0, in their opener last week.

Ed Ryan won the 100-pound division by a pin, Joe Souza won at 107 by default, Martin Doyle won by a pin at 114, John Fitzgerald won by decision at 121, John Herald won by pin at 128, Jim Mullarkey won by a pin at 134, Steve Venturelli won by pin at 140, Rennie Crowe won by pin at 147, Kurt Braun won by pin at 157, Mike Gordon won by pin at 167, Geoff Caflisch won by decision at 188 and Tony Akoury won by decision in the heavyweight class.

Carmen Mariano's Presidents will host Dedham, Norwood and Weymouth North Saturday at noon in a quadrangular meet.

Steve Joyce's North Quincy grapplers opened with a 41-20 win over Norwell, but lost to Bridgewater-Raynham, 45-16, in their next meet.

North is again handicapped by lack of depth and must forfeit some of its matches.

In the win over Norwell, the Raiders' Liam Cataldo won by a pin at 107 pounds, Chris Dunn pinned his foe at 121, Steve Sweet won by decision at 128, Gino Pillard won by pin at 134, Dave Howley tied at 140, Chris Little won by decision at 147, John McNamara won by pin at 157, John Coughlin won by decision at 169 and John Gorczyca won by pin at 187. North was forced to forfeit its 100-pound, 114-pound and heavyweight bouts.

In the loss to Bridgewater - Raynham Coughlin won by decision, Sweet won by a pin and Pillard won by decision.

North will host Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 1 o'clock at the Quincy Armory and Wednesday will be at Dedham for a 6 o'clock meet.

Sterling Matmen Take 7 Of 10 Matches To Defeat Atlantic

Sterling won seven of the 10 matches to defeat Atlantic, 36-18, in junior high wrestling last week.

Sterling's Joe Madden pinned Dan DiCarlo in the 92-pound class, Mario Venturelli won by a decision over Jay Pillard at 102 pounds, John Kozlowski pinned Kevin Burke in the 110-pound division, Glen Oriola won by decision over Chris Butler, 118 pounds; Joe Bush pinned Paul Norton, 137 pounds; Steve Ricci won by default, 147 pounds, and Mark Picot pinned Frank Schachts in the 157-pound class. For Atlantic, Matt McGuiggan won by a pin at 82 pounds, Richie Palma won by pin at 127 pounds and Steve Kallenberg won by default in the heavyweight class.

Sterling also won the jayvee match, 12-6, with Dave Coulter winning a decision at 82 pounds, Scott McCarthy winning by decision at 100 pounds and Francis Gaudiano winning by a pin at 147. For Atlantic Greg DiBello won by decision at 110 and Lucky Trifilos won by decision at 118.

Central easily defeated Point, 43-12, for its first win as Mike Molloy and Matt Fallon won by decision, Stan Rosenberg and Brian Strausbaugh won by pins and Mike Connors, Mark Schatte, Paul Graham and Glenn McDonald won by default.

Sterling topped Central, 33-19, with Molloy winning by a pin, Fallon and Graham winning decisions and Connors winning by default for Central.

In the jayvee match Mark Laberge, John McCarthy, Stephen White and Brian McCarthy had wins for Central.

Atlantic topped Central, 33-24, after Central had rolled to a 24-0 lead. Central's winners were Molloy, Fallon, Stan Rosenberg and Strausbaugh. In junior varsity action Jim Sullivan, Mike Novak and Bill Eastwick had wins for Central.

High Chairs Can Be Dangerous

It happened in Philadelphia. A highly active 6-month old child was just about to be fed in his high chair when the doorbell rang. His mother left the child to answer the door. The hungry child rocked, rolled, and cried for his dinner. Ultimately, both the child and high chair toppled over. The child smashed against the stove resulting in a serious head injury requiring hospitalization.

Older high chairs may be dangerous to the children who use them. In one 18-month period, for instance, there were 485 reported injuries to babies who fell out of, tipped over or were caught in their high chairs.

Parents buying new high chairs should check the back or seat bottom for the "Approved High Chair" label recently established by the Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association. Models with the seal have been tested for, and do not display, such hazards as sharp edges, splinters, coils and dangerous holes. The chairs also resist tipping, collapsing and scissoring, and do not rely on the feeding tray to keep an infant securely in place.

CITY OF QUINCY

INVITATION FOR BIDS

Sealed proposals for the construction of the Houghs Neck Multi-Service Community Center will be received at the office of James J. Ricciuti, Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts until Twelve o'clock noon, E.S.T., Thursday, January 18th, 1979.

Sub-bids for Masonry, Roofing & Flashing, Glass & Glazing, Waterproofing & Caulking, Miscellaneous & Ornamental Iron, Ceramic Tile, Floor Covering, Acoustical Ceilings, Painting, Plumbing, Heating, Air Conditioning & Ventilating and Electrical Work shall be filed at the office of James J. Ricciuti, Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts until Twelve o'clock noon, E.S.T., Thursday, January 11th, 1979.

Bidding documents may be obtained at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts on or after 12:00 noon, Tuesday, December 19th, 1978, by depositing a certified check in the sum of Fifty Dollars, payable to the City of Quincy, for each set of documents. The full amount of the plan deposit will be refunded to all bidders returning plans and specifications in good condition within ten [10] days after the date of General Bid opening.

Bids for the project date are subject to the provisions of Section 44A to 44L, inclusive, Chapter 149, G.L. [Ter. Ed.] and Section 39M, Chapter 30, of the General Laws, as amended.

The work to be performed under this contract is on a project assisted under a program providing direct Federal financial assistance from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and is subject to the requirements of Section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 as amended 12 U.S.C. 1701 U. Section 3 requires that to the greatest extent feasible opportunities for training and employment be given to lower income residents of the project area and contracts for work in connection with the project be awarded to business concerns which are located in or owned in substantial part by persons residing in the area of the project.

The project is subject to the minimum wage rates established by the Department of Labor and Industries, Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the Federal Wage Rates of the Davis-Bacon Act, whichever is greater.

Bid Security requirements for General and Sub-bids and complete instructions for filing bids are included in the Instruction to Bidders Section of the specifications.

The right is reserved to waive any informality in or to reject any or all bids, if it be in the public interest to do so.

Hospital Audit Findings To Be Disclosed Jan. 8

By TOM HENSHAW

There will be a special meeting of the City Council Monday, Jan. 8, at 6:30 p.m. to begin the process of settling, once and for all, the administration and financial problems of City Hospital.

Touche Ross, the Boston firm that has been conducting a systems audit of the Hospital under a $43,000 contract, will present its findings and make recommendations at that time.

Mayor Tobin said he has asked Council President John J. Quinn to call the special meeting and Quinn agreed that speed was necessary to put the short range recommendations in action as soon as possible.

Tobin declined to disclose any of the Touche Ross findings or recommendations until the Council had first been apprised of them.

The Mayor said he discussed the Touche Ross report with Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco, Comptroller John Fantucchio and the Board of Managers "and basically they agree it's a good in-depth report."

"I want to make it clear that we're not pointing a finger at anyone," said Tobin, "but there are some things I found alarming to me. I'm concerned."

The Mayor said he will not

Tobin To Make Mid-Term Address 'Accounting' Jan. 2

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin will begin his second year in office Tuesday, Jan. 2, with a mid-term address in which he will compare the promises he made in his inaugural with his accomplishments of the past year.

The mid-term ceremonies, including the reorganization of the City Council and its first meeting of the new year, will take place at 10 a.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

Tobin declined to preview the contents of his address but he said "the mid-term is to make an accounting to the people and show that there are politicians who can make a statement and come back and say, 'This is what I did.'

"I'm proud to be able to say, 'This is what I said on Jan. 3, 1978, and now on Jan. 2, 1979, I'm making this accounting of my stewardship. Judge me on what I said and what I did."

The mid-term ceremonies will be called to order by City Clerk John Gillis at 10 a.m.

The Rev. William McCarthy of St. John's Church will give the invocation.

Mayor Tobin will deliver his mid-term address.

The Rev. Roger A. Kvam of First Presbyterian Church will give the prayer for guidance.

The City Council will nominate and elect a clerk of committees who will be sworn in

Income Tax Refunds

State Has Money For 78 Residents

Seventy-eight Quincy residents are among 6,968 state tax payers whose 1977 income tax refunds were returned to the Massachusetts Department of Revenue because the Post Office was unable to locate them at the addresses on their returns.

The state has refunds totaling $515,767.90 waiting for these taxpayers, according to Revenue Commr. Robert J. Kane. The refunds range from $1 to a high of $32,093.

Those listed are requested to complete State Tax Form M-3911 and return it to the Collections Bureau, Room 300, Saltonstall, 100 Cambridge St., Boston 02204. Copies of the form may be obtained by calling in person or writing to the bureau.

Kane said additional information or assistance may be obtained by telephoning a special listing at 727-4459.

Quincy residents on the list are:

Doris Y. Aubrey, 59 Pond St.; Bruno P. Bimmler; Jadklyn O. Bonang, 115 Phillips St.; Bruce Brunner, 67 Dayton St.; Joseph G. Buckley, 179 Presidents Ln; Cheryl A. Waste Basket Fire Sets Off Sprinklers In Downtown Building

Tenants of 6 Maple St., Quincy Center, and customers of Maxwell's Parrot Restaurant now know that the sprinkler system works anyway.

Fire in a waste basket in an unoccupied office on the second floor touched off the sprinkler system at 3 a.m. Christmas morning, causing water damage and little else.

A Fire Department spokesman said the sprinkler had put out the fire before firefighters arrived.

Edward Coyle, owner of Maxwell's Parrot, said water damage to the new lounge at the corner of Maple and Hancock Sts. was cleaned up and the bar opened for business Tuesday night.

Origin of the fire was undetermined and there was no estimate of damage.

Fabrizio Returns To Court Friday For Ouster 'Clarification'

Ousted assessor Hugo Fabrizio will be back in Norfolk Superior Court tomorrow [Friday] seeking a "clarification" of Judge John Paul Sullivan's dismissal of his suit against Mayor Tobin.

Fabrizio had claimed that he was fired without cause; that the Mayor did not follow the steps outlined in the city charter; and that the procedure followed could not result in his termination.

Judge Sullivan disagreed flatly with Fabrizio's contentions.

Fabrizio's attorney, Kevin Keating, said the request for clarification is based on a newly uncovered 68-year-old case involving the city of Revere.

In that case, he said, it was ruled that, once he has taken the oath of office, an assessor is answerable only to the state and is no longer an official of the city.

In his ruling dismissing Fabrizio's claims, Judge Sullivan said:

"The language of the statute authorizes the Mayor to remove an individual in the position of the plaintiff by following the procedure outlined in the statute.

"There is no disagreement as to what happened here because it is beyond dispute that the statutory procedure was followed.

"The plaintiff argues that the procedure followed could not result in a final termination.

"The Court disagrees and [Tobin's] motion to dismiss will be allowed with respect to counts one and two."

A third count, in which Fabrizio claimed he was libeled by Tobin in reports of his dismissal carried in the Patriot Ledger, the Boston Herald American and The Quincy Sun, also was dismissed.

"The publication appears not to be defamatory," said Judge Sullivan.

"The language attributed to the defendant mayor is not uncommon in the political give-and-take of partisan municipal government.

"Read as a whole and reasonably interpreted, these newspaper accounts would not discredit the plaintiff in the minds of a considerable and respectable class of the community ...."

'The Great Blizzard' The Big News Story Of Year

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin was both pleased and relieved.

"It was the worst January storm in our history," he said, "yet we managed to keep the main streets open and avoid a major catastrophe."

It was Saturday, Jan. 21, and Quincy was buried under 22 inches of drifting snow and the MDC's Quincy Shore Drive was blocked by abandoned cars and the MBTA's Red Line was shut down completely and stranded commuters from down the shore were living in the Lincoln-Hancock School.

And Quincy hadn't seen nuthin' yet.

Monday, Feb. 6, dawned gray and menacing. It started to snow in the morning. By noon, it was coming down heavy. By mid-afternoon it was apparent that this was not just another February snow storm. By early evening....

"About 9 o'clock," said Larry Mirick of Houghs Neck, "just before the lights went out, I went to step off the porch and I was up to my waist in water. It was then I realized we really had a problem going here."

Mirick's problem, shared with 91,000 other folks in Quincy, was the Great Storm of February, 1978, which some called a blizzard, a terrifying day and night of wind and snow and battering sea that brought the state of Massachusetts to a standstill for a week.

Mirick and his wife, Doris, lived at 126 Turner St., just around the corner from Edgewater Drive, where a low concrete seawall held back the sea. They moved everything upstairs. At 10:30 p.m., at the height of the tide, Mirick went down stairs. He was up to his knees in water in the living room.

"I looked out the front porch and I could see the sea wall. It was well lit by the new lights down there. The sea wall was completely under water. It was about two feet over the sea wall and the waves were crashing against the houses.

"I'll never forget those lights. I never saw them so bright as they were that night. You could see the whole ocean right in here. When I saw my front porch going I thought that was it. I thought the house was next.

"We stayed here all night. Every time a wave hit the side of the house it would shake. We sat on the bed together upstairs in the little bedroom. I must have said the Lord's Prayer 20 times in a row."

Dennis Doherty, a fourth grade pupil in Atherton Hough School, Houghs Neck, saw it from the perspective of a 9-year-old boy.

"My mother sat the five of us down to tell us how serious the storm would be and how we must act as a family to keep Nana and our home safe until Dad got home," he said.

"We lost our electricity and didn't get it back until Thursday morning. Mom and Jimmy gave candles to the neighbors who are old and alone. They banked the snow around our house to slow the water down.

"After the storm when my father came home we cooked meals for neighbors and brought them water because their pipes were frozen and shovelled them out.

"God was good to us because He brought Dad home safe and we didn't lose our house."

At 5 a.m., Tuesday, while the storm was still blowing, James [Jay] Asher, head of Radio Station WJDA, walked to work

It's Quinn! Harrington?

Looking ahead to the 1979 City Council, there seems to be one big exclamation point and one equally big question mark.

Put the exclamation point after the name of John Quinn and the question mark after that of Dennis Harrington.

Quinn is a sure-thing to be re-elected City Council president. Harrington, however, is no longer a certainty to fill the council seat to be vacated in January of Senate-elect Paul Harold.

It could go to former Councillor Joseph Brett instead.

Harrington, who was runner-up in the three-seat City Council at-large race last year, can have the Harold seat for the asking.

The eight remaining councillors will elect Harold's successor as the city charter stipulates. And, Harrington who is now an assistant city solicitor, has more than enough votes among the eight to get the nod.

But, as of this writing, Harrington is not sure he now really wants it and his burning interest in it some weeks ago seems to be cooling off.

If his final decision is "no, thank you"--and it's beginning to look like that's what it may be--why the turnabout?

Main reason, it appears, is family responsibilities. He will soon have three children of college entrance age. His salary as an assistant solicitor [$19,000] plus his private law practice will help him put them through college a lot easier than the combination of a private law practice and $3,000 City Council pay check.

Harrington has given thought in the past to running for mayor. The city council is the ideal launching pad for a mayoral campaign but he doesn't seem to be too enthused about even that at the moment.

He's young enough, however, [early 30's] to bide his time and wait for the right year to seek the mayor's office from within or outside the council chamber.

Harrington is wrestling with the decision now and time is running out.

A special meeting of the City Council is scheduled for Jan. 8 for the election of Harold's successor. Harold will resign at the Jan. 2 council organizational meeting.

If Harrington bows out, Brett would seem to have the inside track. The former councillor and state representative finished behind Harrington in last year's council race.

The present council seems to be leaning toward someone who ran for the office, although non-candidates are eligible.

If someone asks Brett if he's interested, the answer is "Yes."

THE RE-ELECTION OF Quinn as council president at the Jan. 2 meeting, may have an historic footnote to it.

It may mark the first time a council president has been elected while absent.

Quinn and his wife, Lorraine, are flying out to Pasadena to see their son, Gary, play for Michigan against USC in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. It is doubtful they will be back in time for the Jan. 2 morning meeting.

Councillor Leo Kelly has been named acting council president and will preside over the organizational meeting agenda which will include the election of the council president and Mayor Arthur Tobin's mid-term address.

HERE'S ONE: Howard Gunnison of the Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home in Quincy, thinks taxes are really getting out of hand.

He owns a two-acre tract in Sidney, Maine about 10 miles north of Augusta. And he just received this year's tax bill: 80 cents.

"That's an increase of 13 cents over last year," says Gunnison. "And when I bought the land five years ago, the bill was only 62 cents."

It means, he points out, that his tax bill has skyrocketed 18 cents in just five years.

"I tell you," insists Howard, with tongue in cheek, "if the bill gets up to $1 I may sell."

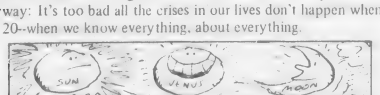
TAXPAYERS MIGHT BE interested in how Quincy was saved $97,000.

The low bid on the first phase of a water main replacement program was $239,000. That was $88,000 under the engineering estimate and $97,000 less than the second low bidder.



The low bidder had done two previous jobs for the city in a satisfactory manner, but, unfortunately, this time he was unable to obtain a bond to assure performance.

Rather than lose $97,000 by awarding the contract to the second bidder, Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti and Water Supt. Owen Eaton obtained a chattel mortgage on the low bidder's equipment, secured two letters of credit, each for $100,000, as a guarantee, and gave him the contract.

"In effect," said Ricciuti, "we bonded him ourselves."

SMILE DEPT: I forget now who said it, but I'll pass it along, anyway: It's too bad all the crises in our lives don't happen when we are 20--when we know everything, about everything.

Next to the sun and the moon, Venus is the brightest object in the sky.

Thank You, Kids

We're Snowed Under By 'What Christmas, Chanukah Means To Me'

Kids, you overwhelmed us.

We asked you students in the Quincy public elementary and junior high schools to contribute your thoughts on "What Christmas Means To Me" and "What Chanukah Means To Me."

And, we got swamped!

We were pleased with the response. But we are sorry we could not use all the items.

In last week's Quincy Sun, we ran a special 15-page section containing some 200 or so of these articles and poems.

But space prevented us from using more than 300 other items which were just as good as the ones we did use.

It was just impossible to get them all in. We hope you youngsters, teachers, parents and grandparents will understand.

We would like to acknowledge, however, the youngsters who submitted articles that could not be used [Including a few of you who forgot to put your names on your articles.]

To the following more than 300, who submitted articles we could not use, we would like to say "thank you, sincerely," and a Happy New Year to you all.

New Emblem For Girl Scouts

A new emblem for Girl Scouts of the USA was introduced recently by the Blue Hill Girl Scout Council, Quincy, replacing the basic three leaf clover used by the organization since 1914.

The new design for the Scouts, the world's largest volunteer organization for girls, features a stylized silhouette of girls' profiles on a green three leaf clover. The words "Girl Scouts" accompany the emblem in blue typeface.

Local council president Patricia Bakker explained, "We believe it is important to call attention to the distinctive contemporary identity of Girl Scouts. The new emblem is designed to do this."

The emblem was designed by Saul Bass/Herb Yager & Assoc. who have crested identity programs for corporations such as A.T.&T., United Airlines and Quaker Oats, as well as for the United Way.

The Blue Hill Girl Scout Council is a United Way Agency and a member of the Norwood United Fund, serving girls in 19 communities south and west of Boston.

To Start In January

CETA Gets $479,000 For Skills Training Program

Quincy CETA has obtained a $479,000 grant to establish a Skills Training Improvement Program (STIP) to train the unemployed as orthotics and prosthetics technicians.

Mayor Arthur Tobin said the training will begin in mid-January and will be offered on a full-time basis Monday through Friday for 15 months at the CETA skills center, 11 Hayward St., North Quincy.

The skills learned will enable the trainee to work under the guidance of a practitioner making and repairing artificial limbs, braces and other orthopedic appliances.

Those eligible for the training program will fall into one of the following categories:

- Economically disadvantaged or at an income below Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area lower living standard for the area in which they reside.
- Unemployed for 15 of the last 20 weeks or a veteran unemployed since discharge.
- Receiving aid to families with dependent children. (AFDC).

Participants will receive a training allowance for each hour in class as well as a travel allowance.

Persons interested should apply at the CETA unit of the Division of Employment Security, 1433 Hancock St. Further information can be obtained by calling 773-3983.

In Case You Haven't Noticed

Fuel Oil Up 4.1 Cents In Quincy Area

Cost of home heating oil in Quincy and other communities of Norfolk County averages 54.6 cents a gallon, an increase of 4.1 cents since Oct. 1, according to a survey released Dec. 20 by the Massachusetts Energy Office.

Prices throughout the area ranged from 51.9 to 55.9 cents per gallon. The average price across the state is 54.9 cents, with the highest prices reported from Cape Cod, according to Henry Lee, director of the energy office.

The survey disclosed prices increased .5 cents in the first three weeks of December, and 4.5 cents over the course of the heating season.

The recent decision of OPEC nations to raise the price of crude oil 14.5 percent during 1979 will have an impact on fuel oil prices in Massachusetts in the near future.

"By phasing in the increase in four installments OPEC has allowed us to postpone most of the burden until the 1979 heating season," Lee said. "The actual increase for this season will be about one cent per gallon which should show up on consumers' bills sometime in January."

The impact on total heating oil expenses should be no more than $5 to $8 for the average family this heating season, Lee said. The energy office bases its figures on consumption of 1,450 gallons by the average consumer.

"The OPEC price increase is only one cent out of what looks like a six cent increase over the course of this heating season," Lee said. "Most of the remaining five cents will come from our own domestic refining industry."

Lee also noted the energy office is concerned that the major oil companies are predicting a four to five cent per gallon hike in gasoline prices as a result of the OPEC increase.

"It is our contention," he said that no more than an annualized three-cent per gallon increase can be justified and no more than a one cent increase can be justified on Jan. 1.

"The rhetoric of the oil industry seems to indicate that they are seeking to use the OPEC hike as an excuse to jack up prices way beyond the level justified by OPEC's actions," he said.

make any specific recommendations for legislation to the Council until the regular meeting Jan. 15 to give the councillors time to digest the report.

Tobin said the Touche Ross presentation will take between 45 minutes and an hour, showing "where we are right now, how they went about gathering the information and what they found."

Short range objectives, he said, will be to "zero in" on the continuing problem of accounts receivable.

In the long run, he said, "we feel it will strengthen the administration of the hospital to put in new rules and regulations and guidelines and just turn things around."

"This is the first in-depth systems audit undertaken up there and I assured them that it will not be studied to death and filed away but that we will do something about it," said Tobin.

"I'll tell the City Council that we have a choice of action. We can sit back and close our eyes, as has been done in the past, or we can take bold steps and present both the information and recommendations."

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Blue Hills Checked As United Nations Site

Quincy was marshalling its forces in an attempt to have the United Nations Organization build its permanent headquarters on a 25 square mile tract in the Blue Hills.

Dec. 28, 1945 - Jan. 3, 1946
33 Years Ago This Week

A UNO fact-finding committee was due in Boston in mid-January to examine sites and the Blue Hills location was expected to get a boost from Gov. Maurice Tobin.

"It is significant that the committee is committed to spending five whole days viewing sites around Greater Boston," said Russell W. Frey, secretary of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

Quincy people who were to meet with the UNO committee included Mayor Charles A. Ross, Council President Christian A. Burkhard, Rep. Avery W. Gilkerson [R-Quincy] and Frey.

QUINCY EDGES HINGHAM

Ed [Cookie] Needel and John Killilea scored five points each as the Quincy High School basketball team built up a 10-6 lead at the end of three quarters and hung on for an 11-10 win over Hingham.

Bob Basiliere led Hingham with four points.

NEW YEAR'S REVELS

Quincy revellers spent New Year's Eve at the following local night spots:

The J and J, 80 Copeland St., West Quincy, where Phyllis entertained on her Rippling Accordion with Johnny and Mario. $2.50 per person.

The Anchor Inn on Wollaston Boulevard, with dancing to Val Perry's orchestra; and the newly renovated Alpine Cafe, 33 Independence Ave., South Quincy, where Johnny and Phyllis were performing.

The Roadside Cafe, 619 Washington St., Quincy Point, with Art Bossy and his Rhythm Ramblers; and the Knotty Pine Room of Walsh's Cafe, 6 Billings Rd, Norfolk Downs, George Able's Orchestra.

And there was the midnight show at the Strand: "The Dolly Sisters", starring Betty Grable, John Payne and June Haver; and "The Spider", with Richard Conte and Faye Marlowe.

2 New Programs At Atlantic Center

Two new programs will begin the week of Jan. 1 at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center.

"Time Out", a program for mothers of pre-school children will meet Thursday morning at 10 a.m. Under the direction of Carol Peterson, this eight-week program is designed to give "time out" for mothers in this season of snow and sleet and housebound toddlers. Each program is centered on a topic of special interest. This week's will feature ideas for evenings out on a limited budget. Child care is provided on the premises and one can call the Center to register.

"Pounds Away", a new diet support group, will usually meet Mondays. Due to the holiday, this group, will meet Tuesday from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. this week only. Each class has a brief lecture with group participation and includes a sharing of recipes and diet hints. To register for this program, call or drop by the Center.

Wednesday is Senior Day, under the direction of Mary Travers. Seniors come at 10:30 for knitting and crocheting. There is a brown bag lunch at noon followed by beano from 1 to 3 p.m.

On Friday there is a blood pressure clinic from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. This is done by Gretchen Bumpus, R.N. and is a free service for Atlantic residents.

The Paperback Book Swap is available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m daily. There is a varied selection of paperback books which residents are free to take in exchange for used paperbacks they bring.

For information about programs, or services offered by the Center, drop by 150 East Squantum St., or call Jane Ford, Director at 328-1708.

Shirley Dunbar Co-Author Book On Tenore Plan

Shirley E. Dunbar, 28 Greene St., Wollaston, a faculty member at Bunker Hill Community College, Charlestown, has co-authored a book "One Step Beyond: A Systems Approach to Personalized, Individualized Instruction" to be published this week by Berkshire Community Press of Pittsfield.

Miss Dunbar and Elizabeth J. Tenore, director of the learning center and a professor of behavioral science at the college, explore the Tenore Plan, a program which has been called a "bellweather of what is to come in this field".

The principle aspect of the plan is that students proceed at the pace they select themselves. The authors point out that since they are only competing with themselves, students are highly motivated to succeed and have been shown to dramatically improve their study skills.

Bryan McGilvary In Students 'Who's Who'

Bryan McGilvray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGilvray, of Ashworth Rd., Squantum, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for 1977-1978.

A senior at North Quincy High School, Bryan is a member of the varsity football, hockey and golf teams.

He is an honor roll student and was selected for the 1978 Waltham News Tribune All Scholastic Team and Boston Globe Suburban League All Star Team.

Bryan also participated in the American Legion Boy's State.

After graduation, he hopes to attend Mass. Maritime Academy.

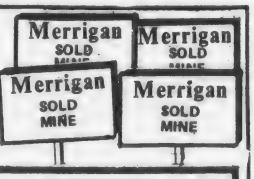
Vasile Completes Second Edition Of College Textbook

Albert J. Vasile of Wollaston, an associate professor at Bunker Hill Community College, Charlestown, has completed the second edition of his college textbook entitled "Speak With Confidence".

The book, published by Withrop Publishers of Cambridge, is on sale at college campuses in 29 states. The first edition is already in its third printing.

The author is also founder and owner of Albert J. Vasile and Associates of Quincy, radio and television advertising consultants.

The second edition will have sections on speaking into a microphone and talking on the telephone.



Sgt. William Carney Receives Air Assault Badge

Sgt. William R. Carney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Carney of 18 Berlin St., Wollaston, recently was presented the Air Assault Badge upon graduation from the Air Assault School at Fort Campbell, Ky.

Trainees learned to rapidly and safely exit a helicopter from a variety of difficult situations. Whether descending into tree tops or lowering themselves or injured soldiers down sheer drops, the graduates are highly proficient.

Carney entered the Army in 1974. He is a 1973 graduate of Norfolk County Agricultural High School.

The Blizzard's Blessing: 'It Brought The People Of Our City Together'

down Route 3A in an eerie, frightening setting.

"It was like an adventure out of Star Wars," he recalled. "A blinding snowstorm, no cars, no lights, except every now and then an electrical transformer would short and there would be a brilliant blue flash."

Precise final figures are not yet in, and may never be, but it went something like this: Winds up to 90 miles an hour. Snow to a depth of 26 inches, the heaviest fall since the Boston Weather Bureau began keeping records in 1870. An estimated $70 million in damage. Some $600,000 for snow removal. But no lives lost.

"This is something that happens once in a hundred years," said Police Capt. Roy Cavicchi. "I've been on the force 25 years and I've never seen anything like it."

There were tales of heroism, escape and high adventure.

Snow mobilers patrolled Quincy Shore Drive, snowbound once again, for stranded motorists and found them in large numbers, including one man who was trapped for six hours in his now-covered car.

"We almost missed him," said Norman Forde, one of the snow mobilers. "The snow was sweeping in from the bay and had completely covered his car. In fact, we nearly went over the top of it."

Sylvester Ray of Marshfield, whose heavy equipment was hired to clear the streets of Houghs Neck, wound up in the Edgewater Drive section, lifting people from the second floors of their homes in the bucket of a front end loader.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon opened the Vo Tech School kitchen to storm fighters, fed 1,400 on Wednesday, 700 on Thursday and, when food ran out, a Marine Corps bulldozer was dispatched to the old Lincoln School to break through to the commissary.

The Red Line broke down under drifts 18 feet deep on the tracks and all but the most essential traffic was barred from the streets under a state of emergency declared by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis and not until Monday, Feb. 13, was it lifted in Quincy.

The Quincy Sun came out Friday, Feb. 10, a day late; the Patriot Ledger failed to publish on Tuesday for the first time in years; WJDA went off the air four hours Tuesday when the tide rose on its transmitter in Germantown, but the station stayed on the air after sundown broadcasting emergency messages.

School was cancelled for the week while a Federal Disaster Assistance field office was set up in the Vo Tech gym and the Red Cross turned part of Quincy High School into an emergency disaster center and refugees were housed in the Houghs Neck school.

"There is always some good that comes out of every happening," said Mayor Tobin, "and the blessing of this blizzard was that it brought the people of our city together."

Harold Upsets Tobin To Take State Senate Seat

The Great Storm of February was the top story of the year in Quincy, but the election, particularly the upset defeat of Sen. Tobin by City Councillor Paul D. Harold, was not far behind

Tobin started the year at the top of the heap, fresh from a victory over controversial Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia that made him the chief executive of Quincy as well as its state senator.

But Harold thought he detected a flaw in the rolling Tobin bandwagon. A poll showed him that the people of Quincy were far from enthused over their Mayor holding down two jobs. The charges of corruption pinned to the LaRaia administration had out weighed the two job issue in the 1977 Mayoral battle.

Harold announced for the senate in May, outlining his one great issue thusly:

"I am running because I believe the 150,000 residents of this district deserve and require a fulltime state senator. The incumbent, as both mayor of Quincy and state senator, cannot adequately protect the interests of his constituents nor properly perform the numerous and complex duties of a senator."

Tobin, who had held the post of state senator since 1971, announced for re-election in July, saying:

"The question is not the number of jobs. The question is whether the senator occupying the seat is doing the job and solving problems for the people."

Harold, it turned out, was right. He parlayed the two job issue into a 17,106 to 15,348 victory over Tobin in the Democratic primary in September in the district that included Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon. He led 11,626 to 10,645 in Quincy.

"It's quite obvious that the people listened to the two-job issue," said a dejected Tobin. "If the people in the surrounding towns were concerned over the fact that I held two jobs I could accept their thinking.

"The sad part is that the very people who put me into the office that created the two-job issue turned against me. I sacrificed my senate seat to help turn the city around and that's the thing that hurt."

Harold went on to score a lopsided 29,071 to 5,378 victory over Republican Jens Thornton of Squantum in November.

The year 1978 saw the end of the long political career of Cong. James A. Burke [D-Milton], who was Quincy's man in Washington for 20 years. Burke, 67 and ailing, recently had his left foot amputated in an attempt to arrest a diabetic condition.

"If my prosthesis works out all right; if my blood pressure and heart and everything is normal; there'll be no question but that I'll run again," he told The Quincy Sun in early April. "If things don't work out, I'll just walk out of here with my head up."

Things didn't work out. A week later, Burke announced that he would not run for an 11th term.

Even before Burke's announcement, there was a hat in the ring. Quincy City Councillor and Rep. James A. Sheets declared his intent in January with a carefully worded statement that considered Burke's popularity in the district.

"We are in this all the way," he said, "no matter who runs. We feel there is a mood for change. That doesn't necessarily mean rejection of any person."

Congressman Burke Retires, Donnelly His Successor

The key to the election of a Burke successor appeared to be James R. McIntyre, former Mayor of Quincy and state senator. A few years ago, McIntyre would have been the odds on choice. But he had been out of the spotlight for six years and there were family considerations.

"When we write down all the pluses and minuses, it comes out, 'Don't run!'" he told The Sun in late April. "But then the adrenalin starts pumping and the old fire horse is ready to go.

"Something I've always wanted to be was a congressman. Now, at the time of my life when it's opening up I have family responsibilities to take into serious consideration."

A week later he reached an agonized decision. It was 'no'.

"My emotions contradict it but logic prevails," he said, and, with that, announcements flew thick and fast.

There was Rep. Brian J. Donnelly [D-Boston], nephew of former Lt. Gov. Francis E. Kelly, who pointed to the fact that he had been born and raised in the 11th District.

"I haven't just read about the concerns of the people of the 11th District, I have shared them," he said.

The remark lay at the heart of the campaign for Donnelly, who recognized that his strongest opposition would come from Patrick H. McCarthy, the Randolph attorney who was born and raised in California, came to Massachusetts a dozen years before to go to school.

McCarthy, who lost to Burke in the 1976 primary by a margin of 39,869 to 29,719, and started running again the next day, made his formal announcement in May.

"The challenge of the 1980's," he said, "is to keep the basic necessities priced within the reach of the average family."

Patrick F. McDonough, a Boston city councillor for two decades, was next. He announced in June, seeking to reflect the popular Burke image in the predominantly blue collar district.

"While all three other major candidates were busy trying to force Jimmy Burke out of office, Pat McDonough was working with him on problems affecting our district," he said.

CONG. JAMES A. BURKE retired after 20 years as Quincy's man in Washington.

CONG.-ELECT BRIAN J. DONNELLY of Boston won the right to succeed James Burke in Congress in a field of six candidates.

The field was later filled out to six with the addition of Margaret R. Dinneen, a Milton attorney, and Sabina Kavanagh, a Quincy beauty parlor operator. Joseph P. McDonough and George Donovan, both Quincy attorneys, were ruled off the ballot when signatures on their nomination papers could not pass scrutiny.

The primary looked like a cliffhanger but, on the weekend before voters went to the polls, Burke, perhaps fearing that his old rival McCarthy was ahead, announced that he planned to vote for Donnelly. As it turned out, Burke's endorsement was not needed.

Donnelly overwhelmed the field, getting 38,880 votes, or 43 per cent of those cast. McCarthy had 18,112, Sheets 15,572, Dinneen 8,735, McDonough 7,596, and Kavanagh 1,355. Sheets won Quincy by 9,057 to 6,134 for Donnelly.

The Democratic nominee easily prevailed in November over H. Graham Lowry of Boston, the candidate of the U.S. Labor Party.

The election demonstrated how far the Republican party had fallen in Quincy since the 195G's when Republicans held virtually every local public office that called for party designation. Thornton, whom the GOP all but disowned, was the lone local Republican on the ballot.

William B. Golden, a Quincy attorney, challenged the long-entrenched [30 years] Patrick J. [Sonny] McDonough for the governor's council seat, starting with an attack on McDonough's legal residence before the State Ballot Law Commission.

Tobin Sworn In As Mayor, Promises 'New Beginning'

[Cont'd from Page 15]

While McDonough listed 135 Granite St., Boston, as his address, said Golden, "the center of his social, civic and domestic life" is in Marathon, Fla. McDonough called it "a cheap political trick."

The Ballot Law Commission turned Golden down in July and so did the voters in September.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy] turned back a bid by Dolores E. Nourse of Weymouth in the district that is shared by the city and the town. Cerasoli rolled up a 3,620 to 680 margin in Quincy, too much for the Weymouth vote to overcome.

Thomas P. Hughes of Quincy, a juvenile diversion officer in the office of Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt, scored an upset win over incumbent Paul C. Gay of Walpole to become the county's register of probate.

Quincy's Frank Bellotti, who spurned opportunings to run for the U.S. Senate ["There has to be one person in the state who's not going to Washington."] easily won a second term as attorney general.

Quincy Reps. Michael W. Morrissey and Thomas Brownell each were voted into new terms without opposition, as was Dist. Atty. Delahunt, another Quincy resident.

The voter turnout in Quincy for the September primary was 27,875 or 57.3 per cent of those registered, the largest primary voter showing in at least 20 years.

Tobin began the year promising the city "a new beginning" when he was sworn in as Quincy's 26th mayor on Jan. 3.

Only once did he allude to the controversial two-year administration of Mayor LaRaia, calling attention in passing to "the adversities and turmoil of recent months." LaRaia did not show up at the Vo Tech gym to see his successor inaugurated.

"As Mayor I want to unite our people and with a fresh spirit to launch our city on a new beginning," said Tobin.

"I thought it was good that he did not rake over the coals of the past two years," said City Councillor Francis X. McCauley, who was to become a Tobin critic on the Council. "I hope his 'new beginning' means that the last two years are behind us."

ARTHUR TOBIN [right] is sworn in as Quincy's 26th Mayor by City Clerk John Gillis.

The new Mayor set the tone of his coming regime right away, calling downtown revitalization "a must priority for this administration." He promised to "oversee development of plans for bringing new industry into Quincy."

On the same day, Joanne Condon was sworn in as the Council's second woman member and the first since Edna B. Austin retired in 1959. Mrs. Condon was given a bouquet of flowers to present to Mrs. Austin, currently residing in a Quincy nursing home.

John J. Quinn, a veteran of two decades on the Council, was elected president by his colleagues by a vote of 6-2 over Harold, with Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi refusing to explain his "present" vote.

"He has worked with his colleagues on the Council for 20 years," said Councillor Leo J. Kelly, nominating Quinn. "He understands the many diverse natures and ambitions of this particular Council and will work within that diversity to seek accomplishment."

Quinn promptly named Councillors Kelly, Sheets and John J. Lydon Jr. to what he called the "traditional" posts of vice president of the Council, although some longtime observers said they never heard of such jobs.

The School Committee also organized with Tobin as Chairman and Patricia Toland elected vice chairman – or chairwoman, as she preferred, not chairperson – after a brief objection by Committeeman John J. Sullivan was overruled by his peers.

Sullivan said he thought that the election of a vice chairman should be delayed until after a successor to McCauley, who had resigned at 9:59 a.m., Jan. 3, to be sworn into the Council, was selected.

The objection was voted down, 5-1, and Mrs. Toland was elected by the same margin, with the one dissenting vote, presumably Sullivan's, going to Joan Picard.

True to his inaugural word,

Baharian Sees 'Well Planned Apartment Development' In Future

the new Mayor devoted a large part of his energies to development, aided by the Rev. Bedros Baharian, whom he named citywide development director, and former Mayor Walter J. Hannon, who accepted the post of Planning Director.

In an interview with The Sun in May, Baharian saw the future of Quincy as "well planned apartment development" that will slowly raise the city to a population of 100,000 people in the next 15 years.

The crux of development in Quincy, he said, was the Upland Rd. Extension, connecting Quincy Center with the Southeast Expressway for easy access to the business district, and the so-called East-West

Connector, joining Granite St. to McGrath Highway.

At the same time, Hannon told the Quincy Business Council:

"The thrust of the Planning Department for the next two years is to be on the road selling the downtown business area."

And sell it did.

The Quincy Development Conference was held by Mayor Tobin in late May in the Neighborhood Club and potential developers sipped white wine and nibbled hors d'oeuvres and heard Baharian compare the value of Quincy today to the value of IBM stock in 1930.

"If you're wise," he said, "you'll get in on the ground floor."

Like a carnival pitchman, he had "a couple of bargain areas I want to offer you" -- the Della Chiesa and John Hancock Parking Areas.

"The city is willing to offer either or both of them to any developer on a lease basis for $1 a year as long as you give us a minimum of 200,000 square feet of new buildings on each space," he said.

At the same time, it was announced that the Tobin Administration's efforts had already landed a big one -- a $10 million home office building for the National Fire Protection Association on 42.5 acres of Pine Hill in West Quincy.

"Quincy has just what we seek in a new location," said Robert Grant, vice president of the NFPA, which had been based in Boston since 1896. "It's 15 or 20 minutes from downtown Boston but it has all the advantages of the city in a suburban atmosphere.

"It's got permanence. It's got leadership. It's attractive from a cost viewpoint. It has a full range of services and amenities from a nice downtown area to a very rural atmosphere."

When the deal was finalized in July, Baharian called it "the most important day in the history of this city since Jordan Marsh and State Street South and Kemper decided to come into our city."

Site preparation on the NFPA project was to start in March, 1979, construction in July, and the building was scheduled to be occupied in April, 1981.

It was sometime during the summer that Baharian's offer of a $1 lease on the Della Chiesa Parking Area began to bear fruit. Bit by bit, information filtered out until in mid-December, Tobin was able to make the announcement.

Campanelli Properties of Braintree was 90 percent set to build a $10 million, 10-story office building on the Della Chiesa lot and the prime tenant would be the offices of Stop and Shop Corp. Included in the plans was a $4 million parking garage to be constructed with federal funds over the MBTA tracks.

Tobin called it "a catalyst" to spark a revival of business in downtown Quincy.

"Downtown Quincy has been studied to death through the years," he said. "Now we are getting down to the nuts and bolts of making things happen."

$10 Million Downtown Office Building Planned

But making things happen was not without its problems.

In September, an exclusive report in The Sun that downtown businessmen were upset over the lack of information they were getting on the East-West Connector touched off a flurry of fence-mending meetings.

"All you get is bits and pieces," said Burt Cook of Tag's Sleep and Lounge Shop. "They draw maps that don't help you a helluva lot. I'll tell you I'm damned confused."

The merchants scheduled a meeting to coordinate their grievances and an angry Jack London of the Quincy Furniture Co. said: "No one from the Planning Department has been invited. I don't want them there."

Baharian and Hannon, fearing that unrest among the downtown merchants might endanger federal aid to the Upland Rd. Extension, moved hurriedly to smooth their ruffled feathers.

The businessmen wrung from the administration an agreement "in writing, signed, on official stationery" that it would not promote the East-West Connector until merchants and residents were dealt with to their satisfaction.

"We made a mistake on this one as far as communication goes," conceded Hannon.

"The thing we did wrong," added Baharian, "was not talk it over with you people. But it is not too late.

"Walter and I speak for the Mayor. The Mayor's office will guarantee that we will not put the section [of the connector] under Hancock St. in design or under construction if it is not wanted. If you do not want it, it is dead."

[Incidentally, the key to Quincy development may have been the Upland Rd. Extension when the year began but it was the Burgin Parkway Extension later on when Upland Rd. was renamed in honor of Thomas S. Burgin, longtime Mayor and civic leader.]

Late in December, a small cloud appeared over the Della Chiesa office building when Councillor McCauley who is also president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank, disclosed to the Council that the bank was negotiating to buy a building that it had leased on the site for the past 13 years.

McCauley said he started negotiations in 1977, long before the project was conceived, watched with some trepidation as rumors of the development spread, and finally, when they were confirmed, he took the problem to City Solicitor Robert J. Fleming.

Fleming suggested that McCauley's participation in any Council discussions and decisions on the project "would create a conflict of interest. I would further suggest that Councillor McCauley not participate in any manner."

Councillor Raymondi, saying he felt "betrayed or fooled," charged that McCauley had already taken part in discussions and even executive sessions about the project and demanded an investigation. He said he implied no wrong doing on the part of McCauley.

"But what are the people of Quincy going to think when they find out that the City Council has voted for a $4 million federal grant and authorized the Mayor to give tax concessions to a developer and a councillor is president of the bank that happens to buy the land right in front of that development?" Raymondi said.

The matter was sent to the district attorney's office for a ruling.

McCauley's resignation from the School Committee touched off a scramble to succeed him.

The Mayor, the City Council and the remaining members of the School Committee, who were to select the successor, asked candidates to submit resumes for the job and 11 candidates, including veteran committeemen Frank Anselmo and Charles Sweeny, who finished fourth and fifth respectively in the 1977 school race, sent them in.

The voting was headed toward a deadlock when Sweeny suddenly withdrew his name and threw his support to Anselmo, who was elected on the first ballot.

"I saw the way things were developing," said Sweeny. "If I did not withdraw some person who had never run before might have been elected. I did not think that was proper."

FRANK ANSELMO
Returned to School Committee

"Charlie Sweeny acted like the gentleman that he is," said Anselmo.

The early months of the Tobin administration were marked by controversy. There was the big hullabulloo over the alleged "secret meeting" between Tobin and the City Council, followed quickly by the Great Overtime Debate.

The "secret meeting" took place Feb. 21 when Tobin and members of his staff and councillors met over sandwiches and coffee on the third floor of City Hall to discuss the city's financial predicament. Press and public were barred, which sent Patriot Ledger Editor Donald C. Wilder to the county seat.

Dist. Atty. Delahunt called the meeting a violation of the Open Meeting Law. City Solicitor Richard W. Barry called it "no violation .... a dinner briefing," adding: "This office shares your concern if not your meal to see that the Open Meeting Law is complied with."

"Call it what you want but it's still a meeting in which public matters were deliberated," said Councillor Harold, who attended the meeting and then, with McCauley, criticized it.

Nevertheless, Delahunt filed a complaint charging an open meeting law violation but Norfolk Superior Court Judge Henry Chmielinski ordered Tobin's name removed from it because, said Solicitor Barry, "he didn't call the City Council meeting."

"How come the Mayor is getting off the hook here and we're left holding the bag?" demanded McCauley and Barry promised that he would defend the Council with "the same vigor" with which he defended the Mayor. The case was pending at year's end.

The Great Overtime Debate got underway when anonymous letters were sent to some city councillors and the news media claiming that certain high city officials and their relatives were on the city payroll for inordinate amounts of overtime for working during the February storm that shut down the city.

Among the city officials named were Recreation Director Charles Alongi, Asst. City Solicitor Dennis E. Harrington, Public Works Commissioner James J. [Pete] Ricciuti, and former Mayor Hannon, who had not yet been appointed planning director.

Payroll records also showed that Tobin's sons, Mark and Stephen; Hannon's daughters, Elizabeth and Susan; and Ricciuti's daughter, Janice [who did not accept her check], worked for the city during the storm.

Tobin, detailing the jobs that each performed in the emergency, called the letters "hate mail".

"You're dealing with information that was taken clandestinely from the city files by people who worked in the previous administration to insinuate that there has been some big ripoff," said Tobin.

"They singled out my sons but no mention was made of my wife and two teen-aged daughters who manned emergency telephones. They didn't receive any compensation. They didn't request any.

"I worked around the clock myself and so did the executive secretary [George Rfley], the city solicitor, the city treasurer and the city auditor. We did not request nor receive anything but stale donuts.

"What I did I would do again

City Tax Rate

tomorrow. I did nothing wrong."

When Councillor Harold proposed that his Oversight Committee look into the overtime, Ricciuti called him "a summer soldier who is acting on what has been said by allegations in an anonymous hate letter."

"The city of Quincy is a workingman's city," said Harrington. "I don't think the people expect anybody to work for nothing."

Ricciuti and City Clerk John Gillis returned some of the overtime they received but the City Council balked when Sewer Supt. Russell P. Eranio tried to give back the $447.02 that he was paid. Said an angry Councillor Raymondi:

"A negative vote is a vote to stand behind the dedicated city employees who have been kicked around for the past two or three months and I'm tired of it."

The city faced grave financial problems as the year began.

Very early, Tobin estimated that there would be at least a $4 million deficit left over from the LaRaia administration and the figure was later revised upward to $7 million.

When the Mayor presented a $94.8 million budget to the City Council, he also asked approval of a 5-year, $6.7 million bond issue to cover the "inherited deficit," and without which there could be as much as a $40 tax rate increase.

"This bold approach," said Tobin, "caused raised eyebrows at first among the banking fraternity. We held a pre-bid conference and answered all inquiries. The people in the banking industry were very impressed with what we are trying to do in Quincy."

On the contrary, said McCauley, it was "a tired old approach," one that was used in 1973 when a $2.5 million borrowing to pay teachers' salaries "marked the beginning of Quincy's financial problems."

"If I do cast a 'yes' vote, it will be with great reluctance," he said.

"In the past," said Councillor Harold, "we haven't known the financial picture of the city until the day the tax rate was set. We won't know until the end of the fiscal year, June 30. We may not have to borrow $6.7 million."

Eventually, a $94.4 million budget was passed and so was the bond issue after McCauley's bid to leave the order in committee until a precise deficit figure was available was voted down.

"I look at the bond issue and the budget as a package," said Councillor Stephen J. McGrath. "If we pass the budget and don't pass the bond issue we will be faced with a $40 tax rate. The people in my ward wouldn't take that."

Budget restraint plus the bond issue [later raised by $700,000 to include an added hospital deficit] plus a $2.5 million increase in state aid enabled Tobin to announce a $196.60 tax rate, down 60 cents from the previous year, only the fourth tax cut in the past 35 years.

"We feel that we are in reasonably good shape going into next year; in fact, we're even looking forward to next year," said Tobin and Gov. Dukakis, invited to Quincy to share the happy moment, beamed his approval.

With all the local offices decided in the September primaries, the big issue confronting the voters in the November election was Referendum Question No. 1, the so-called Classification Amendment, which would permit communities to value residential, business and industrial properties and open space at different rates.

The alternative is 100 per cent valuation, said Tobin, an ardent supporter of classification. If the amendment does not pass, he said, under 100 per cent valuation, it would cost Quincy taxpayers $700 to $900 in real estate taxes.

Quincy voters got the message, voting for classification by a nearly 5-1 margin, and so did the rest of the state.

The old problem of the North Quincy High School addition and renovation, the one that was settled in 1977, was settled again in 1978, this time apparently for good.

When we looked in on the North Quincy project in December, 1977, the school was on double sessions; the addition was to be turned over to the School Department in June 1978 for student entry in September and a normal schedule was to be resumed in September, 1979.

By January, however, it was discovered that the work was at least two months behind. That could mean, said School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, the renovation might not be completed until January, 1979 "which will mean two more years of double sessions and if there is a further foul up then we could go into a third year."

Tobin called the situation "a mess", and asked a moratorium on loose talk about the project until a task force could "document the happenings at North Quincy High School in order to specify existing problems and prescribe the alternative courses to be considered."

It turned out that the chief problem apparently was Kent Corp., the construction management firm that was hired by the city during the LaRaia administration to "fast track" the North Quincy work.

"It hasn't been a successful project," said William Ambrose of Blount Brothers, the contractor. "The relationship [with Kent] has not been the greatest."

"The city would benefit by terminating the Kent Corp.," said Public Works Commissioner Ricciuti.

MAYOR TOBIN and Gov. Michael S. Dukakis were happier than they look when Tobin announced a $196.60 tax rate for Quincy, down 60 cents from the previous year. Increased state aid helped lower the rate.

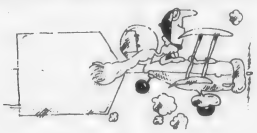
Sheldon Bennett, vice president of Kent, which had already received 80 per cent payment on its $310,000 contract plus expenses, conceded that the project was 78 days behind schedule and offered a plan to get it ready by Aug. 11.

Creedon called the idea "unrealistic" and the Tobin administration agreed and Kent was terminated in April. The dispute is now before an arbitrator.



The plan that eventually was adopted eliminated double sessions by switching some classes to Atlantic Junior High School and the Squantum School. It would cost the city an extra $315,000 but construction would be finished by Dec. 1979.

Members of the Parents Advisory Group toured the addition in June and liked what they saw.

"I guess all the ups and downs and meetings we went through was worth it," said Mrs. Mary Ann Mahony.

The Mayor raised another stir in October when he fired Assessor Hugo [Flip] Fabrizio, a LaRaia appointment whose term had 18 months to go, for

City Unites Against Noisy Jets From Logan Airport

"improper assessments resulting in a detriment to the city of Quincy."

The primary circumstance, Tobin indicated, was an increase in the assessment of State Street South property, which State Street took to the Appellate Tax Board where it could win a $2 million abatement from the city.

Fabrizio sued and, when his bid for a restraining order was denied, Tobin named Mrs. Patricia J. Ceriani to fill out his unexpired term. She was Quincy's first woman assessor.

The big continuing story through the summer was the problem of noise from airplanes taking off from Logan Airport.

It was explained that planes taking off from Runway 22 had been departing at 210 degrees over South Boston, 1½ miles from the end of the runway at from 1,000 to 1,500 feet, causing a "high level of noise exposure in South Boston."

The heading was changed to 195 degrees to reduce the noise in Southie but this brought the planes over Squantum, 4.75 miles from the end of Runway 22 at 3,500 to 4,000 feet. A further change to 180 degrees was little help for Quincy's eardrums.

A mass public hearing Aug. 9 in the Vo Tech gym drew 1,200 protesters as well as such heavyweights as Massport Director David Davis, Transportation Secretary Frederick P. Salvucci, Robert Whittington, regional director of the FAA, and Gov. Dukakis himself.

"I will accept the responsibility for the change in the environment that has happened here," said Davis. "I can look at you, somewhat uncomfortably it is true, and say that [the change] has resulted in a decrease in the level of noise for more people than are affected by the new pattern."

Translation: There is less noise for more people in South Boston and there is more noise for less people in Quincy, which was not what 1,200 people came to hear.

"I apologize for the lack of consultation," said Salvucci, "I promise you it will not happen again."

"I will personally involve myself very actively in this and make sure we move just as quickly as humanly possible to deal with this issue effectively," said a shirt-sleeved Gov. Dukakis.

The answers satisfied few if any in Quincy.

At year's end, Massport and the FAA were experimenting with a corkscrew turn in which planes took off from Logan, made a left turn and circled back over the airport, supposedly avoiding Quincy altogether. Results of the experiment were due in March, 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces on Franklin St., South Quincy, made the news twice last year.

The U.S. House approved the transfer of the two 17th Century houses from the city of Quincy to the National Parks System, which was better able to spend the estimated half million dollars needed to restore them to the prover shape.

"Under the aegis of the Parks Service, the two homes will be afforded the care and maintenance which they require," said Cong. Burke, who shepherded the takeover bill through the House with the help of Cong. Morris Udall [D-Ariz.], chairman of the Committee on the Interior.

One mid-summer Sunday morning, thieves smashed two panes of glass in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace and made off with a number of historic momentoes, among them the silk vest his mother made for John Adams for his wedding to Abigail Smith in 1764.

"There is really no monetary value to it," said Mrs. Margaret O'Connell, who is in charge of the Birthplaces. "Historically, of course, it's very valuable."

Two weeks later, two young cousins, Jonathan Brooks, 8, and Robert Kilnapp, 9, discovered the stolen articles rolled up in a braided rug behind the Alpine Cafe, about 300 yards from the house where they were stolen.

The possibility of a new Fore River Bridge, principally financed by the federal government, received a boost when Cong. Burke had the term "functionally obsolete" inserted into legislation designed to replace some 100,000 bridges around the country that are in danger of collapse.

"Passage of this bill is vital to the economic health and well being of General Dynamics which employs some 6,000 people in 159 of the state's cities and towns," said Gerald T. Reilly, president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, in support of the measure under which the federal government would pay 90 per cent of the cost of a $60 million bridge.

The problem was that the present clearance of the bridge, 175 feet, was too small for the huge new tankers the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard would have to build in order to remain competitive and the 40-year-old bridge was just too well built to qualify as in danger of collapse.

The Quincy yard delivered three more liquefied natural gas [LNG] tankers during 1978, for a total of five with five more to go and the General Dynamics annual report boasted:

"Quincy is aggressively developing new business opportunities in an effort to provide a balanced and stable workload into the 1980's."

But evidently it wasn't aggressive enough for in September it was announced that General Dynamics had lost a $287.8 million Navy contract to Litton Industries of Pascagoula, Miss., to build the first of 16 new destroyers and with it apparently lost a chance to build the other 15 under contracts totalling $14.1 billion.

An attempt by the U.S. Postal Service to transfer most of the services provided by the three Quincy post offices to an "incoming mail facility" in the Five Corners section of Braintree was beaten back, or at least delayed, by vociferous opposition led by Cong. Burke, who scored the service for its secrecy in the deal.

Pointing an angry finger at Philip L. Sullivan, sectional manager of the Boston Postal District at a well-attended public hearing, Burke shouted:

"There's an arrogance on the part of the Post Office! Since when have you been appointed dictator? Let me serve notice on the Post Office Department that you have to prove to me that you are going to save money; that you are going to improve the service!"

Later, the Post Office relented and Burke said that Frank Sommerkamp, northeast regional postmaster general, had assured him that the incoming mail facility had been placed on the back burner while an environmental impact study is made of the Braintree and the three Quincy post offices would would remain open.

The Quincy high schools held separate graduations and the star of the Quincy High-Vo Tech commencement exercises was Kim Dzung Vo, who had come to Quincy from Vietnam two and a half years before.

Speaking in "the language I have learned in two years at Quincy High School," she told her 433 fellow graduates:

"I go to sleep at night with no fear from bombs; no fear from communist invasion, no need to escape. The people I have met in Quincy have been kind, friendly, caring and helpful."

An exclusive story in The Quincy Sun stirred up a furor over the Ruth Gordon Ampitheater in Merrymount Park.

A total of $544,000 in federal CETA funds were spent on the rustic theater bowl and it was dedicated on New Year's Eve as one of the last official acts of the outgoing LaRaia administration. But in May it was still unfinished.

"The money is all spent and the completion date of the project was Jan. 13, 1978," said CETA's Gordon McPhee.

"It's a disgrace to the city," snapped Mayor Tobin after a tour of the facility.

CETA Director Paul Ricca, denying any improper use of the money, explained:

"We're not in the construction business. We're in the employment business. We put up the money for wages. We put up the money for materials. We can't supervise the project. People worked. Materials were delivered. Somebody signed for it. The bills were paid.

"Sure, we like to see money well spent but the primary purpose of CETA is employment."

On the sports page:

Quincy High School's hockey team made the quarterfinals in Boston Garden in the Eastern Mass Tournament for the first time by defeating unbeaten Don Bosco in a stunning upset.

"This has to be the brightest and most emotional moment in Quincy hockey history," said Coach Bob Sylvia.

The Presidents went all the way to the semi-finals before being eliminated by top-seeded Burlington with Jim Deitsch making 47 saves in the Quincy nets.

"He's by far the best goalie I've seen this year," said Burlington's scoring ace Jeff Cowles.

Tom Fitzgerald, a North Quincy grad and an assistant coach of the Raiders for the past nine years, was named head football coach at Quincy High School and promptly directed the Presidents to a 13-7 win over North in their Thanksgiving Day rivalry.

Mrs. Sybil Mattson, who was left paralyzed from the neck down by a polio attack in 1955, was faced with a bleak future when the Welfare Department terminated her home nursing care in October and the March of Dimes said it would have to end support payments in December.

After her plight was revealed by stories in The Quincy Sun, both the Welfare Department and the March of Dimes reconsidered and reinstated her aid and Mayor Tobin had a bill filed in the Legislature to guarantee her home care in the future.

The City Council, after eight years of study, finally passed an order taking the old swimming hole, Badger's Quarry in West Quincy, to be filled in "for the public convenience and necessity." The fill campaign was led by Councillor Sheets.

"I think that in celebration of your victory, councillor, the councillors should make it a standing vote," said Council President Quinn.

"My recommendation, Mr. President, is that they take a final swim," said Sheets.

Kathy Coletta, 23, of West Quincy, daughter of Gerard Coletta, executive assistant to Dist. Atty. Delahunt, was the only woman graduated with 83 men from the State Police Academy in Framingham. Eight women started the 20-week course; only Kathy finished.

The recreation room at Children's Hospital, Boston, was renamed in honor of Tommy Maher, the bartender from Quincy, who raised $150,000 in the past 10 years for the entertainment of youngsters confined to the hospital.

A seven-pound, 15-ounce boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Shaw of Germantown in City Hospital only 18 seconds after the New Year began. He was believed to be the first child born in Massachusetts in 1978.

The death of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) recalled to MDC Police Lt. Leo Q. Papile of Quincy the day in 1965 when he was Vice President Humphrey's driver on a visit to Boston and they talked about their mutual friend, Sam Mele.

A six-man team at Kurtzman's of Quincy, Volkswagen repair specialists, laid claim to a spot in the Guinness Book of Records by making a complete engine change in one minute, 37 seconds.

Some 3,500 unemployed filed 400 applications with more than 50 firms at the sixth annual Job Fair at State Street South. Timothy J. Reidy Jr., CETA training manager, said the Job Fairs had found jobs for more than 1,500 since 1973.

Sen. Tobin filed a resolve asking the President and the Congress to consider putting Abigail Adams, wife and mother of Quincy presidents, on the new silver dollar. But the gesture was in vain. Susan B. Anthony, women's rights leader, was chosen.

Telephone pledges continued on to $38,731 after the telethon was over and the fishbowl figure officially increased to $7,474.15

The annual Muscular Dystrophy telethon raised $46,480 in the Quincy-South Shore race for Jerry Lewis' Kids as more than 200 volunteers manned the telephones in South Shore headquarters at The Quincy Sun. Pre-telethon events raised another $30,745 for a two year total of $140,863.

The old Nike site in Merrymount Park was turned over to the city, paid for with a $386,000 federal grant, and became the new headquarters for the Quincy Park Department and the Conservation Commission.

The 1978 election was still on everyone's mind in early October when Gerald Nobile of Wollaston announced his candidacy for the City Council in Ward 3, thus becoming the first announced candidate for the city election in 1979.

MDC and Quincy Police arrested 71 persons on drinking charges on Wollaston Beach during one warm weekend in May and Rep. Brownell called the beach "the world's longest bar."

Mayor and Sen. Tobin, who pledged that he would not take the chief executive's salary if elected in 1977, set up the Arthur Tobin Charity Account, which gave away $3,000 between January and May. Tobin explained that the city had to pay the Mayor's salary, but he didn't have to take it.

Carmine D'Olimpio, president of the Quincy Building Trades Council, blamed Environmental Protection Agency studies for the fact that the state is "losing young men because of the lack of construction in Massachusetts."

A fire in a storage building in Hanover destroyed Christmas decorations owned by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, valued at about $35,000 and acquired over a period of seven years.

Kathleen Mann, 17, of Houghs Neck, a Quincy High School senior who hopes to work with retarded children, was selected Miss Quincy Bay of 1978 from a field of 38 contestants.

The Quincy Sun, "Quincy's own newspaper," celebrated its 10th birthday (Sept. 26) with a special 24-page supplement reviewing the past decade of Quincy history and printing a record 11,300 copies.

The Adams Shore branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library was ordered closed in the evenings because of uncontrollable rowdyism inside and outside the building. "It got to the point where absolutely no service was being given," said Library Director Warren E. Watson.

The Licensing Board denied a 2 a.m. closing permit and a game room permit for Le Disco in Parkingway, the first discotheque proposed for Quincy, after clergy, civic associations and city councillors protested.

Mary Pratt, a physical education teacher in Quincy schools and the city's all-time No. 1 female athlete, became the fourth woman inducted into the Hall of Fame at Boston University, where she was graduated from Sargent College in 1941.

Mrs. Elvera B. DeYoung, safety patrol officer at the Quincy School for the past 26 years, retired and calculated that she supervised 3.5 million safe crossings of Newbury Ave. during that time.

Sixteen Quincy residents were among 38 persons arrested in a July drug raid that Lt. Walter Lynch, head of the Quincy Police drug enforcement unit, called a significant blow to drug traffic on the South Shore.

The Quincy Junior Chamber of Commerce jumped to the defense of its six women members after the Jaycees national headquarters called off an experiment and ordered that the women be reduced to the status of "associate" members.

The Koch Club of Quincy, founded in 1948 by Executive Director Richard J. Koch, observed its 30th anniversary as a recreational, charitable and social organization with a dinner-dance at the Bryan VFW Post.

Prominent Residents Taken By Death During Year

Umberto Cardinal Medeiros was the chief celebrant of a diamond jubilee Mass commemorating the 75th anniversary of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, whose parish was founded in 1903.

The Rev. John McMahon, dean of Quincy priests with 14 years serving St. Mary's parish, was given a testimonial Mass and dinner by parishioners on his 35th anniversary as a priest.

United First Parish Church, built in 1828 with granite from the Adams Family quarry, observed its 150th anniversary with Thomas Boylston Adams as the main speaker.

A number of prominent Quincy people died during 1978. They were:

Robert M. Faxon, 69, president of the Faxon Trust, a descendant of one of Quincy's earliest families, well known as a fund raiser and man of many civic activities.

Judge Gertrude R. Halloran, 86 who was the first woman justice in Quincy District Court and only the fourth in Massachusetts when she was named by Gov. Charles Hurley in 1938.

Charles W. Hedges, 77, former city councillor, state rep, state senator and Norfolk County sheriff from 1960 to 1974; who delivered a nominating speech for Alf Landon in 1936.

Alexander Smith, 68, once a member of the Quincy School Committee who served as city auditor for 25 years until his retirement in 1975.

David J. Crowley, 71, who served in the City Council from Ward 1 from 1946-49 and as an at-large councillor under Plan E from 1950-55.

W. Edgar Wylie, 86, Boy Scout executive in Quincy from 1935 to 1955 and a pioneer in scouting since 1911 the year after the movement was founded.

Francis Duggan, 81, co-founder with his brother, Ambrose, of the North Quincy Garage, one of the nation's oldest continuous dealerships when they retired.

CARDINAL MEDEIROS was the chief celebrant at a Mass of Thanksgiving marking the 75th anniversary of Sacred Heart Parish in North Quincy. The Rev. Cornelius J. Heery [background] was concelebrant.

Angus D. MacDonnell, 85, naval architect, who started as a "rivet passer" and became a leader in shipbuilding with 26 years at the Fore River Shipyard.

Mrs. M. Elizabeth Pickles Sterling, 74, who founded Quincy's first kindergarten nursery school in her home on Newbury Ave., Atlantic, 47 years ago.

Joseph F. McLaughlin Jr., 58, veteran newspaperman and writer of the popular readers' aid column, "Tell It to Joe," in the Boston Herald American.

George Bankert, 54, the Patriot Ledger sportswriter who covered the daily doings of the Boston Red Sox for the past 11 years.

Lawrence J. Hanlon, 62, a Quincy school teacher for 30 years who retired as principal of the Francis Parker School in 1971.

Ellis J. Swartz, 63, retired coordinator of foreign languages in the Quincy schools and the man who introduced the Amity Aides program to the city.

Edward Dobbyn, 88, retired chief naval architect for the Navy Department at Fore River, who worked on 2,900 ships during World War II and 1,100 during the Korean War.

Walter A. Schmitz, 79, retired advertising coordinator for the Patriot Ledger and the chairman of the Quincy Planning Board for 27 years.

Nelson Bragg, 60, former announcer at Radio Station WJDA who was an announcer at its sister station WESX in Salem at the time of his death.

John Bartholomew, 52, a Quincy policeman for 25 years and safety officer for the past four years.

John F. Burke, 75, retired engineer and father of George G. Burke, former city councillor, state rep and Norfolk district attorney.

Mrs. Lena M. Cassani, 66, wife of Louis Cassani and mother of Capt. Henry Cassani, former commanding officer of the South Weymouth Naval Air Station.

William H. Delahunt, father of Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt.

Mrs. Margaret H. Flaherty, 81, wife of Joseph P. Flaherty, who was acting chief of the Quincy Police Department in 1966.

Charles O. Hinchon, 78, retired police captain who was a member of the Quincy Police Department for 47 years.

Richard Rizzo In N.Y. Production Of 'The Miracle Worker'

RICHARD RIZZO

Richard Rizzo, son of Mrs. Mila Rizzo of 87 Sumner St., Quincy, is playing a featured role in a New York City revival of William Gibson's play about young Helen Keller, "The Miracle Worker".

The play will be at Equity Library Theatre on Manhattan's 103rd St. and Riverside Drive, Jan. 4 - 21.

Rizzo, who attended Quincy High School and Northeastern University, has appeared in a number of off Broadway plays in New York including "The Imaginary Invalid" and "Heartbreak House" for Soho Repertory Company and "A Picture of Dorian Gray" at the National Arts Club.

In 1975 he played a striking worker in "The Adams Chronicles" for PBS. Other television appearances include "The Doctors", "How to Pick Up Girls", "The Edge of Night" and "On Our Own". He recently played a reporter in the film "Superman".

"The Miracle Worker" marks Rizzo's first appearance in an Equity Library Theatre production. ELT is rated the actor's outstanding showcase theatre. Now in its 36th consecutive year, hundreds of actors audition for ELT's eight annual productions.

Students Entertain At Adams School

Students of the Adams School presented a holiday program recently at the monthly meeting of the school's PTA.

The program followed a short business meeting conducted by George Santry, president.

Participating in the evening's activities were the second grade classes of Mrs. Karen Greenberg and Miss Aphrodite Maniatakis; third grades of Miss Mary Morris and Miss Eve Powell; third and fourth grades of Mrs. Kathleen Dodwell; fourth grade of Miss Catherine Cauley, and sixth grades of Mrs. Anne Foster and Mrs. Joan Filippone.

The Adams School band, under the direction of Robert Coviello, and the school chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Christine Pucci, presented several holiday selections.

11 QHS, NQHS Musicians Selected For District Concert

Eleven students from North Quincy and Quincy High School were accepted at the Southeast District Music auditions held recently at Randolph High School and will perform at the District Concert Jan. 12 and 13, in Somerset.

The students are Jean Arthur, Margaret Burchill, David Carbonneau, David Masidlover and David Randall, from Quincy High School; and Philip Brown, David Howley, Karen Johnson, Ann O'Hare, Sarah Poole and Jocelyn Santos, North Quincy High School.

In addition, David Carbonneau, son of Maurice Carbonneau, vocal music director at North Quincy High School, and Gay Carbonneau, elementary vocal music director, was selected to perform with the Music Educators National Conference Feb. 9-12, in Atlantic. Along with Philip Brown, he was also recommended for the All State Conference at the University of Lowell.

Unsolved Mysteries Course At Quincy Junior College

Something new in the field of continuing education will be introduced at Quincy Junior College with the opening Jan. 22 of a 10-week non-credit course in the unsolved mysteries of the world.

The course will explore such phenomena as the Loch Ness Monster, the Abominable Snowman, unidentified flying objects and the Bermuda Triangle. Students will have an opportunity to discuss their own theories and solutions to these unresolved occurrances.

The course will be held on Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. Those interested may obtain an evening division brochure by calling Dean Richard T. Mula at 786-8741.

All of our offices will be closed Saturday, December 30 and Monday, January 1, so our employees and their families may enjoy the holiday weekend.

Ceramic Highlights
by Gloria

There are several members of the underglaze family. In the last article, I explained the use of the three coat underglaze which is a product that is a combination of clay and color pigment. If you paint your ceramic piece with just the color pigment, you are using an underglaze called "onestroke". These colors are used to do small areas such as features, design and detail work. All are water soluble and give a watercolor effect. Some are opaque and others are translucent, yet none are intended to give the all-over opaque look of the three coat underglaze. Remember, if you paint your piece three coats, it still will not do the same job as the three coat underglaze. Onestrokes come in a variety of colors and usually appear in the jar as the true color they will be after the firing. They should always be mixed with a little water and ground down with a palette knife to make them a smooth brushing consistency. Thinning is necessary because you are working with a concentrate. They can be applied to greenware or bisque and can also be used over another underglaze or over and under glazes.

TIPS AND HINTS:
If you have difficulty in making fine lines with underglaze onestrokes, you can buy underglaze pencils that will do the trick for you. Be careful when working with them - they smudge easily.

4 Quincy Business Executives Elected To Chamber Board

Four Quincy business executives have been elected to three year terms on the board of directors of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

William B. Austin Jr., president and chief operating officer of South Shore Bank, will be serving his second term. He was first elected to the board in 1976 and is presently vice president of the community development group.

A relatively new resident of the South Shore, Austin is a graduate of Princeton, 1954, and the New York University, Graduate School of Business Administration. He served as a first lieutenant in the Army before entering the banking business. He is a member of the Neighborhood Club of Quincy and the Marshfield Country Club.

Earle A. Bradford, treasurer of Pneumatic Scale Corp. of Quincy, is a native of North Abington and graduated from Bentley College in 1941. He served as a major, controller, in the U.S. Air Force during World War II and in Korea from 1950 to 1951.

Bradford is a member of the National Association of Accountants in Boston and the Holly Ridge Golf Club in Sandwich.

Richard R. DeMark, vice president of Kemper Insurance Companies and president of the New England division, was born in Detroit and is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He was a naval officer in World War II and was recalled during the Korean conflict. He is a member of the Republican Town Committee in Boxford, where he now makes his home.

WILLIAM B. AUSTIN, JR.

EARLE A. BRADFORD

RALPH J. RIVKIND

RICHARD R. DeMARK

DeMark is also a member of the Massachusetts Insurance Information Committee and the Algonquin Club.

Ralph J. Rivkind, an attorney with the Quincy law firm of Marcus, Rivkind and Baker, has also been elected to the board. A major in chemistry at City College of New York, he received his JD degree and a Master of Law in Taxation from Boston University School of Law, after serving as a sergeant in Vietnam.

He is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association; Massachusetts Bar Taxation Section, and the Joint Bar Committee on Pensions. He has also served on the Chamber's state spending and taxation committee and was recently named chairman of the Chamber's Governmental Affairs Committee.

Rivkind also serves as legal counsel and is a director of the South Shore Business and Industry Political Action Committee.

FINISH JOB OR LOSE SALE

The Johnson's had a problem. A leaky roof. Now that their home was about to be put up for sale, Johnson arranged to have it repaired. Good thinking, Johnson. Almost.

After the job was finished at great expense, the yellow water stain still remained on the ceiling. Mr. Johnson thought he had already spent enough on the roof and any prospect would believe him when he showed the repair bill.

The old adage of being penny-wise and pound foolish bore fruit. Each prospect asked about the stain. The receipted bill never quite put their minds at ease. One structural problem in a home is a red flag waving and warning - "Don't get involved with this headache."

Fortunately, for the price of a restaurant dinner the ceiling was repainted. It was finally sold, but only after too many of the best prospects had gone on to other properties. The moral is obvious. The fewer apologies you have to make for your property, the easier it is to sell. If you have any obvious red flags waving - remove them.

Whether buying or selling, turn to Realty World - President Real Estate for all your real estate needs.

Donald White
SBANE Board Vice President

Donald V. White, partner with Gerald T. Reilly & Co., Quincy, will serve as a vice-president on the board of directors for the Smaller Business Association of New England (SBANE), Waltham.

White, a Hingham resident, previously was treasurer of the association.

SBANE is the nation's oldest and largest small business organization formed on a regional basis. Celebrating its 40th anniversary in 1978, the Association's primary activities are educational programs geared to the small business executive and legislation on the national level for small business.

White, a graduate of Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H., also is a trustee of the South Shore Economic Development Corp. and the Plymouth County Development Council. He is former president of the Amos Tuck School of Business Greater Boston Alumni Association, a former vice-president of the South Shore Dartmouth Club and a previous vice-president of the Massachusetts Society of CPAs. He is affiliated with the Downtown Club and the Marshfield Country Club.

Gerald T. Reilly & Co., an SBANE member since 1971, is a public accounting firm.

Joyce Jordan Honored For Job Placement Efforts

Joyce Jordan of Quality Personnel, Inc., North Quincy, was presented a plaque in appreciation of her job placement efforts at a meeting of the Massachusetts Chapter of the National Association of Personnel Consultants held recently at the Sheraton Tara in Framingham.

Miss Jordan, a resident of Quincy, has contributed in excess of $1 million in salaries to South Shore job seekers in the first 11 months of the year.

At the meeting, she represented the secretarial/office/clerical segment of private employment industry on a panel of the most productive employment consultants in the commonwealth.

Doran & Horrigan Gets Insurance Marketing Services Franchise

J. Joseph Doran, president of Doran and Horrigan Insurance Agency, announces his organization has become the franchise holder for the Quincy area for Insurance Marketing Services.

Insurance Marketing Services is a national network of insurance and risk management agencies, individually owned, which share advertising, public relations and promotional ideas and techniques.

Howard Johnson Declares 11-Cent Dividend

The Board of Directors of Howard Johnson Company has voted to increase the regular dividend from 10 cents to 11 cents per share.

The dividend is payable Jan. 31, 1979 to stockholders of record on Jan. 8, 1979. The company's regular quarterly dividend had been at the rate of 10 cents per share since March of this year. This is the sixth dividend increase in the last three and a half years.

Telephone Earnings Up

New England Telephone reports earnings of $1.19 per average share for the three months ended Nov. 30, compared with $1.12 for the same period in 1977.

President William C. Mercer said the company's earnings for the 12 months ended this past Nov. 30 were $4.35 per average share compared with $4.06 for the same period a year ago.

Quincy Defeats Brookline, North Bows To Brockton

Things are really looking up for the Quincy basketball team, which is rolling merrily following its most frustrating season a year ago.

The Presidents will play at Brockton next Wednesday and will take a 4-1 record (2-0 in the Suburban League) into the game.

Joe Amorosino's Quincy team last Friday had little trouble defeating Brookline, 77-59, for its fourth win.

"Brookline has a lot of talent but in practice we detailed everything," Amorosino said. "We didn't leave a stone unturned and as a result, we were very prepared and it showed."

Jeff Connerty and Brian Donovan had big nights as they scored 20 points apiece. Capt. Dana Guidice had 16 and sophomore Steve Priscella continued his excellent play with 10. Andy Carrera, Scott MacDonald, Ritch Finnegan and Ray Coscia also were praised for their performances.

Quincy's junior varsity topped Brookline, 61-54, behind the 27 points by 6-3 sophomore Kurt MacDonald.

Earlier in the week Quincy had bombed Weymouth South, 89-42, in its league opener as Amorosino was able to get everyone into the game and was impressed with several of his reserves.

Connerty paced the offense with 18 points, Donovan had 15, Guidice 12 and Priscella 11. The youngster also had 11 rebounds and seven assists.

Ed Miller's North Quincy team, following an impressive opening night win over Brookline, dropped a 62-48 decision to Brockton last Friday in a game closer than the final score indicates.

The Raiders last night played Cambridge Rindge and Latin, and odds-on favorite to win the Suburban League crown, and next Wednesday will host Weymouth North at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym.

North was outclassed by Brockton in the first half (40-22), but rebounded in the third period to knock eight points off the lead and moved to within seven points in the fourth period but the Boxers then pulled away.

"We were just flat at the start," Miller said. "The key was that we fell too far behind. They didn't do anything we weren't prepared for."

Jim Holleran had 17 points, sophomore Mark Millane 13 and Kevin Cobban 10 for the Raiders.

North had opened with a 58-45 win over Brookline as Holleran paced the attack with 22 points.

Millane added 12 points and Cobban excelled as a playmaker. Miller also praised Billy Harrow for his defensive performance.

Quincy Wrestlers In Lowell Tourney

The Quincy wrestling team, with a 4-1 record, is taking part today [Thursday] and Friday in the Lowell Christmas Tournament in which some of the state's top teams are entered.

Next Wednesday the Presidents will host Catholic Memorial in a 6 o'clock meet at the Quincy gym.

Last Saturday Quincy broke even in a triangular meet, defeating Norwood, 40-16, but bowing to Dedham, 35-14.

Earlier in the week the Presidents had outclassed Weymouth South, 58-3, for their third win in a row, winning all but one match.

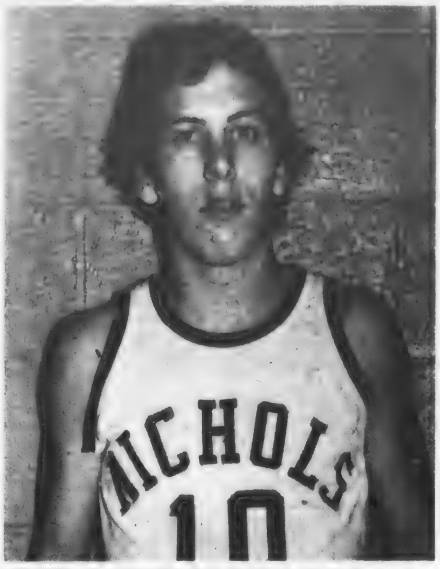
North Quincy's grapplers last Friday defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 43-27, to even their record at 2-2.

Winning for the Raiders were Glen Goodman, Steve Sweet, Chris Dunn, Gino Pillard, Dave Howley and John Gorczyca.

Earlier in the week North had bowed to Weymouth North, 48-11, with only Howley and Gorczyca winning.

North faced Dedham Wednesday and next Wednesday will be at Brockton.



Broad Meadows Wrestlers Run Undefeated Streak To 5

Broad Meadows wrestling team appears headed for another city championship as it ran its unbeaten streak to five with a 33-18 win over Sterling.

Mike Notorangelo moved up to the varsity and started BM off right by pinning his opponent. Gerry McSarry, David Veccione, Eric Swanson and Bill Roma also won by pins.

The Broad Meadows junior varsity is keeping pace with the varsity and also is 5-0.

Broad Meadows had previously topped Central, 37-12, sparked by Charlie McManus, Glenn Straughn, Swanson and Mike Nevens.

MOVING UP -- Freshman Gerry Shepherd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Shepherd of Wollaston, has been shining for the Nichols College varsity basketball team since he moved up from the jayvees. Gerry recently scored 13 points and had 12 assists against Gordon. He is third in assists on the varsity. Shepherd, who did his high school playing at Sacred Heart, Weymouth, was averaging in double figures for the jayvees before moving up to the varsity.

21 Sophomores On North Winter Track Team

North Quincy will have a young winter track team in its fifth season in the strong Suburban League with 21 sophomores, and the Raiders' main problem is once again lack of facilities.

"We have to work outside in rain and snow until our new gym is ready," Coach Lou Tozzi said. "It takes a special kind of kid, one with a lot of pride, to run winter track for North Quincy."

George Liset is again the assistant coach and Ken McPhee is also assisting with the weight program.

North has a 37-9-2 record in four Suburban League seasons. Last winter it finished a close second in the state meet and would have won its third straight title only for a fall in the relay.

Graduation hit the team heavily with the loss of Mike Barrett and Mike Gallagher being particularly tough.

"Our priorities will be to do well in the 'big' meets with our experienced people--we will point for the state meet Feb. 9, and to have a successful dual meet season," Tozzi said.

North was walloped by Brockton, which looks like the state Class A champion again, 56-30, in its opening meet but bounced back last Friday to defeat Weymouth North, 48-38.

The Raiders return to action Tuesday, Jan. 9, against Weymouth South at 5:30 at Newton North.

"We are going to continue to work hard with a positive attitude toward improvement," Tozzi continued. "There are many obstacles for us, but the spirit is excellent and our seniors are providing good leadership. Inexperience is a big problem but we feel we can develop into a good track team by state meet time."

North should be strong in the distance runs and John McGuiggan should be outstanding if he can recover from a cross country injury. He was a state meet medalist and a league all-star in cross country and is being counted upon in the 1000 or mile.

Jim Coughlin was in the top 15 in the league cross country championships and is the most improved runner on the team. He will run either the 1000 or mile, whichever McGuiggan doesn't run.

Mike Ricciuti and John Barrett are veterans who will be key runners and Tim Wheeler, Gary Morin, Gerry McCormick and Joe McDonald are outstanding sophomore prospects.

In the middle distances Dan McIntyre, a three-year veteran and the best hurdler, will be used in the 300 and Tim O'Neill, third in the state 600 last year, has, in Tozzi's words, "awesome potential," but has not reached it yet.

Rich Schatzel, Jim Alban and John Morin are other hopes in the middle distance runs.

North is very inexperienced in the sprints, but Tom Quinn, the leading scorer in football, has been impressive. Steve Mastorilli has looked good and Bill Daley and Mike Bradbury also are impressive.

Ted Koberski, Joe Venezia, Tim Allen, Mike Mariano, Brian O'Leary, Luke DiPietro, Ted Hannon, Bob Ceurvels, Bob Schaetzel and Bob Danna head the inexperienced shot putters. All but Koberski and Venezia are sophomores.

Bob Biagini should be one of the best hurdlers in the league and sophomores Steve McEachern, Tim Sullivan and Bill Stacy are other hopefuls.

Jack Leone is still learning but tops the high jumpers and O'Neill will also jump.

The relay team will be selected from among O'Neill, McGuiggan, McIntyre, Mastorilli, Coughlin, Biagini, Schaetzel and Alban.

In the opening loss to Brockton Leone in the high jump and Biagini in the hurdles were North's only winners. Placing second were Ricciuti in the mile, Coughlin in the 1000, O'Neill in the 600 and high jump, McEachern in the hurdles and White in the shot put. McIntyre was third in the 300, Barrett third in the two-mile and Koberski third in the shot.

North clinched its win over Weymouth North by winning the relay. McGuiggan, who won the 1000, and O'Neill, who won the 300, teamed with Biagini and Schaetzel to win the relay by six seconds, despite a fall.

Coughlin won the mile and McIntyre took the 600.

Meanwhile, the North Quincy girls dropped a 43-38 decision to Waltham.

Robyn O'Donnell won the two-mile, Elaine Robertson won the 300, Sheila Beck took the shot put and the Raiderettes' relay team also won.

Morrisette, DeeDee's, UCT Rack Up Wins

Morrisette defeated N.E. Solar, 4-2, in the Pee Wee House League as Larry Maloney scored two goals and John Krantz and Mark Chambers one each. Mike Flynn, Jim Fay, Dave Edgren and Krantz had assists. Kevin Zanardelli and Mark McManus scored for Solar with A. J. Pugliese, Bob Reidy and Jeff Murphy having assists.

Dee Dee's topped Mug 'n' Muffin, 3-1, with Jim Crossman excelling in goal for Dee Dee's. Phil Sheldone and Brian Stalker also played well. Jim Nee, Bill Connelly and Sheldone scored the goals with John Sheehan, Nee and Jim Daly having assists. Sean Dwan scored for M 'n' M with Tim McCarthy assisting.

UCT defeated Bersani Brothers 5-1, with goals by John Reinhardt, Fred Catarius, John Griffin, Rich Fitzpatrick and Ed Fleming. Steve Kelly had two assists and Catarius, Bob Forman and Reinhardt one each. Paul McMillan scored for Bersani.

FLASH FIRE

If you're a cigarette smoker who uses a butane lighter, I'm sure you've had some close calls with flare-ups. Others are not so lucky. Take the case of the Chicago man who was trying to light his cigarette while driving on the highway. He had trouble getting the flame large enough so he adjusted it to the full position. On the next flick a blow-torch like flame seared his face around the eyes and nose. He lost control of the car and crashed into an abutment.

Last year, approximately 2,000 people were burned badly enough by their cigarette lighters to require hospital emergency room attention. The U.S. consumer product safety commission urges you to follow some basic safety measures in order to avoid this kind of accident.

When refilling lighters with fluid, be sure not to spill any on yourself or your clothing. If you do spill some, wash the area immediately.

Whenever you operate a butane lighter, whether disposable or refillable, hold it at a safe distance in case an unexpectedly high flame shoots out.

Never leave a cigarette lighter within reach of a youngster. Accidents happen within seconds.

Quincy Faces Weymouth N., Raiders To Host Newton North

Quincy's hockey team, following its most memorable season in history, got off on the right foot last Saturday as it defeated Newton North, 4-2, at the Quincy Youth Arena.

The Presidents last night (Wednesday) faced North Quincy, will play Weymouth North Saturday at 1:50 p.m. at Hingham and next Wednesday will face Cambridge Ringe and Latin at 6 at the Watertown Rink.

Junior Scott Richardson had the hat trick to spark Quincy to its impressive win over one of the Suburban League's top-rated teams, and another junior, Robbie Craig, had the other goal.

North Quincy, under first year coach Kevin Lewis, dropped a 3-1 decision Saturday to Weymouth South as Pat Ennis scored the only North goal with six minutes to play. Weymouth's final goal was into an empty net as Lewis pulled his goalie. Bob Tierney had an outstanding game in goal for North.

Earlier in the week North had to be satisfied with a 3-3 tie against Brockton due to a hotly disputed goal by Brockton and an equally disputed non-goal by North Quincy.

The Raiders took a 3-1 lead on goals by Tom Gerry, who banged home a rebound of Leo Doyle's slapshot; Dave Parsons, set by by Brian McGilvary, and Doyle. A Brockton goal was allowed, although the net was knocked loose after a North goal had been disallowed in the same situation.

Tierney again was tremendous in the North goal and Eddie Marella and Paul Cooney excelled killing penalties.

"My big job is instilling a winning spirit," Lewis said. "The kids still lack confidence, but we are going to win some more games."

Earlier North had broken even in the Cranberry Tournament at Pembroke, dropping a 5-4 heartbreaker to Silver Lake after an impressive 6-3 win over King Philip in the opener. North had taken a 3-0 lead over Silver Lake.

North faced Quincy last night (Wednesday) and next Wednesday will host Newton North at 6:40 p.m. at the Youth Arena.

Mite Teams In Santa Tourney

Quincy Youth Hockey Mite teams are competing this week in the fifth annual Santa Claus Mite Tournament at the Pilgrim Arena in Hingham.

Others in the tourney are Weymouth, Hingham, Abington, Braintree, Arlington, Brockton, Somerset, Winthrop, South Boston, Lynn, Milton, Malden, Hyde Park and Melrose.

The tournament started Tuesday and will wind up Friday with games from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

PeeWee A's Defeat Braintree, Bow To Newton

The Quincy Elks Pee Wee A team walloped Braintree, 7-2, with Steve White scoring two goals and Sean Aruda, Dennis Cronin, Scott Messina, Keith Smith and Danny Kelly one each. Paul Marshall had three assists, Messina two and Smith one.

The Pee Wee A's lost to Newton, 5-3, with Smith having two goals and John McGlame the other.

The team edged Hyannis, 4-3, in overtime with Messina, Kelly, Marshall and Aruda scoring the goals. Smith had two assists and Bill Glavin, Messina, Bill Hughes and Chris Hurley one apiece.

The team also topped Scituate, 5-4, with Kelly scoring twice and Hurley, Messina and Aruda once each. Messina and Smith had two assists apiece and Aruda and White one each.

The Pee Wee A's bombed Brookline, 15-4, with Smith, Tim Barry and Aruda all having hat tricks. Messina and Hurley had two goals apiece and Pete Quinn, Kelly and Mark Basch one each. Barry, Aruda, Messina and Hurley all had three assists, with two and Marshall Bob McCabe and Hughes one each.

Caddy Bombs Firefighters, Police, Suburban Tie

In the Midget House League Caddy Marines bombed the Fire Dept., 13-3, as Paul Flynn and Dick Reinhardt each had a hat trick.

Bryan Ofria and Bill Dorran had two goals apiece and Wally Phipps, Wood and Howie Chadbourne one each. Chadbourne had four assists, Steve Colman and Dick Reinhardt three apiece, Ofria two and Chris Colman, Paul Reinhardt and Dave Nigro one each. Fred Caldwell, Joe Carroll and Rich Newcomb scored for Fire Dept. with Tom Hennessey and John Joyce had two assists apiece and Bill Joyce one.

Police and Suburban tied, 5-5, with Tom Roche and Bob Welch having two goals apiece for Police and Bill O'Neil one. Steve McGregor had two assists and Mike Whalen and Welch one each.

Police topped Fire, 5-1, with Tommy Hennessey scoring the lone goal for Fire.

Suburban topped Caddy Marines, 4-1, with Paul Reinhardt having the only Caddy goal and Frank McGinn assisting.

Caddy outlasted Police, 7-6, with Paul Reinhardt having the hat trick for Caddy and Dick Reinhardt, Bill Flanagan, McGinn and Doran having one goal each. Flanagan had two assists and Chadbourne, Mike Panico and Wood one each.

Suburban defeated Fire Dept., 4-2, with Steve DeLuca having both Fire goals and Caldwell and Carroll having assists.

YMCA Boys Swim Team Shines Despite Sickness

The Quincy YMCA boys' swim team was hit hard by sickness, which sidelined several key performers last Saturday for its meet at the Cambridge Y, but the performances of those who took part were outstanding.

In the 8 and under class Patrick Burke won the 40 freestyle and the 20 backstroke.

In the 9-10 division, Gregg Doyle won the 80 individual medley and the 40 butterfly. Jamie Goodrich won the 100 freestyle and was third in the breaststroke. Bob Laracy won the 40 freestyle and was third in the breaststroke. The medley relay team of Mike Murphy, Larry White, Boyle and Goodrich won as did the freestyle relay team of Laracy, Gerald Haran, John McKenna and White.

In the 11-12 class, Scott Goodrich won the 160 individual medley and the 40 breaststroke. Campbell Knox was second in the 200 and 100 freestyles, and Paul Lawlor was second in the 40 backstroke and 40 breaststroke.

In the 13-14 class, Frank Weisslinger won the 100 backstroke and was second in the 60 freestyle. John Santini was second in the 200 and 100 freestyles.

In the 15-17 class, the freestyle relay team of Jack White, Walter Carroll, Joe McKenna and Peter Burnham won. White won the 160 individual medley, Carroll won the 100 freestyle and took second in the 100 breaststroke. Nelson Hermance won the 100 backstroke and McKenna was second in the 200 freestyle and 100 butterfly.

The Quincy girls were also missing some key swimmers due to illness but gave a fine account of themselves against the Malden Y girls.

In 8 and under Julie McConville won the 100 individual medley and 25 butterfly, Meg Given won the 50 freestyle, Marybeth Molignano won the 25 breaststroke, medley relay team of Molignano, Kristin Powers, McConville and Given won as did the freestyle relay team of Powers, Lisa Boylan, Molignano and Given.

In 9-10, both medley relay teams defeated Malden, with the team of Christina Burke, Laura Powers, Jennifer Morrissey and Abigail Cook winning and the team of Regina McCue, Ann Kingston, Audrey Burke and Libby Ryan placing second.

Morrissey won the 50 butterfly and 100 freestyle, Christine Glazier won the 50 backstroke and took second in the 100 individual medley, Kate McConville won the 50 freestyle and was second in the 50 butterfly, Cook, Audrey Burke, Christina Burke and Lauren Powers also had seconds, the freestyle relay team of McConville, Audrey Burke, Powers and Cook won and the second team of McCue, Ryan, Glazier and Christine Burke was second.

In 11-12 Ellen Powers won the 200 freestyle and was second by a touch in the 50 breaststroke. Sydney Cook won the 50 backstroke and was second in the 50 butterfly, Wendy Molignano won the 100 freestyle and the freestyle relay team of Christine DeWolfe, Mary Murphy, Molignano and Cook won.

In 13-14 Katie Cook won the 100 freestyle, Mary Lawlor won the 100 backstroke, Maeve Lawlor won the 100 breaststroke and the freestyle relay team of Cook, Mary and Maeve Lawlor and Chris McConville won.

On Saturday, Jan. 6, the Quincy boys will host Needham and the girls will go to Leominster to meet Montachusett.

Mewis, Gillis Win Fitchburg Soccer Letters

Bob Mewis and Michael Gill of North Quincy have been awarded their varsity soccer letters at Fitchburg State College.

Mewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mewis of 10 Oval Road, is a senior majoring in Industrial Arts. He played forward and halfback on the team which had a 7-4-2 record this fall.

Gill, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gill of 69 Young Street, is a sophomore majoring in Elementary Education. He played fullback and will be a key man next season.

Roche Sets Torrid Pace For Track Club

Maureen Roche of the Quincy Track Club continued her torrid pace Sunday by winning the women's 300, taking second in the age group 50 and was third in the women's shot put in the meet at Franklin High School.

Maureen, 12, didn't lose a race last summer and her 43.6 in Sunday's 300 was the second fastest ever run on Franklin's track. She did 6.8 in the dash and 25-4 in the shot put.

Michelle Millane remained undefeated by winning the shot with a toss of 33-10¾. She also took third in the 600 in 1:48.0.

In boys' action Kevin Wood took thirds in the 300 and high jump and Brian Garrity took third in the mile. Brad Kenyon was third in the 600.

In the 13-under division, Harry Morash won the mile and took second in the 440, although only 10 years old.

In last Saturday's Falmouth Invitational Miss Millane took third in the shot put with her best indoor toss, 34-10½.

The QTC will compete in the Beverly Invitational next Wednesday, Dec. 27.

Squirt B's Koury, Straughn Combine For 3 Straight Shutouts

Tony Koury and Joe Straughn posted their third straight shutout as the undefeated Squirt B team defeated Hingham, 7-0.

John Hays had the hat trick and Mark Zimmerman, Mike Benson, Dave Tapper and Paul Connolly one goal apiece. Adam McGregor had two assists and Matt Furtado, Billy Murphy, Tapper and Zimerman one each.

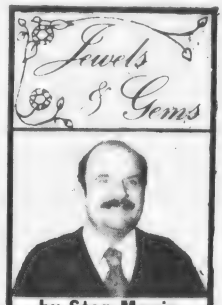
Scuba Diving Course To Start Jan. 2

The Recreation Department and the Under Water Recovery Dive Team will again co-sponsor an instructional Scuba Diving Course starting Tuesday, Jan. 2.



Charles L. Alongi, director of recreation, said the program is designed to give the beginner a basic knowledge of scuba diving. All equipment is provided by the dive team.

The program is offered for six consecutive weeks. The first three meetings will be held on Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m. at the headquarters of the Dive Team for class room sessions. The second three weekly meetings will be held on Mondays at 9 p.m. for pool instruction at the Lincoln Hancock Pool.

Persons may register immediately by calling the Recreation Department office from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or by appearing in person at the Lincoln Hancock Pool during swims sponsored by the Recreation Department. They are held from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday thru Friday and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Registration is on a first come, first serve basis, and family groups are encouraged to participate. This program does not lead to certification.

The Emerald has been around for a long time. Historians think it was named by the people of Egypt around 2500 BC who used to mine them in the Cleopatra Mines. Emeralds are still mined in the middle east, but are not as popular as those from Rhodesia or Columbia. The Egyptian stones tend to be pale and somewhat cloudy, while the Rhodesian and Columbian stones are a deep rich green. Columbia tops all other producers in terms of size of the stone.

Building 'Conflict' Ruling Due This Week

Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt has promised an opinion by the end of the week on whether or not Francis X. McCauley's two jobs as city councillor and president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank have brought him into conflict of interest.

The question arose last week when McCauley disclosed that his bank has been negotiating to purchase the building it now leases at the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts. on a site that will eventually be developed as a 10-story office building complex.

City Solicitor Robert J. Fleming, at McCauley's request, ruled that McCauley should not take part in any Council deliberations on disposal of adjoining city-owned land, the Della Chiesa Parking Area, since it would constitute conflict of interest.

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi, however, said he felt that McCauley had already been in conflict of interest by sitting in on preliminary discussions.

Delahunt said Tuesday that he has received a letter from Council President John J. Quinn asking his opinion but he had not yet had a chance to sit down with Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles Hely, his expert on municipal affairs.

"As a matter of policy," he said, "we usually honor such requests when they come from a town or city official. We will resolve it expeditiously so there will be no delay."

He defined "expeditiously" in this case as less than a week, or in time for the next City Council meeting, Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Your Dental Health

by Daniel P. Sweeney D.D.S.

Like all growing tissue, growing teeth need adequate amounts of protein, minerals, fats, and other food elements. These are obtained through the blood which supplies the pulp area of the tooth. If there is a limited or poor supply of food, the blood will take the necessary elements from other body tissues. It is therefore imperative that a balanced diet be provided for the proper growth of teeth. This is especially true for children.

Your family dentist can give you helpful hints on proper diet and good oral hygiene. Daniel P. Sweeney, D.D.S., whose office for the practice of general dentistry is located at 539 Adams St., East Milton Square, stresses regular dental checkups and preventive dentistry. As a family dentist, he takes a sincere interest in the general health of all his patients. Call Dr. Sweeney's office at 698-3636 for an appointment at your convenience. Most insurance plans are honored... HAPPY NEW YEAR to all our friends and neighbors from Dr. Sweeney and his staff!

DENTAL HINT:
It is always wise to have two toothbrushes for every member of the family.

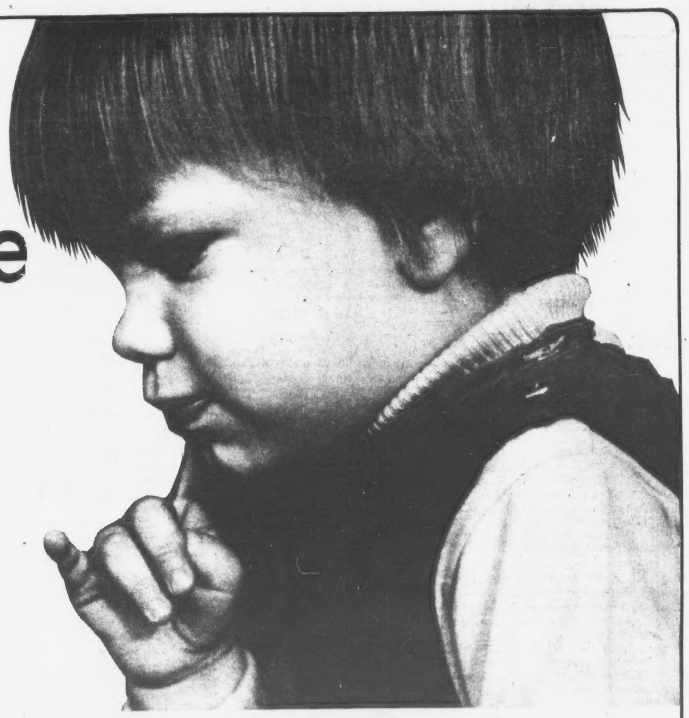
Public Meeting On Germantown Housing Pets Ban

Faced with objections from residents of public housing units in Germantown who face a Jan. 1 ban on all pets, the Quincy health department scheduled a public meeting last night [Wednesday] at 7:15 p.m. in the auditorium of John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy.



Health Commr. Dr. Samuel Solomon said the meeting was called because members of the tenants' association do not feel there was sufficient input prior to the ordering of the ban.

"Until I am satisfied that a health emergency no longer exists I see no reason for a change in the ruling," Dr. Solomon said.

Leon Purpora, principal code enforcement officer of the health department, Winthrop Wade, director of environmental services, and Asst. City Solicitor Dennis Harrington, were asked to be present to answer questions from the floor.

The order banning pets was issued after health inspectors reported they had found unsanitary conditions in the area of the Harborview and Oceanview housing projects, caused by dogs roaming unrestrained.
